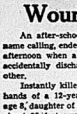
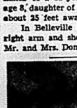
Snowball Fight Ends In Tragedy



Carolyn Fuller, 8, Killed Instantly By Shotgun Blast

Gun in Hands of Boy, 12, Wounds Second Girl



An after-school snowball fight said to have developed into name calling, ended in tragedy for a Belleville area family Friday afternoon when a shotgun taken down to "scare" another boy accidentally discharged killing one schoolgirl and injuring another.

Instantly killed by the blast of the 16-gauge shotgun in the hands of a 12-year-old Jones Street boy, was Carolyn Fuller, age 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fuller, who was standing about 25 feet away.

In Belleville General Hospital with shotgun pellets in her right arm and shoulder is Brenda Douglas, also 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Douglas.

CAROLYN FULLER . . . KILLED

BRENDA DOUGLAS . . . INJURED

Both families live at R.R. 2 just west of the city limits in the Shannonville district and attended nearby Belcrest public school. The two girls were standing together at the time.

Provincial police questioned 12-year-old Eddy Bovay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bovay, said to have taken the shotgun down to "scare" young lad.

Narrowly missing being struck by the shotgun blast was Donald Madill, 13, who was just out of line as the gun discharged.

The group of children had started home together from nearby Belcrest school, the snowball fight starting on the way. When the name calling started the Bovay lad is reported to have gone to his parent's kitchen, taking down his father's shotgun. He slipped a shell into the single barrelled gun and to have it discharge as he was standing outside the back door.

RIPPLE DOWN DRIVEWAY

The blast ripped down the length of the driveway, striking the two girls standing about 25 feet away.

Struck in the throat and chest, the Fuller girl died instantly. Four or five pellets struck the Douglas girl's shoulder and she ran to her home about a quarter of a mile away on Elgin Street.

Bush Ambulance was called and she was taken to hospital.

The accident occurred on Jones Street about three doors from the Fuller girl's home.

Donald Madill, the lad who the Bovay boy is said to have intended to "scare," said he saw the other boy put the shell into the shotgun. He was running toward the street when the discharge came, striking the two little girls only a few feet from him.

Provincial police said that an inquest into the Carolyn Fuller girl's death would be held before Coroner Dr. John Stock.

Reds Express Congratulations

MOSCOW (AP)—A spokesman for the state committee on cultural relations with foreign countries congratulated the United States today on launching its first earth satellite.

"We congratulate you," he told Western correspondents.

A foreign ministry spokesman said there was no comment immediately from party chief Nikita Khrushchev or Premier Bulganin.

This dispatch was delayed by Moscow censors for three hours.

Today's Chuckle

"I just heard about your husband being in the hospital," said the neighbor sympathetically. "What happened?"

"It's his knee," said the wife. "I found a blonde on it."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Northerly winds are expected to persist over the province through Sunday giving some cloud, some sun and a few snowflurries. Temperatures will drop to near or below zero in Northern Ontario tonight and to five to 10 degrees in Southern Ontario under partly cloudy skies.

GOVT. WEATHERS OFF-BEAT VOTE BY LATE RALLY

Cheque Bill Given Second Reading

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservative minority government has passed what may be its most embarrassing moment of the parliamentary session.

It was on an off-beat Commons vote Friday over what might be described as a politically-ticklish subject: Bilingual government cheques.

But the Progressive Conservatives rallied at the last minute to vote, along with the combined majority opposition forces, in support of the principle of a bilingual cheque bill moved by Raoul Poulin (Ind—Beauce).

Had the government voted against the bill proposing that all federal cheques be issued in English and French, and been beaten it would not have meant the fall of the administration. That is because the bill's second call was not on a government measure.

PASSED BILL

The vote, during the Friday hour reserved for private members' legislation, gave the bill second reading 187 to 9. All members present voted against seven of them from Ontario.

Further progress was halted after the vote when Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West) and R. Hardy Small (PC — Toronto Broadview) talked out the bill during clause-by-clause study in committee. They were still debating the measure at the end of the hour, thus killing it.

The snap vote, which caught the government defences down, was triggered by Immanuale Maitais (L—Charlevoix) refused Dr. Poulin's request to let the bill stand. Mr. Maitais spoke briefly in favor of the bill, sat down, and as no one else rose Speaker Roland Michener called for the vote.

Before the vote government supporters could have prevented a roll call by lining up members to speak on the bill until adjournment.

Mr. Small, speaking after the vote, was aroused when an unidentified Liberal shouted "Orange Lodge."

Past grand master of the Loyal Orange Association of North America, Mr. Small said French was making Canadians' rights to their language and religion "come from the fact there was such an organization as you are trying to berate at the present time."

"They have to have the bill because of the danger the French language is going to disappear," he said. "They're never satisfied because they want to extend (their rights) to the whole of the country."

Stores at St. John's Nfld., Defy Law Requiring Closing Saturdays

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Some stores opened today on Water Street, the city's main shopping district, to test a Saturday store closing law enacted by the provincial government.

Branch outlets of many of the firms were also opened. About 20 stores were doing business. A few large Water Street stores remained closed, including Royal Stores, of which Lieutenant-Governor Campbell MacPherson is a director.

Dozens of small grocery and confectionary stores throughout the city conducted business as usual.

Business for the first few hours was slow, probably because customers expected it to be a holiday.

Many had advertised their defiance of the government act which contains a clause providing a $100 fine for any person sponsoring such advertisements.

Attorney-General Leslie Curtis said in the legislature Friday: "God help Water Street if we have men there who are prepared to ignore the law and make a profit." Water Street is the city's main business thoroughfare.

Premier Joseph Smallwood said he knew last week that some merchants would defy the law. That's why he introduced a bill which would stiffen the penalties considerably.

Lawyer James Higgins (PC-St. John's East) said "Let's call a spade a spade."

"The government's attitude on the matter is 'We'll prosecute Smallwood's friends but not opponents of the government or his big shops down on Water Street.' Brown go because he is a supporter of the government or he has a little shop on higher levels." This bill provides for the attorney-general to order prosecution.

Mr. Curtis said, "You have to distinguish between a store that employs hundreds and a small store run by a widow, cripple or pensioner who could make a living in some other manner."

"All men are equal in the eyes of the law," Mr. Higgins replied.

Some merchants said earlier they would rather pay the $25 fine now in effect than lose "35 to 40 per cent of the week's business conducted on Saturday." They have objected to "government interference in a matter that should be settled by management and labor."

MAY BE FIRST OF SPACE MEN

With the New York skyline forming a backdrop, Capt. Ivan C. Kincheloe, Jr., looks into the heavens with a model of the Bell X2 rocket plane he piloted to a record altitude of 126,000 feet in 1952. He has volunteered to fly the rocket research plane X-15, now being built, to altitudes never before reached by man and may be named the first true military spaceman. The X-15 is scheduled to make its first flight in about one year.

Dizzy Whirl of Election Speculation Still Going On

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament Hill's dizzy whirl of election speculation hasn't almost everyone dwelling on every word and action of Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his cabinet colleagues.

But another Commons sitting ended Friday night and no one was any the wiser.

Most talk centred on Monday, March 31. But for a new general vote to be called for that date the prime minister would have to seek dissolution of Parliament very shortly to give the election machinery the required time to prepare.

Plenty of opportunity was provided Friday to Mr. Diefenbaker and his government's House leader, Works Minister Howard Green, but they either curtly declined to give the faintest hint as to Progressive Conservative election intentions, or produced noncommittal replies that could mean almost anything.

On top of all the speculation about March 31 and another likely election date—Monday, April 14—there was another set of possibilities.

Was the government planning to keep Parliament in session to complete its business? Would it have the session prorogued for a brief period and then call a new session, present a new legislative program and a formal budget before appealing to the electorate for a new mandate?

Or did the government intend before the session ended to create a new challenge for the opposition—especially the Liberals—to topple the administration on a motion of non-confidence?

At the end of Friday's Commons sitting all that opposition members could get out of Mr. Green was the information that Parliament wasn't going to finish its business Friday.

All he provided was a hint that business might continue through today and into Monday.

"Any business Monday would have to be" either debate on a government proposal to repeal the Commons rule on debate-limiting closure, or on a supply motion, he said.

On a government motion to go into supply to open up considerations of departmental spending estimates, opposition parties usually present amendments declaring non-confidence in the government.

In that connection Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson offered a vague hint of his own in a radio speech Friday night.

He said he hopes very soon in the Commons—if it hasn't been dissolved"—to make some definite proposals "to deal with unemployment and other economic problems should be solved. He also outlined his view that the government, instead of trying to go into an early election, should concentrate on current problems, especially unemployment.

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Senate foreign relations committee Friday scheduled a weeklong inquiry into U.S. relations with Canada, described by one of its members as occupying a position of "tremendous importance" in the free-world-say world.

Senator Mike Mansfield, Democratic from Montana, said the committee, in a broad review of U.S. foreign policy, will devote one or two days to public hearings on Canada and the rest of that week to study of the testimony produced.

The Canadian phase of the review, scheduled to start Monday, is expected to reach full volume in April.

Its purpose, Mansfield told reporters, will be "to repair some of the fences that appear to be falling down between our two countries and to bring about better understanding, better relations and better co-operation."

Canada will occupy a unique position in the committee inquiry as the only country being singled out for such study. The balance of the review will deal mostly with broad geographic areas.

The decision for a separate Canadian study points up a growing congressional uneasiness over Canadian complaints against U.S. policies. The House of Representatives foreign affairs committee this week sent two of its members to Ottawa to determine the cause of Canadian irritations.

Mansfield said the committee study will ensure that Canada "gets the attention she should have got in the past." Witnesses will be called and asked to outline problems and to suggest remedies.

Canada, Mansfield said, is of "great economic importance" to the United States.

"We think that Canada, despite her small population, is a great power in the world, that the Canadians have acted in the foreign field with distinction and that the Commonwealth and she now occupies a position of tremendous importance in the world.

"The committee intends to give Canada the recognition it is due as an equal state and a close friend and neighbor and as a powerful force of influence in the British Commonwealth of Nations."

ASK OPINION

RUTHVEN, Ont. (CP)—Growers here report they are taking an informal vote of growers on the Ontario Peach Growers Marketing Board. A formal vote, approved by the provincial agriculture department, was called off last Monday when an injunction was sought by a Niagara growers' group opposed to the marketing scheme.

First U.S. Satellite Sailing 2,000 Miles Above Earth; May Stay In Sky 10 Years

Army Makes It on First Attempt; Will Put Up Another Moon Soon

CAPE CANAVERAL, Florida (AP) — The United States' first man-made satellite whirled around the earth today, and the army disclosed that it is preparing to hurl another one into orbit.

It was the Army's Jupiter-C missile that fired a 30.8-pound "moon" aloft Friday night and recovered some of the American prestige lost when Russia boosted her two Sputniks into space last fall.

"That's wonderful!" President Eisenhower exclaimed when news of the army's success reached him at Augusta, Ga., where he had gone for a weekend of relaxation.

With a huge burst of flame and a thunderous roar that could be heard for miles along Florida's east coast the Jupiter-C blasted off from this top-secret firing base at 10.48 p.m. EST Friday night.

About an hour and three-quarters later, its satellite had completed its first journey around the world and tracking stations were receiving its radio signals.

ALOFT FOR YEARS

It was so well established in orbit, said Maj.-Gen. John B. Medaris, head of the army's missile test program, that it will remain aloft for two to 10 years.

It is unlikely that the satellite will be visible to the naked eye. In an announcement the army said: "It will appear in its orbit about the brilliance of a one-fifth- to one - sixth - magnitude star, and a star of this brightness can barely be seen without some magnification."

There was confusion in early reports about the altitude of the satellite. Medaris said he got his from the earth in its elliptical orbit would range between 185 and 1,200 miles. Dr. Wernher von Braun, designer of the rocket said it would range as high as 2,000 miles and as low as 450.

Von Braun said the six-foot, long metal tube is circling the earth once every 113 minutes. Medaris said the time was 106 minutes.

They disagreed also on the baby moon's speed. Von Braun figured it at 19,400 miles an hour. Medaris said "almost exactly 18,000."

ONLY RADIO VOICE

The satellite, christened "the Explorer by its army sponsors, has only radio voice contact with earth from out in space. Sputnik I has disintegrated and the radio batteries of the dog-carrying Sputnik II "have long been dead."

Two hours after the firing, Medaris told a press conference: "The army certainly has been directed to fire one more satellite by at the present time."

The date has been set, he said, but will be kept secret.

The army received a go-ahead to launch its little space traveler after the Russians had launched their two Sputniks. Previously, the U.S. space program had been assigned exclusively to the navy.

Efforts to get the navy's Vanguard rocket off the ground have failed. The first Vanguard blew up on its launching pad here December 6. The second blew up shortly after it rose in the air.

Medaris, however, said the army is confident of success in launching its satellite.

'Wonderful' Eisenhower Exults As His Old Service Launches Moon

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—"That's wonderful!" was President Eisenhower's elated reaction early today to the army satellite.

Jupiter-C rocket had rammed the first United States satellite into orbit around the earth.

Then, after waiting up for that word until nearly 1 a.m., the President happy president put out the first official announcement that the baby moon is racing around the globe.

Eisenhower, here for a weekend of golf, got the orbiting information by telephone from Washington about two hours after the satellite-carrying rocket was launched at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Then, at a hastily called press conference, he gave it to reporters.

James C. Hagerty put out this statement by the president:

"Dr. J. Wallace Joyce, head of the international geophysical office of the National Science Foundation, has just informed us that the United States has successfully placed a scientific earth satellite in orbit around the earth.

"The satellite was orbited by a modified Jupite-C rocket.

"This launching is part of our country's participation in the International Geophysical Year. All information received from this satellite promptly will be made available to the scientific community of the world."

For Eisenhower, who spent 46 years in the army, there was no doubt that the army's successful launching amounted to a special thrill.

The army, once jinx about ruled out of the missile development field, had come back to bolster U.S. prestige after Russia's launching of two Sputniks.

Egypt and Syria Join Themselves Into One State

CAIRO (Reuters) — President Nasser of Egypt and Syria's President Kuwatly today welded their countries into a single republic — the United Arab State.

The leaders signed documents sealing the union at a ceremony in government house here as a wildly cheering throng outside hailed the birth of the new state.

Crowds waved banners and Egyptian and Syrian flags in a mass public rally in government house square.

As the formal documents of unity were signed early this afternoon the ceremony was broadcast by loudspeakers to the crowds gathered outside.

Nasser and Kuwatly, accompanied by Egyptian and Syrian from a final conference in Kubbeh Palace through dense, noisy crowds to the government headquarters of the Egyptian cabinet, for the signing and proclamation.

The entire Egyptian and Syrian broadcasting networks were hooked up to bring live the voices of their leaders proclaiming the new union.

U.S. Satellite Is Chatterbox, Gossiping Away

All this talk is in code, telling what the Explorer is learning about cosmic rays, meteors and temperatures hundreds of miles above the earth.

The radio signal is continuous but the code is contained in a series of pulsations separated by intervals. The code can be in how frequent the bursts are, how long the bursts last, or in the time interval between bursts.

HON. DANA PORTER CHIEF JUSTICE OF APPEAL COURT

Resigns Post as Ont. Cabinet Minister

TORONTO (CP) — Hon. Dana Porter, a veteran lawyer and provincial cabinet minister, was expected to be named chief justice of the Ontario Appeal Court today.

The 59-year-old provincial treasurer resigned his post in the Front Progressive Conservative cabinet Friday and it was reported soon after in Ottawa and Toronto that Prime Minister Diefenbaker would appoint him to the bench today.

Neither Mr. Porter nor federal officials would confirm the reports, but the Ontario chief justiceship has been vacant since the resignation last summer of Chief Justice J. W. Pickup.

Mr. Porter had been a cabinet minister for nearly all his 13 years in the Ontario legislature as a member for Toronto St. George.

Entering the cabinet in 1944 as minister of planning and development, a post created for him, he held five different cabinet offices and for many years was called the No. 2 man in the provincial government.

HELD OTHER POSTS

He became minister of education in the same government in 1949, though he continued to hold the education post for three years. He also served as provincial secretary for a brief period and in 1951 was appointed provincial treasurer.

As minister of planning and development he instituted the controversial airlift that flew 10,000 British immigrants to the province, in the face of federal objections that immigration was solely a federal field.

He also set up a conservation branch in the planning and development branch in his department and planned the second mortgage housing plan under which money was lent at low interest rates for the building of 16,000 homes.

As attorney-general he made major reforms in the Ontario adult probation system and as provincial treasurer brought down budgets, that at the time, were the largest in the province's history.

WAS LAWYER

A graduate of the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall Law School, he was called to the bar as a young lawyer before he entered a political life.

The appointment of the Appeal Court would mean a raise in salary to $18,500 from the $10,000 he made as provincial treasurer, but as a member of the legislature he also received $5,000 as an expense allowance of $1,800.

His resignation leaves the Conservatives with 81 seats in the 98-seat legislature. Liberals have 10 seats, the Co-operative Labor-Labor one and there are three vacancies left previously held by conservatives.

FIRST U.S.

Friday night's success was no surprise to the army, which claimed it could have done the job long before the Spaniks if it had been given the chance.

WAS CONFIDENT

Meanwhile, was confident that in a statement prepared several days ago he predicted "about a 50-50 chance of probability" for success of the army's first try.

The great blast of orange flame that marked the U.S.'s declaration into the earth indicated that it was one of the most powerful rockets ever fired skyward. Taking off more quickly than other big rockets, it gained momentum swiftly as its mighty engine thrust it high into the starry night sky.

Seven minutes after the blast-off, its satellite was in orbit.

The army said the satellite, a metal capsule 80 inches long and 6½ inches in diameter, contains no living organisms. Its primary mission is to measure cosmic radiation.

Data picked up by the satellite is being relayed to earth by two radio transmitters. A high-power transmitter, broadcasting on the 108.03 megacycles, is sending out information on temperatures inside and outside the satellite, and another of lower power will broadcast impulses with cosmic rays and meteors.

EVE OF BIRTHDAY

The launching of the Explorer came on the eve of the second birthday anniversary of the army ballistic missile agency. Its commander Ala. Medaris said a celebration had been planned earlier at Huntsville, and "it will be a whopper now."

Von Braun meanwhile met with reporters in Washington.

The German scientist, who built the V-2 rocket with which London was bombarded in the closing days of the war, held a news conference and answered all questions.

Von Braun was asked at some time to figure out the exact schedule upon which the new satellite is moving and he said he could it follows.

The Tender, rod-like space traveller passed high over the southwestern states and Mexico in its orbit around the earlier and moved farther and farther west. Its orbit is 35 degrees degrees north to 35 degrees south of the equator, and estimates are that it will circle between 50 degrees north and 50 south. This would place it in space throughout most of the more populous parts of Canada, since the 50th parallel runs through Grand Falls, Nfld., passes well to the north of Lake Superior and runs through Winnipeg and just north of Vancouver.

The Soviet Sputniks averaged 14.4 orbits around the world daily. If the U.S. satellite follows the same pattern, it will be travelling 1,750 miles farther west each time it circles.

Launching at the angle of 45 degrees to the earth—the Soviet Sputnik angle is about 65—permitted the use of the greatest possible degree of the 5,000 mile missile firing range extending across open water from Cape Canaveral to an area near the southern tip of Africa.

The Washington press conference was told that the orbit would not cross the Soviet Union, and that the southernmost circuit would be across the southern tip of Africa and the northernmost across Oklahoma in the U.S. and southern Tibet in Asia.

The Jupiter-C rocket, fully assembled with all its stages, was about 70 feet long.

WEIGHED 5 TONS

Its main stage, a modified Army Redstone missile, weighed five tons and was more than 56 feet long and about six feet in diameter.

Clamped to the top of this huge weapon by means of explosive breakaway bolts and poised on a inflatable so that it could spin freely was a bucket containing clusters of solid-propellant rockets.

The number, size and weight of these rockets was not disclosed immediately.

Some sources estimated that the satellite, high-speed rockets were about three feet long and six inches in diameter, and that they weighed 350 pounds each. There may have been nine to 12 of them in the second stage, immediately ahead of the Redstone, and a few more in a third stage clustered around the satellite itself.

Actually the satellite consists of the final stage of the rocket, weighing only 12.67 pounds after the burn-out of its motors, and the satellite itself, containing instruments in a steel case weighing together about 18 pounds.

The final stage's fuel tanks contained fuel enough only for about two minutes of operating time. But the long-peaking vehicle could be tracked by watchers on the beaches, here for twice that period, without any visual aids, although fleecy patches of cloud occasionally hid it from view.

SEE RED GLOW

It could be tracked visually because of the heat residue of its tremendous Redstone engine, and because of added heat from atmospheric friction. This combination turned its metal exterior a glowing red.

Only a few minutes before, on the ground, it had been frost-coated because of the low—194 below zero—temperature of its liquid oxygen fuel.

Some seconds after the first-stage burn - out, the explosive bolts fired, freeing the upper Redstone to spin away towards the ocean.

The upper stages, spinning in their bucket, coasted on to orbital altitudes. Once they were on a horizontal course, the rockets were ignited, to accelerate them to orbital speed.

Outside Market Curtailed Due To Cold Weather

The weekly farmers' market in Belleville isn't what it used to be. Today there were only three or four folks in from the country raising produce. Inside the market building, though, was the usual bountiful supply of other merchandise.

Extra large eggs were 50 cents a dozen, large 45, and medium, 40. Chickens were also scarce.

Beets and carrots, 25c a half peck; parsnips, 35; turnips, 5 to 15 each; red cabbage, 10 and 15, Spanish onions, 15 cents each or two for 25; Irish cobblers and sc-bagges, $2.25 a bag.

Spy, sweet, McIntosh and delicious apples were 75 a basket and $3.50 a bushel; greenings, 50 a basket and $2.00 a bushel.

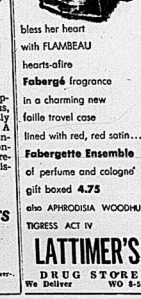
Two Belleville Students Win Oratory Titles

Two Belleville students, one a student of Quinte Secondary School, the other a student of St. Michael's Academy, won top senior and junior titles at the Quinte District COSSA oratorical contests held at Madoc Friday night.

Winner of the senior section was Geoffrey Cliff-Phillips 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cliff-Phillips, 192 Dundas Street, E. The junior winner was James Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Murphy, 36 Great St. James Street.

Geoffrey Cliff-Phillips young-est in a field of twelve, spoke on the subject "Our Challenge" a topic which dealt with the problems of the current East-West world situation.

He represented Quinte Secondary School, winning the school plaque and a handsome individual silver trophy.



The honor was the third in a row won by the young student. For the past two years he answered the junior championship of the district. This was his first year in senior oratorical circles.

James Murphy is a grade IX student at St. Michael's Academy. His topic dealing with modern day events was "World Crisis Precipitated by the Launching of Sputnik I." There were 15 contestants in the field.

Police Blotter

Joyriders are blamed for the theft of a car taken last night from the Pinnacle Street Loblaw parking lot. The vehicle, owned by Irvine McGrimmon, 25 Wilkins Street, was later discovered on the Collegiate parking lot.

Otherwise, city police reported a quiet night. Two drunks were checked while two minor accidents were reported.

Two Toronto Banks Tapped For $8,500

TORONTO (CP) — Robbers tapped two downtown branches of the Toronto-Dominion Bank Friday for a total of $8,500.

One of the holdups was pulled by shots from an off-duty RCMP officer's revolver as netted the robbers $4,000. The other was a slick, silent, affair unannounced until two robbers had fled with $4,500 and a teller informed the manager she had been robbed.

Toronto has had three bank holdups in the week five this month. This city and its suburbs have had 34 holdups since Jan. 1.

During the first robbery, Constable Robert Nicholls, 34, shot one of three armed men through a car window as they were making their escape. Constable Nicholls, who had been in plain clothes cashing a cheque in the bank, emptied his revolver at the fleeing car.

Police later found the bandits had switched cars a few blocks from the bank. Witnesses and a trail of blood indicated they had helped their wounded companion into another car.

The second holdup occurred only about seven minutes later from the bank. Teller Eilah Balkwill told police she gave two men all her cash after one of them presented her with a holdup note. When they had slipped away she informed the bank manager.

Now Says Girl Was Willing Pal On Murder Tour

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)— Pinkussed killer Charles Starkweather and Caril Fugate, his 14-year-old girl companion, remained united in death in institutions today while authorities weighed their respective roles in the schocking series of 11 killings.

County Sheriff Merle Kenny said Starkweather, 19, had admitted orally all 11 deaths, but now claims Caril was the willing companion on the murder tour that cost nine lives in Nebraska and one in Wyoming.

The 11th killing was two months ago.

Earlier both Starkweather and the girl had insisted that he alone was guilty. He was charged with first degree murder.

Auckland Greets Queen Mother

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuters) — The streets of Auckland were gay with flags and bunting as Queen Mother Elizabeth arrived today to begin her 14-day tour of New Zealand.

Flags and brilliant sashes mingled with Christmas-style decorations along the city's main streets, but the reception of Mayor K. N. Buttle the decorations were more subdued than the previous royal visit.

The Queen Mother, who spent Friday in Fiji, will stay at Government House in Auckland until Tuesday, when she flies to Kaitaia, a town 170 miles north-ing centre. She will travel extensively by air during her visit.

Obituary

DR. E. T. NOBLE
Toronto

Word was received in the city today of the death of Dr. E. T. Noble former president and Registrar-Treasurer of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario in Toronto on Thursday.

Dr. Noble was born at Norval, Ontario, and after receiving his primary education in his home town, went to St. Catharines to receive his secondary education. He entered the University of Toronto and graduated in medicine. For some time he practised in Brampton, where he moved to Toronto. He was president of the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1931, Registrar-Treasurer of the same organization from 1937 to 1955 when he retired although he stayed on a year to assist the new incumbent. He received an honorary degree of LLD from Queen's University in 1954. In 1940 he was president of medical Council of Canada and in 1927 was president of the Alumni Federation of U. of T. In 1928 he was named to the university senate.

Surviving are three sons, Dr. Clark Noble, OBE, of Toronto, who recently was in the city on work as Chief Medical Officer for RCAF Station, Trenton during the last war, Dr. Robert Noble, professor and director of Physical Research at the University of Western Ontario at London, Ont., and Dr. Norval Noble, also surviving are a niece, Dr. Ethel A. Lennox, practising in Brighton township and one grandson Dr. Tim Noble also of Toronto.

The funeral will be held in Timothy Eaton Memorial Church at Toronto on Monday afternoon with interment at Norval.

ARTHUR H. RODGERS

STIRLING — The funeral of Arthur Harold Rodgers was held this afternoon at the Duffin Funeral Home Stirling and the service was conducted by a former pastor Rev. A. E. Baker, Toronto.

The entombment was in Stirling vault.

MRS. GEORGE JAMES WALLACE

A resident of Belleville for the past 26 years, Mrs. Luella Grace Wallace was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Waldron and had lived on the Madoc Road in Thurlow township until moving to this city 26 years ago.

She was a member of Bridge Street United Church and the Order of the Eastern Star, Chapter 55, Belleville.

Resting at the John H. Bush Funeral Home, the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

McTague Bowing Out of Board On Rail Dispute

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Union-opposed Charles P. McTague will be replaced as chairman of a federal conciliation board to settle the United Engineers-Railway labor dispute, say reliable informants.

Information here Friday was that Mr. McTague was resigning from the three-man board, supposed to deal with the $125,-000 - a - year contract dispute between the railways and the non-operating unions.

His appointment has been protested by the unions on the ground of his business connections.

Now a Toronto lawyer, Mr. McTague is a former Ontario Supreme Court justice and a former chairman of the federal war labor board.

Informants here said meantime that no successor has been chosen.

Choice of a successor will be made by the cabinet, it was understood.

The board's task involves the question of the extension to the Canadian railways such as the same group of unions—the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees—which settled the appointment of Mr. McTague in a letter to labor Minister Mr. Hall Monday on grounds the proposed chairman's connections—securities and directorships in about a dozen companies.

Suspend Sentence For Manslaughter

TORONTO (CP)—Walter Studeny, 27, of Toronto, a former amateur athlete, found guilty Friday was given a suspended sentence with a two-year probationary period after he changed his plea to guilty on a charge of manslaughter in the death last August of John Bugar, 23, an Indian immigrant.

Bugar died after he was knocked down by Studeny during a street argument. Studeny said either Bugar or his two chums had knocked his friend.

Mother House.

Sister Mary Damian was born in Belleville, being the daughter of the late John Callahan and Ann Brennan and was educated at St. Michael's Academy and the Model School. In early life she was a valued employee of the Ontario Intelligencer staff and later entered the Sisterhood at Kingston, where she has been for the past few years. Some years ago she was honored on completion of 25 years of service.

While in the city she made a wide circle of friends, who will sincerely regret her sudden death. Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. John J. Fitzgerald and Mrs. P. C. O'Connor both of this city. A brother, Michael Callahan, died some years ago.

The funeral will be held on Monday in Kingston with interment in the same city.

Commonwealth Televiews by CBC

At 12:15 p.m. on Sunday, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will show a fifteen-minute filmed interview with Sir John Cockcroft entitled "Zeta: Power From the Sea". It will be carried by all stations on the network.

The film is the first of a series of six "Commonwealth Televiews" made available by the United Kingdom Commonwealth Service, which will deal with events and developments in Britain and the Commonwealth. They will be shown by the same stations at weekly intervals on the same time on Sunday.

Other titles in the series are: "A Visit To Downing Street" with the U.K. Prime Minister, Mr. Harold Macmillan; "Giant Radio Telescope"; Professor Bernard Lovell; "Northern Ireland To-day"; "Lord Brookeborough; "The Developing Commonwealth"; Rt. Hon. Alan Lennox-Boyd.

Denies Report Company Will Abandon Plans

TORONTO (CP) — T. E. Arkell, president of the O'Keefe Brewing Company Limited, denied reports the company is abandoning plans to build a centre in downtown Toronto.

Mr. Arkell was commenting Friday on a story in the Toronto Star saying industrial magnate E. P. Taylor has transferred his attention from completing the project to building a second centre and is trying to acquire Maple Leaf Gardens.

Mr. Taylor controls the O'Keefe firm.

Mr. Arkell said in a statement: "I am at present enthusiastic than ever about the project. Excavation has been completed and the foundation is partially complete. Tenders have been called for the main building and we are in process of reviewing these bids."

The Star said one of the reasons for lack of enthusiasm in the project is that cost of the building has turned out to be $11,000,000, $1,000,000 more than Mr. Taylor wants to put into the venture.

The paper said Maple Leaf Gardens is up for sale with the price tag estimated at $4,000,000.

IN MEMORIAM

CONNELL. — In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away February 1st, 1956.
Mary Jane Connell, who passed away in her home, 7 Ann Street, on a love unknown to all but God.
As our memories are dear;
Lovely, beautiful and kind.
Always.
Ever remembered by Stella, Leslie, Earle and Grandchildren.

CARTER. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away February 1, 1956.
Love had no power to stay death,
A life linked with my own.
And though he left me one more,
As I walk through life alone,
I have memories of his wife

A Lift for Living

Know and Forget Thyself

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

How self-conscious should we be? At about the age of two years a child begins to be conscious of himself as an "I." This consciousness of self, this capacity to see oneself as though from the outside is a distinctive characteristic of man. Without it a mind does not mature. Yet, self-consciousness does often seem to take away the charm of the little child and the peace of mind of the big adult.

When a person shows that he is self-conscious, he spoils what he is doing. Several years ago Abbe Dimnet of France wrote a very helpful book, "The Art of Thinking." In it he said we must be ourselves if we are to create anything original. And, he added, two of the chief obstacles in the way of a person being himself are pretense and diffidence. Both of these defects are due to self-consciousness.

When we are so conscious of ourselves that we think how others are looking at us, we become shy and diffident, or we strut and pretend. And when we use up our energy in pretending to be what we are not, how can we give our full effort to being our real selves? Thus many of us are busy playing our little parts on the world's stage, posing as more intellectual or artistic or clever than are, with the result that we do not become what we can.

STANDING OUTSIDE

Dr. Rollo May, the psychologist, tells of a young man who came for mental therapy. Though intellectually competent and superficially apparently successful, he had lost all spontaneity of action. He could not forget himself sufficiently to enter wholeheartedly into any human companionship. He was, ever standing outside looking at himself. When listening to music, he was so concerned with how well he was listening he could not enjoy the music. Even in making love, it was as though he were standing outside watching himself.

Do we say such a condition was due to his being too self-conscious? No, answers the psychologist, it was because he was not fully conscious of himself. The more fully we are aware of ourselves, says Dr. May, the more free and self-forgetting and spontaneous we are. But the form of self-consciousness which is always standing off and looking at Number One does not really see Number One, not more than you can see the beauty of the stained glass of a church from the outside.

Also the self-consciousness which is always looking out for Number One does not see the real self because one's own shadow stands in the way and prevents the clear view of one's situation.

Some time ago I was introduced to a woman at a reception. I noticed she kept looking over my shoulder. I thought someone must be approaching me from behind and I turned around. I discovered I was standing in front of a mirror. The lady who was talking to me was really looking at herself in the mirror. It has been said that one reason we do not better remember the names of the people we meet is at the time of introduction we are thinking not about them but about the impression we are making on them.

A BASIC MOTTO

The ancient Greeks had a basic motto for living. It was "Know Thyself." The Bible proclaims what at first seems a contradictory principle, "Forget Thyself." But in reality the Biblical method does not defeat the Greek objective. The way to know ourselves is to forget ourselves in God's larger frame. The Psalmist saw the value of stopping in our self-centered rushing and viewing ourselves in the light of God's greatness. He said: "The Lord is my shepherd . . . He leadeth me beside the still waters, he restoreth my soul." When one looks into the still waters of a quiet stream or spring, what does he see?

He sees the reflection of the sky, the clouds, perhaps the sun and stars. And if he bows his head over the still water, he sees the reflection of himself against the heavens above him. The water is not a very good mirror. If we are wishing to rearrange our hair and examine our complexion. But if we are desiring to rearrange our thoughts and relationships, the still water of a pool is better than a pocket mirror for it shows our reflection in perspective against the heavens above us.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON LADDER SIDES

[illegible] thrill to find a bird that is n[illegible] us, or one rarely seen in our particular district' Such an occurrence not only turns a rambles field trip into a memorable affair, but brightens our whole outlook on birding that season. A three-toed woodpecker can be the cause of all this excitement.

Birds in general, including woodpeckers, have four toes arranged three forward and one backward. To this rule there are but few exceptions, and here are two of them. It is possible for any Canadian to come across one of these oddities, for the three-toed woodpeckers are resident north of the northern limit of trees to our southern border throughout the width of our country. We will not immediately be aware of the discrepancy in toes, but the black and white ladder effect on the birds' sides is likely to draw our attention. The American three-toed, very little larger than a sapsucker, has this ladder repeated on its back. The Arctic, bigger than his brother by nearly an inch, has a solid black back.

Although several other kinds of birds, as the male evening grosbeak, chestnut-sided and myrtle warblers, and the golden-crowned kinglet, wear yellow caps, these are the only woodpeckers that do. Males of both species have their caps over their noses, the way the goldfinch wears his beret cap. There is another curious point about the American three-toed: in juvenile plumage all have some yellow on their heads, but as the adult plumage grows in, the young males acquire real yellow caps, whereas the little girls lose all trace of the yellow.

Three-toed woodpeckers are typically birds of our northern evergreen woods. As bark beetles form their chief food, they are frequently found in regular colonies where spruce budworms or larch sawflies have done damage, making it easier for the birds to flake off the bark and get at the beetles. Fire, lumbering, and the work of beavers also give these woodpeckers their chance. When the supply in any of these areas has been exhausted, individuals spread out, and may come to visit your district. But the American three-toed, less common at best, rarely leaves the deep woods. So it is quite an event to see one.

Though three-toed woodpeckers are not classed as migrants, it is possible to see one at any season, but more especially winter, when they are prone to wander somewhat south, hunting for their favorite food.

TELEVISION AND THE MOVIES

Television did not kill the movie industry, as some prophets of doom forecast, but TV now has a powerful ally. It is—the movie industry.

That is the theme for an article by Bosley Crowther in the New York Times. Crowther, quotes a secret report on movie going and television viewing prepared for the Theatre Owners of America by Sindlinger and Co., business analysts, of Ridley Park, Pa. This report, he says, was presented to a closed meeting of theatre owners and all the movie craft guilds in Hollywood on Jan. 17. Requests of newsmen for copies of the report were refused, but the New York Times obtained one.

The report, Crowther says, contends that top-quality old movies, now being shown on television, are responsible for an alarming drop in the number of people attending theatres.

The report was prepared by experts, but the lay-man's reaction will almost certainly be that there is an alternative explanation, besides TV, for "a 7,000,000 drop in average weekly movie attendance in the final quarter of last year, compared with the same quarter in 1956." Even if these people did stay home to watch old movies on TV, is it not reasonable to suppose that economic conditions may have been a deciding factor? There are a goodly number of people unemployed in the U.S. just now. These people may well have stayed away from the theatres not so much by choice as by necessity.

If, however, we grant the basic accuracy of the report's assumption that the decline in theatre going is the result of the influx of top-quality old pictures on free television last fall," there are some interesting deductions and conclusions to be reached.

In the first place, this would seem to confound those in the film industry who regard the appeal of movies as being primarily to the eye. If anybody doubts the superiority of the movie screen over the TV screen in the ability to present a spectacle, all he has to do is to attend a theatre after a few weeks of watching nothing but TV. The way the faces on the movie screen stand out sharp and clear, the depth of the picture, the whole illusion of life, makes comparison with a TV picture absurd.

And yet these old movies, these good old movies, do have an appeal. The only conclusion, we suggest, is that the importance of the spectacle has been overestimated, that it is the theme of the picture, the tale the author is attempting to tell, which provides the essential ingredient. This can be provided by the TV screen just as well as by the theatre screen. Indeed, in many cases it can be provided more convincingly. In one's own home it is theoretically possible to ban popcorn and chatter. Theatres might take that as a hint. There is nothing that will drive a TV addict back to his set faster than to be seated behind, or in front, of chattering popcorn-chewing people just when he is being invited by the life-like picture to live in another land, or another age.

Finally, if as Crowther says old movies have come to command close to one-quarter of the total of U.S. television-viewing time, will not at times as many hours being spent watching them as are spent attending new movies in theatres, it seems to us that the television industry should take a hint. A good old movie is much better entertainment than a new "live" television program of poor quality. Why not show the old movies be relegated to the "late" or "late, late" hours, when the viewing audience is normally smaller, instead of being accorded a share of the preferred time during the earlier evening hours? The only reason we can suggest is that it is sometimes difficult to make an advertisement appear to be an integral part of an entertainment. The quality of the movie reveals thralling movie. But a fortune in the staleness of the advertising. But a fortune in sales may await some enterprising concern which lifts its advertising to the proper pitch and sponsors top-quality full-length movies sometime between 8 p.m. and 11 p.m.

TWO STRAPPINGS FOR ONE

Casting back, we doubt if there are many adults today who didn't get a taste of the strap during their school years. And it doesn't seem to have done them any harm.

Parents in years gone by took the attitude that if their son or daughter got a strapping in school, they deserved it, and let it go at that.

In the old days, the strapped pupil often concealed the fact from his parents, because, in many cases, it meant another whipping at home. (North Bay Nugget).

QUESTIONING

Is it really so hard to be honest?
Is it always so hard to be square?
Come, say, Mr. Man, when you scheme and you plan,
Is it true that you cannot be fair?

Men say it is so; that some businessmen can't
Be honest and really succeed.
But I'm asking you, is it honestly true
That a lie is the price of a deed?

If this is the truth, what's the use of it all?
Why win at the heavy a price?
Is honor a thing that for wealth of a king
You would barter or sacrifice?

Is success only reckoned in dollars and cents,
And riches the proof of a man?
Is it hard to be fair? Is it hard to be square?
If you try, don't you think that you can?

Dean Acheson Speaks Out

MONTREAL GAZETTE

Not much has been heard from Mr. Dean Acheson, the man who served Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman as Secretary of State during President Eisenhower's victory, he returned to private life, and has become highly successful as a practising lawyer. But on the few occasions when he has been heard from, it has never been to encourage the idea that the Democratic Party ought to be more conciliatory nor peace that the repugnances have mended. On the contrary such an advance would be the great temptation. But it has not tempted him.

After Khrushchev came to power, many in the West were wondering whether this might not be the sign of a new order of things with hopes for an international adjustment. But Mr. Acheson, speaking in 1956 in a convocation address at Brandeis University in the United States, said: "The new Soviet leaders seem to me every bit as ruthless and dangerous as the old ones."

Now Mr. Acheson has spoken out again. This time it is to make a suggestion of a "fellow-Democrat — the suggestion that a truce in the cold war peace is available. This formula has been put forward by Mr. George Kennan, the former ambassador of the United States to Moscow and one of Acheson's right-hand man in the State Department.

Mr. Kennan, in a series of lectures delivered over the BBC, proposed that the NATO powers urge the Soviet Union both withdraw their forces from Europe, that a zone be established in Europe from which nuclear weapons would be barred, and that a reunited Germany have only a limited military force. He says he feels a reduction of armaments there is no danger of a Soviet military attack.

Any idea for a settlement with the Soviet Union has some interest, and Mr. Kennan's is no exception. It has commanded much attention in the United States, West Germany, where several of the lectures were broadcast, and Moscow.

Mr. Acheson has broken his usual silence to express his disagreement with Mr. Kennan's proposals. When one asks if the Soviet Union is sincere, he says, the answer is that they are not sincere. He agreed as possible outside the Communist area and . . . fruitful negotiations to build an international system other than Communist one."

Dogs Rewrite Postal Motto

Hamilton Spectator

Last year, dogs made six thousand unrecorded bites on postmen in the United States, and the Post Office Department officially has admitted defeat: Mr. Arthur Summerfield, the postmaster general, has ruled that householders harboring postie-hunting dogs must receive two polite warnings by mail, then will have to come to the office and identify themselves and collect their own letters and parcels.

This will probably be possible for a postman to be bitten even as he delivers the first and second warnings, but the new regulation is expected to be "extremely effective" with canine relatives. At one time, the department engaged veterinarians specially trained in canine psychology to smooth the path of friendship and mail relationships. The postmen were glad to co-operate, but the dogs refused to jump up on the couch and relax.

Then the letter carriers were started off on their rounds with two bags; the usual one for the mail, and a second one chock-full of goodies to bribe the dogs into good behavior. However, it was found that most animals preferred a good bite of raw postman any day in the week.

These were noble attempts to circumvent the logs of U.S. postmen and they failed. But possibly the post office department has the sweetest failure's humiliation too soon. Has it forgotten that introduced subscription on the facade of the main post office in New York City?: "Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

To be honest, the postal authorities must engage a craftsman to add an "except dogs" clause—but only in small print—to that noble sentiment chiselled in stone. If they do, we can picture the symbolic scene: The sculptor, at work furtively, in gloom of night, on the shameful amendment; a small dog treated on the deserted Manhattan sidewalk, cocking an impudent eye up at the scaffolding; a triumphant smile on his muzzle.

Dogs are like that; they know.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Mr. George F. Stewart, who for forty-one years was a prominent member of the teaching staff at the Ontario School for the Deaf, Trent Road, addressed the members of the Y's Men's Club at their regular meeting last evening. His subject was "Literature of the World." Mr. Stewart was introduced by Harold Vaughan and the appreciation of the club was expressed by Mac Stewart for his interesting address by Lorne McDougall, the club's president.

At a meeting of the vestry of St. John's Anglican Mission, Herchimer Avenue, the incumbent, the Rev. C. E. Hopper presided and Mr. A. McGowan acted as vestry clerk. The incumbent, Mr. C. E. Hopper, thanked the Rev. A. L. Geen for the valuable assistance which he has rendered in the work of the mission during the past year, the incumbent appointed Mr. G. K. Manore as his warden and the vestry elected Mr. Percy Burnett a people's warden. Mr Percy Burnett was appointed delegates to the Diocesan Synod. Messrs. McGowan and Grimson were appointed auditors. The organist is Miss J. Redner. The following were appointed to compose the executive committee: The incumbent, Mr. Pepper, and Messrs. Manore, Burnett, E. Grimson, A. McGowan, A. Little, Miss Beatrice Jones, Mrs. W. Bebee, Mrs. J. Coby, Mrs. Grimson and Miss A. Weldon.

30 YEARS AGO

The Flour Market — From our file copy at that time: The water in the river has risen rapidly and the danger caused by the flooding of the low lying parts of the city is evident. The flood is worse on the west side of the river where several houses upon the lowey floors are flooded and families are taking refuge in the upper floors of their houses. On the east side of the river the situation is alarming. At the Coleman dam, near Wallace's foundry, the dam crowded, as seen in the water, usually below the dam, is level with the dam and is backing up towards Lingham's Hill. Nearly all the cellars along the water side of Front Street are flooded with water from one to three feet in depth. Merchants have been busy removing goods to upper floors. Some houses near No. 1 firehall are flooded and the water is washing its way onto Front Street. There is little hope of a favorable change although the temperature rises soon.

SPIRIT OF THE "LIVING" GOD

What is a church?

A building? An organization? A collection of people who subscribe to the same creed? All these things characterize a church, but they are not the church in its truest itself. We need always to remind ourselves, that during the first 300 years of the Christian era, the Christian church there were no church buildings. Little group, of Christian believers met in homes. So quite evidently the church is not a building, for during all of its most vigorous and inspiring periods of church history it has been not a single church edifice in the entire world.

The church is a spiritual creation. It is not something man hasby the spirit of the Living God. built up but something which God made. It was made — or brought to its full fruition — on the day when the New Testament grew out of the life of the church and was a summing up of it's church's faith. But the church was founded by the swooping down of God's spirit into a group of people assembled in the city of Jerusalem, fifty days after the resurrection had taken place.

So as members of the church, we are members of a spiritual creation. It is more than an organization; it is something created

THE ALL MIGHTY DOLLAR

Article 5

That was in the days when a dollar packed a lot of purchasing power. Just imagine what that one dollar would get you if you dropped into McIntosh Bros., for instance. Look at this: 8 cakes of cheese soap, 5c; 4 cakes rose soap, 10c; buttermilk soap, 3 cakes to box, 7c; 3 note books, 10c; 15c women's vests, 10c; snow shovels, 23c; children's kid mitts, 15c. Nor was that all, the merchant would hand you back 20c.

Or perhaps you had need of boys' two-pieces suits. So you would drop into the Oak Hall (C. H. Vormilyea). Cheap worsted suits were selling around $1.25 per suit, while you would be asked $2.50 for tweed suit with collar and braid, or $2.75 for a suits with fine trimmings. Scotch tweeds, single or double-breasted were $4.00 a suit.

It was the same all over town in those days. Lots of good stuff at bottom prices.

Nathan Jones, the Importer, had Crush's prints at 12½c a yard. "They are 32 inches," the advertisement read, "and every piece is guaranteed to be fast colors . . . the best patterns soon get picked out, so now is the time, etc."

T. P. Brown had sateen covered tie downs for only $4.75 and $5.25, while Brignall's were offering corsets at 20 per cent off.

And then there was D. V. Sinclair & Co. who were offering heating stoves, tin blankets, white and grey, 10-4 to 12-4, from 65c a pair up to $1.50 a pair.

Geo. Ritchie & Co. were offering jackets at half price, $3 coats for $2.50, $15 coats for $7.50 (offering the explanation that these goods cut us much more from the makers in Germany). In addition white quilts were offered at 93c each, while there were equal bargains in millinery and remnants.

J. C. Hanley & Co. were selling flour at $2.60 a bag; bran at $13 a ton; shorts, $15. ton.

Uncle Dudley's Digitalis

In apiece printed recently I referred to a mystery story in which the perfect crime was perpetrated. Oddly, I can't remember whether the mystery was solved or not.

Before I reveal the ingenious method or disposing of old Moneybags, I had better inform impatient readers that I mean in this piece that the method is effective enough in novels and movies, but in real life it just won't work.

At a time when there was no way to get a fresh supply from the drugstore the ingenious young murderer in the story concealed his Uncle Dudley's digitalis. So when it came time for the daily dose, what else could Uncle Dudley do but quietly lie down and expire? Then the young man replaced the digitalis in the medicine cupboard and called the doctor, coroner, etc. That's how the deed was done.

A Boston specialist recently declared that digitalis preparations are absolutely dependent upon a daily dose of digitalis to keep them alive.

This would be ridiculous were it not that certain physicians, real or latrogenic (doctor caused) heart ills do positively seem to respond to digitalis in the seriously ill. And enough to have real or imaginary heart trouble. It is infinitely worse to believe constant use of digitalis or any other drug is essential to your tour beat beating.

In my study of digitalis I experimented some. In one instance I gave a hospital patient enormous doses, about 40 times the usual dose, for several days, for delirium tremens — a treatment which had proved effective in Bellevue. The patient recovered from DT but a few hours after he had digitalis poisoning. His pulse rate would become impalpable, and he would lie there in a hot air bath, his pulse rate would increase to about normal, then go out of the bath, his pulse rate again become slower and slower, till we put him back.

About a year later he was back. This time another doctor had charge of the ward. I was on a different service. The doctor looked up the patient's record. He decided the dose of digitalis I had used was too much—he gave the patient just a large standard dose. The patient was delirious as before. In a few days the patient died. Autopsy showed that death was pneumonia. The doctor had misinterpreted the difficult breathing as patient's breath was strongly alcoholic and the doctor had established a diagnosis.

I'm not prepared to deny that digitalis may be good remedy for dropsy — as the old woman of Shropshire told William Withering it was in 1775 — but if I had heart trouble, I'd never take digitalis without a doctor in whom I had confidence enough of me to take it or else.

LIFE'S BREVITIES

This life of ours teems with what I shall call brevities — issances of the beauty of love, moments of laughter, little eruptions of the spirit which exist as quickly as the morning dew in Summertime. Our race is rapidly losing the fine habitude of these brevities, each with its own influence, each with its own charm. Some houses near No. 1 firehall are flooded and the water is washing its way onto Front Street. There is little hope of a favorable change although the temperature rises soon.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Among the top winter sports, along with skiing, skating, ice fishing and rabbit shooting, is bird watching. Everyone in one of the public know about winter bird watching is that as few people get up in time Saturday and Sunday mornings. Hardly anybody sees us, that is our species of bird watchers, leaving the house at 7 a.m. or earlier, to drive out to the country to check birds.

Bird watching is a poor name for our sport. We don't watch them. We spot them, identify them. And list them. Counting them, keeping records, trampling through woods and meadows and frozen swamps, we search for birds, our binoculars trained to the sky, when we find a bird, it is our winter life list of unseen things seen.

Very small, eh? Trifling inducement to go out in the lovely, lovely winter world?

Field Naturalists Hear Talk on Sea Lampreys

The Quinte Field Naturalists met on Monday evening in the Entomology Laboratory with the new president, Miss Joy Nichols, in the chair. Mr. Hedley Jarmen moved a vote of thanks to Miss Frances Young and her staff for their excellent work during the past year.

Miss Nichols said she hoped to be able to follow Miss Young's excellent lead and asked for the support of the members. She praised the work of Miss Lillian Hart and her committee, on the bulletin "Kente Calling". Miss Hart asked for contributions to the bulletin, any little item of nature interest.

Since, at the February meeting, Dr. Arthur of the Entomology Laboratory is to give a talk on "Nature Stamps" members were asked to bring along their own stamps collections to add interest to the program.

Miss Florence Fitzgerald introduced the speaker, Mr. Russel Whitfield, district field biologist of the Department of Lands and Forests at Tweed.

Mr. Whitfield's talk was about fish saved by the early kings as a delicacy — the sea lamprey. Originally an Atlantic species, the lamprey has invaded fresh waters coming by way of the St. Lawrence Rivers to the Great Lakes. Lamprey were first found in Lake Erie in 1921 and by 1946 had reached Lake Superior.

The lamprey is a parasite, attaching itself by its sucker mouth to the side of the fish and sucking the life blood of its victim. Some of the Great Lakes commercial trout fishermen have had to haul up their nets as the take of lake trout has dropped from 2½ million pounds to less than a million. Now they are attacking the whitefish and even the tough-scaled carp in the Bay of Quinte.

Mr. Whitfield, with other biologists, decided to study the lamprey, were transported by means of an old tugboat collecting stray pulp logs, to the streams on the north shore of Lake Superior up which the lamprey go to spawn. They spawn only once in a lifetime and die shortly afterwards. Dead lamprey are seldom found. After they spawn they are carried by the poor condition that they go to the bottom of the stream under the stones and disintegrate.

The lamprey lays close to a million eggs in shallow water in the form of a horseshoe. They do not allow intruders. The male will clamp itself on the side of an intruder, carry it up to the surface and let it go. In seven or eight days they hatch. The little larvae are crystal clear with a little spot on one which it feeds. They lay in gravel for ten days and then come to the top and float down stream. When they come to a pond they settle down in the silt with only their heads exposed facing the incoming current which brings them plankton and other food.

NEW CHEMICAL USED

So serious did the situation become that a commission was set up to find ways and means of destroying the lamprey. Electric weirs have been set up across the streams carrying electric charges from rod to rod. Some twenty-five to thirty of these barricades have been set up. Recently a new chemical has been discovered which will kill the lamprey's larvae and not harm other fish. When the lamprey have been cleared out, the lakes will be re-stocked with lake trout.

In the Tweed district which comprises 7,600 square miles they depend on hatcheries to keep the stocks of fish. At first people asked for all kinds of fish to stock the lakes but it was found that it was unnecessary to stock pickerel and bass as pickerel were found to be very prolific, spawning in April or May, each female laying 70,000 eggs, more than the lakes' could support, except that many are lost because pickerel do not protect their young. Bass protect their young until big enough to go on their own.

Experiments have been made with a new hardy type of trout, the splake, which reaches about 15 inches by the third year. It is hard to identify as the tall is similar to the lake trout and the body to the speckled trout.

Mr. and Mrs. H.G. Blakely Happily Wed for 50 Years

PICTON — A business man on Main Street for 46 years, H. G. Blakely and Mrs. Blakely celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Saturday, February 1st. Both continue to lead active lives in church and community work.

Mr. Blakely served as mayor of Picton in 1919, having previously served as deputy reeve and reeve.

He served as school trustee for 15 years and for ten years on Picton Utilities. He is a charter member of the Rotary Club, active member of the United Church, member Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce.

He was born at Point Traverse in 1886. Leaving the farm he was a salesman and in 1912 opened a business on Main Street and until 1950 dealt in machinery. He then opened the present Blakely Hardware and Electric.

Mrs. Blakely was born in Belleville, Ont. They were married at Picton Methodist church.

There are five sons, Clealan, superintendent of Picton Public Utilities; Willis, Robert and Woodrow, with the farm; and Donald, who teaches in Ottawa.

The anniversary was marked quietly.

Cherry Valley Couple Married For 60 Years

PICTON — With presentation of gifts from the community and various organizations, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bushell of Cherry Valley home today, Saturday, to celebrate their married state years ago at Wellington.

Mr. Bushell retired in 1956 after 40 years as a steamfitter of Atholville Township for 30 years. Mr. Bushell is a charter member and organizer of S.S. No. 4 Athol and in early years he served on Athol Council.

Mr. and Mrs. Bushell, the latter Evelyn May Gibson, were both born in Athol and lived on a farm at Salmon Point before moving to Cherry Valley. Both have been active members of the Ox Bells and Rebekah lodge. Mrs. Bushell taught an adult Bible class in the Sunday School and served as president of Cherry Valley Women's Institute.

Keeping a daily diary since their marriage, Mr. Bushell collecting stamps and Mrs. Bushell writing to her friends, has helped this popular couple to count out full and useful lives.

Lakes along highway 7 have been stocked with this hybrid trout.

A new food in pellet form seems greatly enjoyed by the fish. It is a mixture of different meals and carbohydrates.

At present the department is working on the theory planting of seasons for certain fish as it has been found that fishermen are getting back only about two per cent of the restocked fish.

Many lakes formerly inaccessible are being stocked by planes of fish dropped from aircraft.

Mr. Whitfield finished his talk by showing a group of pictures. Some of them were of carp fishing in the Bay of Quinte. One showed a lamprey attached to a carp. Marks showed, plainly, old scars which on right through to its blood vessels. Another showed hatchery ponds where adult trout can be kept in winter. The trout are seined out, put in tanks on trucks and counted into other tanks. The counted fish are loaded into trays to put into the aircraft. It is possible with the use of cylinders of oxygen to carry fish for several hours.

Capital Budget For Air Lines Is $42,000,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines' capital budget in the 1958 calendar year has been set at $42,000,000, it was announced Friday in a Commons return.

Of this amount, $22,625,000 was committed through previous budgets. New projects to be commenced this year include $5,375,000 for buildings and improvement.

Future commitments are $34,653,000 for 1959; $37,890,000 for 1960; and $28,041,000 in 1961; or a total of $100,586,000 for the three years.

Prime Minister Will Address Young PC's

OTTAWA (CP) — Young Conservatives today elect a new association president and draft a list of proposals they will later submit to the senior party organization for further consideration and action.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is scheduled to speak to the windup banquet of the annual meeting of the Young Progressive Conservatives of Canada and the party's Student Federation.

The Young Conservatives were jubilant over the turnout of more than 900 delegates. YPC organizer Lorne Secher of Toronto said plans originally were made for only 300. But enthusiasm grew.

YPC chm representatives from 48 universities and colleges throughout Canada turned up.

Supporters of the presidential candidates campaigned actively Friday and Friday night.

In the running for the top spot are Douglas Jung, 33, a lawyer and MP for Vancouver centre; George Hogan, 29, Toronto automobile dealer and immediate past president of the YPC of Ontario, and Frank C. McGee, 31, Toronto businessman and MP for York-Scarborough.

Delegates are to deal today with about 50 resolutions, selected from the more than 300 submitted by the various clubs.

Prisoner Goes Berserk in Box

TORONTO (CP) — Roy Talbot, 39, went berserk in court Friday when he thought he heard Judge Ambrose Shea sentence him to 14 years for breaking, entering and theft. Actually he had been given four years.

He staged a vain struggle in the prisoner's box in an attempt to get at Judge Shea and later attempted to batter his way out of a cell. Talbot said he had pleaded guilty and expected to get three to five years, then thought he had been given a 14-year sentence for stealing $600 and $2,500 cash. Then he got tickets from a drugstore.

He went red in the face when sentence was passed and amid obscenities addressed to Judge Shea shouted: "I'll get the d—— lot of you."

Talbot tried to leap out of the prisoner's box but was restrained by court officials and spectators. He then smashed the prisoner's box with his feet.

Talbot was removed to a cell in the city hall. Police said he seized benches there and smashed them against the cell bars.

POPULAR ARTIST

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Winston Churchill's paintings have drawn more visitors than any composable showing in the history of the Nelson Art Gallery. The British statesman's first one - man art show has been seen by 15,000 persons in nine days, Laurence C. Sickman, gallery director, expects the total to reach 20,000 by the time the exhibit closes Sunday.

Pearson Tackles Minister on Unemployment

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister Michael Starr, who has been insisting that a particular set of government figures represents unemployment, was reminded in the Commons Friday that he had a different viewpoint when he was opposition.

Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson tackled him on a Commons point. Mr. Starr said on March 3, 1955, when he was on the total of unemployment the figure of those registered for jobs with the National Employment Service.

Mr. Starr, as minister, has contended — and reiterated Friday—that the official unemployment figures are those made in a monthly census by the bureau of statistics on the number of jobless seeking work, always considerably lower than the employment service total.

Mr. Starr was asked in the House Friday for the latest unemployment figure and he pointed to the 396,000 estimate of the bureau for Dec. 14. For Dec. 12, employment and unemployment were 570,674 and have since risen to the end of Jan. 9.

DRAWS ATTENTION

Mr. Pearson drew attention to the fact that Mr. Starr was now the said in an unemployment debate:

"Unemployment has reached a figure of close to 600,000 and this is indeed a serious situation."

At that time, the employment service figures on job registrations were about 100,000 less than Gallup's estimate of jobless looking for work.

Mr. Pearson asked in what sense was Mr. Starr using the word "unemployment" in 1955.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker jumped to answer the question, last question in the world Mr. Pearson should be asking in the daily unemployment.

Speaker Roland Michener directed his question to the labor minister or the prime minister.

"I was directed to the minister of labor and I resolved by the prime minister," Mr. Pearson said.

That type of question might be asked by a back-bencher but for one thing, it resulted in front-benchers," Mr. Diefenbaker snapped.

"I suppose I have the same rights as a back-bencher," Mr. Pearson replied.

'OUT OF LINE'

He said he had asked the question because Mr. Starr had placed an interpretation on this word 'unemployment' which appeared to be out of line with the way in which he used it himself on time."

Justice Minister Davie Fulton argued last a question on a 1955 statement was irrelevant and "suggest," as rules require during the House question period.

Asked the meaning of the word 'unemployment' at both current times, Mr. Starr said he asked the minister to answer in his story.

Mr. Starr said:

"I am following the policy which was set out by the former government with regard to this matter when they refused to give any figures of registration and only accepted the figures released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics regarding unemployment."

EVANGELIST ARRIVES

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham received here by planes from sight to begin two days of religious meetings. The evangelist is scheduled to visit Caracas, Venezuela, Bogota, Colombia, and Managua, Nicaragua, Guatemala and Mexico before winding up his Caribbean crusade about Feb. 16.

Senate Delays Bill's Passage

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate, where Liberals outnumber Progressive Conservatives 71 to 15, Friday delayed passage of a government bill amending the Indian Act despite an administration move to avert this.

The upper house gave second reading—approval in principle—to the legislation at a short afternoon sitting. Then the deputy government leader, Senator Walter M. Aseltine, asked the Senate to give it final reading.

Usually, a bill is not given more than one reading at a single sitting. However, if everyone is present, two or three readings is given on some occasions, especially towards the end of parliamentary sessions when the House is trying to clean up its business.

Senator Thomas Reid objected, said the government had given no good reason why final reading should be given Friday. Senator Aseltine, who sponsored the measure, agreed to leave it over until the next sitting.

Man Convicted Of Vagrancy Mentally Alert

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Dr. Douglas Wickware, assistant superintendent at the Ontario Hospital in London, Ont., said Friday that William Lyle Smith, 42, who died in the hospital, was "quite alert," contrary to a jail minec well as other patients.

He said there is no evidence of brain damage, memory defect and no paranoid features.

Kennedy was admitted to the Ontario Hospital May 31, following conviction for his comments under the Ontario Mental Hospitals Act. He had been arrested May 23 on a charge of vagrancy.

Kennedy is suing Magistrate Otto McClevis, provincial police Constable Stan Wade and the Crown Attorney John W. Freeborn all of Walkerton, for false imprisonment and malicious prosecution in connection with his arrest, conviction and one-year suspended sentence for vagrancy last summer.

Dr. Wickware was called as a witness by Kennedy's counsel, Lewis Duncan, QC, defending Kennedy. The hearing is in its second week.

The injured girl is the eldest of four children. She was not expected to be seriously injured and underwent surgery for bullet wounds in her shoulder was able to tell the ambulance driver that it was "the first time I have ever been shot with a gun."

She was quoted as telling her mother that the Bovay boy "did not mean to shoot at us."

The Bovay boy's parents were not home at the time of the accident. Mrs. Bovay was at work at the Hotel Quinte, while Mrs. Fuller, a registered nurse, was a patient, had also gone to the city.

George Bovay, next door neighbor, heard the blast of the shotgun outside and came out to discover the girl lying in the driveway.

Eldest of five children, Carolyn Fuller leaves three sisters, Iola May, 3, Bonnie Lee, 2, Betty Ann Ilene, 5, and a brother, Jerry Clayton, 7, all at home.

She attended St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

Federal Board Suspends U.S. Rate Boost

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's board of transport commissioners has broken new ground by suspending the application of the duty of a United States freight rate increase.

Informants said a board decision may Friday suspends for the Canadian railways a freight rate increase on export-import traffic through Canadian ports.

The increase was granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the U.S. and customarily would have been applicable to the Canadian railways.

The board broke from precedent by suspending it indefinitely in Canada pending hearings in Washington March 31. These could continue for weeks.

The Canadian decision of the board under Chief Commissioner Clarence D. Shepard could have substantial repercussions in the U.S.

Normally, there is a form of parity in rail freight rates on export-import traffic moving from seaboard ports in the two countries, under a loose agreement almost as old as the throat competition for port business.

CAN HALT PARITY

The unprecedented board action could kick the props from under this parity, and invariably unless the ICC of the U.S. and the railways themselves held up the increase at the border.

Otherwise, officials here said, traffic could begin to flow to such ports as Saint John, N.B. and Halifax from U.S. points instead of going through U.S. ports. However, a final decision of traffic was expected momentarily.

ICC decisions of this type — involving an impact on Canadian traffic—usually can be said to be followed semi-automatically by the transport board. In this case, the board went from former practice and blocked a Canadian railway move to match the U.S. railways' increase, effective Feb. 15.

The increase amounted to six cents per 100 pound on a variety of commodities. The exception was wheat, but flour was included in the proposed increase and on this the board was understood to have received instructions from the Canadian wheat board and other bodies.

SEES DISCRIMINATION

The contention was that a six-cent boost on flour would discriminate against the Canadian product in the highly-competitive world market.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Tired of Same Old Chores at 67, He Landed a Job With 'Private Eye'

By THOMAS COLLINS

Robert W Weatherd, age 67, has just retired on a pension of $128 a month. On March 15, when he and his wife get back from a vacation in Tampico, Mexico, he is going to work for what the paperback novels call a private eye. He calls it a confidential investigator.

Mr. Weatherd is a unique retirement story. He is a living, breathing example of the magic that is within the grasp of any person in his 60's.

"I don't have to do this, you understand," he told me. "I have the Social Security and my wife has $54, in addition to the $128 I start here March 31. These could continue for weeks.

A game of "Movie Stars" was put on by Pat Harder. Community singing was enjoyed. A worship service was held by Helen Krevacek with the theme "The Beauty of the Blossoms," for the Japanese people and the beauty in any form.

The Scripture reading was found in Romans 8: 37-39, read by Sharon Gilchrist. Helen Krevacek led in prayer. Joan Vandervoort read a "Japanese Story."

After the business session the offering was taken by Evelyn Henry. In the craft department it was found that potholders were being made for sale.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Rosemark Bush, on February 4th.

Harmony S.C. Holds Musical Evening

The January meeting of the Harmony Studio Club was held at the home of Mrs. E. Veley, R.M.T. Mrs. H. Hancock, who presided, opened the meeting with a cordial welcome to all.

The first part of the program consisted of work from grade seven to grade ten. The following papers were given by the pupils: Roger Ling, "Study Notes"; by Bertirl, "Prelude"; by S. Bach; Linda Lemmon, "Bouree," by R. Jones, "Waltz" by Brahms; Catherine Millard, "Waltz" by Schubert; Sharon McDonald, "Air" by Purcell; "Rondo" by Kuhlau; Susan Rush, "Rondo" by Kuhlau; Wayne Vance, "Study No. 13" by Cramer; "Sonata" by Hadyn; Karen Flindall, "Prelude" by Handel; Eileen Hancock, "Two Part Invention" by Bach; Iris Hallett, "Minuet" by Purcell; Irma Embury, "Prelude" by Bach; Wayne Vance, "Two Part Invention" by Bach.

SUPPLEMENTARY WORK

The supplementary work of the pupils in the form of various concert arrangements and transcriptions of secured music, were also played, with the following numbers presented: Eileen Hancock, "The Church's One Foundation," "When They Ring Those Golden Bells"; Catherine Millard, "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus"; Sandra Burns, "My Jesus, I Love Thee"; Irma Embury, "How Firm A Foundation," "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today"; Lois Bailey, "He Rose Triumphantly"; Sharon McDonald, "Holy, Holy, Holy"; Doreen Rush, "When the World Forgets"; Wayne Vance, "Jesus Shall Reign," "Fairest Lord Jesus"; Karen Flindall, "The Old Rugged Cross"; Grace Veley, "O Worship the King". Mrs. Veley, "The Love of God Is Greater Far"; Eileen Hancock and Mrs. Veley, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

VOCAL SOLOS

During the course of the evening, two vocal solos, "Whisper-ing Poplar" by Mark Lubbock and "Interrogative Air—with Verdure Clad" from Haydn's Creation, were rendered by Mrs. A. Downes accompanied on the piano by Miss Grace Veley.

Refreshments brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Our work for T and T at all CWAC brings us into contact with many people from many parts of the world. It is an experience which yields much in compensation. One of the delightful attributes is the element of the unexpected and the happy surprises. If you like people you will find them the factor of the law of averages weighs heavily in favor of making most, by far the most surprises, pleasant ones.

Take this week in our Bay of Quinte community. We had telephone calls from a lady from Florida and from the lone star State of Texas. Each of our friends from south of the border contacted us purely because they are friendly and wanted to help us by passing along information we were seeking. Mrs. Sims from Texas came to the studio and we spent over an hour visiting, hearing about Texas, about southern recipes, and learning anew that there is no country or border between the friendly aspirations of most people. Through Mrs. Sims, the Bay of Quinte has established a contact with the state of Texas. We are going to correspond. We are going to exchange ideas, recipes and general information about people and things in Texas and the Bay of Quinte.

Since T and T has no fancy to be ingenious and since the simple things of life have a deep significance, we are wondering aloud if these two friendly gestures do not contain the heart of good international relations and better understanding. Someone once advised us that people should be content to accept that two and two add up to four and that it was only when we tried to make it five or negate it to three, we get into trouble. Anyway, the more people we meet and, the older we become, we are convinced that people, just people, are friendly, want to be friendly in peace, want to understand each other in tolerance, and the day may arrive when governments realize that people make nations. We, the people, may have to make ourselves more voluble.

We read a book years ago where the wife of the hero told her husband that it didn't take much to start him off. Maybe the same may be said of T and T, but however that may be, we thank our friends from the friendly south for sharing their knowledge with us and for their gesture of friendship.

It has been inspiring.

We have received a long letter from Mrs. Roscoe Vanderwater. Her many friends will be glad to learn that she is well and they will not be surprised to know that she is as busy as she can be. She is enjoying her stay in Hawaii where she is meeting interesting people and occupying her time in many satisfying and constructive activities.

A couple of weeks ago we were asked if we had run out of topics about some of the other Commonwealth countries. The answer is no, but there does seem to be much going on all about us.

Australia celebrated Australia Day last Sunday marking its 170th birthday. The growth of Australia since 1788 has been one of the wonders of the world. Experts claim that Australia was never so prosperous, never so optimistic and was never so influential in world affairs. The Ausales seem to be holding their own in the world of sports too. A thirteen-year-old girl, Ilsa Konrads, has broken the world record for women's 880 yards, freestyle swimming event. She was born in Latvia and went to Australia with her parents eight years ago. Two Australian boys have set four new world records for swimmers. And we all know their tennis prowess.

We have been talking recently about conservation. A professor of nuclear physics in Australia declares that water conservation is more important to that Dominion than atomic power. They have had disastrous droughts there this past year. This is why Australia is a world leader in the search for rain making projects. The northeastern part of Victoria has been plagued with catastrophic droughts of great severity. Hundreds of square miles have been ravaged and sprawling forest fire has not halted them. Rail traffic has been halted in places and the residents of Melbourne are threatened. We have read about the Queen Mother crossing Canada on her way to Australia. One party of five school children will travel 3,000 miles to see Her Majesty. One member of this party will be a full-blooded aboriginal girl.

Marvellous efforts are being made to assimilate the European and aboriginal children where they live and work together without regard to race or creed. Here is one for the books. On January 8th scientists released a meterological balloon at Melbourne University. It reached a height of about 25 miles, 10,000 feet higher than the previous world record achieved in Australia. The balloon cost less than $3.00.

Our weekend thought is hypothetical. How T and T failed to go around the world in eighty lines. We will endeavor to catch up on our routine as the year progresses. T and T is always grateful to the readers who help keep us in line.

Going Places

Resort Magazine Brings Back Memories of Las Vegas Visit

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

A communication in the form of a magazine arrived today from a hotel we'd stopped at once in Las Vegas. Though full of pictures of celebrity guests, it deservedly avoided depiction of them as the place's chief appeal, the table of fortune.

But, my, what memories it evoked.

For folks like us who don't even play charity bingo between Las Vegas visits, recollections of a bizarre weekend sprang to mind with startling vividness. . . .

Remembrances of getting out of bed at 2:30 in the morning and leaving the children in the improvised care of a night maid when we thought we had a new system worked out for dice (we didn't!). . .

Of perfectly normal people not being able to go through the lobby to the dining room without stopping to win, lose, or draw at a slot or table for all the world as if the ten dollars weren't even real. . . .

Of weighty plastic bags of silver dollars that nobody could quite figure out how to lug around gracefully. . . .

Of aching calves and sore "crapshooter's elbows" from long hours of leaning over dice tables. . . .

And, most of all, of the night we counted her wad over Bob in the form of 13 straight passes, while Shirley stood around quietly getting explaining to bettors who were making thousands on his streak that Bob never bets more than a dollar or two at a time on anything.

A pass, on case you didn't know, is a winning roll. It results either from throwing a seven or eleven on the first roll or, barring that, from rolling on subsequent tries the same figure you did the first time without first making seven.

FEW LONG HOT STREAKS

Now, any of the six faces of one dice may be combined with some face on the other dice to total seven, which is more than you can say for any of the other numbers. Thus the likelihood of the obligatory seven coming up before the first roll is duplicated, is the reason ownerships of Las Vegas hotels don't pass every few nights into the hands of every casual gambler who may be riding a hot streak. Subject as they are to the law of seven, few streaks get that hot.

The chance of making 13 successive passes involves the greatest possible strain on that phenomenon, acknowledged by some and denied by others, but described by all as Luck. The Las Vegas record for consecutive passes reputedly is 17.

We scarcely knew what was happening, busy as we were casting our unfamiliar silver dollar winnings into substantial paper money before it got away. We just had the feeling the dice could not possibly fall wrong.

We became vaguely aware after a while that the stick man was diversely examining the cubes, and that little conference groups were forming around the table consisting of the floor manager, a uniformed special officer, security viewers from other tables, and finally the hotel owner himself, nervously shuffling in his hand his trademark, a stack of silver dollars.

Once a spectator bet a small fortune that we would roll an eleven — a fifteen-to-one shot — and we accommodatingly rolled him an eleven.

WORM FINALLY TURNS

But it's a neat worm that has no turning and our luck ran out on the 14th pass. Everyone breathed a sigh of relief, including us, because we didn't want to own a Las Vegas hotel anyway, much.

In case your high school algebra falls you, betting only one dollar on the first roll and then betting the accumulated winnings each time on a total of 13 successful rolls would accrue winnings of something over $2,000. A start of $50 would bring over $400,000.

Our failure, of course, was in withdrawing all or part of our winnings after each roll and not allowing it to accumulate.

Even if we had, there was the inevitable 14th try that when all is said and done, is why everybody in Las Vegas believes in Luck. Especially hotel owners

VON Nurses Did Not Always Travel by Car

When the Victorian Order of Nurses was established here in 1909 the first V.O.N. nurse visited by bicycle, or on foot.

Mrs. Gerald Hare, at a recent ceremony opening a new V.O.N. office here, recalled her nursing days with the order in 1925. "There were just the two of us, and it was a 24-hour-a-day job. We had occasional help from a third nurse."

The work mostly involved maternity cases at home. Mrs. Hare said one call came late at night from an isolated area. She and the doctor drove as far as they could go in heavy rain and then slipped and grabbed their way to a small cabin where they delivered twins.

"If I hadn't brought my high rubber boots from Nova Scotia, I don't think I'd have waded through the night," Mrs. Hare said.

Today seven V.O.N. nurses with seven cars make an average of 70 calls a day. In 1951, records show three nurses and a student made about 21 calls a day.

with multimillion-dollar investments.

But it will be a long time before we forget that night when luck with a capital "L" might have turned out to be a lifetime of security in a few minutes.

Wife Preserves

In fur-coat weather, be especially careful not to do any unnecessary sliding across seats of cars. Every time bit of slithering about cuts down on the life of your coat. So if you're driving the car, get on the side next to the wheel when traffic permits.

POST-CHRISTMAS THOUGHTS CONCERNING CHRISTMAS CARDS

Dear Mrs Beeckman:

I read with interest your advice about "thank your friends for their Christmas cards and messages" in your column a day or so after Christmas. This made me think also of several ideas I have had lately about Christmas cards.

1. My family and I do not very much like the card that carries a printed sticker. We feel that the sender does not care enough to take the time to hand-write his or her name, thus making the card personal. If the sender is in ill-health, naturally we overlook this. One of our friends is so crippled with arthritis that she has had to learn to write with her left hand, which isn't easy for her, but in spite of this, she wrote a warm and friendly note. Do you agree with our thoughts about the imprinted name vs. the hand-written signature?

2. Also please put us right about this: Is it improper to write a note on the Christmas greeting card? Or is it 'etiter to write your private message on a separate sheet and enclose this with the card? Thank you for any recognition you may give to my letter. — C.T.

And a fine letter it is, full of appealing contemplation. . .thank you for letting me share your good thoughts.

1. I too rejoice when I receive the Christmas card or other greeting card signed with the beloved handwriting of a friend and, if possible, there should be a written message . . . your friend has the right idea. Christmas cards really should, by their nature, be personal, and the hand-written signature gives this personality. But I suppose that today one must accept the fact that when a busy person sends out hundreds, perhaps thousands, of Christmas cards, it is a sigh impossible to sign them personally. However, some effort . . . should be made . . . to achieve this.

2. Indeed it is proper, most thoughtful and gracious, to write a message of greeting — and news, too — on a greeting card except a strictly formal one. Even though it's a rather long message . . . the longer, the better, the more welcome to your relative or friend . . . write it on the card itself, not on a separate sheet to be enclosed with the card.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B POWELL

ART THOU WEARY, ART THOU LANGUID?

Art Thou weary, art Thou languid,
Art Thou sore distressed?
"Come to me," saith One, "and coming,
Be at rest."

Hath He marks to lead me to Him,
If He be my Guide?
"In His feet and hands are wound-prints,

Is there diadem, as Monarch,
That His brow adorns?
"Yea, a crown, in very surety: Fulgid thorns."

If I find Him, if I follow,
What His guerdon here?
"Many a sorrow, many a labor,
Many a tear."

If I still hold closely to Him,
What hath He at last?
"Sorrow vanquished, labor ended,
Jordan passed."

If I ask Him. to receive me
Will He say me nay?
"Not till earth and not till heaven Pass away."

Finding, following, keeping, struggling,
Is He sure to bless?
"Saints, apostles, prophets, martyrs, Answer, Yes."

"Art Thou Weary, Art Thou Languid" is one of the oldest hymns of Christendom. Written more than 11 centuries ago by St. Stephen the Sabaite — a monk who lived in a hewn out stone cell in the monastery of St. Sabas, near Bethlehem, overlooking the Dead Sea, it was translated in 1862 by Dr. John Mason Neale, English churchman, for use as a hymn of worship services throughout the world.

Stephen entered the "laura" as the monastery was called when he was 15 and of 19, holding to the hand of his uncle, John of Damascus. Uncle and nephew left a splendid palace to enter the monastery. The Christian family to which they belonged had immense wealth and great position. Time after time the wealth had been used to purchase freedom for boat loads of Christians, captives of the Saracens. But all the sacrifices did not seem to lessen the numbers of Christians tortured or slain.

The uncle fell to wondering — perhaps, after all, those who lived alone and prayed in the desert accomplished more than did those who occupied themselves with righteous acts. So John of Damascus gave away his wealth and with his nephew walked through the desert to knock at the gate of the laura and beg the monks to receive them.

The boy lived in the monastery for 59 years — until his death. In time, the stone cells became more natural to him than the great palace with its golden pillars. The ripple of the brook Kedron, took the place of the palace fountains which in Damascus had splashed on an hundred tiled floors.

Five times every day the bells in the monastery chapel sounded and the monks gathered for prayers. Twice each night the lad left his cell to the chapel to join in the chanting. On the hills to the south of the monastery grazed the camels owned by the monks. It was Stephen's duty to watch over them. At sunrise each day, too, it was his task to take a basket of bread to the edge of the monastery cliff and cut its contents down 500 feet to where the brook rippled and where wolves and jackals prowled back and forth waiting for the food which they knew the monks would provide.

But even in the convent-life there was not all peace. The monks had to keep watch for marauding and murdering bands of Arabs. Once when Stephen was a young man, he was emptying his basket of bread, leaning far over the cliff to look down on the brook below. Suddenly, the lookout over the convent gate gave the signal which told that the Arabs were near. Looking up, Stephen saw the far-off cloud of dust raised by the hoofs of the approaching horses. The Arabs would be upon them in a few, moments — and the faithful camels were grazing outside the gate.

Stephen ran out, unfastened the tethers, and led the camels inside, just as a shower of arrows fell about. Then, because in the hour for prayers, he hurried to the tower to ring the bells and was his custom. As the chimes rang out over the desert, the Saracens turned and fled, frightened by what they thought was a signal to the Christians to send the hosts vanish from their faces. Tradition said that on that morning he wrote the first verses of his much-loved hymn.

The years passed on and Stephen became one of the oldest monks in the monastery. The monks, gathered for worship in the chapel, chanted his hymn in antiphony. Those on one side of the altar would give the questions, keeping their voices low, and then, from the dim figures on the other side would arise the triumphant answers. One night, the worship was interrupted by an Arab attack and many of the monks were killed. Some who tried to flee were captured. Others who remained in their cells also were put to death. About 20 took refuge in a large cave but they were suffocated in the built by the attackers. After the massacre, Stephen helped to carry out the bodies of these martyrs and it is said that after looking on their calm and happy faces he added the last verse to the hymn which he had written so many years before.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Question: Greetings for 1958. I marvel at your energy. Imagine having visitors and still making the deadline at the newspapers . . . A few days ago you published a recipe using turkey bones. Did it ever occur to you to crack them with a hammer to let out the marrow? I put them in a large pot, pour all the tops of celery that I have on hand and add to stock and few hours, then strain and put in the refrigerator. I soak dried limas, kidney beans, white navy beans, dried green peas for 24 hours, pour off the liquid, layer of fat from stock and combine soaked dried vegetables and soup stock. I put through the grinder 1 potato, onion and carrot and add to stock and then for color add 1 tin of condensed tomato soup. Have you a recipe for Cranberry Muffins. They look like ground cherries and are oh so good? Irene B.

Answer: I am mailing the recipe for Bortsch direct. How lovely you are to have all that lovely canned eggplant. Here is one recipe that I know you will enjoy.

SCALLOPED EGGPLANT

One eggplant or approximately 4 cups of canned eggplant. If raw then peel and slice eggplant and cut into cubes. Cook in ½ cup water until tender. Drain. Beat well 2 eggs, add ¼ cup melted shortening, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon minced onion, ½ cup soft bread crumbs. Put drained eggplant into greased casserole and pour over the egg mixture. Top with buttered crumbs and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 to 30 minutes. Variations: To the butter crumb topping add some grated cheese. (2) In season slice two medium sized tomatoes into the layers of eggplant and then cover with egg mixture as before.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

SATURDAY

I.O.D.E. Fish Chowder (see Wednesday); Hot Slaw; Bowl of Cottage Cheese; Sugary Apple Muffins; Canned Peaches; Coffee.

Answer: This a peach of an idea, it never occured to me to scrack a turkey bone. Thanks from me and all the other readers who will be so interested.

CRANBERRY MUFFINS

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup sugar, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, well-beaten, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted, 1 cup chopped or coarsely ground cranberries (raw). Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Combine milk, beaten egg and melted butter or margarine. Add liquid ingredients to dry and stir only until just blended. At the last moment fold cranberries in carefully and fill greased muffin tins ⅔ full. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for approximately 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 10 to 12 muffins.

Question: Am an ardent admirer of yours . . . Last summer I canned one dozen eggplant in my pressure cooker. It is in cubes but am at a loss to know how to prepare it for the table. Also could you tell me how to make Bortsch and Ukranian Christmas bread. Mrs. C. W.

Japan, Arctic Dolls Sold to Raise Funds

WINNIPEG (CP) — Dolls from Japan and the Arctic are being sold here to help raise money for the work of the Anglican Church of Canada.

Mrs. Harold Wallace of the Women's Auxiliary of All Saints Church's branch told how the Japanese dolls started being sent to Canada.

Japanese girls wanted to do something to help raise money to rebuild the mission in Nigata before it burned down two years ago. They fashioned the dolls in native costumes and send them to Winnipeg to be sold. The dolls have been made as fast as they are received.

In contrast to the silk kimonos of the Japanese dolls, dolls made by Eskimo women at Pangnirtung, N.W.T., have clothes made of sealskin and faces of ivory.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a composite of an actual case history. The Council considers only problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Kirk H. — My sister hurts our parents.

Louise H. — My parents are snobbish to my husband.

Kirk H. — My older sister was married a year ago to a fellow my parents didn't particularly like. They didn't make any objections, however, because my sister was 28 and they figured it was high time she got married.

Since she got married Louise has been like a stranger to all of us. She invited us over to her home exactly once and came to our home only once. My parents are very, very hurt. When I tried to find out what was wrong, Louise told me to mind my own business.

The only thing I can figure is that her husband just doesn't like us. I don't care for my sake, but Louise should have more consideration for our parents.

Louise H. — It is just like Kirk to stick his nose into things that don't concern him. My parents don't say anything because they know what's wrong. It's their attitude toward my husband.

It's true they didn't say anything out loud when I married Ed, but they showed in every way that they didn't think much of him. They kind of clammed up whenever he was around. T h e y never treated him like a son, and though they were glad to have him in the family.

Ed never showed that he noticed anything, but I know he is uncomfortable when he is with my parents. He knows they are very snobbish about school and he never got through h i g h school.

The Council: This painful situation will be alleviated when Louise herself fully accepts her husband and loves him as he is. She will then be mature enough to be indifferent to her parents' foolishly snobbish attitude — if, indeed, she is right in her interpretation of their position.

It is very possible that Louise now exaggerates her parents' attitude. Probably, they have long ago gotten over any disappointment they may have felt in her husband's husband and sincerely want only her happiness and a warm relationship with her. The fact that they never raised any objection to the marriage is a fair indication that they are willing to welcome Ed into the family — if not even a dearer.

Louise overlooks the possibility that her own attitude toward her husband may have been transmitted to her parents in the early stages of this relationship. If they had shown she was happy and sure of her love, it is likely that her parents would have been more enthusiastic in their reception of Ed.

Louise should get over her own foolish snobbery about her husband's lack of that high school diploma. This trivial issue stands in the way of her finding real happiness in her marriage, as well as a pleasant, loving relationship with her parents.

Nest Egg for BAKELITE Employees

Savings are necessary—for the down payment on your new house, a college education for Junior, or a nest egg for emergencies.

BAKELITE employees get a boost in their savings through a Savings Plan that adds as much as 30 per cent to money they set aside from their earnings. Here's how it works.

After they've worked a year, employees may deposit up to 7½ per cent of their earnings in the Plan. To this the Company adds 10 per cent. After their second year, the Company adds 20 per cent, and in the years following, 30 per cent. These savings, plus interest, are distributed every two years.

Employees with three or more years of service have an alternative plan to choose, if they prefer a long-range investment program.

Savings are necessary—and through this Plan BAKELITE employees have the means to save regularly and easily.

This savings habit helps the people of BAKELITE remain your good neighbors . . . in a good place to work.

Purification of Virgin Mary

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER.

Monday, Feb. 3 — Candlemas, celebrated today, normally falls on Feb. 2, but this year it was outranked by the Sunday called Septuagesima and displaced to the third.

The real name of this festival is the Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary. It commemorates the time when, 40 days after the birth of her Baby, Mary went to the Temple, according to the custom of Jewish women, to go through the traditional purifying ceremony and to make a formal presentation of her Son to God.

The secondary name, Candlemas, came about in an interesting way. As the Holy Family entered the Temple, they met there an aged man named Simeon, who had been promised that he would not die until he had seen the Messiah. The story is told in St. Luke's second chapter, beginning at the 25th verse.

Simeon took the Child in his arms and spoke the now-famous lines known as the Nunc Dimittis, in which Jesus is called "a light to lighten the Gentiles." Because of this reference to light, candles became an important feature of the Purification festival.

Eventually the custom arose of blessing the year's supply of candles on this day and of giving consecrated candles to people who came to Mass. Naturally, the day was soon called Candlemas.

To many Canadians and Americans Feb. 2 is merely Ground-hog Day, but this is only a secular lining of the weather prophecies originally attached to Candlemas. The European version was that a bright day today meant a continuation of winter. Some obscure poet put the matter pictorially. If the badger saw his shadow today, winter would go on.

When the "Pennsylvania Dutch" came to North America, they found no badgers in their part of the new country, so they adapted the tradition to the hibernating animal most common in their area, the woodchuck, or ground-hog.

MAN'S AWE OF FIRE

Light and fire have always fascinated mankind. Candles still have a charm for us all a charm far beyond their utilitarian use as illumination. We don't need them in church or on the dinner table — we could turn on the electric lights. But we keep them.

Is it because of some unconscious memory in us that goes all the way back to our ancestors' awe and awe of fire? Fire could kill, but it could also save — save cold, from wild animals, from witches, from the terrors of the dark. Why does man still want candles at the crucial points of human experience: birth, weddings, death?

Superstitions have, of course, gathered around candles. It was devoutly believed that the candles brought home from today's church service would keep away the prankish imps who invaded people's bagses,— broke dishes, turned things upside down, and generally created havoc.

Also, you had better watch your candles. If they burn blue, there is a spirit in the house.

In medieval times, today was your last chance to get the Christmas decorations out of your house, or out of your pew at the church. Of course, you should have had them all out by the Twelfth Night (Jan. 6), but if you missed that chance you had better take this one seriously.

In fact, you will get a visit from an imp for every leaf or berry left in your house tomorrow — and for a leaf or berry left in your pew at the church, well, let's not talk about that.

Candle comes from the Latin "CANDEO" — I burn.

Church candles should be made of beeswax, because according to legend bees had their origin in Paradise and are especially blessed by the Almighty.

NEW YEAR OF THE TREES

Wednesday, Feb. 5 — The story of this day in the Jewish calendar is the story of the Jews' undying love for the country they once lived in and of their centuries-old dream of tending the fields and orchards of Palestine once again.

This is a strange thought to us. Here in America, where the Jews have become for us all a charm far beyond their utilitarian use as illumination. We don't need them in church or on the dinner table — we could turn on the electric lights. But we keep them.

Today is the fifteenth of the month of Shebat — the midwinter day on which, since time before man's remembering, the Jews have planted trees. Long ago, when they were free men in their own country, their custom was to plant a cedar tree for a boy born during the past year, a cypress for a girl. Thus each Jewish family had, in its own land, and when thy married, a bridal canopy made from the branches of the bride's cypress and the groom's cedar.

After they were driven out of Palestine and could no longer plant trees there, Jews in all parts of the world observed this day by eating of the fruit that grows on Palestine trees. Most popular of these fruits was the carob, or pod, which is also generally called "St. John's Bread" because according to legend it ate "locust" on which to live the Baptist subsisted in the wilderness. See St. Mark, chapter 1, verse 6.

Nowadays, with the ingathering of Jews from every land, living in Israel observe this day much as Americans observe Arbor Day. Many of those living elsewhere send contributions of money to pay for the new trees.

Know Your Heart

Does Everyone Get Hardening of Arteries?

By Hugh Stansfield, M.D.

Honorary Secretary National Heart Foundation of Canada)

Article 4

(Department of Medicine University of British Columbia,

The answer to this question must probably be "Yes" — BUT, that "but" is very important and is probably responsible for many recent changes in medical thinking. Doctors have long known that all people, as they grow older, have a loss of elasticity or hardening of their arteries. The first signs of these changes have even been seen in the arteries of people in their late teens. Probably for this reason it was long felt that hardening of the arteries was simply a part of the process of growing older and as inevitable as death and taxes. This rather fatalistic view has tended to discourage investigation of hardening of the arteries, or attempts to prevent it.

Hardening of the arteries is known to lead to such complications as high blood pressure, coronary thrombosis, strokes and sometimes kidney failure. The fact that some of these serious illnesses occur in relatively young people and that other persons live to a ripe old age without suffering any of them was explained, or excused, by the statement that some people age more rapidly than others.

In recent years, medical research in various parts of the world has shown that hardening of the arteries is a term probably being used to cover two or more quite different conditions.

There is again the gradual loss of elasticity of the arteries as they grow older. There is another condition which the doctors call atherosclerosis which should be considered as a disease rather than as an inevitable part of growing old.

It is the disease atherosclerosis which is primarily responsible for the coronary thrombosis, the strokes and some of the high blood pressure. It is the disease atherosclerosis which is primarily responsible for making diseases of the heart and blood vessels account for 40% of the deaths between the ages of 35 and 54 and over 60% of the deaths in age groups above 55.

We do not know the cause of this disease. We do know that it is related to such things as diet and the way in which the body handles the fatty foods which are included in the diet. It is also known that in a society such as ours, where rich food is relatively plentiful and obesity is not uncommon, the disease is far more prevalent and causes far more illness and death than it does in more primitive societies where man must work much harder for the bare essentials of life.

It seems probable that the intensive research being carried on at the present time all over the world, including many centres in Canada, into the causes and possible prevention of atherosclerosis will soon produce positive results. This could well reduce the incalculable loss to the country at large, and to industry, caused by premature coronary thrombosis and strokes in relatively young people. If this can be achieved, the savings in money alone will be thousands of times the amount spent in research to bring it about. Your Heart Foundation is trying to give every support to the men who are carrying on this battle to protect all of us.

(This is the fourth in a series of articles being published on behalf of the Canadian Heart Fund. Contributions may be made at your local bank.)

Low Compression Causes Increase In Gas, Oil Costs

By EUGENE MILMOE

When cylinders lose compression, road pep and smoothness fall off and you're sure to notice an increase in the engine's gas and oil appetite.

An ordinary compression gauge test can quickly reveal any leaky cylinders, but further probing will be needed to determine whether cylinders, valves, piston rings or possibly a head gasket could be at fault.

Mechanics frequently employ this simple check. They pour about a teaspoonful of engine oil into the bad cylinders to seal the rings, then take a second gauge reading. If it shows no improvement, valve leakage is indicated. But should there be a substantial pressure increase, piston rings are responsible.

A defective head gasket is the suspect when compression proves abnormally low in just two adjacent cylinders.

J. L. writes: "My right headlight is dimmer than the left. If I switch the sealed beam lamps, the right side will still give a weaker light. How come?"

(A) Probably because of a poor contact. Check especially for a loose connection, dirty or corroded terminals.

F. T. asks: "Is pedal adjustment the only needed cure when there's too much free play or travel on the brake pedal?"

(A) Usually, but excessive pedal play can also be caused by a damaged piston spring in the brake master cylinder.

From R. P.: "I've just had to replace my battery. The garageman said I ruined the old one because I was using the wrong kind of water. Can you explain this?"

(A) If you use engine oil that's too heavy, excessive cranking is needed to start the engine in winter, especially after it has been sitting idle for several hours. This, of course, can drain the battery very quickly.

B.F. writes "I'm hoping that the knock my car has developed is due to nothing more serious than a loose engine mountings. It's usually heard when I try to accelerate quickly."

(A) You may be right. The thump or pound caused by loose engine mounts will occur at such times, e.g., during rapid acceleration You may find it necessary to replace some rubber mounting b'ocks if the rubber has deteriorated.

Little Benny's Notebook

Us fellows were talking and argweing, and Glasses Magee came up excited, saying, Hay, what's you know, I got 6 free passes for the Saturday Kid Show at the Little Grand. I got them from Snyder's bakery and they got them for putting up ones in the store window. Mrs. Snyder told me to pass them out to the other fellows, so I'll start with you 4, he said.

Which he did, and Shorty Judge said, Are you even going to give Reddy Merly one?

Aw, why should he? I said. What's the use of rewarding a cuff fresh guy like Reddy Merly? I said. and Pudi Simkins said, Yeah, that's right, Glasses. Why dont you tell Reddy you've got them and you've going to give one to everybody but him?

I'll do worse than that, Glasses said. I wont even mention anything about them when he's around. I'll just let him suffer in his own ignorants, he said.

Probably meaning he wouldn't take a chance on Reddy making him give him one by force, and just then who came up but Reddy Hay, you guys, I'm thinking of starting a club called the Reddy Merly Protection Club. If you're a member and anybody gets fresh with you, all you got to do is report them to me and I'll soon take care of them. Nobody can be a member unless I invite them, he said.

G, are you thinking of inviting me? I said, and the other fellows asked him if he was thinking of inviting them, and Reddy said, I haven't started thinking yet.

Hay Reddy, here's a pass for the Saturday Kid Show, Glasses said, and Reddy said, Thanks.

Not saying he would invite him but looking as if he might, and proving you're libel to be the most generous to people who are libel to do the most for you, no matter what your personel opinion is.

QUINTE CURLING CLUB "OPEN HOUSE" SUNDAY 2 to 5 P.M.

Realization Of A Dream

Eastern Ontario's newest and handsomest sports structure, the Quinte Curling Club, will be open for public inspection on Sunday, club president Bill Gault and his directorate, extend a cordial welcome to all to attend the "Open House" festivities which get under way at 2 p.m. through 5 p.m.

Two hundred and forty members of both sexes now belong to the club. Membership, however, will be closed at 250. This directors feel, will give the membership the chance to use the rinks. Following Sunday's "Open House" the club will be timed exclusively by members.

The new building which houses four rinks, and has expansion facilities for four more, is the last word in modern curling club construction. It is ideally located in the Fair Grounds, just west of the new grandstand with ample parking facilities, and easy accessibility.

The Quinte Curling Club is literally the realization of a dream created in the minds of a few and aid by the co-operation of many. For years, veteran curlers of the city had been forced to go to out-of-town clubs to pursue their favorite winter sport. Then the ideas of a Belleville club was born. It grew with discussion and an investigation committee was formed. The monument to the work of these men is seen in their handsome new building.

There was a note of pride in President Gault's voice when he said, "We believe the Quinte Curling Club is one of the best of its kind in this part of Ontario. We have over $70,000 invested in it at the moment, and before will see more funds. The entire structure and its equipment is the property of the club and its members."

FACT BUILDING

The new rink is a compact building of concrete block construction 180 feet in length and 90 feet wide, with exterior concrete note is seen in seven strong laminated trusses which carry the full weight of the roof. These give it a resilient quality which resists the force of heavy winds and weight of snow.

At the eastern end of the club house overlooking the playing surface is a lounge 60 by 30 feet. Four large plate glass windows form a major part of the partition enabling non - playing members and others to view the play in warm comfort. Entire plans call for modern furnishing, and panelled walls.

Five miles of pipe have been laid in the ice-surface. Modern ice-making machinery has been installed. A six-foot "duck-walk" borders the playing surface in its entirety.

Five rows of lights, 13 in each, illuminate the 150 by 60 - foot playing surface. These are located so that all shadows are eliminated.

On the ground floor some five feet below ground level, an up-to-date locker room 30 by 50 feet has been completed. It houses the curling equipment of the club members. A coffee bar has been installed.

Nor have the ladies been forgotten. The 100 plus members have their own locker room and powder room south of the men's quarters. Also on this floor are the janitor's quarters, and the central heating plant. The club is heated by an oil furnace and forced air. A central master switch controls the club's lighting system. In the southeast corner is the engine room which houses the ice-making plant.

FINE CO-OPERATION

"Members of the club are just proud of their new building and playing facilities as the directors," president Gault said, after the unofficial opening a short time ago." The directors had their problems but the all-out co-operation of all concerned has enabled our dream of a city curling club to come true."

"All this," he added, "could not have been made possible without the outstanding work of Gerry Jarrett, the club treasurer, Pat Houston, the building chairman, Steve Flintoff, chairman of ice, and Ernie Jones, the general contractor, who is also a fine curler, and many others. He did not mention his own share of hard work and planning in helping bring the "dream come true."

The greater majority of the members are city curlers. Prior to the opening of the new quarters the membership was 200. With the fine facilities now afforded by the new building it has mushroomed to 240. It will, as has been mentioned, be closed at 250.

Directors feel that Belleville with its brand new club can now take its place with other communities in the curling world. The city boasts some outstanding curlers, many of whom have already made their name in outside clubs. It is safe to predict that in the not too distant future outstanding bonspiels will be held here.

While it is not the first curling club here, it is the first organization of its kind in the city in three decades. The last club was located on George Street and met a more or less ignominious end when the city took it over for back taxes.

Schedule play started in the club last Monday with sixteen rinks playing on allotted nights. The rinks will be busy every night but schedule play for men will be held Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday night with some Saturday nights included.

The women's division under the presidency of Mrs. Cleo Colling, will hold forth on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons. Saturday nights will be devoted to mixed curling while Wednesday and Sunday afternoons and most Saturday afternoons will be "open dates."

The official opening of the club has been set for Saturday, February 15. Special ceremonies have been arranged while an invitational bonspiel will be featured. Rinks representing thirty-four Ontario curling clubs will take part in the play which starts on Friday evening, Feb. 14.

Members are looking forward to the visit of Garnet Campbell, member of the famous Campbell rink of Avonlea, Saskatchewan, well known in national curling circles as winners of many top trophies and national awards. Mr. Campbell is touring Ontario visiting curling clubs and giving oral and practical instruction to veteran and tyro alike. He is expected to start a three-day visit here Monday.

Curling Club Executive

The executive body and directors of the club are: President, Bill Gault; vice-president, Judge J. C. Anderson; treasurer, Gerry Jarrett; secretary, Don MacKinnon; chairman building committee, Pat Houston; chairman games committee, J. E. McArthur; chairman house committee, W. Hurst; chairman ice committee, Steve Flintoff. Other directors include John Deacon, Lloyd Sheppard, Cleo Colling, Jack Yanover, Don Stanton and Bob Farquharson. The club chaplain is Archdeacon J. B. Creegan.

Officers of the women's division of the club are: president, Mrs. Cleo Colling; vice-president, Mrs. J. E. McArthur; secretary, Mrs. William Gault; treasurer, Mrs. A. P. Jarrett; games convener, Mrs. J. C. Houston; special convener, Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon; ways and means, Mrs. Don Stanton and publicity, Mrs. J. E. McArthur.

CAMPBELL AND CURLING

While no word has been received by officials of the Quinte Curling Club to the contrary, Garnet Campbell, famous Canadian curler scheduled to spend a three-day instructional visit here starting Monday, may have had his plans cancelled.

It seems the Ontario Curling Association has pronounced him a professional because he accepted payment for instructional services. It is not known if the Canadian Curling Association has taken similar steps.

This is just another of the farces that crop up occasionally with regard to "amateur" status in Canada. Some parental athletic bodies cough gently behind open hands, and glance the other way when an alleged infraction by another body is "perpetrated," but when it happens at home, they raise their hands and eyebrows in horror, and call down the wrath of the gods.

We'll go along with Chick (Stratford Beacon Herald) Appel in his statement, "When one sees the amateur code in other Canadian sports openly violated it merely serves to point out just how ridiculous simon-pure regulations can be. Here is a young man who wants to improve his game of curling and is so sincere in that aim he has taken time out to help the sport by giving other curlers the benefit of his experience."

Garnet and his three brothers of Avenles, Sask., form one of the best rinks in this country. They have won many honors, including the Canadian championship and yet by some mental quirk on the part of the Ontario governing body, this famous foursome may be broken up, because Garnet is anxious to improve and thereby the game. That he is a qualified instructor goes without saying.

Curling came natural to the Campbell family with Garnet taking to it like a thirsty kitten to a bowl of milk. He is the youngest of a family of five boys and two girls, but at the age of 31 he is the skip of one of Canada's most famous rinks. He slid his first stone on natural ice when 14 years of age, and thence climbed steadily to the top.

His first big victory was at the Nipiwa bonspiel in 1946 when the Campbell rink won home four new automobiles. With pops Sandy curling, the rink won the Saskatchewan championship in 1947 and tied for second place in the Canadian championships at St. John but were nosed out in the playoff.

They repeated for the Sask. title in 1949 and a year later the Campbell garages housed four more new cars when it won the Rosetown, Sask., bonspiel. Two years later the rink won the grand aggregate score for the third time at Regina. Five years later they won their third set of four automobiles at Edmonton. In three tries for the Canadian championship known to curlers as the Brier, they took the honhie in 1956, in 1956 they took the grand aggregate at the Quebec international bonspiel.

The Richards of the curling game owe a lot to Father Sandy for it was he who got them interested and kept them at it like a doting mother does a piano-hating son. Two of the Campbell sisters can show a lot of the species home aspiens how to slide a rock. Other brothers on the famous Canadian foursome are Lloyd, Glen and Don.

Garnet, it it stated, wants to remain in competition and says if he cannot give instruction on an amateur basis he would consider it for bonspiels he will call the instructional job. This could mean a serious loss to curling, especially in these parts where the game is increasing in popularity by leaps and bounds, and many tyros with broom and stone would benefit immensely through his instruction.

He has no desire to become a "pro" and says he has not broken any amateur rules. He states the Campbell rink had its way paid to the Quebec bonspiel last year, but "not nothing about the foursome becoming "professionalized."

Campbell wants to stay east and play in the Brier as a member of a Toronto rink. His tips to ambitious curlers include a good backswing and forward swing. "Get them in practice," he says, "and keep the right shoulder up and the arm stiff." He recommends plenty of competition, especially for skips.

Campbell points out that some curlers climb too fast. There is a good deal of strategy in building an end and skipping. A good skip needs a rink that can play knockout and draw with equal facility. Running shots are necessary but these depend on the ice and curlers must adjust themselves to ice conditions, which are pretty much the same everywhere.

"Everyone can get a great deal out of curling by remembering simple fundamentals of getting balance in the back keeping straight and delivering on the broom," he says.

"I would like to stay in the east and help, but if the powers-that-be do not think the way I do, then I'll go back home and concentrate on competition. That I do not want to lose."

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Sixteen grass runners are entered Friday in Hialeah Park's $25,000-added Bougainvillea Turf Handicap. It will be run at 1 3-16 miles. Hasty House Farm's Manhan and Stephanotis probably will rule as heavy favorites despite high weights of 126 and 125 pounds respectively. The race will be carried by NBC television.

Sets Hooks for Title Scrap With Top Catch 'Ole Archie' After Taking Bruising Bout

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—Yvon Durelle, fresh from a new victory, today surveyed a path that he hopes will lead him to the light heavyweight boxing championship of the world.

Durelle, 27, a New Brunswick fisherman whose fists are as tough as boat hooks, Friday night battered his way to a seventh-round technical knockout over Clarence Hinnant, 24, of Washington in Madison Square Garden.

It was a bruising battle, fought on Durelle's terms, and avenged a victory that Hinnant scored over the Acadian a year ago, also on a technical knockout, when Durelle suffered a cut eye.

Durelle, the light heavyweight champion of the British Empire, said in his dressing room following the bout that he is eager for a world title fight against Archie Moore, the world champion.

WASN'T HURT

Unmarked and bursting with energy after the fight, he spoke of possible future bouts in Canada, mentioning especially Montreal, and Toronto in connection with British Columbia's centennia.rprogram.

Durelle is ranked third among the light - heavy contenders, behind Philadelphia's Harold Johnson and Yolande Pompey, who has been stripped of his Ste. Anne, N.B., in Britain. Hinnant is ranked eighth.

The fight, strictly a movies-down type of fighter, not a boxer, saw Hinnant waste little fire in his eye from the beginning Friday night, and was ahead on his showing even before the TKO.

Asked whether he had a message for Canada, he said:

"I know how proud the Americans are to have a light heavyweight champion. I wish I could make Canada just as proud of me, because I'd like to do that to repay all those people who have been so good to me. Messages and good wishes helped me to win."

PLANNED TO END IT

Referee Harry Kessler stopped the fight at 1:46 of the seventh round when Durelle, who had hammering Hinnant near his own corner. Durelle said later that in Canada the fight would have gone on, but Hinnant "wouldn't have looked so good anyway."

Despite the fury of the Acadian's attack, he couldn't floor the tall Negro who himself showed a willingness to mix it with the fishers, possibly his greatest mistake. He is regarded as a polished boxer.

In the fatal seventh, Durelle staggered Hinnant early with a left hook to the jaw and then fired a series of muderous right hands to the head and body. He was standing with his hand cocked for another when the referee stepped in, shaking his head at Durelle.

TOOK LOW BLOWS

The end started in the sixth when Durelle unleashed eight wallops that drove Hinnant to the ropes and made him hold.

Durelle, who grimaced several times after inflicting, said later he had been hit low at least six times but only because Hinnant was going for his body, not by intent.

Durelle started the fight on the attack, with bull rushes that drove Hinnant around the ring, as the American looked good on the counter-attack in the second.

The Canadian, again the aggressor in the third, staggered Hinnant repeatedly but appeared to tire and wasn't able to finish off the job. In the fourth and fifth Hinnant again looked good, but made his mistake by slugging it out with Durelle.

Durelle continued the wearing-down job in the sixth, at times. Then Hinnant almost off his feet with powerhouse blows.

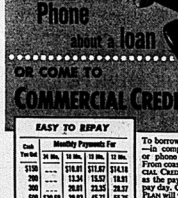
Royal Bailey Named Coach Grid Dutchies

KITCHENER (CP)—Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen Football Officials Friday announced import halfback Royal Bailey will succeed Herm Harrison as coach of the Ontario Rugby Football Union club.



Two years with the club, Bailey came to Canadian football when he joined Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Big Four in 1953. He previously played college football in Little Rock, Ark., and Tulane University of New Orleans.

After one season with the Tiger-cats, Bailey spent two years in the United States Air Force and joined Kitchener when he was discharged in 1956.

Bailey will perform in a dual role as player and coach. He will get coaching assistance from Tom Mooney on the line and Bob Celeri in the backfield.

Johnston has joined Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four as chief scout.

Baby Canadiens Shatter Teepees With 11-4 Score

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Teepees are probably and Ottawa-built Canadiens don't play a full schedule in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The league - leading Teepees have been having things virtually all their own way this season and have an eight-point edge over their closest rivals, Hamilton Cubs.

And, until Friday night, they had lost only nine games. Then they ran up against the Canadiens—and crashed 11-4.

But Teepees weren't the only ones with troubles.

Barrie Flyers also lost by an 11-4 score, to Toronto St. Michael's. And third - place Toronto Marlboros were whipped 6-3 by the ever-swelling Guelph Biltmores.

The high scoring games brought only one change in the league standings. St. Mike's went into a tie for third with the Marlboros. Both squads are four points behind second - ranking Hamilton.

BRAWL IN OTTAWA

A wild fist-swinging brawl, which ended with 150 minutes of penalties being handed out—erupted twice in the Canadiens-Teepees duel at Ottawa. Referee Gordie Pranschke handed out six majors and 10 misconducts.

Bob Boucher paced the Canadiens, scoring four times. Bill Carter and Ralph Backstrom scored two each, singles going to Grant Gille, Tremblay and Clyde Richard. Jack McKenzie scored twice for the Teepees, Matt Ravlich and Ed Hoekstra scoring the others.

Dave Keon banged in four goals for St. Mike's against Barrie who trailed 3-1 at the end of the first period and 9-1 going into the third.

Jack Costello and Bob McKnight each got two each, Darrell Sly, Jack Martinell, Ron Ingram and Gino Ubriaco added the others. Barrie scorers were Cousins with two, Tommy Buick and Bob Blackburn.

Lewe Bedford and defenceman Joe Ethier scored two each for Guelph against the Marlboros. Eagles going to Ron Brain and Don Grasso. Marlies scorers were Bob Nevin, Bill Kennedy and Sonny Osborne.

Kingston Will Establish Own Hall of Fame

KINGSTON — (CP) — James B. Garvin, president of the Kingston Hockey Hall of Fame, said Friday his executive disregards attempts by other bodies to establish a hockey hall of fame at this time. At one time its work towards erecting a shrine here.

The remark was made in comment on a Montreal announcement giving the names of nine men elected to select hockey's greats for a shrine at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds in Toronto.

Bisons Shaded By Americans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester Americans found themselves more firmly entrenched in fourth place in the American Hockey League today as the result of a 4-3 victory over Buffalo Bisons.

The victory Friday night gave the Americans a three-point edge on Buffalo and Springfield in their battle for the fourth and last playoff spot. It also moved Rochester within five points of third-place Providence.

McFarlands Pull Away From League Pack With 5-0 Win Over Kings

Extend Lead to Seven Points As Bell Marks 3rd Shutout; Play in Kingston Tonight

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The McFarlands added another notch to their league-leading six-shooters last night, again brushing aside the Pembroke Lumber Kings threat to the top spot with a convincing 5-0 victory over the northern squad.

The Hildebranders stretched their perch margin to seven points over the runner-up royalty from Wally Lemer's ballwick, and are now just nine points in arrears of the record set by the Whitby Dunlops. They have 48 points as against the Dunnies' 57, with eleven games to play. Five wins will give them unchallenged possession of the league.

And Gordie Bell took over the top shutout spot in the league records. The Macs' custodian racked up his second blank of the week, giving him three for the season to date, one up on Lynn Davis of Kingston. They meet the CKLC's in Kingston tonight.

A sudden two-goal attack in thirty-seven seconds in the first period set the Lumber Kings back on their haunches and the Macs on their way to a decisive triumph. They added another in the second period, and two more in the final frame tucked the victory away.

While Bell was a close-mesh-ed defence were taking care of the Pembroke snafus, the Brad-ley, Brown, Marineau line took charge of the offensive efforts. They scored three of the five goals, and three assists gave them six of the loop's ten points. Bradley, Marineau and Brown each hit paydirt with Mac Bell on hand for the walkmk tossing in the others for good measure. Gerry Gies-bel and Ray Gaudoin each had as-sists.

Referee Gord Feversean of Toronto had a comparatively easy time in a battle that was void of rough play. The check-ing was close and hard at times but both players played the puck and only three minor sentences were handed out, two to the McFarlands.

When the Kings did get into the Mac zone they took care of their drives, stopping 25 shots as against 22 fired at Craig at the other end.

The Kings started with a smashing attack that took the play to Bell's bondoir and Gor-die was given a busy couple of minutes before the Macs could get organized.

That they struck quickly, firing home two goals in thirty-seven seconds to give them the only scores of the period.

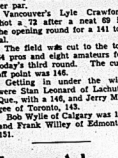
Eddie Marineau started the first one interception at centre, broke pass-out from behind the goal and booming the puck past Thurston Craig.

The noise had scarcely sub-sided when Bart Bradley, surg-ing in with Marineau and Wie-ner Brown, blasted the puck off Craig's pads then swooped in to score on his own rebound.

The Macs had a decided edge in the play, outshooting the Lumber Kings 12-11 in the pe-riod. The Macs were clearly pay-ed with Referee Gord Feversea having a quiet time handing out sentences.

The Pembroke defence tight-ened in the second period and Bradley broke into the clear on a nice pass from defenceman Jack Giesebrecht tripped the Mc-Farland centre from behind and was cleared. The situation re-versed itself two minutes later when Bradley was heaved for interference, and Nobby Clarke crashed through the Belleville defence, raced in on Bell, only to have the Mac goalie come up with a sparkling save.

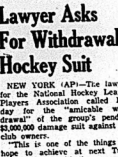
Wiener Brown brought the crowd to its feet with a specta-cular rush through the entire Pembroke defence, but a mis-cut stride as he tried to get his shot away.



Mac Bell came up with the only goal of the period at 17:53 when his Mac teammates had the Pembroke players and slithered into the net behind Thurston Craig. The Macs outshot the Kings 10-9 on the period play.

The McFarlands roared to the attack starting the third period with Minnie Menard breaking through the Pembroke defence to give Keith MacDonald a perfect goalmouth pass but Craig came up with a brilliant save to kill the score. On the next drive Wie-ner Brown made a pass inside the point and his smoking slapshot blasted past Craig high in a cor-ner to give the Macs a 4-0 lead.

The Kings retaliated, driving hard on the Macs defence with Bell coming up with some out-standing saves.



The teams battled closely un-til the twelve - minute mark when Russ Barwell took Ger-Goyer's pass just outside the Mac zone and backhanded the puck past Craig for the final tally of the game. Bep Guidolin was also in on the scoring play.

Menard broke into the clear but Craig came out of his net to smash the puck out of the dan-ger zone and the players collided, each crashing to the ice. Craig's six minutes to go Ike Hildebrand drew the 'tiger' penalty of the game and the Kings hit desper-ately in an effort to break the ice-egg. They came close more than once but the Mac defence held and Bell skated off with his third "horse-collar" of the season. Some 1037 fans saw the game. Bell and Barton Bradley were named the players of the week with the goalie eligible for the handsome Carlings Silver Tan-kard award.

Campy Regains Feeling in Leg

Hebert Leads Phoenix Open; Balding Close

PHOENIX, Ariz. (CP) — Jay Hebert from Lafayette, La., carried a one-stroke lead into today's third round of the $15,-000 Phoenix open golf tourna-ment.

Just one stroke back was Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., who slipped in with a 69-68—137.

Grouped at 138 were Al Bald-ing of Toronto, Julius Boros, Ken Venturi, Paul Harney and Shelley Mayfield. Balding had a par 71 Thursday and a 67 Friday. Boros, Hebert were the only ones to shoot four un-der par.

Vancouver's Lyle Crawford shot a 72 after a neat 69 in the opening round for a 141 to-tal.

The field was cut to the top 64 ties and eight amateurs for today's third round. The cut-off point was 146.

Lawyer Asks For Withdrawal Of Hockey Suit

NEW YORK (AP)—The lawyer for the National Hockey League Players Association called Friday day for the "amicable with-drawal" of a $2,000,000 damage suit against the club owners.

"That's one of the things we hope to achieve at next Tues-day's meeting with Clarence Camp-bell and Red Dutton," said J. Nor-man Lewis. Lewis met with sev-eral of the association's officials including president Ted Lindsay of Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal's Doug Harvey.

Lewis also represents the ma-jority of league baseball players.

"The hockey players associa-tion expects a peaceful solution such as has been achieved in baseball," said Lewis. "Our ob-jective is to establish a pen-sion and fair collective bargaining."

ASK $2,000 MINIMUM

Lewis said the group will take a strong stand on the following points:

Improvement in the players pension plan.

Recognition of the players' as-sociation as the players' bar-gaining agent for collective dealings between the owners and players.

Creation of recognized player representatives from each club to assist in discussing players' problems and player-owner rela-tionships.

A $7,000 minimum wage.

Payment to players of $50 for each game televised.

A provision releasing a player from his contract obligations to the club he is sent to the minor leagues after he has been in the NHL for five seasons.

WANT TV MONEY

Lewis said the players would ask that a portion of monies the clubs receive for the Satur-day night hockey broadcasts be added to the pension fund and that player contributions be re-duced.

Under the present plan, each player contributes $900 a year to the fund, which is embellished with revenue from the televised tickets for the Stanley Cup and all-star games.

The player representative sys-tems, Lewis added, would call for three meetings a year between the representatives and the own-ers.

Just a Couple Of Duck Buddies

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP) — Three Moose Jaw hunters may have pulled off a sports oddity when they shot five mallard ducks near here Thursday.

Two of the birds, three-pound drakes, carried United States fish and wildlife department tags with consecutive numbers. They were shot within half an hour of each other.

Delaney Seeks Indoor Record

BOSTON (AP) — George King and Phil Coleman feel they are ready to snap major Ron Delaney's unbeaten streak tonight at the Boston Athletic Association meet in a four-minute indoor mile could result.

Delaney, a native of Ireland who has won all 17 of his indoor mile efforts by running just fast enough to come home first, admits he has had a change of heart.

"I am certainly shooting for the indoor record because I have only a few more races to run in this country and would like to leave the fans something to remember," Delaney said.

Coleman, student teacher from University of Chicago, has the early speed and King, Boston Eng. club high school instructor, the kick-finish to push Delaney faster than Gunnar Nelisen's indoor rec-ord of 4:02.6.

Marmora Downs Campbellford By 4-2 Score

MARMORA (Special) — Mar-mora Mintaurs defeated Camp-bellford 4-2 in an OHA Intermediate "C" fixture.

The Millstreamers jumped into a 2-0 lead in the opening 20 minutes and upped the margin to 4-1 in the middle session. Campbellford fired the only goal of the third but could not overcome the early Mar-mora lead.

Nelson, goalie for Campbell-ford, suffered a broken nose in the first period when hit by a shot from the stick of Bob Maynes. The game was held up for some time before Referee Ed placed Nelson in the nets to complete the game.

Trumble and Leonard fired the only goals of the first period at 14.08 and 18.20 while Gosse had the sweet-ly second mark of the game at 15.59. Coulter and Brooks earning single assists.

Doober and Field were the Campbellford marksmen with assists for J. Ruttan, Scott and Pace.

Referees Bill Hurst and Vern Goyer assessed 12 penalties in all including a game misconduct to Campbellford's Wilson. The los-ers collected seven of the twelve penalties.

Says Dutchmen 5 Goals Better Than Dunlops

KITCHENER (CP) — Calvin Marvin, coach of the United States National Hockey team, Friday praised Kitchener-Wat-erloo Dutchmen, the NOHA-OHA Senior team which blanked the U. S. squad 9-0 Thursday night.

"We had not been shut out before in 18 games and the way they outshot us just about sums up the story," he said, com-menting on the performance by the Dutchmen.

"On the basis of the two games we played against Whit-by and this match in Kitchener, I'd say without hesitation that the Dutchmen hockey club is five goals better any night than the team to represent Canada in the world hockey tourna-ment."

Whitby to play for Canada In the tournament at Oslo, defeat-ed the Netherlands in one game and is beat to Boston. Sun-day the Leafs are in Detroit, Monday it is Chicago and New York is Boston.

HARD TO PREDICT

Right now the Rangers seem fond of fiddling in the playoffs and the Hawks surest of finish-ing out.

This prediction is only on the basis of performances earlier this season. That's about all there is to go on. Most of the esoteric methods forecasters use only use in such situations augur only that the finish will be close.

For example, home games are generally regarded as fairly im-portant in the playoff race. But right now each team except Chicago has 11 home games left. The Hawks have 12, hardly an important differ-ence.

A team's remaining games against the Canadiens might be decided factor. But once again there is little to favor any team. New York, Detroit and To-ronto have two games left each with the Habs; Chicago and Bos-ton five each.

OUTMODED OUT

Canadiens' coach Toe Blake oc-casionally tries to himself by moan-ing over Montreal's string of in-juries this season. Friday he had fresh troubles.

Centre Bert Olmstead was the latest invalid, suffering badly bruised ligaments in his right knee and may be out for another two weeks.

Only Dickie Moore, Jean Guy Talbot, Tom Johnson and Claude Provost have played all Canadi-ens' games this season.

SNAPS OWN MARK

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) —Australian Olympic swimmer Murray Rose broke her world record for the 110-yard freestyle Friday night. Her time of 62.4 seconds clipped six-tenths of a second off her previous record set in 1956.

National League Small Fry Tussling Merrily for Berths

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

While Montreal Canadiens roll majestically toward the Interna-tional Hockey League championship, the league's smaller fry are in a merry tussle for the three remaining playoff positions. Canadiens hold a 13-point edge over second - place New York Rangers. But between second place and the last-place Chicago Black Hawks the gap is only seven points.

As the teams begin six games of weekend action Rangers hold second by two points over Detroit Red Wings and Boston Bruins, tied for third with 45 points. All their heels are Toronto Maple Leafs, with 42, and behind them the Hawks, with 40.

All the teams except the Black Hawks and Bruins have played 48 games. Those two have a game in hand.

This afternoon in New York the Rangers clash with Chicago while tonight, Detroit is in Toronto and Montreal is in Boston. Sun-day the Leafs are in Detroit, Montreal is at Chicago and New York is in Boston.

Marlene, Friend Win Way Into Semi-Finals

HOLLYWOOD ,Fla. (CP)—A fine pitch shot Friday sent To-ronto's Marlene Stewart Streit and Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa, into the semi-finals of the women's in-ternational four-ball golf tour-nament.

Mrs. Streit and Miss Johnstone defeated Betty Kerby of Akron, Ohio, and Joann Goodwin of Haverhill, Mass., 3 and 1.

Marlene closed out the match on the 17th green with a pitch that put her ball within three feet of the cup for a birdie 4.

The defending champions of Mary Agnes Snead of Baltimore and Marge Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., and Margie Masters of Greensboro, N.C., and Dale Fle-ming of Tulsa, Okla., in the other semi-final.

Red Wings Call Cub Forwards

HAMILTON (CP) — Murray Oliver and Ron Smith, for-wards with Hamilton Cubs of the Eastern Hockey Association Junior A series have been calle-ed up for a one-game trial with the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, it was announced here.

Officials said the pair will be in the Detroit lineup when Montreal Canadiens visit Toronto tonight but will return here for Monday night's game with Peterborough Petes.

Oliver, 19, is a Hamilton boy who has burst into the junior ranks this season. He is third in the league's individual scoring race.

TICATS GRAB TACKLE

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Foot-ball Union announced Friday signing of 21-year - old Francis Waldzik, a 215-pound tackle from Hamilton Central. Waldzik, picked to play in the east-west college all-star game, was a draft choice of Los Angeles Rams—of the National Football League, but had already been signed by Hamilton.

Minor Hockey

Four evenly - fought peewee games were played at Memorial Arena this morning with one - goal margins deciding three of the games and only two goals separating the other clubs.

The Bruins handed the Rangers a 3-0 shutout while Canadiens also racked up a whitewash job, 1-0 over the Black Hawks. Barons shaded the Red Wings 3-2 while Browns sneaked by the Maple Leafs 3-2.

Mickey Denard led the Bruins to victory, scoring one goal and assisting on the other, scored by Jimmie McGuire. Dennis Tracey also had one assist.

Bob Skinner on an assist from Jim Mairs was the lone scoring play in the Canadiens' 1-0 win.

The Browns' Allan Waddell turned in the top individual performance of the morning, scoring all three goals in his club's 3-2 victory. Jim Hurst drew one assist.

Walter Clare scored two goals and Fred Armstrong netted the winner in the Baron triumph. Larry Brant, Terry Casselman and Ronnie Marsh had helpers. Dwight Hathwell had a goal and an assist for the Wings. Jim White also scored and Freddie Donaldson had one assist.

SHOEMAKER WINS 3,000

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Jockey Willis Shoemaker hit the winner's circle for the 3,000th time Friday.

Trappers Whip Chatham 5-3; Wolves Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

North Bay Trappers, who crashed from first to last place in the OHA-NOHA Senior A series early in the season, took another step Friday night on the comeback trail.

A 5-3 victory over Chatham Maroons lifted the Trappers to within two points of fourth place the last playoff spot.

Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, who also slipped after heading the standings for about three months, took a 4-3 decision over Sudbury Wolves in the series' only other game.

Trappers' win dumps the Wolves into the cellar, while the Greyhounds now are 10 points behind the league - leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

KINGS BLANKED

In the Ontario Hockey Association Eastern Senior A series Belleville McFarlands scored their second successive shutout and rode Eternal Pere to a close victory in the eighth and final race of the card.

Ches Kooczny and Babando, with two each, and Cleland Mortson scored for the Trappers. Jim Cornelly, Lloyd Ferguson and Ted Power scored for Chatham.

OUTSTANDING LINE

Soo's McLean-Walker - Offidani line scored each, against Sudbury. Jimmy McBurney netted the winner with less than four minutes of regular time remaining. George Senick, Bobby Forhan and Joe Malo were the Wolves' scorers.

Belleville, outshooting Pembroke 25-23, took a 2-0 lead in the first period and pushed it to 3-0 in the third. Eddie Marineau, Barton Bradley, Moe Benoit, Wilner Brown and Russ Kowalchuk were the scorers.

Will Build Stadium If Team Secured

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert Wagner has committed the City of New York to a new sports stadium in 1960 to house a National League baseball team.

But the stadium will not be built, the mayor said Friday, without a commitment from organized baseball that a team will locate here.

Hamilton Wins Commonwealth Shooting Crown

OTTAWA (CP) — An army cadet rifle team from Hamilton has won the Commonwealth championship for marksmanship with service rifles, the army announced Friday. The team, from Westdale Secondary School captured the Earl Roberts' cadet trophy in competition against 47 teams from almost every country in the Commonwealth. It was the seventh time in nine years a Canadian team has won it.

Ken Laufman Still on Top

SUDBURY (CP)—Veteran Ken Laufman of league - leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen retained a comfortable lead in the OHA - NOHA Senior A scoring race last week, but below him the competition stiffened.

Laufman has put together 30 goals and a league-leading 44 assists for 84 points.

Five points behind are hard-shooting John Bailey of Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds who held down spot last week, and Ted Power of Chatham Maroons, always a strong finisher. Each has 25 goals and 34 assists.

In the goaltending race Kitchener's Boat Hurley has a big lead. Hurley has allowed 139 goals in 47 games for a 2.96 goals - against average, while John Abbeal of Sudbury Wolves has a 3.44 average and Don Head of Chatham a 3.52 mark.

The leaders:

Wells Fargo, Western, Has Had Success in Ratings

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What makes one western television series succeed while others flounder?

That's a question I explored with Dale Robertson, who should know. After all, he is the star of Wells Fargo, which has had fabulous success in the audience ratings.

"Maybe it's because people get to know that ours is a real western," he answered. "We don't go in for all that psychological business that some of the others do. "Our bad guys are mean because they like to be mean, not because they saw their mothers beat their dogs when they were kids. And our good guys are good guys because—I don't know maybe because they aren't smart enough to be bad guys."

ANOTHER FACTOR

He was realistic and outspoken enough not to overlook another factor: Dale Robertson.

"You can sometimes feel the people in little things," he said. "But when you put a guy on a saddle and he goes bouncing through the scene, you aren't going to fool many people.

"Did you know there are 6,000,000 people in this country who own horses? It didn't. And there are millions of others who wish they could. They can mean a lot to a show like mine."

Dale was born in Oklahoma City and he grew his life around horses, unlike some TV cowpokes who have been no closer to the nags than the Saturday matinee. He owns 27 horses of his own.

"I'd like to go on doing this show for 20 years," Robertson remarked. "I'll admit that part of my enthusiasm is because I own a portion of the series. Those other producers would be smart to cut their stars in on the profits, too, instead of making them work for peanuts."

'BABY FACE NELSON' STICKS TO TRUTH

"Baby Face Nelson", the new United Artists' movie opening Tuesday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre and starring Mickey Rooney and Carolyn Jones, recreates many actual gangster incidents and doesn't gloss over the names who made headlines.

"Baby Face" was a dangerous, punk, machine-gun killer who lived a bloody, running life as Public Enemy Number One for 128 days until he was wounded by the FBI and killed by his girl-friend. Mickey Rooney, of a similar size as Nelson, stars in the title role and lovely Carolyn Jones, the slim, star of "The Bachelor Party," plays his "wife".

TV NOTEBOOK

By JOHN WEYTILAUFER

TV viewers have been subjected to the naughty antics of quiz shows wherein contestants win depicting bundles of loot by exhibiting overstuffed brains.

It might be a stimulating change of pace if TV people were to give the less erudite folk a chance. There are undoubtedly quite a few individuals around who can boast a vast lack of knowledge on a great variety of subjects.

A program that pays off on ignorance would make nice relaxed viewing for the portion of the population which has been subjected to keep their minds uncramped and uncluttered for years.

However, let's hope no one is ignorant of the fact that CIRCLE SERVICE stands for top-quality TV service and repair at sensible rates. We do not tinker — we're not handymen—repair work is not a sideline with us. We have the equipment and the training to do the job right. Try CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 308 Coleman St., for complete satisfaction. Phone WO 8-6891; in Trenton, phone Zenith 6-3800.

Ontario Tankard Trophy Won By Unionville

TORONTO (CP) — Unionville won the Ontario Tankard Trophy, major prize offered by the Ontario Curling Association, for the first time, by beating Guelph 13-8 Friday in a double-rink event.

In the battle for the Governor General's Cup, Ottawa defeated Orillia 21-12 to win the trophy for the first time.

Sarnia won the tankard last year and Unionville took the Governor-General's trophy.

Hamilton Thistles won the Tankard consolation, the Burden Trophy, for the second year running, defeating Kingston 20-16. Harry Rice of Hamilton skipped his crew to a 12-10 victory over B. C. Telro and Ross Tarlton beat Kingston Jack Sands 8-6.

In the Gibbe and Mail Trophy, the Governor-General's consolation, Owen Sound won a see-saw battle over Peterborough, 20-16.

R. Lye of Peterborough defeated W. A. Milwon of Owen Sound 13-6, but Ted Guardhouse, Owen Sound, swept over D. Gerolamy 14-3.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, February 1

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — A great importance this day is to get all mundane affairs in practical shape for the peace of mind of family attachments. A.M. hours should be spent on matters of policy out of doors. P.M. rest mind and body.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Many fine lucky hunches are yours today relative to making profitable any conjunctive talks with partners. Contact each other with them seriously. P.M. entertaining. You have fun with comrades.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You know that today you must make those changes and see that all investments, exchanges are made with an eye to real shrewdness plus pleasurable conditions. Drive your thoughts home. Succeed.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Having worked very hard for weeks, this is the day to reach the deal, sign that contract, make the sale, etc. Though compromise is necessary it is still very worthwhile. Remember that co-operation conquers desperation.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — It is possible to forget that private anxiety only if you quickly move into important work that must be done, and do it well. But first study your paper for wonderful ideas that will be timesavers, tollsavers.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — You are fortunate today in having a pal who will show you shortcuts, clever methods of performing more quickly in your own field of endeavor, artistic potentialities, P.M. use wise psychology with loved one, too.

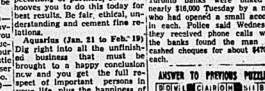
Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 23) — Are you running your business or home in such a way that you have something ample put away for the proverbial rainy day? Start now otherwise, and develop this wise habit, whether employer or employee. Be thrifty.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Find the solution today to your problem of gaining greater and faster success via the most valuable book on earth, next to the Bible — your newspaper! Make it a banner day by studying all printed matter thoroughly, accounting, etc.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — By careful perusal of all investment holdings, government papers, tax forms, contracts, etc., that pertain to you personally, you will get fine ideas for greater income, independence. Understand your male better, too.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Time is near to gaining your scope, you have closed your eyes to the needs and expectations of partners, so it behooves you to do this today for best results. Be fair, ethical, understanding and cement fine relations.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Dig right into all the unfinished business that must be brought to a happy conclusion now and you get the full respect of important persons in your life, plus the happiness of accomplishment. Work with vim.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Let most of this day be spent at the treatments or pleasant labors that help you tone up your physical and spiritual system admirably. Show kindness to others, take own consciousness and dig in the good, green earth.

If your child is born today The interesting child born today is the kind who will quickly adapt himself or herself to modern-day living, though inclined to be highly sensitive and having too great a love for the most expensive things in life. Teach moderation quickly, thoughtfulness for others, and the horoscope is then fine for the doctor, male or female, the lawyer especially. Let there be plenty of formal education.

BILKS BANKS

TORONTO (CP) — About 20 Toronto banks were bilked of nearly $16,000 Tuesday by a man who had opened a small account in each. Police said Wednesday they received phone calls when the banks found the man had cashed cheques for about $470 in each.

BUILD REACTOR

DERBY, England (Reuters) — Rolls Royce announced Thursday night that its research team has designed and built the first nuclear reactor to be put into operation by a British private company. A spokesman said the reactor has been installed at the atomic energy research establishment at Harwell, and that lessons learned in its operation will be applied in the building of a dedicated reactor to be installed ultimately in the British nuclear submarine Dreadnought.

Astrological Forecast

By CAROLL RICHTER

Sunday, February 2

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Situations at abode have you filled up you could make life miserable for all those about you. Take pains to refer to be particularly thoughtful, kind. The manner such as you would if at some special function with important people.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Be most careful in motion or on the highway today, for there is a real possibility of mishap that could curtail your activities for a long time to come. Also, impress persons with your fine manners and politeness.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Although today you snap at the bit, feeling that your usual modus operandi is inadequate for you, remember how practical it has proven to be. And before plunging into something different, find the right way to make improvement.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Annoyed at having to meet regular, high obligations to one not showing much appreciation, you are of a mind to sever relations. Tread economy instead and keep what is basically good Also, branch out in other directions.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A secret worry has you in such a turmoil you scarcely can concentrate on vital matters which need immediate attention. Close the door on worrisome thoughts. You can do ill Carry on courageously and get week's work well planned, too.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — It is possible to have a lovely time this evening if you can your will power with a good, but spendthrift friend who would like to overdo on your means. Be subtle, but follow your own fine inclinations and all is well.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — A mundane matter has you so perplexed you are quite unable to know what is the better course for you and yours. Look at it objectively, then concentrate on chores. Enjoy being of service, instead of resenting it.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A heavy weight has been on your shoulders for some time, so make a clean breast of things then turn to lefty matters for greater peace of mind. And if possible, listen to the wise words of a doctor of philosophy.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — A most misleading intuition could take you over a thorny path today, it is best to confer with authorities of real merit and experience for wise advice. Then travel safely and fast to the right goal.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Chaotic yet exciting conditions in the world of activities that have you quite fascinated today; but see that you steer clear of them personally. Follow the laws of God in all that you do, and this is a fine day.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are in a mood to change many conditions, give a lecture to a fellow worker, spoil the good, though somewhat stern, some practical routine you have followed for some time. Learn to incorporate more exciting methods instead.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Relax a little today and let the warmth of your smile accomplish far more than all your difficult engineering could ever do. Don't try to dem ocratize, but thoughtful of others. You are too tense, self-centred. Co-operate wherever possible.

If your child is born today — The sweet child born today is kind and can quickly takes offence, since the nature is a highly sensitive one. The best way to combat this is to loosen the apron strings and expose him or her to the joshings of other children thereby increasing the willingness, the strength to live. Be loving, considerate, and the chart is then excellent for the child to grow better, doctor, pedestrician, other allied professions.

SOVIET TROOPS OUT

LONDON (Reuter) — Gen. A. Zacharov, commander-in-chief of Soviet troops in East Germany, Friday informed the East German government that he has completed the withdrawal of 65,000 troops from the country, Tass news agency reported. Tass said the withdrawal was carried out in conformity with a Supreme Soviet decision last Dec. 31.

To Stand Trial For Shooting At 2 Policemen

KINGSTON (CP)—Charles Edward Cade, 17, was committed for trial before judge and jury on charges of shooting at two policemen with intent to wound and of wounding a second policeman.

The charges arose from a shooting exchange last Nov. 29 between a youth and Detectives George Lay and Cranston St. Remy. St. Remy and the youth were wounded and taken to hospital.

Original charges of shooting with intent to murder and of wounding with intent to murder were reduced.

'National Health Week' Starts in Canada Sunday

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's National Health Week which has spurred similar projects in other nations is marking its 15th year, Feb. 2-8.

Aimed at raising health standards generally, the week is sponsored by the Health League of Canada in co - operation with health departments all over Canada.

During the week churches, schools, service clubs and many other organizations in cities, towns and villages will stress in addresses, lectures and various programs the theme of the week —"A nation's health is a nation's wealth."

Dr. Gordon Bates, general director of the Health League of Canada, calls National Health Week "the greatest single public-ity event in Canada and the most extensively - observed medical health week in the world."

Federal Health Minister J. W. Monteith, in a message claiming the event, said in a statement "It has won widespread recognition beyond our borders as evidenced by the recent decision of the members of the World Health organization to adopt similar projects in meeting health problems."

"Our health record is better than it was 14 years ago when this special week was first observed throughout the country," he added.

"Past experience clearly shows that many of our greatest triumphs over disease would not have been possible but for education efforts such as those carried out by the Health League of Canada."

The health league is a voluntary association devoted to the promotion of community and individual health. It is based on the principle that health is every body's business.

In addition to some 3,000 members and physicians working on its standing committees, the league has representatives of 60 national associations on its general council.

Among its members are the Canadian Mental Health Association, Canadian Diabetic Association, Canadian Dental Association, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis, The Canadian Cancer Society and the Canadian Tuberculosis Association.

Associated with the league are 11 standing committees not connected with other national associations, working on such subjects as pasteurization of milk, fluoridation of water supplies, immunization, industrial health, problems of old age, alcohol and others.

Dr. Bates said that since the institution of health week in Canada many diseases causing death have been on the decline. Among them are diphtheria, tuberculosis, poliomyelitis. On the other hand deaths due to various heart diseases and cancer have been on the increase.

The observance started in Toronto in 1930 as "toxoid week," as an educational program against diphtheria, Dr. Bates said. The idea spread across Ontario and finally developed into the National Health Week as an educational campaign against all diseases.

Tweed

TWEED — The Tweed Rebekah Lodge No. 236 held its regular euchre party on Wednesday in the I.O.O.F. Hall with a good attendance.

The prizes were won by: ladies, Mrs. Ruth Jardine and men, Vincent Cassidy. The door prize was won by Mrs. Bertha Courtney.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

The C.W.L. euchre party and bridge will be held at the St. Carthagh's school hall on February 5th., which is also their regular party. The two organizations work their card parties alternatingly, so there are not as many counter attractions, thus the crowd gets to play early every Wednesday during the winter months.

Mr. Clarence Reeves of North Victoria Street, is still a patient in the Kingston General Hospital. He was home for Christmas with his mother and family, but is back again in the hospital and is progressing favorably.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wood, Ivanhoe, were Mr. and Mrs. William Bateman and children, also Mrs. Ernest Bateman of Tweed.

Mrs. E. J. Cournyea, senior, who has been spending a holiday with her daughter and husband in Smiths Falls, has returned to Tweed for a few days. Later, she will go to Toronto to visit more friends and relatives.

Naval Reserve Forces Will Be Reorganized

QUEBEC CITY (CP) — Reorganization of the Royal Canadian Navy Reserve was announced Thursday night by Rear-Admiral J. C. Adams, officer commanding all naval reserve forces in Canada.

He said personnel will be reduced in some categories and increased in others with an approximate decrease in size of about six per cent overall. The officer corps would be reduced to 1,100 from 1,600 and the strength in men increased to 5,300 from 3,100 and stabilized at that figure.

"The potential threat of nuclear warfare has ordered us to reshape much of our military thinking," said Admiral Adams. The basic role of the reserve remained unchanged.

"As in the past, the prime purpose of the reserve is to serve as a lifegiving artery to the structure of the permanent force."

United States Works on Nuclear Counter Weapons

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has disclosed Friday that it is working on the development of nuclear counter-weapons designed to destroy intercontinental and other aggressive missiles.

The disclosure came in the 22nd semi-annual report of the Atomic Energy Commission to Congress.

Referring to its weapons tests at Eniwetak in the Pacific next spring, the AEC said:

"The forthcoming series will advance the development of weapons for defence against aggression whether airborne, missile-launched."

The U.S. previously has hinted at work on atomic rockets and anti-aircraft shells designed to pulverize airplanes, and has announced development of atomic depth charges to knock out submarines. But this was the first official mention of efforts to neutralize missiles, including the intercontinental variety, with nuclear warheads.

Presumably in the forthcoming Eniwetak tests, the AEC would mount an A-bomb or an H-bomb as the warhead of an actual missile to test the effective scope of the blast at theoretically interceptive ranges.

The Week's News

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Crime, sometimes savage, sometimes cunning, made headlines in the United States and Canada.

Charles Starkweather, 19-year-old "dead genius," was arrested near Douglas, Wyo. He stepped from his stolen car and surrendered meekly after a wild highway chase.

Police said he confessed to 11 Nebraska and Wyoming murders —men, women and children—in a fantastic crime spree that began Dec. 1.

His 14-year-old girl friend, Carol Fugate, travelled with him on his frail of carnage, and also faces murder charges. Starkweather, stepfather and infant stepsister were among the victims.

"I wanted to be somebody," said Charles, clad in cowboy clothes. "But I didn't mean it to be this bad."

SCHOOL CRIME

New York authorities struggled with a shocking outbreak of crime in the public schools.

Two 13-year-old girls were raped. Two other Brooklyn girl students were slashed with knives when they rebuffed the demands of drunken teen-agers for money. More than a score of youths were arrested.

The foreman of a special grand jury investigating crime in Brooklyn schools suggested that parents boycott schools where gangs prevail, to dark corners and stairways.

WHOPPING THEFT

In Montreal, thieves working with an arsenal of tools stole $1,800,000 worth of negotiable bonds from the steel and concrete vaults of a trust company and its banking subsidiary.

Police speculated that one of the thieves had remained hidden in the building after closing last weekend, and then was joined by accomplices for the prolonged job.

Victims of the robbery were the Societe Nationale de Fiducie and the Caisse Nationale d'Economie. The thieves even rigged up a "burglar alarm" to protect them while they worked.

RAIL TRAGEDY

In Britain, one packed commuter train plowed into the rear of another in thick fog at Dagenham, Essex, despite a "fool-proof" system of automatic train control.

At least 10 persons were killed, and nearly 90 injured.

The crash followed the grim pattern of a fog-shrouded rail wreck last month in south London, when 90 commuters were killed in a similar collision.

ROYAL VISIT

Queen Mother Elizabeth, en route to Australia and New Zealand, was greeted by driving snow in Montreal and drenching rain in Vancouver, but her stopovers were pleasant just the same.

In Vancouver, she stopped a full day, charming more than 25,000 persons who turned out to see her despite a downpour. Radiant and gracious, the Queen Mother thanked Vancouver's Mayor Fred Hume "for a lovely visit" as she boarded her plane for the next hop, a 10-hour flight to Honolulu.

NEW SENATORS

Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced the appointment of Gunnary S. Thorvaldson, 56-year-old Winnipeg lawyer, and John J. MacDonald, 66, a farmer from Glenfinnan, P.E.I., to the Canadian Senate.

The appointment of the Progressive Conservative makes the standing of the 102-seat Senate: Liberals 77; Progressive Conservatives 15; Independents 2; Independent-Liberal 1; vacancies 7.

SOVIET WARNING

The Baghdad Pact powers and the United States held a meeting in Ankara, Turkey, and issued a new warning to Russia against subversive penetration in the Middle East.

The warning was contained in a communique winding up the four-day talks among the pact's members — Britain, Iraq, Iran, Pakistan and Turkey. State Secretary John Foster Dulles of the U.S. attended as an observer.

The delegates also called on United Nations members to accept the concept of the UN Emergency Force as an instrument for use in disturbed areas.

OPEN FIRE

New tragedy hit troubled Cyprus when British troops finally opened fire on Turkish Cypriots who had staged violent demonstrations.

Thousands of mourners filed through the streets of Nicosia and Famagusta during funerals for six Turkish Cypriots who were killed in riots fanned by the controversy over the future of the British colony.

The rioting broke out following reports that the British are preparing to turn the island over to Greece, sowing the demands of Cypriot's majority Greek population.

KADAR MOVES

Janos Kadar, Hungarian premier since Russian tanks crushed the 1956 fall revolt, resigned as premier but retained his key post as Communist party chief.

Kadar, 45, said the change will enable him to devote more time to the party, but policies will not change.

MINISTER TO INDIES

OTTAWA (CP) — Lt. - Col. R. G. C. Smith of Quebec City, Canada's commercial minister at Washington, Friday was appointed Canada's first commissioner to the new Federation of the West Indies.

Record Spending Year Forecast

Assistance Grants For Education Will Be Higher

Highways, Public Works, Unemployed to Benefit

TORONTO (CP) — A record spending year for Ontario, led by significant and far-reaching reforms in educational assistance grants, was forecast today in the speech from the throne in the provincial legislature.

The spending theme dominated the 2,500-word speech, reporting record expenditures in prospect for highways and public works and money for health and unemployment.

The speech was read by the province's new lieutenant-governor, J. Keiller Mackay, officiating at a legislature opening for the first time.* A former judge of the Ontario Supreme Court, he took up his new office December 31.

Legislation was planned during the session opening today to set up a commission to integrate Ontario laws dealing with human rights and to carry out an educational program aimed at overcoming discrimination.

The speech took note of unemployment, attributed to economic adjustments in some lines of activity. Despite this, more persons were employed and more goods produced in Ontario than ever before. Output and public investment was almost three times as great as 10 years ago.

"Although the rise in unemployment does not warrant concern, it places there are many strong elements in our economy." This year capital expenditures by provincial and municipal government would show an improvement over 1957, the speech said. Capital spending in residential housing and service industries would increase. Ontario's Hydro-Electric Power Commission planned two new power plants—on the Mississagi and Abitibi rivers in Northern Ontario.

MORE GROWTH SEEN

Relaxation of credit restrictions would assist private and public investment. Rapid population growth would continue to give impetus to consumer spending.

Since the provinces and their municipalities formed the right arm of development in times of peace, it was gratifying that there was a recent trend in favor of the provinces in Dominion-provincial conferences on fiscal arrangements between the two branches of government. It was unrealistic and unjust to our people." However, much had been accomplished in preliminary meeting of a new Dominion-provincial conference last November.

Frost Returns To Provincial Treasurer Job

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost today took over the portfolio of provincial treasurer he held between 1943 and 1955.

He was sworn in four hours before the opening of the legislature in a brief ceremony in the office of lieutenant-governor, J. Keiller Mackay.

The ministry became vacant Thursday with the resignation of Dana Porter, appointed chief justice of the Ontario Appeal Court. He had been provincial treasurer since 1955.

Mr. Frost held the post in the Drew and Kennedy administrations and retained it after he became premier in 1949. This session of the legislature will mark the 16th budget handed down by Mr. Frost.

C. P. McTague Quits Railroad Conciliation Job

OTTAWA (CP) — Hon. C. P. McTague of Toronto has withdrawn as chairman of a federal conciliation board appointed to inquire into the dispute between the railways and their 140,000 non-operating employees, Labor Minister Starr announced today.

Mr. Starr's announcement confirmed a Canadian Press report of Friday that Mr. McTague was resigning the chairmanship as the result of the unions' claim that he was unsuitable for the post.

The minister made public a letter to Hon. H. Hall of Montreal, negotiating chief for the unions, saying he could try to have a new chairman appointed as soon as possible.

WON'T RUN AGAIN

BELLEVILLE (CP)—Dr. Frederick Stanley Mc. Hall, a member of Parliament for Northumberland since 1949, announced Saturday he will not contest the riding in the March 31 federal election.

Today's Chuckle

Freshman: "Do you think I can make the woman I marry happy?"

Teacher: "Well, at least, she will have something to laugh at."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A strong band of north winds covering the province today is giving cloudy skies, occasional snowflurries and cold temperatures. The cause of these strong north winds is the intense storm now centred over the Gaspe. This storm is moving only very slowly so that little change should be expected in Ontario's weather either today or Tuesday. Temperatures will drop again to near 10 above in Southern Ontario during the night and to near zero in Northern Ontario, while Tuesday afternoon's temperatures will range from the mid 20s in southern sections of the province to the teens in the north country.

23RD PARLIAMENT LASTED ONLY SINGLE SESSION

Many Vote-Catching 'Goodies' Given Out

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's 23rd Parliament was short - lived—a single session of 78 sitting days—but it was packed with history and vote-catching "goodies" enacted under a minority Progressive Conservative government.

The first precedent was established on its opening day, Oct. 14, when Queen Elizabeth personally opened her Canadian Parliament by reading the speech from the throne—the sovereign to do so.

The ending Saturday was historical, too. For the first time the document dissolving it was signed outside the capital by the Governor-General. Prime Minister Diefenbaker flew to Quebec City Saturday morning to obtain Governor-General Massey's signature to the proclamation and returned to announce dissolution and a March 31 general election in sitting Commons—another first.

In between, the country's first minority government since the 1920s had parliamentary approval for many measures it said were the fulfillment of its pledge in last year's election campaign.

INCLUDE SOCIAL SECURITY

They included higher old age and other social security pensions, cash advances for farm-stored prairie grain, a wide program of agricultural price support and stabilization, more money for provincial treasuries and assistance for Maritime power development.

The government's legislative program did not have an entirely easy road, although right from the start the official Liberal Opposition promised that it would not obstruct the government's business but sought to cut his election promises, and would support measures it thought in the country's interest.

His motion, supported only by the party, proposed that the Conservative government resign and make way for a Liberal administration without an election.

THREE MORE "HEROES"

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government Sunday gave three more Russian soldiers the title of Hero of the Soviet Union and the Order of Lenin. They are Marshal Semyon M. Budyenny, Marshal Andrei I. Yeremko and Gen. Sergei A. Beriuzov.

Passing Mountie and Eskimo Guide Save 4 Lying Beside Plane Wreck

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Three persons who were lucky escaped death in a plane crash in Canada's northland Friday night will be flown to Winnipeg today for medical care.

The quartet were snatched almost sure death as they lay by the wreckage of a Trans-Air plane on the frozen and windswept shore of Hudson Bay, 18 miles south of the settlement of Chesterfield Inlet, N.W.T., by a passing RCMP constable and his Eskimo guide.

They were in hospital at Winnipeg today are: The pilot, Wiggo Norwang, about 40, of Norwegian with a year's Arctic flying experience; Dr. Jean Charles Patry, about 30, resident physician at Chesterfield Inlet, and an Eskimo, Aparuk, about 40, returning with his daughter, Annie, 11, to Chesterfield Inlet after a three-year stay in a sanatorium at The Pas, Man., where both were treated for tuberculosis.

A Trans-Air official at Winnipeg said Saturday night that searchers had given up hope of finding survivors in the wreckage of the plane, which crashed in flames on the shore of Hudson Bay.

Constable Larsen, a Mountie, and Aparuk found the four survivors huddled around a fire on the shore. Constable Larsen had been flying with Pilot Norwang when the plane crashed. He was not injured.

Constable Larsen and Aparuk were travelling by dog team when they found the survivors. They had been on their way to Churchill, 250 miles to the north, when they saw the wreckage of the plane.

Constable Larsen said he was "absolute miracle" anyone survived the crash. The plane was in pieces.

HEADACHES CAUSED BY BULLETS

Harold Cooper, a Godfrey, Ill., truck driver, looks at the bullet removed from his head. The slug was lodged in Cooper's head for three months without his knowledge. Persistent headaches finally brought him to doctors, who found the bullet. Cooper said he felt a sting in his head while changing a tire three months ago and thought he had been hit by a pebble. Probability is that it was a spent bullet fired by a hunter.

Throne Speech Highlights

TORONTO (CP) — Highlights of the speech from the throne today in the Ontario legislature;

More money for roads, education, relief, health and public welfare.

A human rights commission to administer anti-discrimination legislation and educate the public.

A mental health program including construction of two new mental hospitals.

Far-reaching reforms in education assistance grants to municipalities.

More bursaries for university students and a new system of student aid loans.

Expansion of agricultural and veterinary colleges, with legislation to enhance the professional status of graduates.

Extension of the milk industry board's powers to include cheese and concentrated milk products.

New measures against air pollution.

Enactment of a General Welfare Assistance Act to replace and modernize the Unemployment Relief Act.

A new system of nursing and homemakers' care to help persons of family life and reduce hospital and institutional care costs.

Increased expenditures on parks and forests access roads, plus changes in conservation legislation.

Amendments affecting the administration of justice, including permission to appoint without restriction any person as the third member of police commissions.

Russia Ready to Discuss Fully Outer Space Control

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government has notified President Eisenhower officially that it will discuss fully the control of outer space as part of a package deal including the abolition of nuclear weapons and the reduction of armed forces.

Premier Bulganin, in a communication delivered Sunday in Washington, said the Soviet Union accepts the idea of preparing for a summit conference through normal diplomatic channels but rules out any prior foreign ministers' conference.

Bulganin, responding to President Eisenhower's Jan. 12 letter, proposed a nine-point agenda for a summit meeting.

A Soviet foreign ministry spokesman, Leonid F. Ilyichev, told a press conference today the Soviet government is ready to participate in a summit meeting based on either broad or restricted representation.

(Moscow radio began broadcasting the Soviet-French premier Bulganin's letter to Eisenhower just after the Moscow press conference.)

Here are the nine points Bulganin proposed for a summit meeting:

1. Immediate suspension of atomic and hydrogen bomb tests.
2. Establishment of an atom-free zone in central Europe.
3. Conclusion of a non-aggression pact between the signatories of the Warsaw and NATO pacts.
4. Conclusion of a non-aggression pact between the signatories of the Warsaw and NATO pacts.
5. Reduction of foreign troops in Germany and other European countries.
6. An agreement on the prevention of a sudden attack.
7. Discussion of measures to broaden international trade ties.
8. End the propaganda war.
9. Consider the problems of easing tension in the Middle East.

Bulganin and his government rejected strongly Eisenhower's proposal for abolition of the veto power in the United Nations Security Council.

The elimination of the veto, Bulganin said, would lead "to a abusive infringement of the sovereign rights of states and would wreck the United Nations Organization and finally result in its disintegration."

Bulganin wrote that the Soviet government recognizes the importance of discussing future control of outer space.

But he asked Eisenhower to agree "that it is possible to consider this only as a part of general problem of banning nuclear and rocket weapons." Eisenhower had suggested the question of outer space could be studied separately.

The Kremlin, Bulganin added, is ready to discuss such problems as the control of intercontinental missiles "if the Western powers show a willingness to come to an agreement on prohibiting atomic and nuclear weapons and the banning of their tests and the dismantling of military bases on foreign territory."

"There is no doubt that in such a situation an agreement on the use of outer space only for peaceful purposes would meet no obstacles," Bulganin wrote.

Bulganin's lengthy communication said the people of the world would "rightfully protest if we took up the problem of outer space without first eliminating the threat of war and strengthening world peace."

Short and Unusual Life Of Canada's Parliament Ends, Election March 31st

Opposition Protests Way House Dissolved

OTTAWA (CP) — The campaign for the federal general election Monday, March 31, promises to be bitter and bruising.

Amid scenes of anger and protest, the short, unusual life of Canada's 23rd Parliament was snuffed out by Prime Minister Diefenbaker Saturday in a dramatic and unprecedented manner.

But the protests against his method from Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson and Deputy CCF Leader Stanley Knowles among others, had hardly died when Mr. Diefenbaker jumped confidently into the campaign with both fists swinging.

"The campaign starts tonight," he told a cheering banquet of Young Progressive Conservatives 1,000-strong. He spared no blows against opposition parties.

It was scarcely three hours after Parliament's dissolution at 6.11 p.m. EST in the Commons and clearly an indication of things to come.

The dissolution scene evoked memories of the bitter 1956 gas pipeline debate. Liberal cries of "shame" and "Black Saturday" echoed through the chamber as members began to leave.

Walter Tucker (L—Rosthern) shouted that the dissolution document had been signed before the prime minister's handling of the House had gone out of existence before Mr. Diefenbaker spoke.

A Privy Council official said later that the Great Seal of Canada was affixed to the document shortly after 6 p.m.—the final step needed to make it effective.

ELECTION ISSUES

It was apparent from opposition comments to reporters that the prime minister's handling of dissolution might itself become an election issue.

Mr. Pearson said it was "an incredible procedure." Mr. Diefenbaker had had no right to make a political speech when the opposition could not reply.

"It is hard to believe of a party that has talked so much about the rights of Parliament," the Liberal leader said.

Mr. Knowles said the situation was a "classic example of the utter disregard for the rights of Parliament which this government has shown throughout this session."

Social Credit Leader Solon Low said opposition party leaders "should have had the courtesy to say what they had on their minds."

Commenting on the outcome of the new election, Mr. Low said that as things now stand he could see that it will do much to change the makeup of the Commons.

STEAL $10,000

SIDE, SCHOLASTIQUE, Que. (CP) — Three masked men, one armed with a revolver, escaped with $10,000 from a cashier's desk in the credit union Saturday in this town 25 miles northwest of Montreal. The manager, Lawrence Lamarche, the manager, told police the men forced her at gunpoint to open a vault containing the money.

Expect Yemen To Join United Arab Republic

CAIRO (AP) — The crown prince of Yemen was expected today to associate his little kingdom on the Red Sea with the new United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria.

Sudeet celebrations in the oil-rich sheikdom of Kuwait on the Persian Gulf tiny area on the Persian Gulf to join the union also. The extent of Kuwait government support for the demonstration was not immediately apparent.

An Egyptian government spokesman said Crown Prince Seif el Islam el Badr "will announce that Yemen will adhere to the republic." Whether that meant full membership or merely federation with the union proclaimed Saturday was not clear.

The Yemeni legation said it knew nothing of the reports. Egypt radio said the crown prince would arrive today.

President Nasser of Egypt and Syrian President Shukri Kuwatly said in their proclamation "Any Arab state desirous of joining them in the union" or in a federation would be welcomed. The union offer of federation was interpreted as a bid to the monarchs of Yemen, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Iraq, Libya and Morocco to join without giving up their thrones.

Report Ontario Election Likely

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail rys there is a possibility Ontario may call a provincial election this year.

Premier Frost has called a Standing in the 98-seat legislature now is: Progressive Conservatives, 84; Liberals 10, CCF three and Liberal-Labor one, vacancies two.

One Toronto Bank Robbery Suspect Has Crudely Sewn Wound in Throat

TORONTO (CP) — Police searching for three men who held up a bank here Wednesday arrested a man with crude stitching done on a bullet wound in his throat.

Two men were charged Saturday in connection with the holdup of $4,000 downtown Toronto-Dominion Bank branch building. Clifford William Smith, 28, of Toronto was taken to hospital under police guard. The second suspect, Elmer Howes, 40, was taken to jail.

Police are holding a third man in connection with the holdup, during which an off-duty RCMP constable shot and wounded a fleeing car and apparently hit one of the men.

Five guns were seized and $1,056, identified as part of the loot, has been recovered, police said.

Three raids Saturday ended in the arrest of five men and two women, all from Toronto, all facing charges for aiding and abetting criminals. They are: Violet Lawson, 32, Evelyn Howes, 40, Robert Burrell, 22, William McDonald, 41, Roy Faulkner, 28, George Doran, 26 and Edward Sly, 33.

Doctors said Smith had his wound stitched with catgut and an antiseptic had been used to probe for the bullet. They had been unable to remove the bullet, which entered the right side of his neck and lodged behind his windpipe, near the spinal cord.

Acting Police Chief John B. Nimmo revealed this city's holdup squad, a 10-man special force established a month ago, with the bank.

Toronto was the scene of two bank holdups Friday. Both were made on downtown branches of the Toronto-Dominion bank, only blocks apart.

During one three men, one of them holding a sawed-off shotgun, escaped with $4,000 amid gunfire. In the other, several hours later, two men fled with $4,500 headed to them by a teller in response to a note.

Toronto has had 33 holdups since Jan. 1, including five bank robberies. Arrests have been made in six of the 38 cases.

CALL FOR PROBE OF AIR TRAFFIC AFTER 55 DEATHS

3 Aerial Collisions In as Many Days

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Collision of two United States military planes over suburban Norwalk, killing 49 persons including a young housewife, brought a demand today for immediate action on the part of Defence Secretary Quarles.

County supervisor Kenneth Hahn, noting that the Norwalk disaster was one of three aerial collisions over Southern California in as many days, said:

"I am sending a telegram to the secretary of defence, asking that he appoint a special investigating court not merely to fix the blame for the crash but to study the increasing problems of air traffic in metropolitan areas.

The court should be empowered to make new rules, if necessary, to protect the lives and property of our residents, . . ."

With the great number of military planes in our area and with the heavy volume of civilian and commercial aircraft, we have a most critical air traffic problem."

ASKS INVESTIGATION

Governor Goodwin J. Knight earlier called for a full-scale congressional investigation of airway traffic controls. Three aerial series—which took a total of 35 lives—began Friday. Two U.S. Air Force B-58 research bombers smashed together over the desert east of Daggett, killing the two-man crew on one of them.

Saturday night over Norwalk a C-118 military air transport private plane and a navy Neptune patrol bomber rammed together.

And Sunday, while investigators still were poking through charred wreckage at Norwalk, two civilian planes collided 30 miles east of here. All five occupants of the two craft died.

The Norwalk collision came on a cloudless day — a fact with a fiery explosion witnessed aboard the four-engine transport were killed. Two of the eight aboard were the twin-engine Neptune crew.

The two aircraft fell 2½ miles apart.

Groundhog May Have Retreated For Six Weeks

Will winter last another six weeks or won't it?

That is the $64 question of the day.

Sunday was Groundhog Day, the first day of the year when those furry critters are supposed to pop their heads above ground to relieve humanity from the clutches of winter.

But Brer Groundhog, it seems, left Quinte folks in the cold this year. Reports so far, there have been no sightings reported. That doesn't mean though that Mr. Groundhog didn't show up as he was supposed to. Perhaps in some humble regions of his county a groundhog poked its nose out of its burrow.

With the result that descended on this district overnight, some staunch believers in the sanctity of superstition are positive groundhogs saw their shadows yesterday and retreated for six weeks more of sleep.

Special guests were Mayor Gerald Hyde and Elmer Sandercock, MPP.

A cross-section of the city and district yesterday placed its stamp of approval on the Quinte Curling Club's $100,000 new quarters.

It was estimated by club officials that upwards of 1,000 persons took advantage of "Open House" to inspect the premises and watch city curlers in action.

From the comments and general interest shown by many, it was apparent they were viewing their first curling rink. Many asked questions about the game how it was played, scoring and why the brooms, handled stones, etc.

"Open House" was held, starting two p.m. through five o'clock and a steady stream of the interested came, looked around and departed.

At times the crowd lining the glass panelled partition in the upstairs lounge to watch the play were from five to six people deep.

And many laudatory comments were heard regarding the city's newest and handsomest sports centre.

President Bill Gault, members of the executive and directors were on hand, many of them explaining the fundamentals of curling to the "newies".

The four rinks of the club during the day's activity being constantly in action from starting to closing time.

Many more people seemed genuinely interested," President Gault said, "and many came out of mere curiosity but all apparently were impressed with the new building, its appointment and mostly, the game itself."

He announced later that the club membership will be of 250 had been filled. "We signed the last five members today," he said.

Club members as well as the executive are looking forward to the three-day visit of Garnet Campbell of Winnipeg, one of the famous curlers who arrived today for a three-day visit.

Mr. Campbell will instruct both verbally and practically, members of the ladies' and men's divisions of the club during his stay here. A long-list of applicants for instruction posted on the club bulletin board indicated the general interest in Mr. Campbell's visit and its purpose.

He was the guest at noon today of President Gault at the Rotary Club's weekly luncheon at the Hotel Quinte.

Mean Temp. For January up Over Last Year

Whether or not there was any difference in coal or fuel oil consumption, the mean temperature during the month of January was seven degrees higher than the January mean temperature for the past ten years. A year ago the mean was 7 degrees.

High temperature for the past month was 49 degrees with a low of four degrees below zero being recorded. The rainfall was 2.49 inches with snow 15.4 inches, making a total precipitation of 1.36 inches.

A year ago there was 1.25 inches of rain and 17.4 inches of snow for a total precipitation of 2.99 inches. High temperature reached a year ago was 45 degrees with a low of 21 below being recorded.

Average January rainfall over the past ten years has been 1.16 inches with 14 inches of snow, for an average precipitation of 3.31 inches.

Four Stirling Young People Hurt in Crash

Four Stirling young people were injured, two of them seriously, when the car in which they were riding struck a culvert on No. 33 highway two miles south of Stirling, then slid 10 feet down an embankment into a creek.

In Belleville General Hospital with three fractured vertebrae is Norman Cooney, 15, Jean Ann Mayhew, 14, also with a fractured vertebrae: Lynda Sine, 17, face cuts, and Marvin Cooney, driver of the car, with leg injuries.

The accident occurred about 5.30 Sunday afternoon, the Cooney car striking the bridge abutment driving the motor back beneath the front seat. Windshield, roof and top were slid down a steep embankment into a small creek but did not turn over.

Duffin's Ambulance from Stirling took the four injured teenagers to Belleville hospital where they were under the care of Dr. Don Scott.

Provincial Police from Belleville investigated.

Harry Morgan, Ex-Alderman Of City, Dies

After an illness of eight weeks Harry Ambrose Morgan, 12 Cedar Street, former alderman of this city and merchant tailor for many years, died in the Belleville General Hospital late Saturday afternoon.

He was born at Omemee 89 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan, and had resided in this city for the past half century. He received his early education in Omemee and Lindsay. During the years he has been a resident of this city, he has taken an active part in the civic, church and fraternal life of the city. He was well known and highly respected in all circles of the community and enjoyed a wide circle of friends. During his years as a merchant-tailor he enjoyed a wide clientele and after closing his business he entered the real estate business and again won many friends by his fair dealing and interest in his clients.

In the civic life of the community he served as an alderman in 1932 and during his year of office contributed to the progress of the corporation by his wise legislation. Fraternally he was a life member and past master of Belleville Lodge, AF & AM No. 11. He was also a member of the Belleville Friendship Council No. 225—Royal Arch Masons—and was honored by this group when made a Grand Steward for a term of office. He was a member of Bridge St. United Church and active, when health permitted, in the work of the congregation.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Hester Thornton of Lindsay and Miss Ada Morgan of Toronto. Also surviving are a number of nephews and nieces including Mrs. T. A. (Verna) Sills of Amelianburg. His wife, the former Mildred Roos, died in September of 1957.

Sedan and Truck Stolen From Used Car Lot

A 1949 sedan and a half-ton truck were reported stolen from the J. B. Hayes used car lot on Pinnacle Street over the weekend.

The truck has been recovered but the car is still outstanding.

Sunday afternoon three passengers were said seen around the used car lot attempting to get into a car. Police investigation revealed a small window in the used car lot office had been broken and certain car keys missing.

Sunday night city police found the half-ton truck abandoned on Ann Street where it had been stuck in an icy rut. A check of the registration revealed the truck had been taken from Boyce's car lot, as well as the sedan which had been taken earlier.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Caution and recorded major fractions in open uncertainty dampened early enthusiasm on the stock market as investors preces generally settled back after spurting ahead in opening trading.

After the first hour industrials were ahead more than a point on the index but most of the activity was confined to the first 30 minutes. Thereafter it turned forward to almost active trading for the first half hour but they too began to lose some of their gains.

Brokers said the weekend announcement of a federal election March 31 caused many investors to move with extreme caution, thereby lessening the potential rise which many expected following the U.S. launching of an earth satellite and the Canadian government's announcement that a $105,000,000 loan would be made with Britain.

Gunnar, Denison and Algom Del Rio and smaller gains.

U.S. Navy Will Try to Match Army's Successful Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Navy, beaten into space by the army's Explorer satellite, was pushing preparations today for another try at getting its own earth satellite aloft. Meanwhile, the first U.S. space traveller continued its electronic chatter in the sky.

The 73-foot Vanguard rocket was to be fired at its launching site at Cape Canaveral, Fla., Sunday to a possible early February date. The navy kept mum on its plans.

There also was renewed talk of trying to send a U.S. rocket to the moon as the Explorer whirled through space on its mission of collecting and radioing back scientific information. It went into orbit Friday night.

Meanwhile, free world dignitaries welcomed the launching of the Explorer, which some of them said should have a "favorable influence" on finding a formula for East-West peace.

Although there have been some congratulatory comments from Russian quarters, one Soviet scientist noted that the 30-pound Explorer is much smaller than either of the Russian satellites.

VOICES HOPE

However, the scientist, Kirik Stanyukovich, voiced the hope in a Moscow broadcast that "peaceful competition of satellites in the two countries will lead to mutual richness in the scientific knowledge."

President Eisenhower has said that all data collected by the Explorer will be shared freely with other nations, including Russia.

The Explorer, six feet long and shaped like a pointed tube, is sending back coded radio signals reporting on temperatures, cosmic rays and meteorites it is encountering in its three-hour-and-hour journey.

Dr. Ernst Stuhlinger, chief of the research projects for the army ballistic missile agency at Huntsville, Ala., said Sunday night it had been determined tentatively that the Explorer's orbit extends to within 221 miles of the earth and to 1,800 miles at its outermost point.

Stuhlinger also said the American satellite is completing a trip around the earth once every 115.1 minutes.

Three Married Couples Injured In 2-Car Crash

A young Trenton RCAF member and his wife were saved from almost certain death early Sunday morning when they were pulled from their damaged car a few hundred yards of Trenton after it had been in collision with another vehicle.

Only seconds after the two occupants were pulled free by a passing motorist, the vehicle was struck by a westbound freight and completely demolished.

The second car with its occupants still inside was spun around by the train.

All six occupants of the two vehicles were taken to hospital, with two said to be in serious condition.

Injured were: Clarence Chenier and his wife Rita, of Regina Crescent, Middleton Park, occupants of the one vehicle; Harold Buell and his wife, Jean, and Harry Dixon and his wife Joyce, all of Trenton.

The men were all said to be members of the RCAF at Trenton and were admitted to Trenton Air Station hospital to be treated. Women were taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Police said that the Chenier car was southbound when it collided with the northbound auto carrying the other four persons. The Chenier auto stopped on the tracks and the impact of the accident was demolished by the C.N.R. freight train.

The train was in charge of Engineer Jack Williams and Conductor Worthington English, both of Belleville.

LAC Dixon, 24, suffered fractures of the leg and jaw and was flown to Sunnybrook hospital in Toronto by ambulance. Mrs. Dixon, 19, suffered abrasions and has been released from hospital.

LAC Buell, 24, had chest injuries and his wife Jean, 21, a head and facial lacerations. LAC Chenier, 37, suffered a fractured knee and facial lacerations and his wife Rita, 30, head and facial lacerations.

Norlecto Credit Union Hears Annual Reports

The annual general meeting of the Norlecto Employees (Belleville) Credit Union was held on Thursday evening at the Canadian Legion hall with the president, Earl Digby, in the chair. The attendance was by far the largest for any meeting of the Credit Union to date and there was keen competition for the door prizes given to the first twenty members to attend.

Treasurer Bud Clapp reported that assets totalled $51,742.48 and profit for the year was $3,-588.84, showing a steady growth for the three years during which the credit union has been in operation.

Vern Vanderwaer gave the auditor's report on operations, while John Mowle reported for the supervisory committee. The latter stated that during the year the books of the Credit Union had been examined by an inspector from the Department of Insurance of the Ontario Provincial Government and the books and accounts had been found to be in order.

The board of directors recommended that a dividend of 5 per cent per annum be paid on members' share accounts and this recommendation was accepted by the meeting.

Considerable discussion was held on the possibility of going to machine accounting in the future and the directors were given the power to investigate this system of accounting and to act in the manner deemed to be best in the interest of the Credit Union in this connection.

The board of directors for the coming year will consist of Les Digby, Bud Clapp, Marie Hornibby, Helen Brown, Fred Royle, Margaret Blackburn and Ken Bowerman. The credit committee will be Vern Vanderwater, Dick Charlton and Earl Tucker. John Mowle, Martin Van Dyk and Neville Davies will comprise the supervisory committee.

Will Soon Set Convention Dates in Riding

With March 31st now set as the date of the next Federal election, local conventions have been chosen party candidates, is the topic of conversation for interested Belleville citizens.

As far as could be learned, how ever, no dates for either the Progressive Conservative, or the Liberal conventions for Hastings South have so far been set.

Lee Grills, PC member for this riding said he expected the Conservative convention would be held within the next three weeks. He noted that the annual meeting of the Association had been called for the new year meeting and that there was some suggestion this meeting might be combined to deal with present officials to carry on.

Mr. Grills said he understood he will be allowed to stand at the convention.

In the Liberal camp three possible names are being mentioned as going before the Liberal convention when it is held. However, Dr. D. C. McVicar, is the only one who so far has definitely stated he will contest the nomination.

The other two men mentioned are Frank S. Follwell, former M.P. for Hastings South, and Harold McNevin of Belleville.

Today Mr. Grills said he had not definitely decided whether he would allow his name to stand as the Liberal convention although he expected he would be nominated. This morning Mr. McNevin was out of the city and could not be reached to substantiate the rumour that he may allow his name to be before the convention when it is called.

Woman Bruised When Struck by Passing Car

TRENTON— Mrs. Doris Workman, 34, of North Stanley Street was slightly injured when she was knocked down by a car on King Street on Friday.

Injured were reported to her left shin and right ankle and bruises on her body.

According to the police Mrs Workman was walking east on King Street near the dual meter parking island when a car driven by Mrs. Eurithe M. Purdy of 134 Front Street, and going west on King Street, made a left turn into the parking lot, striking the pedestrian walking on the sidewalk.

The accident happened around 8.50 p.m.

A two-car collision on the intersection of Shuter and Queen Streets, was blamed on slippery roads and the bright sun around noon on Friday.

Ernest Brunton of R. R. 2 Consecon, reported he had stopped at the corner to pick up a passenger in the front of a left turn onto Shuter Street, driving into the path of a car driven by Douglas Beale, 90 Wrange St. Mr. Hayes said he did not see the other car because of the bright sun at the time.

Damage to the right front end of the door of the Hayes car was estimated at $200, while damages to the front end of the other vehicle were estimated to be in the vicinity of $100.

HOLIDAY TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson left this morning for Toronto where they will begin their journey on their holidays in Bermuda and Florida.

They were driven to the airport in Toronto by L. Brittain Dunbar.

Their plan to spend 10 days on the islands and then will fly to Nassau, Bahamas to visit the Keyes and Tampa as well as other places.

Before he leaving they were feted at a small party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Libling on Queen Street.

SPECIAL PRACTICE

A full-dress practice of the duties of pages was held at the new high school on Saturday night with quite a few special guests in the audience. The special practice indicated the show will be a glamorous affair for the local Kiwanis, who are sponsoring it, as well as for all the local talent taking part in it.

The show will be presented to the public on February 4, 5 and 6th.

OFFICIAL OPENING

Hundreds of town and country residents visited through the new building of the Trentonian, a local weekly newspaper, as they held their official opening on Saturday afternoon. A special invitation was issued to all those who were present during the first two days of the paper.

COUNCIL MEET

The regular town council will hold their regular meeting tonight in the council chambers in municipal buildings. It is expected to see a fairly heavy agenda and all councillors are expected to be in attendance.

NO FIRES

Town firemen reported a quiet weekend with no calls coming in. Their last call was to a home on College Street Thursday night where a roaring oil burner had worried a home owner and he had called the fire department to be on the safe side.

Don McPherson Named President Of VON Branch

TRENTON — Don McPherson was named president of the Trenton branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses at their annual meeting held in the Hotel Quinte.

He succeeds Samuel Mowbray. Mr. Mowbray was named immediate past president. Honorary president of the group is Senator W. A. Fraser. Other officers elected were: first vice-president, Ralph Weaver; second vice-president, R. H. Foster; third vice-president, Don Whittaker; treasurer Grant T. Elliott and secretary, Mrs. Samuel Mowbray.

Directors for the new year will be: Mrs. W. T. Burden, Mayor Ross Burtt, Mrs. Murray Dixon, Mrs. C. V. Graham, Mrs. J. M. Hutchinson, Miss Anne Johnson, Mrs. J. D. Beecroft, Mrs. W. A. McDonald, Mrs. C. McInnes, Mrs. A. S. Oliver, Mrs. W. L. Griffiths, Mrs. Frank Burtt, Mrs. Patrick Mills, S. O. Moores and Mrs. Freda Wright.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $13.79 under the profit column for the year following $7,833.33 and expenditures coming to $7,819.54.

Special guest at the meeting was Dr. E. W. Dow, Medical Officer of Health for Trenton.

Mr. M. Dickson presented the nurse's report and then thanked the banquet also marked the end of the term of service by the V.O.N. to the citizens of Canada, regardless of creed, colour, or financial status. She said that December 31 of last year marked the 39th year of this service in the town of Trenton.

Using prepared charts, Mrs. Dickson gave a clear picture of the increase in the work of the VON in the town over the past years.

Last year 4,100 visits were made in connection to 3,204 in 1956 and 2,246 in 1953. These visits, she said, were made to a total of 344 patients in 1953 and 561 in 1957.

Mrs. Dickson concluded her thanks to the members of the staff of the Trenton Memorial Hospital, the town crew and the police department for their help during the year.

Motion Withdrawn

OTTAWA (CP) — A resolution proposing that the Conservative government reconsider its plan to abolish the elcnure rule in Parliament was withdrawn Saturday at the annual meeting of the Young Progressive Conservative Association.

The resolution was proposed by the Queen's University YPC Association. It was withdrawn during a closed session of the resolutions committee.

Rockets Fnd Combines Tough

TRENTON — A hockey game which turned out to be the surprise of the year, and nearly the upset of the year, took place last week in the Community Centre when the highly-powered Rockets of the RCAF Hockey League only managed to squeeze out a 5-3 win over the surprising Combines.

The Combines, who have had their team strengthened with three new players and are expecting more, made a better showing of the year last Thursday night when Coach Bill Ecclestone said, "if the Combines get rolling they'll be the team to watch."

In other games Thursday night the Falcons upset the Comets 5-3 and the Sparks dumped Headquarters 7-4 for their third win of the year.

Tonight No. 6 Repair Depot meet the Combines in the first game; league leading F.I.S. meet the Sparks in the second and the Rockets will meet the Falcons in the third game.

Clinton Airmen Shiver in Snow As Hut Burns

CLINTON, Ont. (CP) — Forty six airmen, many clad only in pajamas, stood shivering in the snow this morning after the gutted a barracks at the RCAF base here.

The fire started in the crossbar of an h-shaped hut where airmen's lockers are located. RCAF investigators, already launching an inquiry, said today believe the boiler room must likely was where the fire started.

The alarm was turned in at 4:45 a.m. by airmployee Mrs. P. J. Reid of Twillingate, Nfld., on his way to the washroom. She said fire equipment was able to save nothing from the building.

Garnet Denyes New President Of Thurlow PCs

Garnet Denyes of Plainfield, is the new president of the Thurlow Progressive Conservative Association, succeeding Alfred Waller of Foxboro, as the association prexy.

By coincidence the association convention held at Cannifton Orange hall Saturday evening was timed exactly with the announcement by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of the election date set for March 31.

Accordingly the association went ahead and named poll chairmen to act in the forthcoming election. Vice-presidents of the association are Manly Mitchell and Carman Dafoe. The new secretary treasurer is Clayton Hall of Plainfield, succeeding Reeve Albert Wickett of Foxboro, who was forced to give up the position due to pressure of other business.

Lee Grills, Progressive Conservative member for Hastings South, was scheduled as the guest speaker for the evening, but with the dissolution of parliament he remained over in Ottawa and could not attend. Mrs. Grills and daughter Betty, attended and spoke briefly, however. Others heard briefly included Raymond Gunsolus, secretary of the riding association; Mrs. Dorothy Tugnett of Belleville, and Rosree Robson, MLA for Hastings East.

PEARSON AND A VOICE FROM THE PAST

The name of W. C. Good may not mean anything to the younger generation of Canadians. But their elders, searching their memories, will recall that he was one of the stalwarts of the United Farmers of Ontario when that organization was a power in politics. He represented Federal riding of Brant from 1921 to 1925, being nominated at the same time as Hon. Harry C. Nixon was chosen on the provincial ticket for the same party. Besides his interest in the political field, Mr. Good down through the years has taken an interest in other phases of the farm movement and has been particularly active in co-operatives.

Now we find Mr. Good's name appended to a letter to the Brantford Expositor. Mr. Good says that he is "deeply perplexed, saddened and mystified" by seeing Lester B. Pearson, after being named leader of the Federal Liberal Party, "with at least apparent sudden ease, drop the role of statesman and assume that of leader" party leader. The letter Mr. Good's letter makes it clear that by the phrase "political party leader" he means a politician in the oft-used, and perhaps misused, sense of being unreasonably partisan.

What makes Mr. Good's letter so interesting is that the same theme has been voiced by several others, not all of whom can be seen as free from the suspicion of anti-Liberal bias as is Mr. Good.

All these people profess to be puzzled by the change in Pearson. But it is their bewilderment which puzzles us.

Surely what happened is crystal clear. Before the Liberal convention the pundits were saying that Hon. Paul Martin was the practical politician and that, despite the support for Mr. Pearson amongst the voting public, his rival for the leadership was better-equipped to supervise the manoeuvring necessary to lead a party to victory. Is it not plain that, once chosen leader, Mr. Pearson proceeded to show everybody that he, too, could play the role of the practical politician, smitting the foe hip and thigh? So he thundered at the convention, and then later in the House of Commons, again following the dictates of the "practical politicians," he whispered.

The result has hardly been a happy one for the Liberals. But the question which needs to be answered is not why Pearson acted as he did, but whether he plans to continue acting in this fashion or whether he will decide that a man, even after he has been elected a leader of a political party, has to be himself and not merely what he does not like by trying to make himself over into a mold for which he is unfitted.

MORE TO M.P.'s WORK THAN THIS

The Financial Times has waxed sarcastic at the expense of members of Parliament who have objected to working long hours. The House of Commons, with a normal work-week of 25 hours, had its sittings extended in order to complete the work of the session. Since the House was sitting 39 hours, members were told that the sittings might be increased to 43 hours a week.

"It makes one's heart bleed for the poor member of Parliament," exclaims the Financial Times. "A work week of 43 hours to the UAW or USW member may seem short enough. There are, however, many business men who earn little more, or less, than does an MP and who put in as long a time, or longer, at their desks - - and they work week in, week out, all through the year."

It seems to us that the Financial Times, which should know better, is here supporting a completely erroneous view of the nature of the work of members of Parliament. No member who confines his work to sitting in the House is earning his salt. Even discarding appeals from constituents for assistance with their individual problems, he has a great deal of other work which has to be done unless the House is not sitting. If he is to follow debates intelligently, he needs to do some homework. And, even aside from this required study, there is the work of committees demanding his attention.

To suggest that 25 hours a week is too short a time for the House to sit under normal circumstances is ridiculous. It is true that all members may not make good use of the remaining hours in the work week, but the conscientious hard-working member should not be faced with the choice of working 80 or 90 hours a week or neglecting some of the duties he feels he should perform.

ONLY A BABY

Only a baby,
Too simpled thing!
Weak and helpless,
But joy you bring.
Nothing to say
And nothing to do,
But somehow or other
Your dad loves you.

Only a baby,
And yet you start
The fount of hope
In a weary heart.

Though they and weak
You scatter here
A world of joy
And a world of cheer.

You're only a baby,
And yet for you
What wouldn't a mother
Or father do!

Sacrifice everything
Life holds dear
For the tiny mite
That is coling here.

1908 Views On Cigarets

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Perusing our 1908 files we came across an item that interested us. Rev. Frederick E. Hopkins, a Congregational minister in Chicago, speaking: "No true gentleman can respect a woman who smokes. Such a pure-minded man can love a woman who smokes and no man with ideas of propriety can think of taking a woman who smokes to become his wife."

Mankind's ways of thinking have undergone many changes in 50 years, and in few respects have the changes veered so much as in its attitude toward women who smoke.

We are old enough to recall the first time we saw a woman smoking a cigaret in public. Probably some puffed a cigaret in the privacy of their own homes, but they would have been horrified if anyone happened to drop in unexpectedly and caught them at it.

The occasion we speak of was a winding banquet of a women's organization not long before World War I, and one courageous woman at the top table lighted up after the toast to the King had been proposed — one woman among hundreds, each of whom glowered at her, and guilt irrelevant to the occasion, made a vicious attack on the pioneer smoker. It so happened the lady who smoked had first propose a toast to the ladies, but it came her turn she sailed into the "mild sex" with all the cynical language at her command.

The whole attitude toward women smoking cigarets changed during the next few decades as thousands of young women joined the forces in many capacities, and either to be pally with their boy friends, or if they were in bombed areas, to relieve tension, or maybe just to show they had become emancipated, multitudes took to smoking quite openly.

Now, even the minister's wife may smoke — indoors — and nobody thinks anything about it.

"You've been such a good sport about skiing with me all day, dear, I'm going to take you dancing tonight."

Slave Wages In Bahamas

Ottawa Journal

A general strike is closing down Bahamas' luxury hotels, endangering the life of the islands.

Let's not weep over that.

The man who has ever been to the Bahamas can fail to know what is wrong.

The Bahamas have not only become the haven of people taking refuge from high taxes and hostility of taxes in their own countries; they have become as well the playground of the continent, the type of rich people flaunting their wealth in the majority amid the poverty and misery of natives.

Many dollar-a-day hotel rooms, $200,000 residences and private yachts just don't go with skilled native tradesmen paid 32 a day or with workers who are not allowed given wages of slavery.

That sort of thing sows a festering sore in the Bahamas, a sore that sooner or later must burst.

Some of us in this country get impatient of wages divorced from the reality of what is realized to production.

But equally we should be impatient, should be violently opposed, to unjust wages — opposed to the making of wealth by one who never seem to learn anything; the small, rich, complacent, torpid cels of luxury who seemingly never give a thought to the sufferings of the underprivileged, at least of all to the underprivileged if they happen not to be white.

If a strike in the Bahamas should result in people of that ilk from their blindness, open their eyes even a particle to the sort of world they are living in, then this newspaper will give three cheers for the strike.

Some things we saw in the Bahamas made us sick.

U.S. Cannot Change World

New York World-Telegram and Sun

Secretary of State Dulles sometimes shows a talent for saying the wrong thing at the wrong time.

In a recent article in Life magazine, Mr. Dulles wrote:

"Our nation was founded by those who felt it their personal mission to help change the world."

Then he went on to indicate that all Americans should reconsider this a personal mission today.

We will leave to the historians a definite reply to Mr. Dulles' statement about the motives of this nation's founders. But we doubt that many of the original settlers, on the Fifteen miles and Independence, or those who later spread out this continent, were bent upon changing the world. Many of them had fled the old world to find freedom and build a new one. The place to change the world would have been back home in Europe.

As to whether the mission of American today is to help change the world, we have an emphatic opinion.

It is this king of conceit and arrogance — trying to make over the world in our own image — that so often exasperates our friends and plays right into the hands of the Communists who really are trying to change the world.

Much of our foreign operations abroad suffers from this messianic complex.

Mr. Dulles should have avoided that mistake none of all times. If ever there was a time when the American people had their hands full changing many things in their own country, it is now. Before we try to remake the world, let's get our own house in order.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Two tall brave young men, carrying brief cases were admitted to my house by the ladies, under the impression that they were people of biological interesting to brief me about a visit they had recently made to Cape Hennieta Maria.

When I went down to greet them, I found to my surprise that were members of one of those religious organizations which require of their adherents a regular quota of door-to-door missionary work.

But they were such presentable and serious young men, in their late twenties or early thirties, that I had not the hear. to turn them out.

But I did explain to them, before they could unlatch their brief cases, that they could not hold their faith any higher than I held mine.

Since they, with the utmost earnestness, expressed the wish to state their case, I said I would make a deal with them.

"I will sit and listen to you," I proposed, "for fifteen minutes, at the conclusion of that time, you will sit for fif een minutes, while I propound my views to you."

This was hardly covered by the terms of reference of their religion, and they were slightly baffled. But they agreed. I sat reverently for fifteen minutes, a congregation of one, while they expounded. They sat, squinning a little, for fifteen minutes while I propounded mine.

Then we had a cup of tea; and they went on their way rejoicing. And I went back spiritless, rejoicing, to my typewriter.

And neither of us was budged an inch.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NATURE OF TRUE HONESTY

Honesty is probably a problem for everyone. In some form or other it keeps popping up in every human relation. How can we be honest?

Well, the first thing we have to confront is that we are never honest at all unless we are honest all the time and in every circumstance. The people who live scrupulously honest lives day by day and then try to slip an article past the customs officials without paying duty are not honest at all. The person who tells "white lies" about being at home or not being home is not honest. Lies are not distinguishable by colors. They are either lies or else they are not lies. The adjective "white" is entirely superfluous. The person who flatters is a liar and of the most dangerous variety. Flattery is lying.

The best lesson any parent can teach a child is that honesty applies as much to pennies as it does to dollars. Buttons, quarters, jewelry, bicycles and many other things. Honesty is something that has to begin in the smallest unit of one's life in all completeness or else it doesn't lay hold on one's life at all. We are either honest or we are not honest — honest in all things or honest in none. We are always honest or never honest.

Compromise is the complete surrender of all honesty.

Off To the Klondike. From our file copy at this time in 1938: The first Belleville party for the Klondike left Belleville here today at noon and many citizens were on the platform to see them off and wish them luck. They were given a great send off when the train pulled out. There were fully 400 people present. The party is composed of the following: Joseph D. Clarke, S. S. Moore, Wesley Wesley, J. C. Reith and E. Sprague, Mr. Robert Clarke will go on to the Klondike and will meet the party in Vancouver. The party will be joined at the coast by two experienced men. They expect to go by steamer into a company for the purposing of trading, transportation and mining with Mr. Joseph D. Clarke as manager and will establish a trading post at some favorable location Mr. Clarke is a brother of Mr. Ben of Ashbridge and Clarke here, gives us the indication of the confidence their fellow townsmen have in their success. They have already been offered all the capital they may require in the event of their finding a profitable field for investment. Their intention is to take in supplies for two years, so that they will be practically independent of the outside world in case they decide to remain that long. They also have complete medical supplies. They have a number of fine large dogs and sleds which they will use in transporting their supplies. The dogs are well trained. The members of the party are all robust men and their many friends have no apprehension for them. Every citizen will wish them luck and a safe return to their homes.

Sarge, Bring My Breakfast

Kingston Whig-Standard

Orderly Rooms and Messes of the Canadian Army are, it would appear, not going in step with arguments about the propriety of the late breakfast or "brunch" — for the troops in Western Germany. It has been announced by The Boston Canadian Brigade newspaper, the soldiers' log which we suppose the paper to mean "private soldiers," can now sleep in on Sunday mornings and still get something to eat from their mess.

To an old soldier of any rank the idea of being on active service and having to be on any morning, unless on leave, is — well it just isn't done. That's the first thing. And then, about this business of getting fed when you do sleep in — we've again, anybody who has worn the uniform knows that it is dead easy and perfectly possible to get a bite except during mealtimes.

But now, in Germany, a man can sleep in on Sunday, stroll over to the mess any time between 9 a.m. and noon — nooh, mind you! — and get grapefruit or tomato juice, eggs, hams, bacon, liver, hamburger potatoes, peas, toast, jam, marmalade, tea, coffee and milk. And they call this soldiering!

But looking at it rationally, is there any real reason why a soldier should not be able to sleep in one morning in the week and get a late breakfast like when they are in Canada? It racks he is often remote from the city and has not the time to use the facilities as they exist. Any civilian can stroll into a restaurant at any hour and eat. But if man is cutoff from this then why shouldn't he be able to do so as well as the civilian?

The answer to all this is a stock one — because he is a soldier dammit! And that means discipline. Soldiers don't expect to be treated like civilians. They must Put Up With Things!

In the field, certainly. But there is so much competition these days that men who serve must be given what is due them like normal human beings as possible when they are not actually on manoeuvres or fighting. We doubt that the troops are getting fresh eggs, however, we doubt too that the "brunch" service will end as such, arrives being what they are.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Go Away A. J. You Bother Me

One misguided young woman has been living in the Southwest for two years in the vain hope that the warm, dry climate would cure her chronic joint disability to enable her to return north and marry a boy in Ohio.

Several times I have tried to approach an acquaintance with a plea that he give my "cousin" aid if you can call it treatment a try, since he has told me that he no longer takes treatment.

But I can't dent his ivory. He takes the ball away from me and runs on about what this and that doctor told him and how he knows well enough that it is his own carelessness about exposure to dampness, drafts . . . and I, get tired and change the subject. He, too, explains, in words of one syllable that his trouble is rheumatoid arthritis, a malady which, obviously, I don't understand.

If I don't understand rheumatoid arthritis, it's not because I haven't tried to find out about it. And it's not easy to find out about rheumatoid arthritis. I can tell you, in fact, I have found no two authorities whose descriptions of the mysterious malady coincided. The more I study, the more confused I become. I am so confused in the authorities seem to be.

The young woman, mentioned above, says the doctors up north gave her all the wonder drugs, but she became allergic to them, and anyway they gave only temporary relief.

That's not news. The only wonder about such drugs is that poor souls with degenerative joint diseases keep submitting to trials of them. I would never care to get through their heads that the relief of pain the drugs give is no greater than aspirin gives. As for rational treatment of the joint trouble, the wonder drugs are as inert as aspirin or other analgesic (pain killer).

Several physicians have told me that they have to give patients the wonder drugs; for, if they refused to do so, patients would go to other doctors who do give 'em. Some of these physicians have added that they themselves wouldn't take the wonder drugs in any circumstance. It is only fair to say that as yet I have not heard from more than a handful of physicians who agree with my teaching about chronic joint disability.

TALK IT OVER

If I could not get a whole loaf I would take a half loaf — and fight to get, and keep it. I'm up upon with compromises. None of us can be wholly right or wholly wrong. There can be a happy medium along the way. Compromising is a total surrender. It is. One of the most effective ways for reaching a just deal lon is to talk it all over. Either the teams belong, must come to good understanding and they can work as a team. The final score was 10-7 for the team. Grim Problem For Railways

Montreal Star

The decline in many phases of the national economy is reflected in the position of the Canadian National Railways, President Donald Gordon told the annual review, is even more bearish than his opposite number in the C.P.R. Chairman. He says the C.N.R. faces the "prospect of a staggering fiscal deficit."

One of the major problems of railway executives in Canada is the continuing pressure of unionized employees where current demands could lead to increased costs of $100,000,000 per year for the railways. Now at a time when traffic shows no sign of halting its fiddling dive before tomorrow. A number of county councillors are snow bound here. The heavy fall of snow combined with the cold and blustery weather in the river to rise to an unusual height and the fire department has been using eighteen inches of water in the basement of the city hall.

Simultaneously the lines of the system are pressing outward into newly-developed mining areas, thus increasing service necessary to the national well-being, with the hope that future revenues from heavy ore tonnage will contribute favorably to the earnings picture. Unfortunately the expansion program will have little effect on current revenue for some time to come, and for those who supervise C.N.R. financing there can be little happiness as the year begins.

ASSISTANCE

The conference brought a change in relief assistance, favorable to the provinces. As a result, Ontario had already reduced the municipal share of relief costs to 80 per cent from 85. Elimination of the unrealistic condition existing under participation of six provinces, made certain that Ontario's new hospital plan would go into effect next July 1. Hospital services would also benefit from increased Dominion and provincial grants.

BETTER TAX SHARE

The Dominion government's action in increasing the provincial share of personal income tax recognized Ontario's needs for more funds and "augurs well for the success of the conference."

Improved working plans in the province's farm marketing legislation. Under farm legislation in prospect, included: Broadening of extension services, expansion of agricultural and veterinary colleges; enhancing professional status of veterinarians and agricultural college graduates, greater security for producers storing grains and seeds in elevators, extension of powers of the milk industry board enabling it to arbitrate in matters relating to disease of milk manufactured into concentrated milk products.

Health and welfare services would be expanded. New mental hospitals were planned in Hamilton and Kent counties. Other mental hospitals would be extended. New techniques and modern methods would be introduced for the treatment of the mentally ill. There would be legislation on air pollution.

AID FOR PENSIONERS

The legislature would be asked to vote funds to meet increases in old age pensions, blind, disability pensions and allowances for the blind. Improvements were planned in mothers' allowances and unemployment relief. The province's Unemployment Relief Act would be modernized and speed up the General Welfare Assistance Act.

Increases this year in education grants would be the largest ever in Ontario. The grants would be based on a new formula taking into account "assisted assessment areas" to be known as equalized factor. University students would be helped by increases in bursaries and a new system of students' loans.

The education grants would help municipalities which would also receive other benefits and new services.

GIANT HIGHWAY PROGRAM

A record volume of work was planned on Ontario highways as well as a program to bolster hospitalizing and conservation projects.

Among amendments in acts dealing with administration of justice was one which would permit appointment of any person as a student member of a police commission — now restricted to the mayor of a municipality, a judge and a magistrate.

A program of forest access road development would improve forest protection services and promote forest and mining production. Further expansion was planned in the province's park system including the St. Lawrence system which would be extended into Frontenac and Addington counties, stretching from the Bay of Quinte to the Quebec border.

Chinese-Can. Chosen to Head Young PCs

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Young Progressive Conservatives almost 1,000 strong have chosen a Chinese-Canadian as their new president amid scenes of confidence and dence and praise for their spirit from Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The new president is Douglas Jung, 33-year - old member for Vancouver Centre of the just-finished Parliament, who in introducing the prime minister to his youthful cohorts said that Mr. Diefenbaker had inspired a new spirit of Canadianism in this country.

The national convention of the Young Progressive Conservatives of Canada ended Saturday night with a ringing speech by Mr. Diefenbaker that he said was his kid-litter in the campaign for the March 31 federal general election.

But he took time to praise the influence of the party's young members and urge them on to greater things before swinging into his electioneering.

THE GREATEST

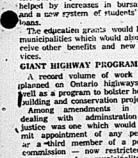
He described their convention, gates from across the country, as "the greatest gathering of its kind" ever held in Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Conservative party has a special vitalization largely to the enthusiasm and energy of its young members.

Earlier, the convention approved resolutions calling for government moves to strengthen Commonwealth ties, increase trade and provide more federal aid for higher education.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he and his cabinet ministers would give consideration to resolutions calling for early action. But he said not all of the resolutions could necessarily be accepted.

WINS NARROWLY



Mr. Jung, first Canadian of Chinese descent to sit in the Commons, defeated George Hogan, 29-year-old Toronto automobile dealer, by what was described as a narrow margin.

Earlier, a third candidate entered the race for the contest—Frank McGee, 31-year-old former Commons member for York - Scarborough.

During morning sessions, less than 10% of the 900 registered delegates turned out to discuss the 70 resolutions submitted by the various university, and YPC associations. Some of the delegates selected here was not enough time to consider the proposals.

Resolutions committee members replied that all measures would be given reality in closed sessions Friday. One delegate retorted that if this was the case there was no need for a general meeting.

Prime Minister Asks Mandate From Electorate

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has voluntarily plunged into a general election—a move he and his colleagues favorably forecast as opposition to force upon them.

He obtained dissolution of Parliament Saturday and called a general election for Monday, March 31 because, he said, he wants a "direct and unquestioned" mandate from the people.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it was "intolerable" for the conservative government to attempt carrying on without a majority.

But opposition groups, by teaming up, could have forced an election at almost any time after the session opened Oct. 14. They chose instead to leave the government in office until it got a chance to launch its program.

PROGRAM LAUNCHED

Mr. Diefenbaker said his initial program was launched and named before going on to wider programs of action in the course of his position in the Commons.

It is obvious the government feels this is the best time to get a Conservative majority and no doubt that is the reason behind the opposition which has been so careful not to precipitate an election.

The dissolution makes it unnecessary for the government to present an election budget and more or less suspends the necessity for immediate action on such problems as unemployment and trade balance, which have tempered the policies of the Liberal administration they replaced last June.

Unfettered by a budget, the government will be able to campaign on whatever hopes it may decide to hold out to the people in the way of further expenditures on public welfare and relief from taxation.

There have been reports that the government is prepared to reduce taxation by way of heavily-increased exemptions already granted and to be contemplated by means of deficit financing if necessary.

There must always be a preforma date for the next meeting of Parliament, and Mr. Diefenbaker announced it would be May 5.

MAY LACK POWER

There is, of course, the possibility that Mr. Diefenbaker will have no control over the next meeting of Parliament, or that the election will result in another stalemate between the parties.

The government probably has had far more support than the opposition parties are generally expected after the June 10 election but it has been in office only half a complete majority.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he saw no harm in this co-operation was left then to run the government until obstruction or defeat in the House had made it impossible to proceed.

Election Machinery Requires Many Thousands of Workers

For all their co-operation in voting support of government legislation and facilitating its progress with a minimum of fuss, the Liberals maintained a hard-hitting, critical approach. In some cases, notably on the farm prices bill, a few Liberals bolted party lines and voted against the government.

Throughout the session, CCF and Social Credit parties almost consistently voted against the government on non - confidence motions and on some legislation. None of the non-confidence motions in the minority government were carried because of splits among the opposition parties.

Despite the overwhelming strength 22 unbroken years in office had given the Liberals in the Senate—members of which sit in the Commons—the government received the support and co-operation there as in the Commons.

During the daily question periods in the Commons—the sugar and other inquiries—throughout session — Prime Minister Diefenbaker's new cabinet ministers often were the targets from double-edged questions from former Liberal ministers.

PLAYED IT COSY

Most of the cabinet ministers, especially those with little or no experience in Parliament, played it cozy by taking the questions on notice and replying a day or so later after obtaining well-prepared answers. Question periods, which normally last about 20 minutes, often stretched into departmental marathons of two or three hours. Speaker Roland Michener, giving the ministers a tempered excuse plenty of leeway.

One of the main criticisms the opposition fired at the government—and it's likely to be raised during the election campaign—was the fact that Finance Minister Donald Fleming presented no formal budget.

However, on Dec. 6 Mr. Fleming made a comprehensive statement on his department's spending estimates that provided tax cuts totaling $130,000,000 for the year through reductions in the rates of corporation and personal income taxes, increases in exceptions for dependents and a drop in the sales tax on new automobiles.

CHANGED TAX SHARING

Shortly before dissolution, Mr. Fleming introduced legislation—the Labor related to "unjustifiable federation action—changing existing federal-provincial tax-sharing arrangements.

In effect, it gave the provinces a 9 per cent share of corporation and added revenues through an increase to 13 per cent from 10 in the share of the federal personal income tax field, on an interim basis for the fiscal year starting April 1. In addition, it provided special assistance grants totalling $25,000,000 annually, for the next four fiscal years, to the Maritime provinces.

Social security legislation, costing the federal treasury some $105,000,000, was the $10 a month increase to $55 for old age pensioners at 70. The government also asked the provinces to match a similar increase in provincial pensions. Assistance to the needy aged between 65 and 69, the blind and disabled. And war veterans' allowances were increased.

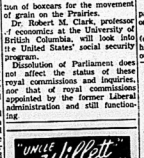
Agriculture received a great deal of attention. A system of guaranteed prices for farm products Grain price provided a maximum $500 to producers with 300 acres under cultivation.

FARM PRICE LAWS

Farm prices stabilization legislation was passed, setting up a Social Credit opposition for not including a floor price related to parity — which established 12-month price supports based on a moving average of prices in the preceding 10 years and is to take into consideration costs into account. Supports for nine key commodities — cattle, hogs, sheep, butter, eggs, cheese, and early Prairie wheat, oats and barley—will be set at a minimum level of 80 per cent of the base-period average.

New Brunswick's beechwood hydro-power project was voted a $30,000,000 loan, and the federal treasury also will assist in the establishment of a thermal-power grid in the Maritime provinces, Nova Scotia.

The government initiated four separate inquiries, two by royal commissions.



One commission, headed by Dd. Andrew Stewart, president of the University of Alberta, was appointed to investigate spreads between the prices received by farmers for their products and those paid by consumers for their products. It has not completed its hearings until after the election.

The second, headed by Henry Borden, Toronto industrialist, will inquire into Canada's sources of energy. It started hearings today in Calgary, a focal points of the gas and oil industry which forms a major part of the investigation. Two other inquiries will be conducted by individuals.

John Bracken, national Progressive Conservative leader in 1942-48, will study the distribution of boxcars for the movement of grain on the Prairies.

Dr. Robert M. Clark, professor of economics at the University of British Columbia, will look into the United States' social security program.

Dissolution of Parliament does not affect the status of these royal commissions and inquiries. Reports of the royal commissions appointed by the former Liberal administration and still functioning

TO MAKE WASTELAND BLOSSOM

Agriculture Minister Harkness has told the House of Commons that the federal government is anxious to proceed "with the South Saskatchewan River dam project if it can get a satisfactory agreement on cost - sharing with the Saskatchewan government.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons earlier that negotiations were being carried on with the Saskatchewan government with the aim of an early start on the project.

Proponents of the project contend that by damming the river between Outlook and, Elbow enough water can be stored to irrigate 500,000 acres of semi - arid land (a land - locked area) and develop millions of kilowatt hours of electricity for the power-starved province.

The dam would create a reservoir 135 miles long, stabilizing the river's irregular flow. (PC News-map).

Labor Group Declares War On Teamsters

By NORMAN WALKER

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — The AFL-CIO declared open war today on the expelled International Brotherhood of Teamsters by ordering Michigan labor forces to regroup and leave teamsters bosss James R. Hoffa "out on a limb."

The action is expected to spur retaliatory measures from Hoffa who, after taking the teamsters union helm under a court monitor system, is holding a pow-wow with his executive board here next week.

The teamsters defied AFL-CIO President George Meany, AFL-CIO president, was due to cancel charters of the Hoffa-dominated AFL Michigan Federation of Labor and the Michigan Industrial Council controlled by one-time CIO chief Walter Reuther.

TO CALL CONVENTION

The AFL-CIO executive council, in its opening winter session today, was expected to approve Meany's move and issue a new AFL-CIO charter calling the special convention Feb. 24 at Grand Rapids to establish the new Michigan labor organization.

Traffic Toll Drops in U.S.

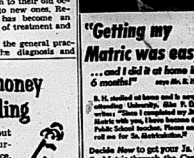
CHICAGO (AP) — The traffic death toll in the United States in 1957 was 38,500, a three per cent drop from 1956, and one of the lowest mileage death rate in U.S. history.

"The 1957 record is, of course, definitely encouraging," said the National Safety Council, announcing the figures today. "It reflects an unmistakable trend toward safer traffic behavior and enforcement."

Highway deaths last year compared to 39,628 in 1956, which was established as the highest on record.

The council said the death rate (deaths for every 100,000,000 vehicle miles) was 5.9. The previous low was 6.3 in 1956 and 1954.

Only Four Times Election Held In Winter



OTTAWA (CP)—Federal politicians faced with the prospect of a winter election can take comfort from the fact that such chilly campaigning doesn't happen very often.

Only four times, among the 23 federal elections since Confederation, has the government been required to chase votes in the dead of January, February, March or March.

Only a handful of present Commons members have experienced the last such occasion—the election of March 26, 1940. The other four winter elections occurred before the turn of the century.

The first of the four occasions the government of the day was returned to power.

Tuberculosis Is Still Chronic Disease Despite Modern Care

By DR. McCAUL METCALFE
M.O.H. for Belleville

National Health Week is being sponsored throughout Canada during the week February 2nd to 8th by the Health League of Canada and your local Health Department will attempt in some small way to bring to your attention the progress that has been made in controlling some of the more common diseases.

Over the past few years the mortality rate in tuberculosis has fallen markedly. However tuberculosis is still a chronic disease and despite the advances made in the control of the disease a considerable problem still remains, there are still large numbers of people of all ages who continue to experience long periods of incapacitation from the disease. Tuberculosis is brought to the present level of diphtheria and typhoid fever we must consider the factors contributing to the disease.

Naturally without the presence of the tubercle bacillus there can be no tuberculosis and the organism comes from one source only, namely the active case and these active cases are of two types the known and the unknown. Considerable problem still presents itself in the known cases, can we differentiate between infecting and non-infecting sources? Are all cases infecting? Are we sufficiently aggressive over a sufficient period of time in the follow up of contacts — family household. The follow up of the contacts of known active opinion is a responsibility of the family physician as well as the doctor in public health work.

It is estimated that there are approximately 8,000 cases of tuberculosis in Canada requiring treatment "on an average day and during the year 1955 there was an average of 15,365 persons in sanatoria every day of the year and during 1955 9,607 new cases were admitted on an average of 26 a day made a complete recovery but who required x-ray registers for periodic check-up.

METHODS OF TREATMENT

Treatment: Facilities for treatment are now available for all who require it. Waiting lists have disappeared in most areas. There are some empty beds and in some places a few have been converted to other uses. Prompt sanatorium treatment with new drugs and chest surgery has increased the recovery rate. Tuberculosis has been changed from a killing disease to a chronic disease requiring treatment, which although in some cases requiring long periods of treatment.

Early diagnosis: This is essential and this is provided by clinics and sanatoria for the one in Belleville and treatment, bronchoscopy, x-rays; x-rays of certain groups and community surveys.

Mass x-ray: In 1956, 400,000 x-rays were taken.

Due to the high recovery rate there are many more convalescent and inactive cases in the community and these require re-examination and supervision at regular intervals sometime to come.

Rehabilitation services: Now that more and better results are being obtained from treatment most patients will be able to return to their old occupation or to new ones. Rehabilitation has become an integral part of treatment and after care.

The role of the general practitioner in the diagnosis and treatment of tuberculosis has been changed, some years ago the general practitioner made the diagnosis and provided treatment. X-ray surveys under government sponsorship were introduced and the tuberculosis specialists came on the scene, however the general practitioner was still active in case finding but his part in treatment became less and less.

NEW DRUGS HELPFUL

Along with this on a wide scale and the introduction of new drugs in the treatment and new techniques in surgery brought about an entirely different situation so that today we have empty beds in sanatoria and the patient's averages stay has been reduced so that the general practitioner has a very little part in the treatment of tuberculosis. We find that a patient's stay in sanatoria was a matter of years now it is a matter of months. Whereas in the sanatoria patients are educated concerning tuberculosis so that he or she is able to carry on at home.

I do not feel that the treating the actual lesion is enough, the whole person must be treated. We still have many problem cases dissatisfied unhappy individuals who require help to handle both ill the home and in the institution. Compulsory retention in a sanatorium alone is not the answer. Psychiatric treatment can be a great value.

Your Health Department in Belleville has a complete record of patients who have been discharged. The inactive cases are brought in for periodic interval that examination and x-rays are indicated and destred.

Says Satellites Could Handle All Telegrams

STUTTGART, Germany (AP) — Wernher von Braun, designer of the rocket that shot the U.S. earth satellite into space, told Germans today that Saturday that artificial satellites could handle all the world's telegraph stations.

He made his statement in a speech to the annual congress of a German rocket society. He said communications could be packed with equipment that would enable them to handle all the transcontinental traffic.

The satellites would be equipped with a recording and sending apparatus plus a recording device. When the satellite flies over London, for example, it would receive all telegrams that London cares to offer, and then send the files over Frankfurt, a few minutes later, would broadcast those destined for Frankfurt.

Dr. von Braun said that about six such satellites could handle all of the world's telegraph traffic, both private and officials.

Both students received silver cups. There were 25 students competing.

Holloway E. G. W. A. Installs 1958 Officers

The Evening Group of the W.A. of Holloway Street United Church met for the first time this year at the home of Mrs. G Dobbs, Yeomans Street, last Tuesday. The meeting was opened by the reading of a poem by Mrs. Margaret Hiatt, past president of the group, followed by a prayer for the new year.

The secretary and treasurer read their reports for the year 1957 and after they were approved, the business for 1957 was completed.

1958 OFFICERS

The service for the installation of officers for 1958 followed and Mrs. C. Coleman was in charge of this part of the service. The new officers are as follows: president, Mrs. Helen Joblin; vice-president, Mrs. Jean Bateman; secretary, Mrs. Sherra Richardson; press secretary, Mrs. Jean Digby; treasurer, Mrs. Rita Harland; G.L. Jane Sine, Hilda Lawrenson, Marion Doxsee, Ethel Knight; finance committee, Mrs. Ruth Bowther; flower and card committee, Ruth Bailey.

An interesting report followed, Mrs. Garn Dobbs read a report of the W.A. of the church written in 1878. It was an interesting comparison with the report of 1957. Mrs. Dobbs also thanked the past president, Mrs. Joblin, for fine work she had done for the year 1957.

The devotional part of the meeting was taken by Mrs. Elsie who gave an inspirational address for the year and also read a poem, "Another Year," followed by the closing prayer.

Refreshments were served by the new executive and Mrs. Hiatt thanked Mrs Dobbs for her kind hospitality.

Women's Guild Makes Appeal For More Aid

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Departure of a Red Cross nurse from Entry Island, smallest of the Magdalen group in the St. Lawrence gulf, has led to a striking plea from the island's Anglican Women's Guild.

The plea for some nurse to come "and avail herself of the opportunity of serving God and her fellowman."

"Please come and see for yourself," they say. "You won't regret it. God will help you as he is helping us."

The nurse would be paid by the government and live in a house with all modern conveniences.

The letter containing the plea was brought here by lighthouse keeper D. R. McLean, now in the Prince Edward Island hospital. It says Entry Island, with a population of about 200, has had no medical protection since its nurse left last year. Expectant mothers have to board a boat in the dead of night and joggle over rough seas to reach hospitals, it adds.

One paragraph proudly noted that every able-bodied man from Entry Island volunteered for service in the Second World War. Many never came back.

Man's Home Life Likely to Be Reflected in Job

TORONTO (CP)—The man at his office and the man in his home are one and the same personality, says Dr. Milla Alihan, who heads a New York firm of consulting industrial psychologists.

The problems that arise in a man's home life are likely to be reflected in his job, and vice-versa, he said in an interview here.

The man who walks into the office is just the same man who leaves the house, and he brings all the problems," she said. "No coat hanger is big enough to hang them on. When he leaves the office, he takes all the problems back.

"If he is happy at home, he will be happy at work."

Dr. Alihan, a White Russian who went to New York via Canada, had a few words of advice for wives:

"The wife shouldn't be competitive. If there is self-criticism on the part of the husband or wife, it is at the expense of one or the other.

"There should be a policy of give and give—and I don't mean give and take. If the wife has pride in her husband's accomplishments, then the husband will have pride in his wife's accomplishments."

Dr. Alihan took a bachelor of economics degree at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver and looks upon Canada as her home country."

Good Traveler

By TRACY ADRIAN

For midseason travel you can't go wrong with this outfit. It's chic and comfortable to wear on plane or train, it will get you to your destination without a wrinkle.

The double-breasted, three-action jacket has twin pockets with turn-back flaps at the hips and a handsome collar of silk. The skirt falls in slim lines from an elasticized waistband.

New Shoes

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Imprints along fashion lane are varied and most interesting. A pair of flats of the soft kid-skin variety go in for a perky bow and a comfy, elasticized back. Dull green suede is used for a pump with a medium, day-time, narrow heel. Three rows of perforations decorate the front. To wear with car coats and such, here's a smart suede short boot imported from overseas. Comes in taupe or bright red trimmed with black leather around the base of the vamp and heel quarter, and black piping and lacing.

Mrs. J. H. Payne Heads Victoria Baptist WMC

The January meeting of the Senior Circle of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church M.C. was held on Tuesday evening in the auditorium.

The president, Mrs. A. E. Berry, gave the opening prayer.

Mrs. L. Smith Daniel was in charge of the installation of the new officers. She addressed the installation, the beautiful and impressive service of dedication took place, the illumination of a tall white candle sending forth its warm bright glow, a symbol of "Christ, the Light of the World," with Faith, Hope and Love ever before us, we pledge ourselves anew to the work of Christ's kingdom.

Mrs. Daniel paid tribute to Mrs. Berry, the retiring president, thanking her for the splendid work while in office and for her untiring efforts and co-operation.

Mrs. H. Payne the new president took charge for the remainder of the meeting. The roll call was called and business dispensed.

The devotional was taken by Miss E. Nurse who used for her theme "The New Year, how we can really make it a worthwhile and happy year if only we let God be our dictator in the true sense of the word, to let God be our leader and companion, to listen to His voice for the right knowledge, with these things in mind we, as a group, can bring our Circle a little closer to God and strive to make the year ahead a joyous and victorious one."

Mrs. C. Campbell read a poem, "Step by Step," which fitted in beautifully with the devotional theme.

Mrs. Payne, the new president, thanked the Circle members for electing her to office and expressed her hope to justify their faith in her to the best of her ability.

Mrs. T. Hetherington and her group of ladies served refreshments and a happy social hour was spent.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Hon. president, Mrs. L. K. Daniel; past president, Mrs. A. E. Berry; president, Mrs. J. H. Payne, vice-president, Mrs. A. E. Orr; secretary, Mrs. A. Wallbridge; treasurer, Mrs. A. REPROVES PAPERS

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's "popular" newspapers Saturday were reprimanded by the London Times for abusing their rights by printing trivia and intruding into private lives. The Times editorial follows many letters to its editor complaining about the treatment by reporters of the parents of a young girl murdered recently. The letters said the girl's parents were ruthlessly hounded by reporters and photographers when they wanted to be left alone.

Bridge St. W.A. Welcomes New President

To welcome the new president Mrs. W. Dallas, the Women's Association of Bridge Street United Church held a Valentine luncheon.

Guests at the head table were greeted by Mrs. A. Clare, the retiring president. They included the Rev. and Mrs. H. Abel Davis, the Rev. R. F. Sherwin, Miss E. Morden, Miss V. Miller and Mrs. J. Marsh.

After a delectable and colorful luncheon Mrs. Clare called for the reading of the annual reports by the following: Mrs. W. Dallas, secretary; Mrs. H. Parker, treasurer; Mrs. E. W. Sutton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. Massey, card secretary; Mrs. C. R. Clapp, parsonage; Miss H. Sulman, flowers; Mrs. E. Denyes, kitchen, and Mrs. B. Cronk, Coronation club.

Mr. Davis congratulated the out-going president and officers for their splendid efforts and fine reports and then proceeded to the installation of officers for 1958. In a short address he reminded the association that it is the service we render to others which could not be run without them, but that at the same time, the purposes are spiritual and not temporal, while the practical side is the expression of devotion to God and church.

Mrs. Dallas, accepting the new position thanked the members for the honor and asked for their prayers that she be given help in undertaking a different task.

It was Mrs. J. Marsh's duty to present a pin and life membership to Mrs. A. Clare, who expressed her appreciation for this beautiful token.

Mrs. H. Parker thanked Mr. H. M. Davis for his inspirational message and a most successful annual event came to a conclusion.

Z. C. Nina Jones Installs L. A. 363 Officers

MADOC — The officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary Branch, No. 363, Madoc, were duly installed in office by Zone Commander Comrade Nina Jones of Picton, on the evening of January 28.

As it was the first meeting since Christmas several letters of thanks were read from veterans in the Kingston hospital, who had sent gifts of slippers, pyjamas, cigarets, chocolate bars and gum, from proceeds of some of the many activities of the Christmas draw.

A beautiful potluck dinner was served by the Madoc members in honor of Zone Commander Jones and the members of her home town auxiliary at Picton. The Zone rally will be held in Bancroft. All members are urged to attend.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Officers installed for 1958 are: Past president, Comrade Ethel Marshall; president, Comrade Nina Embury; first vice-president, Comrade Daphney Rice; second vice-president, Comrade Eureka Howard; standard bearer, Comrade Eileen Govier; secretary, Comrade Helen Scrutton; treasurer, Comrade Sybil Morgan; executive, Comrades Cather, Bremner, Bristol; ways and means committee, Comrades Bremner, Storring; visiting committee, Comrades Marshall and Embury.

SUE FOR DAMAGES

CINCINNATI (AP)—A criminal prosecution against a 22-year-old grade school teacher in connection with the paddling of an 11-year-old fourth grade pupil was dropped Saturday. But the end of the assault and battery case against Miss Gayle Graner came a short time after she had been served with notice that the parents of Roscoe McGeorge, the paddled pupil, were suing for $2,500 damages.

Boris Berlin Entertained By O.R.M.T.A.

Mr. Boris Berlin Pianist, teacher, examiner and adjudicator, who resided at the Royal Conservatory examinations at Albert College this week, was a guest of the local Branch of the O.R.M.T.A. at the home of the president, Mrs. E. C. Veley on Saturday.

With 15 teachers in attendance, Mrs. Veley introduced Mr. Berlin and opened what proved to be an interesting interview and discussion. Miss Handly gave a formal welcome and expressed words of appreciation.

Mr. Berlin, out of many years of experience, brought interesting comments on various angles of the profession and threw light on questions asked by the teachers.

The Rev. and Mrs. Ibbitson, Council member, thanked the speaker for attending and contributing so much of value to the teachers during the reception hour thus planned for him.

All enjoyed the social hour following when refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Grace Veley and Mrs. E. Cornish.

The thanks of the group were expressed by Mrs. Everton Boyce, and heartily endorsed by the guests.

KILLS FIVE

RIO de JANEIRO Brazil (AP) A Brazilian airliner burst into flames in an attempted takeoff Saturday night and crashed into rocks on the edge of Rio's bay, killing five of the 67 persons aboard. Another 23 were injured, none severely.

Young Couple Honored by Presentation

An enjoyable evening was spent at River Valley school house recently when about 75 residents of the district and several from Frankford were present to honor Mr and Mrs. Peter Heron who were married recently.

Mr. Hadley Richardson presided for the program. Mrs. Phil Conley was pianist and Mrs. George Heasman led community singing.

The pupils of River Valley contributed several songs and exchanged the names to those of the bride and bridegroom, Mary Lou and Peter.

Miss Marla Heasman gave a tap dance number. Mr. Glen Morrow, as violinist, and Mrs. Phil Conley as pianist, favored with several musical selections.

The Misses Margaret, Lois and Ruth Morrow, with Miss Helen Morrow as accompanist, contributed several songs.

Mrs. Bill Price and Miss Julia Savage gave a reading and colored slides of the wedding party were shown by Gilbert Heron, as well as flower garden scenes and the Trent River.

Mr. Walter Savage read an address and Mr. Ramsey Coulsey, Mr. Hadley Richardson and Mr. Richard Wells made the presentation of a floor lamp, a table lamp, and two hostess chairs.

Peter and Mary Lou expressed their appreciation for the lovely gifts and invited the River Valley folk to visit them at Trenton.

The ladies served refreshments.

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

At the congregational meeting of the Shannonville United Church, the W.M.S. report was given by Mrs. Ross Robertson, who also reported for the W.A., secretary of both. Both organizations had a successful year.

The W.A. members make aprons, pillow slips and other articles for sale at the annual bazaar held in the fall. Over $1,000 was raised last year. Besides this bazaar, money is raised by membership fees, monthly collection at meetings, donations and catering for banquets and at Scott's Livestock Sales. The work of visiting and clothing is sent every year for overseas relief work of the church. This work is shared equally by the W.A. and W.M.S.

Mrs. George Osborne sends cards and flowers to sick members. A separate collection finances this part of the work.

The W.M.S. contributes to the Rev. M. B. Morland, Sunday School, parsonage upkeep and other worthy causes.

Mrs. Ass Cook is treasurer. Members are grateful that 1957 was such a successful year.

Boxy and Beautiful

By ALICE ALDEN

The bulky sweater, popularized by the leading man of a Broadway show, still looms large—and not only for the male contingent. The girls have appropriated it enthusiastically and Ben Rosanna has done it in Shetland wool knitted up into a turtle-neck pullover. Big and boxy, it is detailed with twin rows of cable stitching, the shoulders hand-fashioned and hand-sewn. A delight for the college girl, it is also happily at home in suburbia.

Changing Trains at Montreal

By Mary Moore

After this story I just may be able to keep quiet about Marianne's peregrinations for a while and settle down to some serious winter cooking.

When we changed trains in Montreal, everything happened at once. Relatives whom we had not seen for seventeen years met us and each one had to hold a baby. Gary was determined he was going to hug the most moth-eaten clipped French poodle I ever beheld. By quiet determination we got his harness untangled from the F. P.'s leash. The loudspeaker was calling for a Mrs. Moore but was not I. First class passengers for the Empress of France were to be queue up at once. Luggage for the boat train had to be chosen out of an acre of it. Ours had yellow and red ribbons on it, thank goodness. At last seven of us including two babies nearly crowded into our double bedroom, for the nineteen-year-old cousin had not seen the bedroom accommodation our Canadian railway system provides.

After fond farewells we shut our door and looked at each other. We two were starved for all this changing had taken place over the dinner hour.

As one woman we reached to push the porter's bell. When his beautiful face appeared we asked for a waiter and got the head one. We were too late for a full-course dinner but asked him to do his best. I said to bring us some soup and thick meaty sandwiches. "What's on the menu for dessert?" "Rice Raisin Pudding." "The very thing!" So we washed our babies in the basin — Davey filled fine, but Gary's outgrown that! By this time our supper was delivered and tasted like nectar and ambrosia. I have never tasted such heavenly soup, nor munched on such perfect chicken sandwiches with thick slices of white meat and exactly the right amount of mayonnaise, butter and lettuce. How I would love a course in those C.P. training kitchens. The raisins in the pudding were plump and jellylike and the pouring cream was so thick the roll of the train didn't spill it.

Since our train was due in Saint John at 9:30 a.m. we had ample time to order a breakfast that would serve for Gary too and eat it in our bedroom. Davey was no trouble for his meals are by nature's method. When we stepped from the train fed, clean and composed we were met by smart Canadian personnel and "Mrs. F. C. Pitts and two sons" were checked in. Hundreds of passengers wanted taxis at once, and poor wee Davey in his carryall was Baby-Rain-in-the-Face for we had to walk our turn on the curb.

At last we were aboard the Empress of France, and as I have told you I spent nearly a whole day with them before she sailed on high tide.

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S PRONUNCIATION HINT . . . ABOUT FEBRUARY

Here it comes again . . . February. Let's honor it by pronouncing it correctly. Nor Feb-oo-ary, as we too often hear. But every syllable correctly pronounced . . . Feb-ru-a-ry.

THREE SISTERS PLAN GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATION FOR PARENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. We three sisters are having Open House for our parents' 50th Wedding Anniversary, and would appreciate your help on some details. If we invite our mother's Sunday School Class, is it necessary to invite our minister? He has been pastor of our church for about ten years, but has never been in close contact with the family, such as being in our home when there was illness, or performing any ceremony for us.

2. We are also puzzled about the gift problem. Could we have "No gifts" on some of the invitations, and let the others go through as they are? Some of the older friends will bring gifts anyway. Also would it be proper to have a money-tree? We have gone to several wedding anniversaries where they had one of these.

3. After the afternoon reception we are planning to have a dinner for the family and close relatives. Some are from out-of-town. Would it be proper to have R.s.v.p. on the invitations to the dinner?

— We Three.

1. Although it isn't absolutely necessary that you invite the pastor of your church, I strongly advise that you do. Since you are inviting your mother's Sunday School Class, he would, I should think, consider it a slight if you don't invite him. And his coming to this celebration may well be just the occasion that will bring him in closer relationship to your family.

2. It would look strange, I think, to have "No gifts" on some invitations, and not on others . . . the receivers may compare notes. Better omit this, and let those invited do as they wish about gifts. And don't dramatize the money-tree idea by having a money-tree . . . not at all good taste.

3. Yes . . . certainly have "R.s.v.p." on all the dinner invitations.

ADULT INVITATIONS TO A "FAMILY SHOWER"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My grandmother and my aunt are giving a "Family Shower" for me. To this shower is it proper to invite my attendants?

2. Also, please tell me if the mother of my husband-to-be should be invited? — Bride-to-be

1. Since your attendants will undoubtedly be invited to other showers, I suggest that this Shower should be only for family members, and perhaps some close relatives. This will keep the Shower more intimate, as it should be.

2. Yes . . . this would be a delightful and important opportunity to establish another bond between the two families. And if your fiance has sisters, they too should be invited.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Isabel R. — I can't feel the same about Ted.

Ted F. — Neither of us was responsible.

Isabel R. — I always knew I can't hold liquor, so I know I should never have drunk as much as I did on New Year's Eve. Anyway, I did and now I can't forgive myself.

I went to a party with a young man who had asked me to marry him. I was seriously considering marriage to him. But when I was drunk, I went too far with him and now I don't know what to do. It was an awful experience and I hate myself and I don't like him any more.

Ted still wants to marry me and I suppose there is more reason now than ever why I should. But I just can't feel the same toward him. After all, he took advantage of me in my drunken state. That wasn't right. He was more in command of himself than I was.

Ted F. — As Isabel points out there is more reason now than ever why we should marry. She is a really nice girl and she won't be able to face herself unless she does marry me.

I did not mean to take advantage of Isabel. After all, I was drunk too. Neither of us was really responsible.

The way I see it, this was just an unfortunate accident. Isabel should not judge me by that one incident. I am seriously in love with her and I'm sure I can make her happy.

There are two other men who want to marry Isabel, but I am sure she could never be happy with either of them after what has happened between us. She is now just fighting the inevitable.

The Council: An unfortunate accident! We doubt it. Drinking is not accidental, nor are most of the actions that follow. More often drinking is used, quite consciously, to remove inhibitions and to absolve the drinker of responsibility for doing exactly what he has determined to do beforehand.

What possessed Isabel to take this step with Ted? Probably a combination of fear and curiosity. Certainly there was no love or desire for marriage involved. Naturally, the results were "awful."

What possessed Ted to take this step with a girl he wants to marry and claims to love? Possibly despair at not being able to really win her affections and possibly a desire to trap her into a marriage despite her reluctance.

Is there now "more reason than ever" why this couple should marry? We can't give a flat yes or no to that question. One thing is sure, however — Ted and Isabel should not go to the altar in their present frame of mind.

Isabel should recognize that she can't place the blame for what took place on Ted alone. And Ted should recognize that his own responsibility was not trifling, either. But they need more than a common sense of guilt as a basis for their marriage. They need to find some real unselfish love for one another — plus a mature desire to create a happy life together.

Isabel and Ted have a long way to go in understanding. They should consider some talks with their clergyman.

Protection

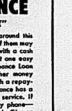
...at your fingertips

The fireman's hat is a symbol of protection. So is your fire insurance policy.

When fire strikes, alert firemen are soon on their way, accepting risks themselves to protect your life and property. And when fire strikes, fire insurance steps in to offset disastrous financial loss.

Every week, some 1,400 fires break out across Canada. Companies writing fire insurance pay out more than one hundred million dollars annually in claims. And yet virtually all the fires which take the lives of more than 500 Canadians each year are preventable.

Fire insurance safeguards your property. But only you can guarantee against loss of life.



Safety pays dividends . . . saves lives, helps to lower your insurance costs. Be Careful.

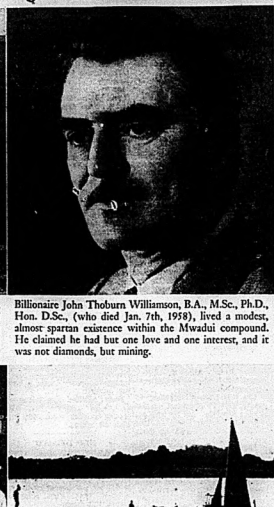
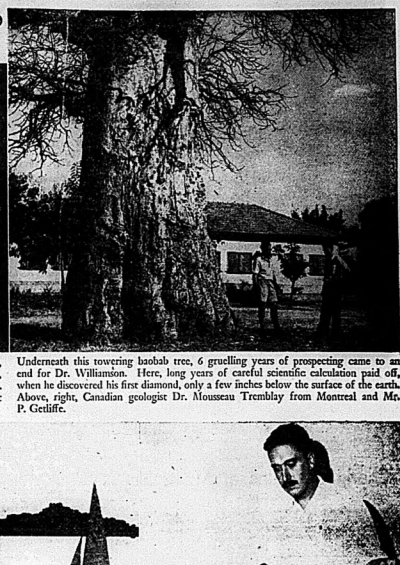
WEE WOMEN

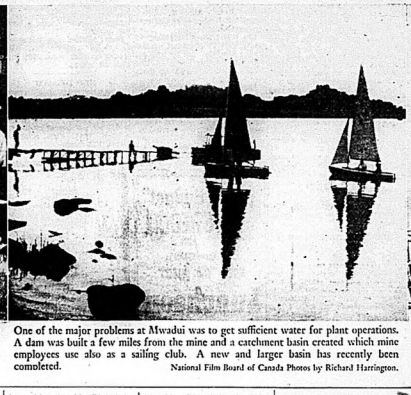


"Opinion seems to be divided; dare your husband cast the deciding vote?"



Canada's Late "King of Diamonds"

Some say it is easier to get into Buckingham Palace than through these gates at Mwadui, Tanganyika. Closely guarded by husky native policemen, the padlocked gates are part of an elaborate security system surrounding the richest deposit of diamonds in the world. The story of how a Canadian geologist discovered the rich mother lode after 6 failure-filled years is one of undeviating scientific conviction and infinite courage.



Billionaire John Thoburn Williamson, B.A., M.Sc., Ph.D., Hon. D.Sc., (who died Jan. 7th, 1958), lived a modest, almost spartan existence within the Mwadui compound. He claimed he had but one love and one interest, and it was not diamonds, but mining.

Underneath this towering baobab tree, 6 gruelling years of prospecting came to an end for Dr. Williamson. Here, long years of careful scientific calculation paid off, when he discovered his first diamond, only a few inches below the surface of the earth. Above, right, Canadian geologist Dr. Mousseau Tremblay from Montreal and Mr. P. Getliffe.

The Mwadui deposit is a deep vertical kimberlite "pipe" topped by a shallow spreading layer like an ice-cream cone. Williamson's firm, still dredging diamonds from the surface, is years away from tapping the pipe's main supply. About 50% of Mwadui's diamonds are gem stones, 4-5 times as valuable as industrials.

One of the major problems at Mwadui was to get sufficient water for plant operations. A dam was built a few miles from the mine and a catchment basin created which mine employees use also as a sailing club. A new and larger basin has recently been completed.

Chief geologist Tremblay is working on a study of other areas of Tanganyika to locate other diamond and uranium fields. Above, he inspects aerial "spotting" photographs which coordinate magnetometer findings.

Police Dogs Worth Weight In Biscuits Around Baltimore

By JOHN LUNDQUIST

BALTIMORE (AP) — Nothing strikes the fear of the law into punks, Baltimore's police department is convinced, like a dog triggered to snarl, pursue, leap and bite.

The department found, for example, that two policemen accompanied by dogs could keep order in a throng of rock 'n' roll devotees after a show or a dance where formerly eight officers were required.

The department's K-9 corps—21 carefully trained German shepherds — has taken over in some of the city's worst trouble spots for the last year.

CRIME DROPS

When police commissioner Hepbron recently released his report on the city's crime rate in 1957, it showed a drop of 6.5 per cent from the previous year. Hepbron said that the deterrent effect of the K-9 corps had a lot to do with the improvement.

It showed up particularly well in categories where a patrolling dog puts a scare into would-be law breakers, like purse snatchers and automobile thieves. Purse snatchings were down from 236 to 192 and auto thefts from 6,182 to 4,806.

The police department probably gets more for its money in eager animals than in any other phase of its operations. The dogs —all pedigreed—have been donated by interested people, and the corps has many more offers than it can accept.

Each officer who has a dog assigned to him keeps it at home when off duty.

WORTHWHILE BUDGET

The first year's budget for the dog corps was $13,670—$8,170 for its director's salary and $5,500 for dog food and medical care.

The sheps are trained in the clearing of a wooden area. When the dog has learned to obey commands, he jumps hurdles, scales a 7½ - foot wall, grabs at a "thug's" wrist protected by a padded sleeve, and sniffs out a "fugitive" in the woods. The dogs also learn to climb ladders and track down a man in a building. The K-9s have proved they're worth their weight in dog biscuits on scores of occasions. Officers use them mainly in an area of about six square miles in the Rowhouse district fringing the downtown section. It's full of dark alleys and board fences where a fugitive with a head start could lose a patrolman without trouble.

RARELY ESCAPE

But they rarely get away from the K-9 corps.

The dogs have climbed ladders to get into buildings and track down a burglar in a fraction of the time it would take one or two officers.

Sometimes they start the investigation on their own. Patrolling a beat near Johns Hopkins Hospital, officer Calvin Fillings saw nothing amiss as he passed a parked truck, but his dog stopped and snarled at the vehicle.

Fillings took a closer look, saw a head duck below the dashboard. A 16-year-old surrendered, confessing he had been trying to hot-wire the truck and steal it.

OPENS ACRNIVAL

RITA WEDS 5th TIME

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) Rita Hayworth and movie producer James Hill were married Sunday in a quiet ceremony in the bride's home here. It was Hill's first marriage and the fifth for the flame-haired actress. Hill is 41, Miss Hayworth 29.

SHORT AND

held the centre of excitement throughout a day that ended with him breaking the news of an accomplished dissolution to members while they were still in the House. That had not happened since Confederation. Previous dissolutions occurred with the chamber empty, although on some occasions the House had advance notice.

In the morning Mr. Diefenbaker suddenly vanished from public view. Parliament Hill stirred with excitement.

Then it was learned he was flying to Quebec City to confer with Governor-General Massey, in temporary residence at the Citadel there.

The Queen's representative must sign the necessary proclamation order to dissolve Parliament before a general election can be called.

Everyone was immediately certain of the purpose of the prime minister's five - hour absence from the capital. His plane returned him to Ottawa at 2:55 p.m. after a private 33-minute talk with Mr. Massey.

But not until shortly after 6 p.m., in a jam-packed Commons that had sweated out most of the day, did Mr. Diefenbaker snap the tension in a statement that drew every remaining ounce of drama from his election plot.

RECALLS CHALLENGES

He first recalled recent challenges, especially Liberal ones, that the government call an election. He said the minority Progressive Conservative administration, with 112 of the 265 Commons seats, was in an "intolerable" position.

To be effective, a government needed "a direct and unquestioned mandate from the people."

James Sinclair, former Liberal fisheries minister, was the first to interrupt. Then Mr. Knowles and Mr. Pearson joined him in demanding that if the prime minister were to be allowed to make a political speech, each other party should have a chance to reply.

Speaker Roland Michener took the position that Mr. Diefenbaker was outlining "the business for the following day." He said he could therefore not decide until after whether to allow opposition statements.

"Is this the order of business for tomorrow?" demanded Mr. Sinclair.

Mr. Diefenbaker, resuming, said the government had run into increasing obstruction and delays. It could not possibly hope to carry forward its long-term program "unless it can be assured of sufficient support in the House."

SPEAKER INTERVENES

Speaker Michener finally intervened to suggest that the prime minister give "a more factual foundation" for his statement.

Mr. Diefenbaker, 10 minutes after starting, left out whatever else he had intended to say and informed the Commons that Parliament was dissolved and a new one was to be elected Monday, March 31.

The chamber exploded with thunderous applause and cheering, as much from the opposition as from the Progressive Conservatives.

Jean -Paul St. Laurent (L—Temiscouata), son of the former prime minister, had a handful of bits of paper that he tossed in the air like confetti.

Other members on the Liberal side tossed paper in the air.

"As the proclamation points out," Mr. Diefenbaker said after the moment quiet was restored, "this Parliament now is dissolved."

TLY TO SPEAK

Mr. Pearson and Mr. Knowles immediately rose and were trying to speak as Speaker Michener left his chair after declaring that "this House of Commons has no further existence."

"Shame" cried Mr. Sinclair as other Liberal members shouted angrily. "You were dissolved Speaker."

"By what right did the prime minister speak?" demanded Mr. Pearson.

On these bitter notes, the first minority - governed Parliament since the 16th Parliament of 1926-30 came to an end. It was the fourth minority Parliament since Confederation.

The dissolution proclamation that Mr. Diefenbaker took to Quebec read in its last paragraph that dissolution had been granted "at our Government House, in our city of Ottawa."

Mr. Massey scratched out "our government house" and "Ottawa" and substituted "the Citadel" and "Quebec." Then he initialed the changes.

Not since Confederation in 1867 had the proclamation been signed anywhere but at Government House in Ottawa, nor had a Governor-General ever himself altered the wording of the order.

Afterwards, Mr. Diefenbaker more than once referred to his visit to the old fortress on the Plains of Abraham as a "historic occasion."

Potential political advantage to the government was seen in his dramatic flight to the heart of French Canada for the ceremony. The Conservatives seek Quebec support to gain the desired House majority.

Gore

GORE — Several children in the community are suffering with measles. The attendance at both Centre and Victoria schools is quite depleted due to the epidemic.

Farm Forum met Monday evening at Centre school. Several of the men of the neighborhood have been helping to lay new hardwood floors at the parsonage at Bednersville.

Miss Sandra Green entertained the members of the Girls' club to a supper meeting on Saturday. The girls with their leaders had a pleasant time.

The Victoria congregational meeting was held Wednesday evening preceded by a pot-luck supper. Centre congregational annual meeting was held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Vancleaf.

Mrs. Everett Driscoll and baby Chris, of Fenwick, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner.

Miss Audra Brickman entertained the Bednersville W.I. for its January meeting on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Fox were tea hour and evening guests at the Brickman home recently.

GRANDFATHER'S SLEIGH

This prairie-schooner type sleigh was presented to Prime Minister Diefenbaker by the Young Progressive Conservative Association in Ottawa Friday. Mr. Diefenbaker said the sleigh must have been built before 1890. The inscription on the back of the sleigh read "G. M. Diefenbaker, Builder, Hawkesville, Ont." The builder was the prime minister's grandfather. (CP Photo).

Warn Russia Still Leader In Sputniks

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has regained with its orbiting Explorer some of the prestige it lost to Russia last October, but high officials acknowledge that there's still a long way to go.

These officials say it would be foolish to under-estimate the lead Russia holds as the result of its achievement in getting two Sputniks aloft months before the U.S. got its Explorer into orbit.

One of the early diplomatic results of Friday night's achievement may be a new American move to press President Eisenhower's proposal to Premier Bulganin for an agreement pledging outer space to peaceful uses.

A new initiative on this proposal in the United Nations is possible, though no specific action has been decided as yet.

STASSEN MAY RESIGN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials said Sunday it appears almost certain now that disarmament adviser Harold Stassen will resign in the near future in order to run for Governor of Pennsylvania.

RAWDON

London Letter Gives Graphic Picture of Vast Flood in Ceylon

RAWDON — Institute women in this area will be interested in an airmail letter sent by Miss B. Hearnden of ACWW of London, England, telling of the recent disaster in Ceylon.

She writes in part: "Sudden and torrential rains have fallen and rivers are flooded. The reservoirs called "tanks," which were built by the kings of Kandy hundreds of years ago, have risen and burst their banks.

"Flood water covers eight of the nine provinces and such a result there has been devastating landslides in the hill country, and 250,000 people are homeless and many families are marooned in the sea of flood waters.

"It is an appalling tragedy to have befallen that lovely, happy island so soon after the triennial conferences in July of last year.

"The women of their Institutes which are called 'Lanka Mahila Samiti,' have 900 trained girls working in relief centres. Executive members have gone direct to the centres and other members are busy preparing parcels at Colombo."

Mrs. de Mel writes: "I went with a relief team and distributed food and clothing to the villagers in the Chilaw district. It came across two mothers who had each lost two sons in the waters.

TWO SONS DROWNED

"On family had their boat capsized and their two boys were drowned. Their little girl of eight had clung to a tree 18 hours. In some areas the people took refuge in the treetops for days. The government has been feeding three thousand people in my district who have lost all their belongings."

Lady Coomaraswamy says: "the eastern province is one vast lake. Thousands of acres of grain and paddy fields have been ruined. When the waters recede the work of reclamation will be a gigantic task.

"All over the provinces the road and rail communications have been cut and it is almost impossible to estimate accurately the extent of damage or casualties.

"The need is great and tinned food (not meat), textiles and money are greatly in demand."

From past experience in similar disasters gifts of money are best as textiles can be bought far more cheaply in Ceylon than in any western country. Societies should send their gifts direct to: "Lanka Mahila Samiti, 10 Norris Road, Colombo, Ceylon."

"Fellow members all over the world are responding to this disaster and it is heart-warming to see the immediate response."

The ACWW executive committee convened on January 15, 1958, in charge of Lady Binney.

Members from overseas came from Italy, Holland and Norway. Two new member societies were welcomed, namely, The Rhode Island Extension Service Homemakers' Council of the United States and The Free State Women's Agriculturist Union" from South Africa.

Reports of meetings of the United Nations were presented which included F.A.O. held in Rome, and Unesco in Paris. This latter was based on "Education for International Understanding" and "Leadership Training."

The filmstrip on Ceylon is not yet completed due to the pressure of other business.

A full report of the flood disaster in Ceylon was vividly described by those who represented ACWW at the relief centres. The executive members expressed deep sympathy and instructed Miss Hearnden to send air-mail messages to all the ACWW countries and thus acquaint the various societies of the vast relief work that is needed.

GILEAD

St. Andrew's F. G. Elects New Officers

GILEAD — The first meeting of the St. Andrew's Gilead Friendship Guild for the year 1958 took the form of a potluck supper at the Cannifton parsonage.

The call to worship was given by George Clare. Scripture passages were read by Carman Huffman and Duane Martin. George Clare led in prayer.

Mrs. Wilfred Clare sang a solo and a reading was given by Carle Ross.

The secretary gave the yearly report which showed a good financial balance.

The next meeting is to be a box social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Clare late this month.

OFFICERS ELECTED

With Mr. McCrea presiding, the following officers were elected: president, Carman Huffman; past president, George Clare; vice - president, Carl Haynes; secretary, Irma Embury; treasurer, Roy Huffman; card and flower convener, Mrs. Gerald Swan; sales barns committee: Eloise Clare, Ruth Ross, June Treverton, Erma Martin; bazaar committee: Irene Huffman, Doreen Grills, Ruby Pound; press reporter, Ruby Pound; pianist, Ruth Ross, assistant, Irma Embury.

The past president thanked the members for their loyal support during his term of office.

The new president, on behalf of the Guild, thanked Mr. and Mrs. McCrea for their hospitality.

She Just Did What Sign Told Her To

STOUFFVILLE, Ont. (Reuters)—The sign over the wire shopping baskets at the strange new North American-style supermarket here said "Please take one."

So Miss Elizabeth Poulton, 53, took one—all the way home. She returned to the store, related the next week and again followed the sign's advice.

"I thought it was a new kind of shop and this was a new idea to give things away," she explained Friday when brought into police court on a charge of stealing the baskets.

The judge acquitted here, explaining: "If you put a pile of baskets by the door and say 'Please take one,' why shouldn't someone take one?"

Added Miss Poulton: "In future, I'll stick to the old shop in the village. These newfangled self-service stores are far too complicated for me."

Little Snow But Much Rain January Tale

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Halifax lacked enough snow to measure in January, Liverpool, N.S., had 11 inches of rain.

In Southern Quebec and Southern Ontario snowfall was extremely light until the last week of the month.

A ski meet at Blairmore, Alta., was cancelled for lack of snow. Southern British Columbia coastal cities have been free of snow. Vancouver had 13.6 inches of rain.

That was a capsule picture of the weather conditions across Canada during the first month of 1958.

The Atlantic provinces may have one of the craziest winters since they started keeping weather records in 1874.

Prince Edward Island had an eight-inch snow fall Friday, the first big drop of the year. Newfoundland has been balmy with less than an inch of snow at any one time this winter.

Last Year Good In Tourist Trade

TORONTO (CP) — Last year was one of the best tourist years in Ontario history.

Travel Minister Cathcart said Friday 1,533,943 United States motorists were issued Ontario travel vehicle permits in 1957, more than in any other year except 1953 when 1,549,942 were issued.

The 1957 figure showed a gain of 3.3 per cent over the 1956 figure of 1,485,360. The national increase between 1956 and 1957 was 2 per cent.

Ontario accounted for about 60 per cent of all entries into Canada, he said.

Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN — Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyers and family in the loss of a mother and grandmother, Mrs. Hannah Meyers, on Friday morning. Mrs. Meyers was a Christian lady, a good neighbor and a most conscientious church worker of Johnstown. All have missed her in her church for the past several years as she has not been able to get there.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers called on Mrs. Clayton Curtis on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Curtis had the unfortunate accident of breaking her right wrist recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McEwen and Bradley spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Clapp.

The Bay of Quinte Institute will hold a Valentine party on February 13th at Avondale school.

Mrs. John McEwen and Anne were callers of Mrs. De Vries on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs Douglas Harry spent Sunday dinner hour with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell White, of Elizabethville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nairn and family of Belleville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ingram on Sunday.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Van Alten in the loss of his sister, Mrs. Logan, of Quebec. The funeral service was held at Christ Church, Glen Miller, on Thursday. Several friends from Johnstown attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brunt and children of Belleville spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Brunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Meyers, Mrs. Hazel Eggleton and Mr. R. Harry were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers and Arnold on Sunday afternoon

The Woman's Association of Johnstown held a quilting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stickle on Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Sharon Thomas, Middleford, Ont., was a weekend guest of her friend, Miss Beverley Clapp. Sharon's parents, F.O. and Mrs. Thomas were callers of the Clapps on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harry and Mr. Martin, of Tweed, attended the Canada Farm and Industrial Equipment Trade Show at Toronto at the C.N.E. grounds, on Thursday.

Acres for Parks

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto parks committee Friday approved a four-year program to acquire 1,000 acres in the Highland Creek Valley in suburban Scarborough for parks and conservation purposes.

Cost of the program is estimated at $800,000 to be split 50-50 between Metro and the Ontario government.

Garden Notes

Gloxinia Is Perfect House Plant

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

The gloxinia has been called the perfect houseplant. There are four ways to acquire gloxinias, grow them from seed, take leaf cuttings, plant tubers, or buy the finished plant from your florist.

Growing them from seed is a tedious but interesting project which will take from eight to ten months. Leaf cuttings are treated as African violet leaf cuttings. The petiole (the leaf stem) is rooted in sharp sand, peat moss, vermiculite, or sterilized soil. Place a piece of glass or plastic over the top of the jar to maintain moisture. When the small new plant has formed and the leaf begins to yellow cut away the leaf and pot up in small pots.

Tubers may be bought by color. The flowers come in several shades of red, lavender, purple and bi-color. The tubers are grown in flats, or shallow pots called bulb pans. Use three inches of loose spagnum moss, or vermiculite (deeper for pots). Have the hollow side of the tuber up and just level with the surface. Set flat in warm place and keep constantly damp with tepid water. Keep top of tubers dry.

The bulbs are ready to be transplanted to six-inch pots when they have three leaves. The soil should be the same as used for African violets. You can buy packages in florists or dime stores, or mix your own.

WATER CAREFULLY

Water should now be supplied only in moderate amounts for four weeks. They enjoy a temperature of between 60 and 70 degrees. Later as the plants increase in size and approach the bud stage they will need more water. Two feedings should be given during this time a balanced commercial food, liquid manure, or liquid fertilizer, or tablet form fertilizers are all good. Loose granulated plant food should be applied one teaspoon to the pot for each feeding. Scatter near the rim of the pot and scratch in lightly with table fork. Do not allow fertilizer to touch foliage.

From this point the plants will be treated as finished plants. An east window, or filtered sun but no direct sunlight on leaves. Tepid water should be given when the soil surface becomes slightly dry Keep foliage dry, especially crown: Drain off any water that collects in the saucer. Do not over feed. You will have lush leaves and no bloom.

Once or twice a day, open the outside doors to change the air in the house. Plants will not tolerate direct draft, hot or cold.

A healthy plant may set more buds than it can bring to bloom. Do not be alarmed if some of the buds do not develop into blooms. Buds may blast, that is, become brown from over dry, or over wet conditions.

RAISE FOR LEGISLATORS

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuters)—The Lebanese chamber of deputies Friday night decided to double the salaries of all 66 members and all cabinet ministers. The old salaries ranged from £12,000 Lebanese (about $3,500) a year for deputies to £21,000 for ministers and £27,000 for the speaker and premier.

Stirling

STIRLING — On Wednesday evening, January 29th, a monster card party was well attended in the IOOF hall, Charlotte Street, Stirling.

The affair was sponsored by Noble Grand Robert Hulin of the IOOF, and Noble Grand Mrs. Olive Whitehead of Lenox Rebekah Lodge. The two lodges provided the prizes.

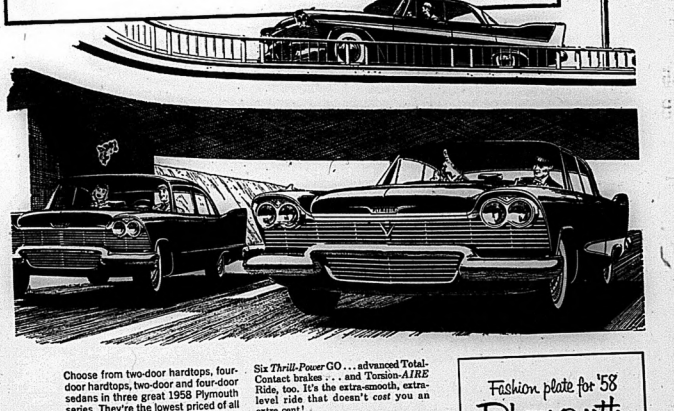
The treasurers were: Miss Adeline Bush, Mrs. Harry Vandervoort and Mrs. Ray Rose.

In the upstairs lodge hall seven tables of bridge were played with Mrs. Albert Wells as convener. The prizes were awarded to:

Ladies' high: Mrs. Bob Hatton; low, Mrs. Harold Baker. Men's high, Mrs. Ralph Vandervoort; low, Mrs. Bob Bastedo (both playing as men.)

Mrs. Percy MacMullen convened the euchre in the dining hall with 24 tables in play. The awards were:

Ladies' high, Mrs. Sid Williams; low, Mrs. Earl Fox; men's high, John Kane; a tie of 76 points between Roy Tucker and James Bailey.



A standing ovation was given Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Orne, of Belleville, who were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary, and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Elliott, Mrs. Arthur Vandervoort, Mrs. Helen Neal, Miss Gena Spry, and their assistants.

SUNSHINE BREAKS THROUGH

The morgue-like smog which has enveloped the spacious press-box of the Kingston Community Centre more times this season than its city habitues care to mention, gradually disappeared as the game progressed on Saturday night.

Near the game end visibility was so good the balding pate of television's "In the Sportlight" (no charge, Max) showed clearly at the far end of the enclosure. At the other end the voice of Kingston's Danny Sullivan, Pop Kelly's brush of a bbey, Johnny, took on a ring of elation as it wafted over the airwaves of Radio CKLC. (this one is also on the house, y' omadhaun.)

One seat over from the behind-the-post throne this department occupied, Pete Handley, who doubles in voice for radio and television CKWS, looked down with a twinge of conscience at the CKLC windbreaker he was wearing. You had to look twice to recognize Pete, he was wearing Der Maxie's "Napanee' chapeau, which replaced the one ruined when Max acted as the filler in a penalty box brawl with two pugnacious players rounding out the sandwich theme.

Max, in fact, was the only member of the balding newsmen who disdained the wearing of a chapeau. Why Handley and another guy we know, were "on the hard to figure out. It's been many a year since they were bothered with hair drooping over their eyes.

The Belleville radio team of Devine and Flagler refused to be perturbed at the strange sight of the Mc-Farlands on the short end of the score in a clash with their arch-rivals from Kingston. They apparently concurred with this observer, that the Macs will get that one back, and in time out. Max, in fact, was sacrifice now and then, is relished by "us" Belleville men.

The good-natured press box attendant who passed the "cokes," compliments of genial Jim McCormack, Community Centre manager, and also the scoring and other statistics as they happened, was a familiar sight to us. He also apparently is an observer of no mean ability. His parting salute which carried no irritatin inclinations was a corner-of-the-mouth stage whisper. "You have a darned good club. It should go places."

On this department's immediate right sat Michael J. Rodden. Two weeks ago when the Pembroke Lumber Kings took Wally Lesser's "play or get out" verdict literally and ran up a win-string of four games, El Mizel unblushingly admitted the Kings would finish in regal splendor at the top of the Eastern senior league heap.

Of course, the admission was made through the medium of the mythical "Major Hoople," whose football prognostication would automatically rule him out of the Royal Order of Yogis and Swamis Hall of Fame. They tell me that after last season's gridiron predictions were summed up, Hoople was deprived of his choice collection of crystal balls, ouija boards, and second-guessing encyclopedia, demoted to freshman status and ordered to take a refresher course at the College of Applied Foot-ball Forecasting. His ruling was in effect.

Naturally Michael was elated as were his city press box colleagues at the turn of events, albeit he had predicted the McFarlands would continue uninterrupted in their current drive to better the Whitby Dunlops' points output.

In one of those rare moments when El Miguel was at a loss for a quick answer, a reporter had asked the reason for the CKLC's spirited shewing. "Perhaps it is the inspiring music of the Quinie Pipe Band. After all, it has been a long year since Kingston racked up a victory with musical sound effects."

Then laying the foundation for the "perfect squelch," Michael gave out with, "The Kingston club should get a pipe band of its own."

The verbal coup-de-grace was immediately forthcoming. A wag, apparently from Belleville quipped from somewhere in the rear: "A bad day, Michael. You have plenty of wind down here with which to play them."

But that did not "faze" Mr. Rodden. He took it in stride and during the after-game rallicry in the press box asked for and received one of the McFarland Booster Club giant pin-backers. Mayor Devine obligingly pinned it on his hat and Michael sallied forth with the red-and-white emblem glistening in plain view on his headgear. He was met with a shower of good-natured ribbing from Kingston fans when he descended into the crowd, but last seen he was striding along a corridor head held high as if proud to wear the emblem of the "hated foemen" from the banks of the Moira.

Gerry Devaney Leads Chevies To Twin Wins Over Kings

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A substitute goaltender helped the Cornwall Civics, cellar-dwellers in the Ontario Hockey Association Eastern Senior A series, to one of their brightest weekends for some time.

Gerry Devaney took over late in the second period of Cornwall's first weekend encounter with Pembroke Lumber Kings after Roy Fredericks had retired with a five-stitch cut. The Kings dominated play throughout the scoreless third period, but were unable to defeat Devaney and the Chevies won 3-0.

In the return game at Cornwall Sunday, Pembroke outshot their hosts 40-25, but Devaney was in sparkling form as the Chevies won 5-1.

Second - period goals by Reg Grigg and Moe Savard completed Cornwall's scoring in their first duel with Pembroke after Ron Muir had given Chevies the lead in the first period. .

Muir and Grigg were also among the scorers in the return game. Neil Burke, George Aitken and Rene St. Hilaire added the others. Jack Giesebrecht scored for the Kings.

Kingston came from behind a 2-1 deficit to beat the McFarlands, scoring two goals in the first period.

Roar Back at Toronto Crew After 9-2 Lacing Saturday; Habs Win Pair Over Weekend

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

After Detroit Red Wings had been pounded 7-0 in Montreal Thursday and 9-2 in Toronto Saturday, National Hockey League fans were fairly well convinced that the Wings are pushovers without Gordie Howe.

The big right winger has been out since Jan. 25 with broken ribs.

But the Wings returned to their home ice last night and by scoring three times in the third period chalked up a 3-1 victory to dash Toronto's chances of climbing in the standings.

The Leafs could have ended up in third place if they had beaten Detroit and if Boston had co-operated by losing to New York Rangers.

Instead, the Bruins beat New York 4-3 on Fleming Mackell's goal midway in the third period. As a result, Boston and Detroit are still tied for third, two points behind Rangers. Toronto remains in fifth, five points ahead of last-place Chicago.

New York beat Chicago 3-2 Saturday.

Montreal continued to add to its lead with its 3-1 wins, one against Boston Saturday on home ice and the other at Chicago.

SHORTHANDED

Th. combined casualty lists for Saturday's Montreal-Bruins game was enough to make up a team. Canadiens were without Maurice Richard, Bernie Geoffrion and Bert Olmstead. Boston lacked Bronco Horvath, Leo Boivin and regular goalie Jim Henry.

Barry Cullen started things off for Toronto Saturday night in the opening 20 minutes with the first two goals. Then Bruce Brian. Ellis collected a pair during the game while Leafs got the scoring points on 25 shots on goal.

Billy Harris, Ron Stewart, George Armstrong, Rudy Migay and Dick Duff were the Toronto spree. Red Kelly and Jack McIntyre were the Detroit scorers.

Red Kelly, who took turns on both defence and left wing, scored the winner Sunday night.

Toronto goalie opened the scoring, Stewart, firing a low shot through a tangle of legs in the second period. Kelly tied Saskatoon.

Three quick goals in the third period gave Detroit the win. Forbes Kennedy tied it up, and with less than three minutes left, Kelly scored and Alex Delvecchio banged home Bill Gadsby.

HEBERTON SHINES

The Saturday afternoon game, which New York won 3-2 over Chicago, provided gentlemanly Andy Hebenton with a shining hour. He scored the first, Ranger winner with 28 seconds, snapping a 24 deadlock in the last of the middle session and adding another at 9.33.

Bill Gadsby got the other New York goal while Lorne Ferguson and Bill Dineen scored for Chicago.

Chicago lost again at home to Montreal. The Canadiens' line of Phil Goyette, Andre Pronovost and Claude Provost did all the Montreal scoring after Chicago took an early first-period lead on Ed Litzenberger's 17th goal of the season.

Dickie Moore's 29th goal and an insurance marker by Jean Beliveau gave Canadiens third win against Boston. The league leader spotted Bruins a goal in the second period when Johnny Bucyk scored, but Marcel Bonin tied it up. The third period was Montreal's.

EXCITING FINISH

The Boston-Rangers game Sunday night topped off close hard play with a wild finish when New York pulled goalie Gump Worsley in the last 50 seconds in favor of an extra forward.

Six penalties, including four majors for fighting, brought both teams to the minimum four players most of the final five minutes.

Andy Bathgate of Rangers scored his 19th and 20th goals of the season and Larry Popein counted the other.

Boston's big period was the second when Allan Stanley, Don McKenney and Johnny Bucyk scored.

Hershey Edges Providence 6-5; Barons Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Because you pay for a ticket to watch an American Hockey League game doesn't always mean that you aren't above to being called to "duty"—particularly if you are an experienced goalie.

That's what happened in Providence R.I., Sunday night as the Hershey Bears called George Dermskian out of the stands to tend their nets when goalie Gil Mayer was injured. Dermskian got the job done as the league-leading Bears defeated the Providence Reds 6-5.

In other action, Cleveland Barons handed the Rochester Americans their second home defeat, 6-1 and Buffalo Bisons scored a 4-3 overtime victory over Springfield Indians.

Saturday night Hershey whipped Providence 7-1. Cleveland downed Buffalo 7 4 and Springfield blanked Providence 4-0.

OVERTIME HERO

Dermskian went to the game with his fiancee but wound up with his sweater and goal pads. The last time he did this was when he defeated Philadelphia Ramblers, losing 4-1 in 1955. His last start was as an amateur more than two years ago, and he has served as practice goalie for the Bears occasionally this year. Mayer sprained his right ankle when hit by a Providence player.

Ed Panagabko's goal less than two minutes from regulation time was the winner for Hershey. Doug O'Brien counted two goals earlier for the Bears. Other scorers were by Arnie Kullman, Lee Haley and Hector Lalonde. Jimmy Bartlett scored for Providence with Bruce Carmichael, with two, Ted Hampson, Jimmy Bartlett and Maurice Collins.

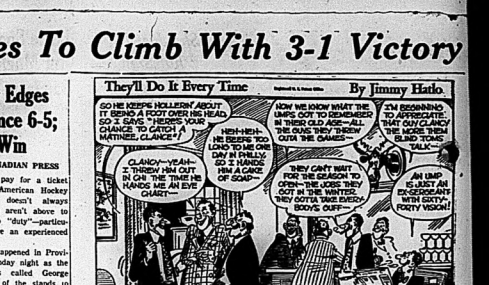
At Rochester, Cleveland poured in one with two goals each scoring twice and Gord Veljavara, Jimmy Moore, Cal Stearns and Steve Krafcheck getting singles. Stan Smrke spoiled Johnny Bower's bid for his eighth shutout.

Wally Hergesheimer's goal — on after the overtime period ended, his second of the game, gave Buffalo the decision over Springfield. Larry Wilson and Lou Jankowski supplied the other Bison tallies. The Springfield scorers were Harry Pidhirney, Cal Gardner and Ken Schinkel.

GOT TWO APIECE

In Saturday's scoring bee at Hershey, Panagabko, Willie Marshall and Dunc Fisher got two goals apiece for the Bears with the others by Dave Creighton and Ed Stankiewicz. Skippy Burchell scored the lone Rochester tally.

Eleven goals were registered at Cleveland as the Barons seized an early lead and held it over Buffalo. Stearns got two for Cleveland and others came from Veljavara, Jimmy Moore, Jackie Gordon, Fred Glover and Steve Kraf. The Buffalo scorers were Ron Ingram, Dick Gamble, Bob Wharram and Harry Watson.



Gerry Ehman scored twice, and Gardner and Bill Amadio once, in the each in Springfield's shutout against Providence. It was the first whitewash job for goalie Claude Evans this season.

MARITIMES COME BACK

HALIFAX (CP) — Maritime hockey is back in the Allan Cup picture after an absence of two years. At a meeting in Halifax Saturday New Glasgow Rangers, Dalhousie and the Nova Scotia Senior Armed Forces League expressed a desire to compete. Winner of the Maritime playoff will have home ice privileges for the full series against Ottawa and district champions.

They'll Do It Every Time

Marlene, Pal Beaten in Women's Final

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—Veterans Marge Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., and Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore rode Miss Lindsay's "crackhanded" putting to their second straight women's international four-ball golf title Sunday.

With Miss Lindsay knocking in putts from 15, 20 and 40 feet, they defeated Mr.. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto and Foothill, and Mrs. Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa, in a 38-hole marathon.

Miss Lindsay and Miss Downey became the first team ever to defend their title successfully in this 15-year-old four-ball event.

Miss Lindsay grips the putter with her left hand below her right, just opposite the usual grip. "My putting was so bad about six years ago, I decided to try it backhanded," she said.

Miss Lindsay backhanded a 10-footer straight to the target to win the 36th hole and send the match into overtime. On the extra holes, it was Miss Downey who came through with crisp chip shots and accurate putts to clinch the match.

HAS JINX ON MARLENE

This was Miss Downey's second extra-hole victory in seven days. She beat Mrs. Streit for the Helen Lee Doherty amateur title on the 37th hole the previous Sunday in nearby Fort Lauderdale.

The four-ball match was close all the way. The wilder ground game by the wind-swept pair was 2-up, a lead the Downey-Lindsay team held briefly on two occasions. The losers were 1-up after nine holes.

The Streit-Johnstone team went ahead when their rivals went one over par the short 12th hole. Miss Lindsay stroked in a 20-footer to keep the match alive on the 35th hole, then got that crucial 10-footer on the 36th.

SALAUN EASY WINNER

TORONTO (CP) — Henri Salaun of Boston Sunday won the Canadian singles squash championship for the third successive year—first time the feat has been accomplished. Salaun also holds the United States amateur title.

Manchester U. Shades Arsenal

LONDON (AP) — Manchester United snatched a 5-4 victory over Arsenal Saturday in an English Soccer league thriller that saw United strike back after the home team had scored three times in as many minutes.

It was the highlight match of a day that saw 11 first-division matches produce 45 goals. Manchester United is third.

League - leading Wolverhampton Wanderers showed the way with a 5-1 slamming of lowly Leicester City. Preston North End maintained second place, downing Birmingham City, 4-2, with the goals by Tom Finney and three each by Tommy Thompson and Sammy Taylor.

Manchester City halted Portsmouth Albion's championship bid, downing them 4-1. The defeat dropped Albion from fourth place.

Charlton defeated Cardiff 3-2 and moved to the top of the second division with 37 points.

SURGERY FOR BOIVIN

BOSTON (AP) — Defenceman Leo Boivin of Boston Bruins underwent an appendectomy Saturday, Dr. Edward R. Browne, team physician, said the 23-year-old Bolvia would be in hospital about 10 days.

Macs Edged 3-2 By Kingston But Retain Seven-Point Top Spot Margin

enalties in Second Period ave Way to Narrow Defeat hevies Whip Kings Twice

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

KINGSTON — The hockey-saturated McFarlands, playing their seventh game in nine nights, bowed to an inspired Kingston CKLC team here Saturday night, dropping a 3-2 decision before a crowd of nearly 2,800 fans, 400 of them from Belleville.

The Macs, however, retained their seven-point margin over the second-place Pembroke Lumber Kings, the northern squad dropping two weekend verdicts to 8-5 and 5-4 decisions to Cherries. The victories brought the riverside team to within a point of the Kingston club.

It was fast close-checking hockey with the teams splitting a brace of goals in the first period. Kingston broke the ice in the second chapter but four consecutive penalties not only wiped out the lead but gave the charging CKLC's a goal advantage. The third period was scoreless, closing with a furious, but futile McFarland effort to close the gap.

Another factor in the Kingston win was the outstanding work of youthful Lynn Davis in the nets. Davis was the target for 29 Belleville shots, while Goalie Bell had 34 fired at him. Kingston goalie was brilliant in the dying seconds when Belleville tossed six attackers into the fray with the CKLC's a man short.

Bellringer scored the "mil-lion-dollar" goal for Kingston, with Bukachevki and Bob Paul getting the others. Bart Bradley racked up his 21st tally for the Macs with Tippazinni, Mac slap-shooting the other. Mar-leneau, Brown, Payette and Hildebrand drew assists. Top-pazzini had two helpers for the CKLC's with Gauthier and Partridge getting singles.

Partridge opened the goal fest on a touch of senseless showmanship in the final seconds of the third period. With his club a man short and the Macs goalie out of the nets, Kingston forward shot into the clear. He decided to stick-handle his way to the open cage before sliding it in the net. Halfway through his thrill-ful end of the game and the Macs nullified. Had Partridge shot his puck from the point of possession, the marker would have counted.

The McFarlands drew eight of the thirteen penalties assessed by Referee Jack Shropshire, three of them collected by Joe Lepine.

The game was 25 seconds old when Thomson drew the first penalty of the game but the Macs could not get untracked to capitalize on the advantage. Three minutes later Bukachevki took a goalmouth passout from Le Mar Tippazinni to put the CKLC's one up.

Lepine was heaved and he was scarcely back when Bradley, Marineau and Brown pulled a short-passing play close in with Bart firing the biscuit home to goal.

Tippazzini and Wiener Brown paced off within minutes of each but Lepine was held. Gauthier was chased with minor penalty with no damage re-sulting.

Floyd Crawford put the Macs one up a minute after the second period opened, his blazing slapshot from the point whistling past Davis. Six minutes later Paul, firing in with Tippazzini and Linesman, beat Bell with a low hard shot. Press box consensus was that the goal was off-side by two feet.

Then came the disastrous penalty outburst. Lepine was hooked, twice with seconds, then Bennett was banned for high sticking and Bellringer fired the winner during the Kingston man-day with Tippazini and Partridge assisting. That proved to be the hockey game. With only two minutes to go Benoit drew his second ser-tence.

Macs failed to take advantage of two quick Kingston penal-ties when Lepine and Thomson went off within a minute of one another. Then all three others were held off at the Macs drive for a min-ute and with Gauthier back the CKLC's ripped back with a man short and nearly scored. Bukachevki broke into the clear, edged Bell neatly out of position, and hit the post.

The Mac offensive lost some of its sting when Crawford was penal-ized at 15:39. Benoit broke away but hit Davis in the pads as Crawford came the Mac's last chance.

Paul was chased for tripping at 18:01 and the second Kingston power play at the foe. They men-ced the CKLC's in but Davis was invincible, kicking out three-rapid shots at point-blank range.

Bell was out at 19.35 and the Kingston net doing everything just as across the line.

The Partridge's one-man goal and that was all.

Irish Defeat Barrie Flyers; Marlies Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Bob Goldham of Toronto St. Michael's is a little worried—his team is scoring too many goals.

The Irish, after banging in 11 goals against Barrie Flyers Friday, walloped the Barrie squad 7-3 Sunday. The win boosted Toronto's record to 37 and took them into third place in the Ontario Hockey Association Up-per A standings.

But, says Coach Goldham, "We're scoring too many. It's got to stop sometime; I just hope it doesn't happen in Hull-Ottawa."

St. Mike's displaced Toronto Marlboros, Sunday's 4-3 victors in 11-4 Friday were on the receiving end Saturday when Teepees blasted them 8-3.

Right winger Chico Maki laid the foundation for the revived win, scoring three goals, two un-assisted in the first period. Maki-captain Ed Hockstra, Matt Ravlich and Wayne Hillman collected the other Bob Bowman counted twice for the Candiens, while Boucher rapped the third.

GAME WON LATE

Two goals in the last three minutes of regular time gave St. Mike's its victory over Barrie. Dave Panagabko counted twice for the Flyers, Mike Westfall, Danny Patrick and Murray Davi-son scoring for Barrie.

Canadiens scored two third-period goals to crack Toronto Marl-boros' shutout.

Dutchies Edge Maroons 3-2; Soo Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

High - powered Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, leaders in the OHA-Senior A series, edged their goals-for total to 200 and their lead in the standings to seven points during the weekend.

The Dutchmen, with 32 wins in 48 games, now have scored more than four goals a game. Chatham Maroons fell 3-2 Saturday.

That Sam Marie Greyhounds, deposed from top place by the Dutchmen a month ago, lost 5-4 to Sudbury Wolves. The win lifted the Wolves out of the cellar slot, nine points behind Soo and above North Bay Trappers, beaten 4-2 by Windsor Bulldogs.

An overtime goal by centre Bill Wylie gave the Dutchmen the win. Defenceman Billy Graham and defenceman Art Hurst scored for the Maroons. Others were Lloyd Ferguson and Jimmy Connelly.

ALBANI INJURED

Ron Albani held up 25 min-utes in the first period when Sud-bury center John Albani, who recently posted his 200th consecutive game for Wolves, was hurt by a stick blow re-opened an old head wound.

Terry Sawchuk, George Senick and Joe Malo scored the other Sudbury goals, John Lumley, Bill Mosienko replying for the Greyhounds.

Windsor received third-period goals gave Windsor victory over North Bay after the Trappers led 2-1.

Champion Wins Grand Prix

Fain held his average speed to 66.29 m.p.h. for the 175.2-mile race.

Luigi Musso of Italy, driving a Ferrari, was second.

Stirling Moss of Moss was in-volved in a two-car crash in the first heat but escaped injury. His car was damaged when he hit a Chevrolet driven by Argentina's Roberto Ricardo Iglesias, also un-hurt.

Jackie Parker Will Remain With Eskimos

EDMONTON (CP) — Jackie Parker, 25-year - old Tennessee terror who has been a thorn in the flesh of Edmonton Eskimos' suc-cess for four years, will be with Eskimos in the Western Football Conference for two more seasons.

Parker signed a three-year con-tract a year ago and an option which gave permission to leave the Alberta National Football League club expired at midnight Sunday. He chose to remain there. The last two years of the contract automatically became in force. Stockbroker Jimmy Parker said: decision, Parker said: stayed."

Quebec Hockey

Montreal Royals and Trois-Rivieres Lions both won Sunday, but remained in the same rela-tive positions at the Quebec Hockey League's bottom.

Quebec's Bob Sabourin scored on Trois-Rivieres goalie Jacques Marcotte a minute after the game started.

Fern Flaman fired two goals for Chicoutimi and Jack Bownass two for Montreal. Moulton's Ball Hockey, Denis Boucher, Gene Achtymichuk, Kelly Burnett and Murray Balfour got the other goals.

Venturi Wins Phoenix Open, Leonard Was Lone Canadian

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Ken Venturi, 26-year-old newcomer to professional golf's winner circle, sank a three-foot putt on the 18th green Sunday to win the $15,000 Phoenix Open, his second tourna-ment victory in a row. He fin-ished at 274.

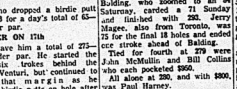
Venturi won this 72-hole tour-nament and $2,000 the hard way. He started the final round with a one-stroke lead over Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla.

He saw that lead shrivel after the first nine holes when he took a sub-par round by Walter Burkemo and the pressure of Herbert.

Burkemo dropped a birdie put on No. 18 for a day's total of 67 to under par.

DISASTER ON 17th



That gave him a total of 275—nine under par. He started the round six strokes behind Leading Venturi, but combined to whittle that margin as he dropped birdie putts on hole after hole. But the one that eventually broke his back was the par-four 17th. He missed a dinky putt to go one over as of four Canadians left in the final rounds to win a money prize. He fashioned a neat 68 Sunday to end with 283 and win $150.

BALDING FADES

Ying Jack Crawford of Van-couver with a final round of 74, ended with 289. Toronto's Al Balding scored 70 on the 84 Saturday, carded a 71 Sunday and finished at 291. Jerry Magee, also from Toronto, was 75 for the final 18 holes and ended at 292 ahead of Balding.

Tied for fourth at 290 were Doug McMillan and Bill Collins, who each pocketed $950.

All alone at 296, and with $800, was Paul Harney.

Sportsmen, Nature-Lovers Differ

Did you ever try to explain to a weaver of the white ribbon that a duck-hunter is not a bad man or some and beneficial thing? Have you tried justifying your right to place a quarter in a slot machine, and to pull the handle, to an anti-cruelty-to-animals society? Or, if you've never dove me, you will find yourself in just a bit of a quandary, when you attempt to explain the joys of the chase to a nature-lov-er. They either go overboard, as a group, simply are not buying any part of it.

Back in 1930, when I was that much younger and more active than I am now, I carried a couple warden's badge in the State of New York. At that time I lived on Rye, on the Million Point near Long Island Sound. Next to us lived a lady who owned a pet crow.

The cat, being a female, who brought into this world at least many kittens, was a careful and resourceful hunter. Not only did she capture rats and mice galore to carry home to her numerous progeny; also, she never missed a stranded neighborhood of nest-ling birds.

Being a warden, I had every legal right to exterminate that miserable feline but, not wishing to start a neighborhood feud, I went to call on he owner. She re-ceived me graciously in her living room. There I attempted to ex-plain to the lady that the New York State Conservation Commis-sion took an exceedingly dim view of predatory cats. I didn't get very far.

"You have a nerve," she in-formed, "coming in here and ex-plaining about a cat that catches a bird once in a while. Why you have a dog that is trained to do nothing else but hunt birds. Good morning. Mr. Warden!"

A SMALL VOICE

In this day and age the com-plaints of the nature lovers take on the aspects of a small voice in a howling blizzard. And the reason for this tendency to be stunned and wrapped up in three little words is the attempt of the National Forest boards when it comes to the preser-vation of the great outdoors and of the creatures that live in it, the nature-lovers simply do not pick up their ears. Why? Search me.

The hunters and fishermen of the country are willing to pay for the sports which they enjoy, and the bill is a heavy one. Every book has clicked at 24 hours, the sportsmen of the nation, in one way or another, lay on the barrel-head one and seven million dollars. Not every month or every year — every day. Now as Al Smith once phrased it, ain't hay.

The large amounts of money that find their way into the hands of hunting and fishing are spent variously. They finance peculiarly groups, both State and Federal, whose only interest is to see to the well-being of game and game spe-cies and that includes fish and game. They are the boys who see better understanding of the com-plex problems of fish and game management, who fight for funds for research and manufacture of better tools of the trade, such as ammunition, fishing tackle, boats, outdoor clothing and breeds of sporting dogs. No money is ever wasted.

Admittedly, hunting and fishing have their cruel aspects. This is especially true of hunting. Wound-ed animals and birds are an ines-capable by-produce. Fortunate-ly, these creatures recover quick-ly or die quickly. And, to allevi-ate the situation, the sense of pain of these wounded creatures is not nearly as acute a that of humans. That has been scientific-ally proven. This, hunting is not the cruel sport it appears to be at first glance.

One feature in particular that the nature-lovers miss is the pure delight that the fruits of the chase bring to the table. Venison, prop-erly cooked, is far ahead of any other meat. Game birds, straight across the board, are more flavorful than chicken or beef. And what keep on ordering chops and steaks, meanwhile lab-eling the hunters as cut-throats and licensed murderers.

Every man, or woman, is entitled to his or her opinion. Moreover, that opinion can be ex-pressed freely in the U.S.A. Even so long as it is an honest one and true. As Rudyard Kipling put it, in East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet." That, I am sure, is the case with Canada, a true of the sportsmen and the nature-lovers. Where I disagree is it just as well that they don't meet, for surely a useful purpose will be served. Meanwhile the sportsmen and sportswomen of the nation will continue to lay out good, hard, non-idealistic cash to insure that the natural resources shall be passed on to future generations in as good or better condition than we found them.

Industrial Hockey

Hillcrest Wreckers moved into first place in the Industrial Hockey League over the week-end by shading Don's Delivery 4-3, in another contest the Tex-rons climbed into sole possession of the fourth and final playoff spot by outscoring Tweed 9-8.

With just three weeks re-maining in the schedule Hill-crest holds down first place with 13 points, Point Anne has 12, but has played one less game than Hillcrest, while Don's Delivery is third with 11. Tex-rons have seven points, Circle Inn five and Tweed zero.

Ken Gwynne threatened with a six-goal performance to pace the Terrors' 9-8 victory. He collected a pair and Fred Carmichael had the other. Doug Forgie and Gary Genereux each tallied three goals for Tweed with Don Lizard getting the other tallied three goals for

Ontario Golf Tourney Set For Kingston

TORONTO (CP) — The Catara-qui Golf and Country Club at Kingston has been picked for the 1958 Ontario open championships June 13 and 14, it was announced Saturday by the Ontario Golf As-sociation.

The amateur championship will be at the Dundas Valley Golf and Country Club, Dundas, June 25 to 28.

Retiring president H. W. Davis of Kingston told the meeting 17 clubs joined the association in 1957 bringing total membership to 129 and 12,000 golfers. Golf has made "encouraging pro-gress," Davis said.

The aim of the association reve-nue is "inadequate to meet the requirements of our steadily ex-panding membership and today's increased operating costs." A sol-icitation is being sought by the as-sociation's governors.

New directors include M. Stoughton of North Bay.

American Wins Pooch Derby

QUEBEC (CP) — Dr. Roland Lombard of Auberndale, Mass., won the Quebec International Sled Dog Derby at a two-minute, 21-second margin.

Dr. Lombard completed the third 23-mile lap in two hours, 22 minutes and 47 seconds, with Jean Lapointe of Art Allan of Cedar Rapids, Iowa and Le Pas, Man. finishing second with 7:12:48 against Allan's 7:14:25. Lombard picked up $1,500 and Allan $750.

Delany Looks To Olympics After 18th Straight Mile Win

BOSTON (AP)—Irish Ron De-lany, the turkey-trotting marvel of track, is looking ahead to the 1960 Olympics while still at his victory shrine at the expense of all challengers on the indoor cir-cuit.

"I want to win the 1,500-metre championship in the Olympics again in 1960," the determined Villanova University senior from Dublin said.

Unlike some gold medal win-ners who complained of a let-down after their victories at Mel-bourne two years ago, Delany said he thinks his triumph served to better his competitive desire.

"When I won in Melbourne it was a great thrill," he said. "I'm not decided right then and there that I had another job to do in four years—retain my champion-ship.

There is little doubt he is the top miler on the boards.

The flying Irishman with the "kangaroo kick" Sunday set 18th straight indoor mile triumph Sat-urday night with a 4:07.7 effort in the Boston Athletic Associa-tion games.

Delany, with a typical ef-fort, remaining just off the pace and then closing with a rush to edge Bruce Kidd of North Carolina was a surprising runner-up.

Deacon Jones of the University of Iowa won the two-mile event in 9:01.1, formally-declared by Yugoslavia's Velisa Mugosa. Dave Kyle, student at the gradu-ate school of the University of Michigan from Hamilton, Ont., was third.

Soccer Fans Mob Officials In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hun-dreds of soccer fans mobbed a referee and linesman during a game here Sunday. It took six carloads of police to quell the outburst.

The disturbance broke out in the second half of a mainland soccer league game between Westminster Legion and Cohen-ban. When Legion leading 2-1, linesmen Percy Mitchell disall-owed a Columbus goal because of an offside.

Hundreds of Columbus support-ers rushed Mitchell. When ref-eree Jack Jones came to his as-sistance, both officials were mob-bed.

The outraged fans broke up when half a dozen carloads of po-lice arrived at the scene.

Jones said he was struck sev-eral times but not hurt. Mitchell suffered a bruised thigh when kicked.

Jones raid Gras Franzon, Columbus player, and a few play-ers from the Legion club "did their utmost to keep the fans off." Said Mitchell and himself might have been badly hurt.

Jones said he intends to prose-cute one of the men who attacked him.

Police made no arrests at the scene.

The game was awarded to Le-gion 2-1.

Russian Star Gets Heave-Ho; Too Much Vodka

MOSCOW (AP) — Edouard Streltsov, one of Russia's soccer stars, has been kicked out the na-tional Soviet team and reduced to bush league status in an af-ter of several drunken escapa-des.

The newspaper Trud reported Streltsov's demotion. The news-paper Komsomolskaya Pravda carried a report that several stars have been warned.

The demonstration broke on the eve of the team's departure for an international meet. It also came at a time when the So-viet state committees for sports is urging its teams to do well in world championships in Sweden.

Komsomolskaya Pravda listed two which included "drinking sessions, turning up drunk for training, speeding and driving around in flashy limousines while a lower-member ebe-tew team were transported in humble buses."

Streltsov now has to purge him-self and work his way through the ranks if he ever wants to play league soccer again, the newspaper added.

THEIR SIX-WEEK SPREE ENDS

Missing from her Toronto home since Dec. 17, Joan Hilda Searle, 17, is being held in Houston, Texas, when her companion, Peter Martin, 30, was arrested for passing bogus cheques. Police say Martin took the girl on a six-week spree across 20 states. He was taken into custody when he posed as a news photographer and paraded through a Houston hotel, saying: "Where are the millionaires? I want to photograph them." Miss Searle said she and Martin had tried to get married several times, but she could not identify herself. She still wishes to marry him.

Minor Hockey

The goalies were hot again Saturday morning in the bantam hockey league as no less than three of the four games ended in shutouts for the winning side.

Barons blanked the Red Wings 4-0 with Peter McNevin hosting out plenty of rubber to gain his shutout. B. Jeffery, Harold Trent, Rob Blaker and Gary Wood each scored one goal while assists went to Morgan, Follwell, Bill Rushlow and Angus.

Jack Hannah starred in the nets as the Browns blanked the Maple Leafs 1-0. Rod Turner fired the game's lone goal with Hull assisting.

Bill Meens registered the shutout as Bruins defeated the Rangers 4-0. Jim Maund was the scoring hero with three goals, all assisted by Williams. David Blakely also scored while Andrews had one assist.

Canadiens took a 5-1 decision over the Black Hawks with Gary Reid scoring twice. Single goals went to Fred Stafford, Jerry Jones and Jim Rutherford. B. Skinner had a pair of assists and Duval one. L. Adams scored the lone Hawk goal.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was reading a letter with a lot of pages to it at breakfast, and pop said, Is that a letter or a book?

Luella Lorden always writes long intristing letters, ma said. When I think of her deliberly sitting down and taking all that time and trubble to riggle me with page after page of facts and stories, I feel very flattered and appreciativ, she said, and pop said, That's the kind of a letter that calls for a prompt reply.

That's just what I've been telling myself between the lines, ma said. She deserves a long letter in return, but whenever I write more than a page my mind seems to grew blanker than the next sheet of paper and I start to repeet myself. I'm sure Luella would think I was making a dismal effort to addo her at her own game. But on the other hand if I content myself with my usual short but sincere letter it will seem like a paltry return for Luella's 6 effusive pages, won't it, William? she said.

Well, I admit you've got a problem there, pop said, and ma said, I really have, William, but I dont know how to solve it. I'll send her the prettiest picture postcard I can buy and I'll tell her that I just couldn't wait to acknowledge her lovely letter, and that I'll write at length. I know "at length" means long and fully, but it also means sooner or later, or finally and at last, so my conscience will be clear. Do you see what I mean, William? she said.

I see it's still a woman's world, pop said, and he folded his paper and kissed her goodbye.

New Oscar Show Will Not Be Sponsored One This Year

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This year we'll see a new Oscar, stripped of his signboard and excess fat.

This is the word from George Seaton, president of the Motion Picture Academy, who is in the throes of putting together Hollywood's biggest show March 19. And it will be a big one, without doubt.

No more will Oscar have to advertise an automobile, since the industry has chipped in to pick up the tab instead of a television sponsor. And the event has been trimmed of at least seven awards, bringing the total to 21.

"I think we'll have a very good show," Seaton said cautiously. "It won't be the biggest show of all time, as I have heard, but we are going to do the best we can.

NOT A SPECTACULAR

"We're not aiming for a spectacular; we figure this as a Hollywood event rather than a show. It's like planning a political convention; there's a need to conceal all the speeches just to please the home viewers.

"But I think there will be special interest in seeing people who aren't regulars on TV," Like Clark Cable. We've asked him to be a presenter, but he said he always had it in his contract that he would endorse no commercial product. He agreed, if he went on a sponsored show, that would comprise an endorsement."

"This year, since the industry is sponsoring the show, he has agreed to appear. And there will be many other big names too.

The elimination of awards, long a sleep-inducer for ordinary viewers, has been shaved—though not without protest.

TRIM CATEGORIES

"We eliminated five by ending the distinction between color and black-and-white categories," Seaton explained. "We also started the days when color pictures were rare and special recognition was warranted."

"But there isn't so much distinction now, since about 20 per cent of the contending films are in color. And I think the voters can assess the value of good black-and - white pictures, especially after such winners as Marty, On The Waterfront and From Here To Eternity."

Writing and a music award also vanished, over protests from writers and musicians. There also has been complaint that only the academy members will nominate and vote the final awards this year. In recent times, members of all the crafts and guilds nominated.

"That was started a time when the academy was in poor straits," said Seaton. "Membership was around 200, and you wouldn't get a representative vote. But now we have over 2,000 members, affording a fair cross - section of responsible voters.

"Under the old system, an actor member could complain that his role was "equal to that of a barber who had acted in one scene," and still held a guild card in hopes he might get another job."

Indian Senator Highly Respected In West Canada

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—James Gladstone, 70-year - old member of the Blood Indian tribe whose appointment as the first Indian senator in Canada's history was announced Saturday, is known in his native Blackfoot tongue as Akay - Na - Muka or Many Guns.

He has devoted much of his life to the betterment of the Indians of Canada and has been president of the Indian Association of Alberta. Several times he has travelled to Ottawa to fight for the rights of his people.

Mr. Gladstone was one of the first group of boys enrolled at St. Paul's Anglican Mission on the Blood reserve in Southern Alberta.

In 1903, he transferred to the industrial school in Calgary and learned the trade of printer. In 1904, he served part of his training in the composing room of the Calgary Herald where he was a typesetter.

Mr. Gladstone left school in 1905 and worked as an interpreter at the reserve mission. For several years, until 1911, he worked on various ranches in the Fort Macleod district 30 miles west of here.

During the First World War, he was employed to put large areas of the Blood reserve into crop to help the war effort.

In 1929, he began his own ranch about five miles north of Cardston.

Today, in partnership with his two sons, he runs the head of cattle and has 800 acres under cultivation.

Mr. Gladstone usually operated independently of the Indian agents. He was the first Indian on the reserve to buy a tractor. Always, he was willing to adopt new methods—he was the first to use power machinery, chemical sprays, and the first to get electricity into his house.

One of his four daughters is a graduate nurse who for many years was at the Royal Jubilee Hospital in Victoria. In 1937, she was one of two girls chosen to represent Canadian Indians at the Coronation of King George VI in London.

During his work with the Indian Association of Alberta, Senator Gladstone was a delegate to Ottawa on three occasions to discuss proposed changes in the Indian Act and to voice the opinions of his people.

On the reserve he has been a strong supporter of native traditions and religious practices.

Groucho Marx Livens up Old New York With Visit

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Groucho Marx, a young man from California, blew into New York like a refreshing breeze into a musty room.

Once he had ensconced himself in his rather fabulous apartment of his friend, comedian Ernie Kovacs (who has a refrigerator in one of his bathrooms, etc., etc.), Groucho went about cheerfully insulting all forms of presentiousness and gaily assaulting some of the crustier institutions.

Numerous New Yorkers, suffering lately from advanced stages of stuffiness, loved it. Television sponsors, television critics, professors, waiters . . . everyone laughed who was the butt of his wit, which is the word usually employed to describe his ruthless honesty.

DENOUNCES EATERY

When waiters bowed and fanned Him into a posh restaurant, he remarked to the headwaiter: "This is the only restaurant in the world where it takes eight waiters to find a table for you."

Seated, he looked around and said: "Everybody here is eating on an expense account. Who pays? The poor American taxpayer." Ordering chopped beef, he told the head waiter: "I can remember when a hamburger cost 25 cents. Now it costs four dollars. Why can't they keep prices down to the ordinary family level?"

Turning to a so-called television critic, he asked: "Why are there television critics? They're the only critics the world has ever known who criticize things the world will never see again."

RING OF TRUTH

These remarks, reduced to cold print, are not devastatingly witty. But the critic could only smile as delightedly as had the head waiter. Why? Because, even as the head waiter may have had secret misgivings about the high price of hamburger, the critic often had doubts about the importance of reviewing dead ducks.

Groucho, who came to New York just for the heck of it, appeared on one of his favorite television shows, The Last Word (CBS-TV), presided over by his friend, Dr. Bergan Evans. Since he didn't exactly favorably impress the show a week ago Sunday, he defeated considerably the slightly dull dialectic that occasionally assails that excellent program.

It was refreshing to hear him call Evans "Bergie" and cross verbal foils with John Mason Brown. Even more refreshing, however, was to hear Groucho, a sponsored entertainer, say that television sponsors are overtimid and generally exert a repressive force on creative talent.

NO ROOM FOR WILL

"There's too much conformity in the world today," he said later. "There's too much timidity. If Will Rogers were alive today he wouldn't dare make fun of Congress and be the critical wit he was way back when. They'd run him out of the country."

Does Groucho feel that his sponsor has played hob with what he wanted to do during eight years on television?

"Not at all," he said. "There was nothing personal in the remark. It's just a general truth that everybody in the business recognizes and that nobody has the nerve to say publicly. There never was anything about the kind of quiz show I do that could prices down a sponsor upset."

There are reports that he's losing his sponsor this year, if he does, there are several others who want to sign him up.

CONDEMN EX-OFFICIAL

PARIS (Reuters) — The high court Thursday condemned Colonel Guerard, secretary-general of the wartime Vichy government, to five years national indignity for collaboration with the Germans. The court lifted the sentence immediately, thus turning it into a condemnation only. The main accusation against Guerard was that he was associated with the pro-German policy of Vichy premier Pierre

GETS BIG CROWD

PORT of SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) Billy Graham spoke before a crowd estimated at more than 20,000 persons here Saturday as he continued his Caribbean crusade. Officials said it was the biggest church assembly ever held in Trinidad. Residents travelled by train, bus, auto and donkey carts from all corners of the island to hear the Evangelist.

BELIEVE IN DREAMS?

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Donald Johnson, a 22-year-old airman stationed at nearby Tinker air force base, said he dreamed several nights ago he and his wife lost a race with the stork and he had to deliver the new arrival. Sunday, Johnson's wife gave birth to a seven-pound, nine-ounce boy — in the couple's car. Johnson delivered the child single-handed.

Unemployment Will Be One Of Top Issues in Campaign

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's voters can expect to hear a lot about their own well-being in this winter's election campaign.

Unemployment and trade—the economic problems of individuals, industries and commerce—shape up as top issues for the four major political parties to argue over during the battle for the March 31 vote.

Leaders of the four parties are planning strenuous cross-country campaigns to carry the word on what they would do about those and other issues.

Unemployment will be the key word. Given its extent will provoke arguments.

ALSO NES FIGURES

But voters are virtually certain to hear about another figure—the total of registered job applicants at National Employment Service offices. This was 796,000 on Jan. 9. The government says it includes an unknown number who want to switch from one job to another, or who have found jobs on their own without cancelling their applications.

The Liberal argument on that score already is on the record in speeches by party leader Lester B. Pearson and others: That unemployment has resulted from public uncertainty over the Progressive Conservative government's policies.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker reiterated his stand in what was, in effect, a campaign - opener speech Saturday night at the closing banquet of the young Progressive Conservative Association's national convention.

He asked that his minority government be given a majority on Monday, March 31 "on behalf of Parliament and a great Canada" and so that it could act effectively to meet unemployment and trade difficulties.

For a majority it would need at least 133 of the 265 Commons seats, instead of the 123 it held before dissolution of Parliament Saturday. The Liberals had 106 members, the CCF 25, Social Credit 19 and there were two Independents.

BLAMES LIBERALS

Mr. Diefenbaker also blamed the former Liberal government for the economic slump, claiming it "ignored a confidential report a year ago from government economists warning that economic trouble was brewing."

As for the CCF and Social Credit parties, their spokesmen already have said that both Conservative and Liberal governments must share the blame for economic troubles.

The campaign plans of the four party leaders are expected to be made known this week.

The 52-year-old prime minister hopes to fly to Newfoundland for a few days at the end of this week, if fog conditions there permit. It is probable he will formally open his campaign later in central Canada. It is unlikely he will match the hectic pace of his campaign fight last year.

LIBERALS TO MEET

Liberal members of the last Parliament were to meet today to discuss election plans. Mr. Pearson scheduled a press conference for noon.

He is expected to travel as widely and as fast as winter weather conditions permit. The 60-year-old leader, chosen Jan. 16 to head the party, had said previously he was ready for an election at any time but would have preferred a little more time to get his party organization going.

Both M. J. Coldwell, 69-year-old head of the CCF, and Solon Low, 58, Social Credit leader, are prepared for full - dress campaigns.

Mr. Coldwell suffered a heart attack in February of last year and Mr. Low was ill for the same reason in the fall of 1954.

Stanley Knowles, deputy CCF leader, said Mr. Coldwell now "feels equal to an all-out election campaign." The CCF leader left Saturday for speeches in Charlottetown and Halifax and missed the dissolution of Parliament.

Mr. Knowles said the party's election campaign will be discussed at a meeting of the CCF national executive in Toronto Monday or Tuesday.

FEELS FIT

Mr. Low said he feels fit and ready for a strenuous campaign. A Social Credit caucus meeting today was to discuss campaign plans.

The Social Credit leader said a national party convention planned for Winnipeg this spring now will be postponed until fall.

Mr. Diefenbaker got the jump on other party leaders in campaigning with his speech Saturday night to the Young Progressive Conservatives, a day or three hours after he had announced in the Commons the dissolution of Parliament and the election date.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he wants a new mandate for his government to ensure "equality of opportunity in all parts of Canada."

He replied to the argument of Mr. Pearson — that the government should stay in Parliament and meet current problems—by saying the government will be carried on during the campaign as it always is between sessions of Parliament.

As part of its campaign to meet unemployment, he said the government planned $140,000,000 in expenditures on public projects in the first three months of this year, with another $146,000,000 in the following three months.

DISMISSES CHARGE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The army Saturday dismissed charges against a lieutenant in Germany who allegedly refused to shake hands with a Negro captain. Lieut. William B. Morton, 33, of San Antonio, Texas had been charged with disrespect and insult. The army gave no reason for dropping the charges.

WITNESS TO ROBBERY OFFICER SHOOTS THIEF

Witness to a robbery while in a Toronto bank, RCMP Constable R. Hughes, 24, shot one of the three robbers in the chest and possibly wounded the others as they sped away in a car. The officer would not shoot while the gunmen were in the bank for fear of hitting spectators or bank employees, but as soon as they left the bank he ran after them, firing as he ran. One of the men pointed a shotgun at him but did not fire. The car was later recovered with bloodstains on the seat.

2nd THURLOW

Surprise Party, Euchre, House Warming Held

2nd THURLOW — Mr. and Mrs. S. Ray, Mr. and Mrs. Corah Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Grills, arranged a house-warming surprise party and presentation for Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Reid who have moved into their new home.

Euchre and dancing were enjoyed during the evening, with over 40 friends and neighbors present.

Mr. Corah Howard called the gathering to order and after making suitable remarks and wishing Mr. and Mrs. Reid health and happiness in their new home, they were presented with a chenille bedspread and two dresser lamps. Marg and Fletchey made suitable replies, thanking all for the lovely gifts.

Refreshments were served by the ladies and an enjoyable time spent.

Consumer Price Index Resumes Its Rise, Pushing Back to High Reached in October

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index rose three-tenths of a point at the start of January, pushing the yardstick of living costs up to the high of 123.4 established in October, 1957.

The bureau of statistics said today the rise from 123.1 at the start of December resulted from higher food costs and price increase for items covered by the bulk of consumer commodities and service grouping including newspapers in 13 cities and hospital rates in Winnipeg.

The food subindex rose six-tenths of a point to 119.4 from 118.8 while the index for other commodities and services increased seven-tenths of a point to 129.1 from 128.4.

Among other subindexes, shelter dipped to 136.6 from 136.7 and clothing to 108.8 from 109.6 but household operations edged up to 120.8 from 120.6.

BEEF COSTS UP

The bureau said the rise in the food subindex resulted from the strength in beef prices with some cuts up four cents a pound, substantially higher prices for lamb, frozen citrus fruits and lamb and cheese increases for fresh vegetables and veal. Eggs were down, three cents a dozen and pork fractionally and the few food items that showed price declines.

The increase in the other commodities and services subindex caused mainly by higher newspaper prices and boosts in hospital rates in Winnipeg—more than 1 in 20 nationwide—and prices for new passenger cars and gasoline.

Mixed price trends in household operation items caused a rise of less than a slight one in this subindex. Coal prices were higher but fuel oil and domestic gasoline prices dipped.

A number of furniture items moved down slightly in price but living room suites sold at higher prices. Electrical appliances, particularly refrigerators, declined in price but household supplies and services were up.

The decline in the shelter subindex reflected only a slight one in this subindex. Coal prices were

Five Children Burned to Death At Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP)—Five children, including twin brothers, were burned to death Monday in their home while their mother watched helplessly.

The youngsters, ranging in age from four months to five years, were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cardinal of Lac la Biche, about 100 miles northeast of here.

The tragedy brought to 11 the number of fire deaths in Alberta and Saskatchewan in three days.

The Cardinal children who died were Raymond, 5, Vivian, 3, twins Gerry and Gary, 16 months, and four-months-old Terry.

Police said they died in the Cardinal cabin three miles south of the town while the mother worked in a building 75 feet away and the father attended to business in town.

By the time Mrs. Cardinal noticed the fire, the heat was so intense she could not go near the house. Cause of the fire, which destroyed the home, was not determined.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A strong northwesterly flow of air over Ontario is still causing chilly conditions throughout the province. In southwestern Ontario, clear skies during the night permitted temperatures to drop to 10 below zero. In Southern Ontario, cloudy skies held temperatures near 20 above.

The storm which moved through the Maritimes Sunday has now moved to central Quebec. This storm has been responsible for substantial snowfalls along northwesterly flow of cold air over Ontario for the past few days and there appears to be little change in store for Wednesday.

Tonight temperatures will range from near 30 in Southern Ontario to near or below zero in Northern Ontario while afternoon temperatures will be 10 to 15 degrees higher.

Evidence Shows Man Could Live In U.S. Satellite Now in Orbit

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Evidence that man could live in a satellite is being radioed back continually to the men monitoring the first American moon.

Engineers consider the satellite are well within the range that human beings can tolerate and so far there has been no damage from meteorites, scientists have disclosed.

They added that the satellite's instruments also have recorded no indication the safe exposure limits for man. Hence these rays will not be a menace to space flight.

The men who developed the United States satellite told a press conference that temperatures within the, tiny man-made moon are somewhere between 18 and 30 degrees Centigrade. That means between 50 and 86 degrees Fahrenheit, or as scientists say "room temperature."

"We designed the satellite to maintain these temperatures," said Dr. A. H. Hibbs, "and radioed back from the satellite indicate our plans were successful."

Hibbs, 33, is section chief of the satellite research program at California Institute of Technology's jet propulsion laboratory.

The explorer was designed primarily to test instruments in space, the chief of the informa tion it radios back to earth will have value when a manned satellite is launched, Hibbs said.

"We will control the heat even more closely," he said, "and build an even harder shell for protection against meteorites."

He said he could not comment on when a manned satellite would be launched.

The explorer's inner heat is determined by controlling the amount of solar radiation allowed to penetrate the shell. This was accomplished by "striping" the satellite with zirconium oxide, a white reflective paint.

Diefenbaker, Pearson Trade Shots on Employment Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — All four parties made pre-election manoeuvres on Parliament Hill Monday and Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson actually exchanged shots.

Mr. Pearson told a press conference "jobs and trade" would be his party's main election campaign issues. The Liberals would fill at government's refusal to deal with unemployment "except in isolated measures."

Mr. Diefenbaker, in an interview, countered with: "The Canadian people recognize that the reasons for the unemployment situation were the tight money policy of the Liberal government and its failure to maintain our markets."

The cabinet met once, and the prime minister also met with his Progressive Conservative campaign advisers.

At his press conference, following a morning Liberal caucus, Mr. Pearson said Canada would have unemployment as the matter what government was in power. "But I believe that this government) have made the problem more difficult by indecision and confidence.

"Irrespective of how we got into it, the issue before us now is how are we going to get out of it," he said.

In natural election chances, he was confident "we will make a first class showing." Later, following the afternoon party caucus, he told reporters his followers were "brimming with enthusiasm."

The prime minister, asked his opinion of the election outcome, just smiled.

There were unconfirmed reports some Liberals made suggestions in the caucus for shaking loose from a so-called "old guard" group. Elements in the party felt the group did not do a good enough job in the campaign before the Liberal election defeat last June.

However, best information was that there was no caucus revolt and a round of cheers for Mr. Pearson could be heard from outside the room.

Mr. Pearson said only that various members had made "constructive suggestions" for the coming campaign.

He said another issue was the government's failure to bring a budget before Parliament.

Mr. Pearson described Mr. Diefenbaker's dramatic dissolution of Parliament Saturday as "almost Cromwellian." (Oliver Cromwell dissolved the Parliament for 1653 to 1658, dealt high handedly with his country's Parliament).

Told of this, Mr. Diefenbaker said: "I am glad to see this interest in the rights of Parliament."

Six Children Burned to Death In Gaspe Village

ST. LOUIS, Que. (CP) — Six members of the same family were burned to death today when fire destroyed their home in their little Gaspe Peninsula village.

The victims, children of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Berthelot, were trapped upstairs. They were Jean-Marie, 14, Huguette, 11, Lisette, 9, Jean-Yves, 6, and Vital, 18 months.

MORE

Mr. Bethelot, 42, Mrs. Berthelot, 36, their daughter Francoise, 16, and their son Raymond, 12, were taked to hospital suffering from burns.

The fire started at 6 a.m. and quickly raced through the two-storey frame house. All the victims were asleep when the fire started.

Police said the fire started when Franchoise tried to light the stove with napalm. A violent explosion followed and flames spread through the house with lightning speed.

Mr. and Mrs. Berthelot vainly tried to reach their children on the second floor but flames blocked their path. They were

HOME CARE NURSE PLAN OBJECTIVE OF LEGISLATURE

Would Cut Hospital, Institutional Care

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government has announced plans for a record spending year.

The speech from the throne opening the provincial legislature Monday indicated the government plans record expenditures for highways, public works and education and more money for health and unemployment.

The 2,500-word address, read by Lieutenant-Governor Keiller Mackay, who succeeded Hon. Louis Orville Breithaupt Dec. 31, indicated two aspects to the government's program unique in Canada.

One is a system of homemakers' and nursing services designed to help keep broken family life and reduce hospital and institutional care requirements and costs. It is widely used in Europe.

The other is a definite program of anti-discrimination education which will enable the government to administer it and integrate Ontario laws dealing with human rights.

The homemakers' service will provide for the care of children in homes in which the mother, for instance, needs hospital care and relatives are not able to provide assistance. It will also provide nursing services for the aged, the chronically ill and convalescents.

SHARE COSTS

The province and municipalities will share costs equally.

The contemplated human rights commission will try to make the community aware of existing anti-discrimination laws and promote respect for the general principles of human rights through mailing campaigns and special publications.

Education grants—largest ever in the province—will be based on a new formula into account an equalized assessment across the province, special attention to growth - need factor. University students will be helped by interest - free bursaries and a new system of students' aid loans.

Highway grants will be expanded. There will be legislation to control highway pollution.

TO MODERNIZE ACT

The legislature will be asked to vote funds for increases in age assistance pensions, disability pensions and allowances for the blind. Improvements are planned in mothers' and dependents' allowances relief. The province's Unemployment Relief Act will be modernized and named the General Welfare Assistance Act.

Premier Frost named Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy (PC—Peel), a legislature member for 25 years, to succeed him in the throne speech today. Seconder will be Hon. Gordon Conant (PC—Glengarry), serving his first term in the legislature.

Northumberland Riding Returning Officer Changed

COLBORNE, Ont. (CP) — Gordon F. Rutherford said today he has been dismissed as returning officer in Northumberland federal riding "because there's a new government in Ottawa."

Ben Thompson, Progressive Conservative member for Northumberland, said in nearby Brighton he understands Mr. Rutherford has been dismissed because he engaged in political partisanship. He said it was "possible" that he had seen Mr. Rutherford at the Liberal convention in Ottawa last January.

Mr. Rutherford said he got his "walking papers Saturday," but expressed surprise at the mention of partisanship charges. "As a matter of fact, I was almost home before the election results were announced."

At Ottawa, chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay said that of 31 changes in returning officers since the June 10, 1957 election one was for political partisanship.

Diefenbaker Likely To Name Senators Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expected to announce appointments to the senate soon.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in the commons Monday he hopes to announce the appointments "in the near future."

Mr. Diefenbaker was asked by Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson if he intended to fill the vacancies in the senate before the next session of parliament.

Mr. Pearson said he was not asking for a commitment but he thought the senate should be filled before the session opens.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he hopes to announce the appointments in the near future.

CLOTHES, JEWELS OF PRINCESS STOLEN FROM CAR

Bobbies Seek Thief With 'Hottest' Haul

LONDON (Reuters) — The "hottest" haul in town—and the thief who stole it—were the targets of an all-out police search today.

The haul was clothes and jewelry of Princess Alexandra, daughter of the Duchess of Kent and a cousin of Queen Elizabeth.

Every London policeman received a description of the royal belongings, plus a terse order from his superiors: "Find them."

The clothes and jewelry, of undisclosed value, were in two blue canvas travelling bags stolen early Monday from a car in London's Notting Hill section.

The car belonged to 23-year-old David Bailey, tall, handsome, curly-haired son of a wealthy family, who had driven the princess back from a country house party.

Before taking her home to Kensington Palace, he invited her to have a midnight cup of coffee at his parents' house. The couple spent half an hour in the house and discovered the theft upon returning to the car.

The butler at the family residence today was quoted as saying: Bailey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Graham Bailey, are abroad. He added that the son had "gone away for a few days."

May Fire Moon to Gather Data For Building Space Station

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strong winds put a damper on any new United States satellite firing today as scientists came up with more details of Explorer I, the army satellite circling the globe every 114 minutes.

There was no damper on planning, however.

Army scientists are reported to be proposing that an elaborate satellite, launch an instrumented and weighing up to 700 pounds, be fired before the end of the year to gather data for building a space station. It would be the fourth artificial moon in the ambitious satellite program advocated by military scientists.

And the navy is said to be hoping to put a 20-inch satellite in orbit on schedule this month despite delays in preliminary tests.

At present, though, the navy is waiting to fire aloft its first six-inch test sphere when weather permits.

A slim, 72 - foot Vanguard rocket, which the navy and aerojet, stood on a launching pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla., awaiting crowds throughout Monday. But high winds for the third straight day forced the navy to wait today any new firing attempts.

Officials said the Vanguard is much more sensitive to ground winds than the army Jupiter-C missile which successfully put the first U.S. space satellite into orbit last Friday.

The army has another Jupiter-C on a nearby launching pad, but apparently is not ready for a second satellite firing.

Army scientists, buoyed by public success with Explorer I, plan to launch some time before now and April a second Explorer.

Already they are planning toward a third satellite, weighing 20 0 pounds and equipped with television for reconnaissance. That would be followed by the 700-pound explorer IV as the forerunner of a space station.

It was learned Monday that Dr. Wernher von Braun, Maj.-Gen. John B. Medaris and others instrumental in developing Explorer I have asked the army for permission to start building the huge satellite.

They contend they could do the job with the basic Redstone rocket-to-rocket which put Explorer I in orbit.

Meanwhile, scientists associated with the organization on Explorer I, the 6½-foot tube-like satellite now racing around the globe for the fourth day.

At Cambridge, Mass., Dr. Don Lautman, senior scientist at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, supported earlier claims that Explorer could last for as long as 10 years.

An observatory spokesman said Lautman based his opinion on the Explorer's orbiting at a higher altitude than the Soviet Sputniks that it presents a smaller cross section and is much heavier—three like a bullet. All these, he said, are factors reducing atmospheric drag. Sputnik I went down after about three months.

Strike Is Likely As CNR Proposes Similar Program

Unanimous Ruling Holds Firemen Not Necessary

OTTAWA (CP) — The Kellock royal commission on the CPR diesel issue has recommended that the railway seek changes in the wake of a royal commission's findings that diesel helpers are unnecessary on freight and yard operations.

The CPR announced it will abide by the findings.

The CNR said it will seek a new contract negotiations to assure "sole discretion" of the use of firemen on other than steam-power locomotives.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) struck over this issue in January, 1957, with the CPR's rail system tied up for nine days.

It was the country's first rail paralysis in the country's history, topped only by a 1950 strike of non-operating employees that crippled both the major railways.

The union has stated it will have to consider the report of the royal commission before deciding whether to continue its fight with the CPR.

CPR WILL ACCEPT

The CPR has announced it will accept the recommendations of the commission. The company said this "should end the hearings" opened early last year.

The union has been trying to halt its members' jobs on diesels. The U.S. railroads have tried to get rid of firemen on yard and freight diesels for two years. But these companies — about 85 of them—withdrew the proposal in the summer of 1959 in negotiations. So did the publicly-owned Canadian National Railways.

The CPR remained the lone holdout against the union among North American railways, and it took the brunt of the 1957 strike, which was ended eventually under the influence of the Liberal administration.

The report of the royal commission is not binding on either of the disputants.

But at the time it was established, the then prime minister, Louis St. Laurent, expressed the hope publication of the findings of the royal commission was such "as to enable the disputants to find it difficult not t o go along with its findings.

HIGH JUDGES

Besides Mr. Justice Kellock—who resigned from Canada's top bench last October because of ill health—the members were Chief Justice C. J. Slaght, retired, of the Supreme Court trial division and Mr. Justice Jean Martineau of the Quebec court of Queen's Bench.

The inquiry for a royal commission to be made up entirely of high court judges.

In its finding, the royal commission answered a flat "no" to the question whether firemen were ar needed on diesel engines in freight and yard service of the railways.

The recommendation was unanimous.

Four Prisoners Are Recaptured On Amherst Isle

KINGSTON (CP)—The last of four prisoners who escaped from Collins Bay Penitentiary after slugging a guard was recaptured Monday night on Amherst Island, after a chase across the frozen waters of Lake Ontario.

Robert McKnight, 20, darted off across the ice when his companions surrendered to the guards of about 75 guards and provincial police questioned the other three.

The four broke away from the prison's dump truck and the driver was unhurt after attacking guard Nolgan Axford. Axford suffered minor injuries and was held in hospital for observation.

The three others were identified as Paul Atkins, 31, and Donald Olbey, 31, both of Windsor, and Robert Lunz, 34, of Toronto.

McKnight, from Hamilton, was sent to Collins Bay after breaking out of the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph.

Prison officer A. A. Clark followed the convicts in another truck and forced them to stop at Amherstview, a village 15 miles west of here.

Three of the men gave up and were taken by Clark and service station attendant Jack Warren.

Sex Maniac Apparently Kept Girl He Killed in Deep-Freeze for Month

WHEATHAMPSTEAD England (Reuters)—Scotland Yard detectives today were trying to find who apparently kept the girl he killed in a deep-freeze for a month.

The manhunt is for the unknown killer of Hildegarde Ann Noblett, who disappeared Dec. 3. Her body was found Friday in a wood seven miles from her home in this Hertfordshire town 20 miles north-west of London.

She apparently had been criminally assaulted and strangled. Her body was remarkably well preserved and extremely cold.

Dr. Francis Camps, home office pathologist, concluded that the body was refrigerated for perhaps a month and then dumped in the wood a short time before is discovery.

Scotland Yard offices consulted refrigeration experts and today were reported working on these three lines of inquiry:

1 A farmer with a deep-freeze plant was the slayer. (At least five Hertfordshire farmers and orchards are known to have such equipment).

2. The killer stored the body in a refrigerated truck used for transporting meat.

3. The body was kept in a home-made "frozen bed," using dry ice.

Detectives believe it was possible that there were several refrigerator reports that police were contemplating a house-to-house search. But these were hurriedly brought Ann's body out of storage.

Scotland Yard will face its toughest task if the killer used a "do-it-yourself" deep-freeze.

Scotland Yard apparently has ruled out the possibility that the killer used an ordinary domestic refrigerator, as the body seemed to have been subjected to much lower temperatures.

COUNCIL SERVICE OF DR. JOHN STOCK IS RECOGNIZED

Recognition for service on city council was accorded to former alderman Dr. John Stock at the regular meeting of council when a plaque was presented with a handsome plaque and scroll. The presentation to Dr. Stock who retired from municipal office last December was made on behalf of the city by Mayor Gerald B. Hyde.

Ex-Mayor Jane Forrester and Ex-Alderman Charles Bird were similarly honored at the inaugural session of council early in January but Dr. Stock was unable to attend for the presentation.—e

INQUEST WILL BE HELD ON FRIDAY

An inquest enquiring into the death of eight - year - old Carolyn Fuller, R.R. 2, Belleville, who was shot to death last Friday afternoon by a blast from a shotgun in the hands of a 13-year-old neighbor boy, is scheduled to be held later this week.

Coroner Dr. John Stock said yesterday the inquest probably will be held Friday afternoon depending on whether certain witnesses would be able to attend.

Council Concurs In Resolution From Sarnia

Belleville city council last night concurred in a resolution from the city of Sarnia asking that the province leave the matter of a reduced work-week for fire fighters to the elected municipal councils.

The resolution asserted that such a matter should be a matter of jurisdiction by the municipal council, rather than by provincial government will authoritative licenses future municipal budgets with elected councils having no control of the number of firemen on the work, which municipal authorities recognize to be within reason at the present time."

Among other things the firemen's union asked is that a firemen's work week be a maximum of 42 hours instead of the present 56 hours.

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde, speaking to the resolution, said in his opinion the requests outlined by the Ontario firemen in their brief to the Ontario Legislature would cost the municipalities a lot of money.—e

World Celebrated Hypnotist to Give Legion Show

Anyone want to make a fast $100?

Here's how: simply prove that Dr. Morton Cozen cannot catch a bullet between his teeth.

Dr. Cozen, world-celebrated hypnotist, will be at the Belleville Collegiate on February 20 to present his all-star cast in Command Performance. Net proceeds will go to the Canadian Legion branch in Belleville.

"I challenge anyone to prove my act a fake," said Dr. Cozen yesterday. "I've got a $100 for the person who can prove it."

After his latest feat that challenge, some folks might like to know how they can try to prove his bullet-catching act is phony.

Just bring your own rifle and ammunition to BCIVS on the night of Feb. 20. Reporter Don Harvey of The Ontario Intelligencer will act as a neutral judge at the shooting. He will replace the challenger's bullet in the rifle, afterwards examining the bullet and the teeth of Dr. Cozen. By the by, challengers do the trigger-pulling, not the hypnotist.

No shotguns, automatics or "cannons" will be allowed. Give the man a chance. Dr. Cozen merely asks his challenger to draw a bead on his target while teeth before squeezing off the shot.

This act has electrified people in many parts of the world. So far, Dr. Cozen has all of his teeth and no mysterious hole in his head.

Dr. Carson said yesterday he would like to make his grand entrance in his self-driving car along Front St. blind-folded. Unfortunately, he will do this only if the police department sees eye-to-eye with him.

PERFORMED IN MANY COUNTRIES

His acts have been performed in many countries and, recently, he was invited to perform for Princess Margaret in London, England. Dr. Carson says he's the sole attraction during his one night stand here.

Big (not little) Richard is Canada's dynamic answer to Elvis Presley — will be on hand to play and sing lively rock 'n roll "music" for the teenagers at BCIVS auditorium. There will be thrilling entertainment for the whole family.

'Chief' Robert Farquharson Honored Upon Retirement

Tribute was paid to "Chief" Robert Farquharson, mechanical superintendent, Corbyville, upon his retirement at a dinner held in the cafeteria of Corby Distillery Limited, at Corbyville, recently, when about 40 members of the Mechanical section, Customs and Excise, office and superintendent staffs enjoyed a dinner prepared and served by the Canniffon-Corkyville Women's Institute under the direction of Mrs. W. Latchford, president.

Mr. G. C. MacDonald acted as master of ceremonies. After a toast to The Queen, proposed by Mr. G. M. Miller, collector for the Port of Belleville, the members enjoyed a generous helping of turkey, with all the trimmings.

Following the dinner, Mr. MacDonald spoke briefly, giving a resume of Chief Farquharson's experiences, from the time he arrived in Canada at the age of 17, until the present time, which incorporated marine service, on both the Great Lakes and Atlantic coast; also, stationary engineer on various large organizations, including 23 years service with H. Corby Distillery in Belleville.

Special mention was made of the Chief's war service, during which time as 48th Highlanders in the First World War during which time he was seriously wounded.

TRIBUTE PAID

Mr. W. Laporte, vice-president and distillery manager paid tribute to Mr. Farquharson's faithful service during his term of employment, during which time many changes and renovations were made under his supervision.

Mr. L. W. Vezina, president and general manager, also spoke of the high esteem in which the Chief was held by the executive of the company, and presented Mr. Farquharson with a trans-world radio on behalf of all those present.

Mr. R. A. P. Wilkie, chief excise officer at the Distillery, spoke of the co-operation received from Chief Mr. Farquharson, while Ms. David Bradford and Mr. Joe Gowsell spoke of their association with Mr. Farquharson and wished him and his family many happy years of retirement.

A highlight of the evening was the reading of a telegram addressed to Mr. Laporte, from Prime Minister and Mrs. Leslie Frost, wishing Mr. Farquharson and his family a happy retirement.

Thanks to the ladies were extended by Mr. Robert Bolton, office manager.

Following dinner a social evening was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Farquharson and their daughter, Allan, left Monday for Belleville.

Also present were: Mr. G. Ross Hetington, vice-president and secretary-treasurer of H. Corby Distillery Limited; Mr. W. J. Howlett, executive assistant to the president; Mr. J. V. Boyle, management assistant, Ontario Beverage Sales; Mr. J. E. Purdy, purchasing agent, Montreal office. Also, Mr. Gordon Farquharson, barrister of Peterborough, the younger of the chief's two sons.

Council Protests Increased Taxi Fares to Commission

Belleville citizens are protesting the recent taxi fare increase approved by the Belleville Police Commission and city council.

The fare went into effect on an official protest to that body.

Taxi rates have been increased from 50c to 60c per person with the price for two passengers going within the city limits being $1 as compared with the previous 70c.

Alderman Frank Grandame brought the matter to the attention of council, stating that he had received many complaints of the increase from persons using taxis.

He noted that city council had no authority in the matter as the regulating of taxi fares was within the jurisdiction of the police commission.

Council voted unanimously in favor of a resolution protesting the matter to the police commission and directed City Manager Ken Dewey to forward a copy of the resolution to the commission.

The next meeting was a comparatively quiet one with the session business being completed before nine o'clock. Only routine matters came up for discussion.

Council approved of no parking for the west side of John Street from Victoria Ave. to Bridge Street between the hours of 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Monday to Friday and also for no parking on Pulleyn St.

Alderman Robt. Temple as chairman of the parking committee, said the moves were recommended to better local traffic conditions.

APPOINTMENTS DEFERRED

The matter of appointments to the civil defence committee will be tabled until an informal or provincial direction is received for the operation of the committee.

Appointments to the city planning committee will be deferred until the next meeting of council.

New Signals Training Building Named in Honor of Brig. J. Genet

Brig. Genet is a well-known and popular resident of the Belleville district. He operates a dairy farm between Rossmore and Rednerseville which he purchased after his retirement and where he and Mrs. Genet now reside.

OTTAWA — In honor of Brigadier J. E. Genet, CBE, MC, CD, of Belleville, ont., formerly Honorary Colonel-Commander of the Corps, the new training building of the Royal Canadian School of Signals at Kingsfield, Ont. is to be named "The Genet Building", it has been announced at Army Headquarters.

The building is scheduled to be completed later this year.

Brig. Genet served more than 30 years in the Canadian Army before his retirement in 1946. Nearly all his long military career was spent in communications work and he is among the most of the fine reputation enjoyed today by the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals.

A native of Brantford, Ont., Brig. Genet commenced his military service with the militia in the ranks of the 38th Dufferin Rifles of Canada. He was commissioned in 1912 and during the First World War served in France with the 1st and 2nd Divisional Signal Companies. He won the Military Cross for gallantry in action at the Battle of Passchendaele.

Brig. Genet returned to Canada in 1919, and in 1920 joined the Permanent Force as a lieutenant in Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry but served with the RC Signal. He became a major of that corps officially in 1924. He went on to serve in many appointments, and at the outbreak of war in 1939 was named Commander, 1st Divisional Signals.

As the Army expanded throughout the war Brig. Genet remained Canada's Chief Signals Officer, first of the 1st Canadian Corps in the rank of Colonel, and later of the 1st Canadian Army as a brigadier. He was the only senior officer of the Canadian Army who remained at the head of his service throughout the war. For outstanding service to his country he was made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire.

In July, 1946, Brig. Genet was awarded the United States' Legion of Merit (Degree of Commander) in a citation signed by President Truman.

The same year, shortly after his retirement from active army duty, Brig. Genet was named first Honorary Colonel Commandant of his corps, an appointment he held until August, 1950. In 1951-52 he was president of the Canadian Signals Association.

Air Cadet Week Being Observed In This District

This is Air Cadet Week in Belleville.

This is the week when 150 young men in blue pay homage to the national youth organization which has trained and will play characters in Canada's leaders of tomorrow.

No. 608 Squadron at Quinte Secondary School is the only representative of the Air Cadet League of Canada in the city. Its officers, men and civilian instructors have a great record to credit to their school in but three years as an "operational" squadron.

Last year was the first time the Q.S.S. observed Air Cadet Week.

Said Squadron Leader E. A. Craighead, D.F.M., the commanding officer: "It was so successful last year that we've decided to make Air Cadet Week an annual event in Belleville."

Air Cadet Week became airborne in the city on Sunday when 115 Cadets of 608 Squadron marched from the armouries to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The parade was led by the RCAF Station Trenton band and the salute was taken by Wing Commander J. P. Eaton (DFC, DM, CD), chief operations services officer at the air station.

Tonight at 6.30 there will be a Cadet-Parents banquet in the Cadet mess at Q.S.S. Special guests will be Leslie Reid, chairman of the sponsoring committee; Douglas Whitley, Trenton, chairman of the local provincial committee of the Air Cadet League of Canada, and a number of officers from RCAF Station, Trenton. Two films of The Air Cadet Story and 24-Hour Alert—will be shown.

A special inspection will be held in the school tomorrow morning at which prizes will be awarded to the best marksmen in the junior and senior divisions of a rifle competition held recently. A mass Air Cadet pledge will be taken by the new cadets.

TO HOLD FORMAL DANCE

Thursday's night's Cadet formal dance is expected to be the unqualified highlight of the school year.

What were some of the accomplishments of 608 Squadron in 1957?

One Cadet, Curt Day, joined the RCAF. Last summer 20 Cadets attended camp at RCAF Station, Clinton, Ont. This year's squadron Warrant Officer, Ron Pote, was the recipient of a scholarship sponsored by 418 (Belleville) Wing, RCAFA. Last summer the squadron was asked to send a representation to the RCAF to take part in the mock-past of tri-service Cadets. The only other squadrons represented were from Hamilton and Toronto. At summer camp the squadron won trophies for best all-round athletics care. Several Cadets were awarded badges for displaying their prowess as marksmen.

The squadron is commanded by S/L E. A. Craighead, DFM; the adjutant is Flying Officer G. Lochin; chief instructor is F/O A. Nightingale, and the supply officer is Pilot Officer J. Hayman. Civilian instructors are W. Cochrane, R. Laughlen, J. Fry, O. Matthews, C. Burtch and R. Issac.

May Add Religious Education To High School Curriculum

There is a possibility that religious education may be added to the curriculum of Belleville high schools, but when is not known.

Dr. L. S. Beattie, chairman of the Inter-Church Committee on Religious Education in schools, Toronto, yesterday told members of the Belleville Ministerial Association, high school boards and high school principals that parents have the right to request permission for religious instruction to be given to their children in public schools. They subject has been given in many public schools in Ontario for some time.

However, Dr. Beattie, who came to Belleville at the invitation of the Ministerial Association; declared he was not here to present a formal address on the subject, but would rather outline the advances his committee has made since last summer. He also volunteered to answer questions.

He pointed out that the teaching of religious subjects is now in denominational high schools in Ontario is a very controversial subject. Only a small number of high schools where religious education had been implemented and the principals have not encountered the difficulties from parents that they anticipated.

Dr. Beattie mentioned that religious instruction is being given in Westmount by the Inter-Church Committee. When the course initially started, parents next September, Grade 7 will use the book as a text in the Bible as their text and Grade 8 will study Luke and Acts.

They happened to choose what turned out to be one of the quietest and shortest meetings in a long time, but a group of students nurses from Belleville General was in the public meetings of the Belleville city council Monday evening.

Approximately 30 nurses representing the different classes at the nursing school attended the meeting, watching the proceedure from seats in the council chamber.

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde welcomed the nurses, expressing the hope that they would enjoy watching the democratic action of council.

COURSE BEING COMPILED

The high school course is currently being compiled.

Dr. Beattie, principal of Quinte Secondary School, is not reluctant to introduce religious studies in his school. However, if such a course is offered as an option, he would like to see it launched on a sound footing.

"If proper arrangements can be made," he said, he pleases to implement them in my school," he said.

Ronald Orr, principal of Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, was somewhat more reserved than Mr. Reid. Yet Mr. Orr was in agreement with "system-matic" religious education in high schools and he has an "open mind" on the subject.

Mr. Orr has ...nplesant memories of the final disposition of religious education in the Sault Ste. Marie collegiate a few years ago. At first the clergy and students studied the course with vim and vigor, but, soon, because the ministers were not on the regular staff of the high school and for the reason that students were not required to do homework or write examinations on the subject, the students became somewhat boisterous during class and the ministers became tardy. It was only a matter of time before the course was dropped.

The BCIVS principal wants all local parties concerned to fully aware of the trials and tribulations of adding religious education to the curriculum of the high schools in Belleville. He was present when the decision giving the instruction must turn up regularly at school.

Dr. Beattie is this year's chairman of the Bay of Quinte High School Section of the Department of the Ministerial Association contact Roman Catholic priests and Jewish rabbis in the city to see if they are in accord with including religious education in the city's high schools, purely as an optional subject.

Dr. Beattie said that elsewhere Jews and Unitarians are against such a course, but that Roman Catholics, although they object, will go along with it or else they will remove their children from the classes.

WILL HAVE PROBLEMS

Canon A. S. McConnell of St. Thomas' Anglican Church said ministers will have to visit high school principals the idea of carrying out religious instruction in schools regularly to give classes in religious education. He said more than 50 per cent of Belleville ministers give similar classes in public schools and their services are received warmly by the principal and pupils.

The Rev. W. Coleman of Holloway Street United Church supported the Ministerial Association and high school boards "carefully study" the possibility of adding religious education to existing any conclusion.

Archdeacon H. Creegan of Christ Church believes religious education can be taught successfully in Belleville high schools. And he is sure local clergymen be prepared to cooperate and use their endeavors. He taught religious education in a public school "for the sheer pleasure" and proud of the fact that he never missed a class except "once or two or three times" because of illness.

Key Tag Service By War Amps To Help Motorists

Over the next few weeks every automobile owner in Ontario will receive two miniature car licence key tags bearing the same number as his own key.

The key tags will come from the War Amps Key Tag Service manufactured by war amputation cases whose work not only helps the disabled to help themselves but raises funds for benevolent work of the War Amputations of Canada Association.

Designed mainly so that car owners might avoid getting locked the War Amps Key Tag Service has now been serving Canadian motorists for 11 years.

In making the announcement, Allan E. Lee, Toronto, manager of the War Amps Key Tag Service, pointed out that 24 war veterans employed in the workshop, was in cheery Toronto workshop where the key tags are assembled in reception cases and the boss, Mr. Pipe, wears two iron hooks in place of the hands he lost in a grenade explosion in 1942.

Last year the War Amps Service returned one set of lost car keys to their owner every 36 minutes.

During the past five years of its operation Key Tag Service has underwritten an average of $26,431 annually to the benevolent fund of the association.

If you, Mr. and Mrs. Motorist, lose your car keys tomorrow, the lost keys are mailed to the War Amps Office where quickly the name and address of the car owner are discovered and the keys mailed to their rightful owner.

In 11 years over 15 million miniature car key tags have been made by the War Amps. This year 6,500,000 key tags will be mailed out.

The decision to mail out duplicate key tags resulted from the enormous number of requests by subscribers for a second tag.

The innovation of mailing out duplicate key tags is paying real dividends, Allan Piper is said today.

Canada is the only country in which these are two cars. In most lands the husband and wife both have car keys.

Key tags are sent out gratis. Every recipient is expected to mail back 60c for duplicate key tags or 35c if only one key is required.

The money is sent to the War Amps Key Tag Service, 1740 Bay Street, Toronto.

Lt.-Col. The Rev. S. E. Lambert, O.B.E., D.D., Dominion president of the War Amps Association; Allan L. Bell is honorary secretary.

Ald. Grandame And Fire Chief At Opening

Alderman Frank Grandame, former fire committee chairman for Belleville city council, and Fire Chief Harold Vance, both in Peterborough Saturday attending the official opening of a new firehall in the Liftlock City.

Last night at city council, Alderman Grandame reported briefly on the visit, noting that the new firehall at Peterborough was a credit to the city.

He noted that the firehall plan included provision for a small upstairs auditorium and kitchen facilities which could be rented out for the holding of meetings.

He also had a word of praise for the civil defence fire fighters who are ready to be called in an emergency.

Contest Winners Honored

Council Debates Division of Cost Of Bridge Work

TRENTON — Extensive repairs to the town's highway bridge over the Trent River, and the Dundas Street crossing on Highways should pay towards the bridge's upkeep, came under discussion at the town council meeting in the board room of the Municipal Building last night.

The council sat from 8 p.m. until a few minutes after midnight to make it the longest meeting this year and one of the longest for many months.

The controversy arose when the first and second reports were given to by-law No. 1878, which was to give the mayor and town clerk permission to enter into an agreement on behalf of the town with the Department of Highways for the spending of $4,950.00 in connection with modification to the town bridge on a 50-50 basis.

For a few councillors approved and two did not when the by-law was put to a vote.

OBJECTS TO BY-LAW

Councillor Jim MacDonald said he did not approve of the 50-50 deal and thought the department should be the same as in other places in Ontario where the provincial department paid 80 per cent and the town 20 per cent.

He said he has felt for some years the government has been using the bridge without paying for keep of this bridge. He claimed it was not traffic of local which developed to use the bridge but rather the large trucks, coming from the east and west loads. These trucks, he stated, are under provincial licence. In the operation getting the money, and the trucks using the bridge for which they pay fees have to pay half the repair costs.

He suggested a committee from the town approach the Minister of Highways and tell him it would be given a favorable hearing in the matter. He said he was objected to any agreement between the town and provincial government when the town was to pay 50 per cent of repair costs to this bridge.

Mayor Ross Burti said he would arrange a meeting with the proper authorities in Toronto as soon as possible and any of the council members could go with him and in this way perhaps get the matter settled.

Councillor Hilson said he could not agree with the statement that heavy trucks are hard on the bridge. He said these vehicles have larger wheel and are light and do not put as much on the bridge as the smaller, but heavier vehicles.

Councillor Lange said $100,000 is being spent for truck licences in this area each year and he felt Councillor MacDonald had a good point in approaching the provincial government.

Councillor MacDonald ended the debate with the remark, "in any case the bridge has to be repaired or it will fall down."

Porch of Home Wrecked by Car

TRENTON — The front porch of the home owned by Mrs. Williams, 79 Dundas Street East, was completely wrecked when a car, out of control, smashed into it early yesterday morning.

Franklin B. Fry of 60 Middle Street, Trenton, told police the car he was driving west on Dundas Street East and failed to make a right turn at the Catholic Church, out of control, continued on and into the front porch of the house. He said the car careened off the building and the car was then stopped when he was able to bring it to a stop.

Damage to the house was estimated at $100 while the car suffered an estimated $200 damage to its front end. The car was covered by insurance.

The accident took place at 12.40 a.m.

Eight hours later a pick-up truck owned by Hamilton Brothers Garage, being operated by Meinhert Draaistra, an employee of the firm, was struck by a car being operated by Cliff Baker of 191 Victoria Street.

It was reported to town police officials that both vehicles were travelling west on Dundas St. West at the intersection of Film Street. The car was attempting to pass the truck when it turned into Film Street, causing the car to run into the left rear fender of the truck. Total damage to both vehicles was estimated at $185.

The mishap occurred at 8.40 a.m. and roads were reported dry at the time.

Council Briefs

STREET BANNER

An application from Jehovah's Witness to erect a street banner for their convention was approved by council. The banner and its erection to be in normal town specifications. The convention will be held on February 14 and 16.

PARKS BOARD

Claude Smith was named by council to replace Lloyd York on the town's Park Board. Mr. York resigned due to pressure of business and it was accepted by the council. The clerk was instructed to write letters of thanks to Mr. York, R. J. Whitney and F. J. Ash for their services on the board during the past years.

TO ROOST RATES

Letter from the Children's Aid Society in Kingston and Belleville were read to the council stating them they are planning to raise their rates per child per week. The present rate will be boosted from $1.45 to $1.56 and the $1.60 rate will be raised from $1.41 to $1.74. Following some discussion it was decided the council put the issue in the hands of a committee of three councillors and two to review the entire situation and report back to council at their next meeting.

CHANGE IN HOURS

The Trenton Barbers' Association applied for a change in the town by-law governing their hours. They asked that they be changed to give them permission to remain open on Wednesdays instead of Saturdays, the holidays of Good Friday and New Year's day. The council instructed the clerk to get in touch with the barbers and request that they get a petition that they are to stay open on any Wednesday falling in a week which contains a statutory holiday.

ALWAYS READY TO HELP

A letter from the Commanding Officer of the 2nd Field Park, Trenton in acknowledgment to the town's letter of thanks for their help in the Farrar Block fire informed the council the air force personnel and their equipment will always be ready and willing to help the town in time of need.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Brief reports were presented to the town council that night by Councillor Lange, chairman of the Public Works Committee; Councillor Hilson, chairman of the Sanitation and Waste Committee and Councillor Worrall, chairman of the Connection to Persons and Property Committee.

PHONE SURVEY

Town clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry informed the council that the Bell Telephone Company is now making a survey of the telephone situation in the town of Trenton and will make its report and suggestions in the near future.

INVITE PRINCESS

Princess Margaret will be extended an invitation to place Trenton on her itinerary when the Royal Canadian Tour proposal was presented to the town by Councillors Worrall and Hilson. Councillors all approved. Councillor Lange offered to put a new Ford at the disposal of the Princess while here.

BAY SHORE SURVEY

A land survey of the bay shore was ordered by the town council last night. The proposal was also brought in by the surveyor who said this survey would be in the vicinity of the new bridge near the Community Centre.

LETTERS OF THANKS

Councillors approved a resolution that the clerk be instructed to write Mayor Gerald Hyde of Belleville and Group Captain R. A. Dyke, Commanding Officer of RCAF Station, Trenton, expressing appreciation of the council on behalf of its citizens for valuable aid rendered during the flood in the, in the Hawley Block on Wednesday, January 29.

ON BOARD OF HEALTH

Miss Marjorie Gothard was named to the Board of Health to replace D. Gunter who has retired from the town. This was the only change to a previous list, made up by the council, of names of persons to serve on various town boards and committees.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE

Councillor Lloyd Worrall was named chairman of a special committee to bring down terms of reference in establishing rules for the rink commission by-law. Their report will be subject to final approval by the council. Serving on the committee with him will be Councillors Lange and MacDonald.

Service Station Operators Under Fire in Council

TRENTON — Local service station operators had their knuckles rapped by Mayor Hord Burtt at last night's meeting of the town council.

In making inquiries of the councillors as to who was the president or local representative of the service station operators in Trenton and who draws up the list of stations to remain open after closing hours, the mayor said that as far as the filling stations should be of some service to the public.

He said that at present one has a hard time to find out where gas can be bought in town after regular closing hours. He told the council he thought there should be two open at night and on Sundays and holidays.

Councillor Joe Gould said he had long given up trying to find out which of town service stations stayed open and just kept going to the east or west depending on which one he was closer to

SOME COLD FACTS

A 61-year-old man lay for thirteen hours in freezing temperatures at Oakville last week and in that time his body temperature dropped from the normal 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit to an estimated 96 degrees.

In 1951 a woman in Chicago was frozen stiff in sub-zero temperatures and her body temperature plunged to 64 degrees. Hers was the first recorded case in medical history in which a person survived such a low temperature.

Not so long ago a team of American doctors went to Australia to study the habits of primitive aborigines. Some of these dark-skinned Australians living in populated areas "down under" adhere to civilization's custom of wearing clothes. But their wild brothers shun any body covering and are quite capable of living through even the coldest Australian winter without apparent discomfort.

That is why the Americans visited the Land of the Kangaroo - to find out why uncivilized aborigines can even sleep outside in temperature so low that the investigators were uncomfortable even under plenty of blankets.

Could the aborigines' astonishing way of life be attributed to their daily diet? That proved false. After several months among these people the American experts finally agreed that these natives are able to survive fairly low temperatures because they are acclimatized to it. As Canadians and Americans are accustomed to shelter and heavy winter clothing, so are the wild men of Australia accustomed to no shelter or clothes.

TORONTO'S "SPECIAL PROJECT"

The Toronto Board of Control has asked the Ontario Government for grants totalling $2,250,000 for special projects to aid Toronto's unemployed.

That is what The Canadian Press says.

If these were really "special projects" there would be a sound case for the request. One of the most disgraceful parts of the handling of unemployment during the depression was the fact that little or no effort was made to put the jobless to work at useful undertakings. Sometimes "work" was provided, but all too often it was to make sure the unemployed earned the dole they received, rather than to benefit the community. In some of the worst cases, it was almost literally true that the unemployed were required to shovel dirt from one place and then back again.

But, if public works to relieve unemployment have many advocates, are there really many who will defend the use to which Toronto proposes to put one million of the $2,250,000 requested? For the city wants to spend it on "sidewalk and curb repairs." Surely the repair of sidewalks and curbs cannot be classified as a proper way to spend such funds. Is this program really a "special project?" Would not the City of Toronto undertake this work anyway? Is the city not just trying to get the province to pay for the cost of work which should properly be charged to municipal taxpayers?

SAKS AND SACKS

Saks is one of Manhattan's swankiest stores. It sells women's apparel. Right now, of course, its fashions feature the sack, or perhaps in Saks the sack would still be the French sac, not having simplified with the common people long enough to pick up "the added jet" after its trans-Atlantic trip from its Paris habitat. But what do you suppose the sack or sac is at Saks - - it is the "plu-perfect form of the chemise," if you please, or even if you don't please. Perhaps the failure of the sack to please is the reason why Saks' sacks are chemise, or is it chemises? Whether it rhymes with chemise, or is it chemises? Whether it rhymes with sneeze or sneezes, though, we still think that when it comes to women's dresses there is not too much in a name; the trouble with the chemise is that when a woman is so sacked it is impossible to ascertain whether she is stacked. We are firm in the opinion that a chemise even in Saks is a bad one. Opinions, incidentally, are about the only thing that can be described as firm when one is considering the sack - - as who wants to?

MEN'S IDEAL

What's your ideal? An easy goal,
A thing attainable by toil and years?
Or have you to perfection tuned your soul,
A vision that through distance bright appears?
A state to which no human yet has reached,
Is that the something you would like to be?
To reach the glory never seen, unpreached,
Is your ideal less than divinity?

If so, what then remains if you should gain
The mountain height that you would stand upon?
If what you crave, today you should attain,
What then would urge you still to struggle on?

Merely to strive to win an earthly prize,
A thing attainable, a crown or bay
Is not enough, for once the cheering dies,
Your ideal gained, why live another day?

Man's true ideal must not be near at hand,
A something patient toil can o'er attain;
No fixed accomplishment, however jar grand,
No height that human feet can gain,
But that which lures him ever on and on
A ceaseless strife for that he knows is best;
An ideal that his soul can lean upon,
That keeps him ever striving to be blest.

May Re-Open Old Tin Mines

Oshawa Times-Gazette

Reports that the alluvial near-the-surface tin deposits of Nigeria and Malaya are rapidly nearing depletion has aroused interest as Britain in the tin mines of Cornwall. There was a time when the Cornish tin mines met approximately 40 per cent of the world's needs for tin. Today, Bolivia, in South America, is by far the largest tin producer, supplying 90 per cent of all the world output of tin at the present time. It is the one country now producing which does not depend on surface deposits.

The surface deposits in Nigeria and Malaya were of the easily exploitable, and more cheap in production costs. But as has been noted, the supply being used is up.

This has raised possibilities of the British tin mining industry staging a comeback. The tin mines of Cornwall were flourishing before the centuries. But they finally reached a depth at which it was uneconomic to work them so they were abandoned.

They were, however, brought back into production in the Second World War when Malayan supplies were not available. It is interesting to note that they were reopened then by a company of Canadian hard-rock miners under the command of Brigadier Colin Campbell, who is a former member of the cabinet of Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario premier. The company succeeded in bringing the mines back into production to give Britain essential supplies of tin for the period of the war. They were then again closed down. It is possible that another effort to re-open them will be made.

Britain's tin industry is an ancient one. Julius Caesar, in 55 B.C., noted the existence of tin in Britain. At one time, somewhat later, shipments of tin were made from Britain to ancient Rome, during the regime of Julius Agricola. There is further evidence that the daring Phoenician navigators who visited Britain long before Caesar, either mined for tin or traded with the ancient Britons for that product.

So it would be decidedly interesting if this ancient Cornish tin mining industry could make a comeback at this date.

Letter To The Editor

Praises Students' 'Mikado' Performance

Editor Ontario Intelligencer:

A party of five of us attended a performance of "The Mikado" on Friday evening. We were well rewarded as we were splendidly entertained. The members of the chorus entered into their work with an enthusiasm that was truly delightful. It was so contagious, that we became infected by it. When we discovered that there was no orchestra we were slightly disappointed. However Mr. Clifford Templer's work at the organ was highly competent. He did remarkably well, and showed an initiative that was quite admirable. The orchestra is necessary, but does not deserve many words of commendation. One hesitates to single out certain ones for praise. Too bad that Mr. Robertson as "The Mikado" did not possess a bass register, as this role of the Mikado is always associated with at least a fairly baritone voice. However Mr. Robertson possesses a pleasing quality and quite a fair striking stage presence. We were wonderfully struck with the ability of Yum-Yum, Pooh-bah, Ko-Ko, and last but by no means least, Katisha. Each lady impressed us almost having stepped from a Doily Carte company. Ko-Ko and Pooh-bah, the Executioner, combined to give us the liveliest little number during the course of the evening. Miss Huddleston's "Katisha" was a joy to behold. It could easily go far in work of this kind; her singing voice is also exceptionally good. It was perhaps unfortunate that these two performances of "The Mikado" had to be abridged as much as such Gilbert and Sullivan like these important operas to be given in all their entirety.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article seventeen in a weekly series contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society).

Early local roads were impassable on occasions and the Bay of Quinte was frequently an attractive alternative to travellers after 1800. During the winter months, when ice was extensively popular in spite of the risk involved. Among the unfortunates who met death in this venture was the Presbyterian minister at Ernestown, the Reverend Matthew Millar, who drowned in the Bay of Quinte in 1834, when his cutter broke through the ice.

Still, the perils of road travel were also considerable. Numerous visitors to this region in the first half of the 19th century remarked on the extremely bad roads. One very disgruntled traveller noted in 1801:

"I have lately had the misfortune to ride on the roads of this district . . . and esteem my escape from broken neck, legs and arms more miraculous than that of the survivors of the memorable battle of the Devil's Hole. Besides the pains I endured on my own account I had those of a feeling man towards distressed families in wagons breaking down, falling into deep gullies and bridgeless creeks from whence it seemed impossible to emerge — the women and children screaming through these Indian Pharaoh's hosts, through the (not Red but) muddy sea.

The trials and tribulations which travellers underwent as the result of terrible roads were augmented by the carelessness and inefficiency of some early stage-coach drivers. Rev. Anson Green, a Methodist minister who several times preached in Belleville, has given us delightful account of an adventure which befell him in 1828 while being driven by stage from Toronto to Kingston.

"It had been raining, but the moon began to glimmer through the clouds as we were going up the Trenton Hills, where our driver fell asleep on the box. From their instincts, resolved to take a nap, the horses left the road, and, by a ravine just wide and deep enough to take in our carriage completely. The stupid driver found himself on the opposite bank when he awoke, and he was precipitated in the ditch. We had three on each seat, one of whom was a very loquacious lady, who, when she screamed out fearfully 'I am killed, I am killed, I am dead, dead, what shall I do!' The poor creature! Though I had two men on the top of me and one on each side of me, I was sure that I was not dead, and I was sure she was dead, but that she was still alive, but all in vain. . . .

"The stage door was so tightly fastened that we could not open it; and those who were lying on the top us seemed to be confused and stupid. After a little the driver managed to shove open a small window, through which, one after another, we emerged from our dismal position. . . .

"Our driver, never more than half sober, now up in daylight, declared that we could not get that stage out . . . but . . . I told them if they would help me I would be off again in half an hour. By the aid of the men we hitched to the wheels, and rails to pry with, we placed, our carriage on the road, mounted, and were soon on our journey."

Expect to Find Life in Space

Brantord Expositor

From the Atomic Age we seem to have passed in rapid transition to the Space Age, or at least the era in which the conquest of space will be attempted and probably achieved.

As a result, we have not only rockets and super rockets, satellites and satellites and artificial moons but also a revived curiosity as to what there is anything alive out there.

For centuries astronomers and biologists have been entertaining over the question of possibility of life on other planets than ours. The problem has provided not only scientists and philosophers with a subject, a scientific fiction with an endless theme but imagination, imagination and invention.

Recently more intensive study has been given to the subject particularly with the close approach of the planet Mars. Still it is anything but scientifically settled, to find usually well-informed British astronomer, the current issue, saying: "Today man is looking out at the stars filled to many with a mixture of curiosity, asking if tomorrow's science explorers may find other beings on other worlds. Based on science's rapidly expanding knowledge the answer is "Yes". Eminent astronomers are sure conditions suitable for life exist elsewhere."

Well, considering the practically limitless number of planets that must form other solar systems than ours, and the low law of averages should be on the side of the confident astronomers.

For the time being, however, the main preoccupation will be less with theories than with ways and means of getting rockets and satellites to the moon, Venus, Mars and other ports of celestial call.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

February 4th 1938

The blacksmith here are busy; there is plenty of work when the roadways are icy and slippery as they have been this winter. There are now but regular blacksmith shops left here now of the dozens that for years found plenty of employment. The shops of F. Adams, Harry Pearce and George Rutlan fid plenty to do when winter comes. Mills, bread and other delivery horses lead the number for shoeing; heavier draught horses from the stables of fuel dealers come second while the hard working farm horses also add to the number which patronize the local blacksmiths' forges. The trade is not dead yet these days.

The Capitol theatre hockey team defeated the Hotel Quinte team last evening by a score of 3 to 1. There was a large crowd present and the game was hotly contested from bell to bell. Following are the players who composed the teams: Capitol Theatre: Goal, Guthrie; point, Calcutt, Barrage and Rigby; Hotel Quinte; Mathews, Pope, Left-Dunn, Jackfold and Hall. Subs — Ervin LaBarr, Scott and Smith. The game was enjoyed by the spectators. At times it had the appearance of a game between players in knots and the referee in despair.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Mc-Creery, Miss Grace McCreery and Dr. Ezekiel Cross left here yesterday by motor car for Florida.

Should Let Jungle Stay

Montreal Gazette

"I sometimes think that never blows so red

"The Rose as where some buried Caesar bled."

Sixteen years ago, the gallant stand of 13,000 American and Filipino troops made the name Corregidor a symbol of courage throughout the free world. For five months, from January 2, 1941, until May 6, 1942, the Japanese shelled and bombed the little island on Manila Bay. The Japanese guns on the main-island poured 100,000 shells on Corregidor and thousands of tons of bombs.

The Japanese attacks, from the beginning, were terribly accurate, because a large part of the island had been carefully, lovingly built up as a 72-hole golf-course. This didn't leave much cover for the defenders. There were ammunition dumps and hospitals.

Today, Corregidor — shell-holes filled in, ruins — is entirely covered by jungle green. The jungle has moved over it like a soft blanket. And no one has noticed the change until recently.

Now, there are plans to clean up the island, raise a memorial to its heroes of 1941-42 and build it up as a tourist attraction.

Perhaps it might be kinder to leave it as it is. Corregidor and its men need no memorial of stone or concrete. The memories the island's name provokes are memorial enough. It might be kinder to let nature cover the island's wounds in nature's own way.

Americans Eat Too Fast

In the chapter on Diseases of the Arteries in his famous Practice of Medicine, Dr. Osler says:

"I am more and more impressed with the part played by overeating in producing arterio-sclerosis. There are many cases in which there is no other cause. George Cheyne's advice was never more appropriate than by the present generation."

In the chapter on Chronic Gastritis, Osler has a remark on the Stomach — Chronic Dyspepsia. He says:

"The causes are use in excess of tea or coffee, and, above all, of alcohol in its various forms . . . eating too rapidly and imperfectly chewing the food. Excess in eating does more damage than excess in drinking. The platter kills more than the sword."

"Overeating" is another way of saying "imperfect chewing." And imperfect chewing is a typical Yankee trait. A Yankee, in any lexicon, is a North American.

There are several reasons why Yankees don't chew their food. Among them:

1. They're in a tearing hurry.

2. Most of their food is of a soft variety and requires no chewing.

They can't chew effectively because so many teeth are bad or missing.

What I called "chronic catarrh of the stomach, chronic gastritis, chronic dyspepsia," I call Yankee Stomach.

I hesitate to speak of British chewing because I have had no first hand observation and knowledge of the teeth of Britons; but they don't seem to chew their food.

The whole trouble with most Americans is, not that they eat too much, but that they don't bother to chew their food.

Yesterday we looked at the problem of honesty as it presents itself to all of us, and saw always how much better it is to be honest than to cheat or never honest, honest in all things and in all circumstances.

This is basic fundamental. But honesty should always be balanced. There must be certain things which are true but which it is not necessary to put into words to be expressed. If a person is disgustingly honest, if he is a bore, a nuisance or here, and it is not something about which the unfortunate person can see that he is a bore or nuisance. No use to make the painful burden of one's life added to more onerous by referring to it.

On the witness stand a person is sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. This is a quite necessary procedure. But thank God we are not always in court and on the witness stand. In our daily contacts with our fellows there are a lot of matters which will be left unexpressed. Certainly no humane person would call attention to another's affliction. It may well counsel a friend about some lack in his personality, but do not say it all necessary.

Tact is the gift of gentle touch. It can be cultivated. Try it and best of all, try it on folks at home. Tact and honesty be long together.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

IDEAS UNLIMITED

There will never be a dearth of ideas. Every forward march in history is the result of someone's ideas. Edison believed that a better way of lighting could be discovered — and after scores of tests and failures, he was rewarded. Ideas had won again! The electric light belonged to the entire world. Who can predict the future? Tomorrow's ideas are not yet teemed with ideas as today. Many of them, however, are headed in the wrong direction — those, for example, aimed at the destruction of human life and hope, through the agency of war.

Ideas can improve on the present thing. Think what ideas have achieved in transportation, education, communication and medicine. Ideas on nutrition have lengthened human life and added to its happiness. It won't be long before you can call a number on your telephone and see the picture of the one to whom you talk! And by that what other step is to something else revolutionary. Ideas are unlimited. Their scope is world- wide. Their use is unending.

If you have ideas you have ready capital. Mix them with Tomorrow! Ambition and you will have something that banks can't give to you. Imagine that to human life if all plans for war destruction could be directed to better education, better living, and permanent happiness. Is there anything to prevent it, freedom? No one can suggest a substitute so great. Who would put tyranny in its place? Great ideas follow the trails of freedom! Destroy all incentive to ideas and you will have crushed the march of civilization.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

To people with small incomes, a $5 fine is a matter of little inconvenience. To people with average incomes, a $5 fine is chicken feed.

To people with lots of money, there are lots of fines. A fine is no more than a flea bite. It is so trivial a matter that it can be doubled if it has any meaning at all, as a deterrent.

The fines, nowadays, are what governments, civic, provincial and others empowered to assess fines, dream up. There is an entirely new survey of fines and bring them up to date. Many fines are forty, fifty years old. A $5 fine that used to be one third of a workman's wages for a week is now not even a twentieth of a good mechanic's pay envelope. The scale of fines in a great many instances has taken no account whatever of the dwindling significance of the dollar. Fines have become income items for purposes with respect to the law.

I know one old soap box radical who says that the measure of should be applied by our magistrates. Fines were to be such as would afford to pay the stipulated fine, he should not have the option of jail. Fines were the privilege of the better class citizens. B u t they were supposed to hurt. They don't hurt any more. As one gallant of my acquaintance says: "I break the law forty times for one time caught. That's cheap."

Too cheap.

Canada Needs More Dentists Rotary Members, Guests Told

Dental disease ranks second only to the common cold in prevalency among the country's population, Wesley J. Dunn, registrar - secretary of the licensing body of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Toronto, told local Rotarians and guests at the regular meeting Monday.

Dr. Dunn spoke on behalf of the club's commemoration of National Health Week, February 3 until February 8. Wednesday has been set aside as "Dental Health Day" by the Health League of Canada, of which Dr. Dunn is chairman.

A native Torontonian, the guest speaker is a graduate of Bloor Collegiate. He attended Victoria College for one year and in 1943 transferred to the University of Toronto's Royal College of Dental Surgeons, graduated in 1947 and spent several years in private practice in Toronto before receiving his present position. He is one of the leading dental authorities in Canada and has appeared on several TV panels, recently.

Dr. Dunn discussed dental diseases in relation to the overall health of Canadians and said it is a definite public health problem.

"Approximately 98 per cent of the population are afflicted with tooth decay in some form," he said. "Dental disease is so common it is being regarded as normal rather than abnormal."

He stressed the importance of dental health. Decayed teeth result in poor mastication, which leads to indigestion, and eventually poor health.

MORE DENTISTS NEEDED

Dr. Dunn stressed the fact more qualified dentists are needed to serve Canada's growing population.

"The demands on already practising dentists are great", he said, "There is an average of only one dentist for every 3,000 people in Canada."

He stated it was difficult to recruit dental students because the five-year course is one of the most expensive of university courses, while the income level for dentists is below that for other professions such as lawyers, physicians, engineers, and accountants.

There is a definite need for more dental colleges, the speaker said. At-present there are only five schools of dentistry in Canada.

"It is time the public felt the responsibility of setting aside public funds for the establishment of more schools of dentistry and for dental research," he said.

Up until 1948 dental research was carried out by only one man, Dr. Dunn said. In that year $11,000 was provided for a studentship program.

"In 1953 the dental profession itself dug down into its own pockets to provide money for research into the prevention of dental disease," the speaker said.

"The Division of Dental Research at the University of Toronto collected $252,000 for its research program; $142,000 of which was donated by members of the dental profession," he said.

The speaker also urged the importance of fluoridation programs (adding fluoride to the water supply) undertaken by such cities as Brantford and Stratford, in reducing dental disease.

It has been 'proven that dental disease can be reduced by as much as two-thirds by fluoridating the water supply. It is safe and has been endorsed by all health organizations in Canada and the U.S., and also by the World Health League", he explained.

DENTISTRY FOR CHILDREN

He also stressed the importance of dentistry for children, adding that four out of every five children of kindergarten age suffer from tooth decay.

"Primary teeth should be maintained as they are lost naturally because they are essential to the proper growth and development of the jaws and face," he warned.

Dr. Dunn also noted the increasing importance of dental health officers and dental hygienists in assisting communities in eliminating the need for dental treatment through education.

The speaker was introduced by fellow classmate and past president of the Stirling club, Dr. Ralph Henderson, and thanked by Rotarian Arnold Orr. He was presented with a token of appreciation on behalf of the club by president Joe Demers.

The head table guests were: Dr. McCaul Metcalf, director of the Board of Health; Dr. Harvey Elliott, Dr. John Clarke, Dr. Robert Empey, Dr. Roy Ward, Dr. John Letersky, Dr. Jack Guthridge, and Dr. Jack Marshall. Other distinguished guests included Dr. L. S. Beattie, formerly of the Department of Education, and now with the Christian Education of the United Church, and famous Canadian curler Garnet Campbell, of Wawanesa, Sask. Mr. Campbell, who with his three brothers won the Canadian Championship (Brier) in 1955, is in Belleville for a three-day instructional visit.

Four Injured In Plane Crash Now in Hospital

By STAN McABE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Four persons badly injured in a subArctic plane crash and then rescued under almost unbelievable circumstances were treated in Winnipeg hospitals today.

Heavily drugged to ease their pain, they were flown here from Churchill, Man., Monday night aboard an RCAF mercy plane.

When a single-engined Norseman owned by TransAir Limited crashed on the uninhabited west coast of Hudson Bay Friday, the four were buried into the snow.

The nearest outpost was at Chesterfield Inlet, 18 miles to the north.

But constable Leo Mascatto of the RCMP was making a once-a-year patrol along the coast 200 miles south of the Arctic Circle. He happened on the scene of the crash 20 minutes after the plane plunged to the rocky and frozen ground.

SCATTERED BODIES

Beside the aircraft, he found pilot Wiggo Norwang, a Norwegian. Dr. Jean Charles Patry, resident physician at Chesterfield Inlet, Ayaruak, an Eskimo and the Eskimo's daughter, Annie, 11. The Eskimo and the pilot are about 40 years old and the doctor about 30.

The RCMP officer gave first aid while his Eskimo guide went for help by dog team. Then the victims were taken by snowplane to the mission hospital at Chesterfield Inlet. They were flown from there to Churchill on Saturday.

An RCAF Dakota flew to Churchill from Winnipeg Monday for the evacuation job.

Dr. Patry hardly moved throughout the whole trip out. A bandage covered one eye and partially concealed his badly bruised face. His frostbitten hands also were bandaged and blankets were tented over a shattered leg.

Ayaruak has a broken shoulder blade, a broken leg and a broken ankle.

Immunization Has Done Much To Control Disease Epidemic

By DR. McCAUL METCALFE
M.O.H. for Belleville

Every paper and every magazine since 1954 has carried the story of poliomyelitis vaccine so the immunization picture at this time is really not news. In the year 1954 the trial of the vaccine showed promise, in 1955 the results were very encouraging and the result; have continued to be more encouraging as the years went by, up to the present time. With the widespread news coverage the demand for the vaccine is gradually meeting the demand.

Smallpox should be dead, no one need have smallpox much less die of it. The disease is completely controllable by means of vaccination and periodic re-vaccinations but the problem is to overcome the apathy and complacency towards a disease which is commonly regarded as something belonging to the past. In 1953 there was a smallpox epidemic in Brittany, over a hundred cases with a number of deaths. The disease at that time was said to have been brought into the country by a soldier returning from Indo-China. Apparently some Bretons neglected vaccination. In the past few years there have been several outbreaks in Great Britain, Vancouver had an outbreak in 1932 and again in 1954 there was a severe outbreak in Windsor, Ontario with 67 cases and 32 deaths. It can happen here.

The same is practically true of diphtheria a disease which has been conquered within the lifetime of all of us. In 1920 Toronto had 2,256 cases of diphtheria and 224 deaths, that was a staggering picture when one stops to imagine the care the buildings covered. It was in 1923 that the toxoid was discovered and in spite of this discovery Toronto in 1930 had 1,085 cases and 66 deaths. At this time a publicity effort was undertaken to get the public clinic to receive the toxoid. For the next twenty odd years a Toxoid Week was sponsored and in 1934 there was not a single death from diphtheria in Toronto, however, there were some cases of the disease. In 1940 in Toronto there was not a single case of diphtheria this has been repeated several times since. Progress unfortunately was not uniform. In 1943 the number of cases of this preventable disease in Canada was 2,804 with 297 deaths. Ten years later the total was down to 111 cases with 15 deaths.

Immunization against whooping cough and tetanus is also sponsored. During the last war tetanus was virtually abolished as a military problem. The same can be done in civilian life, unfortunately the odd case is still being seen in our hospitals. This needn't have happened.

Epidemics that don't happen don't make headlines but this is one case where "No news is good news". Immunization is the sure means of keeping it that way where smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and poliomyelitis are concerned.

Your local Board of Health holds a public clinic for the immunization against smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and poliomyelitis on their office at the City Hall every Thursday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock.

Fleet Sale Blocked

TORONTO (CP) — Proposed sale of Fleet Manufacturing Company of Fort Erie was blocked Monday when shareholders did not give it required two-thirds approval.

De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., had offered $800,000 for Fleet's fixed assets. Fleet manufactures aircraft components and electrical equipment and has a 50-per - cent interest in Donan Fleet Helicopters Ltd.

WON NOBEL PRIZE

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Dr. Clinton J. Davisson, 76, co-winner of the 1937 Nobel Prize in physics, died at his home Sunday. He shared the prize with Professor G. P. Thompson of Britain for discoveries of electron diffraction and the wave properties of electrons.

Portugal Will Be Pictured In Film Series

The fifth Kiwanis travelogue in the current series will be shown on Thursday evening at the Collegiate auditorium. Mr. Karl Robinson will present his latest colored film "Portugal and the Azores".

Karl Robinson is one of the first of the travelogue artists and one of the best. During the past seventeen years, or more, he has established a veritable reputation in this field. His pictures have always been of the very highest quality, and his narration is exceptionally interesting. He has filmed many parts of the world, always with a keen understanding of what the public wants most to see, and always with an emphasis on the people, and their daily lives. Last summer he journeyed to Portugal to film this garden - land of pastel colored cities, fertile valleys, rolling hillsides, wonderful palaces, pilgrim thronged shrines — all in the land of great discoverers. Lisbon, beautiful, sophisticated river city will tell the story of its rich past, and gardened isles of the cultural ages, such as Nazare. Finally, the gardened isles of Madeira and the Azores.

Croll Predicts Free Drugs To Be Provided

TORONTO (CP) — Senator David Croll Monday night told a group of pharmacists and drug manufacturers government health services, including drugs and dental care, are inevitable for Canada.

He spoke to the Rokeah Pharmaceutical Association at a testimonial dinner for D. Rodger Mitchell, Liberal member of Parliament for Sudbury in the last House.

Mr. Croll said hospital care is here and anyone who denies the fact is not facing reality. Free medical care was next on the list.

Equality in Rocketry May Make for Better Bargaining

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Although the world powers have not yet agreed formally to hold an East-West summit meeting, there are indications that in one sense it is already under way.

The preliminaries can be seen in statements by U.S., British and Russian leaders. They are briefing themselves on what can be expected when they face one another around a table.

Nikita Khrushchev is at pains to say that the West must discard any thoughts of dictating the issue of communism in satellite nations. Said Khrushchev:

"We do not raise and do not intend to use for discussion at international meetings the question of a socialist regime in this or that country, since such a matter is decided by each nation as it sees fit."

ADVANCE JOCKEYING

Khrushchev says President Eisenhower was away abroad in proposing, in reply to one of Premier Bulganin's numerous letters, that this subject would be profoundly pertinent to an East-West meeting.

Actually, a meeting without mention of the political satellites would be inconceivable. This fate is a major part of what the cold war is all about.

Khrushchev merely wants to outline his bargaining position in advance, as the U.S. also is at pains to do. This is likely to take some time, but it doesn't mean the meeting won't be held.

A spark of encouragement can be seen in a new agreement—although limited—for cultural exchanges between the U.S. and Russia.

EMPHASIS VARIES

Premier Bulganin says these exchanges may lead to the two countries closer to a settlement of political issues, a statement that underlines the bearing on the summit.

It is significant that the state department has felt it necessary to say once again that the U.S. will go to the summit meeting only if prior assurances are obtained that there is solid hope of agreement.

Although Canada and European countries also have made this stipulation, there was considerably more emphasis in the European approach. In line with this, some British newspapers are even predicting flatly the meeting will be held in May or June.

1957 ANOTHER RECORD YEAR

Canadians purchased

$578 million of life insurance from the London Life

... $65 million more than in 1956

LIFE INSURANCE ISSUED—In 1957 the life insurance issued by the London Life set an all-time record for the Company. The total of $578,000,000 exceeded the 1956 mark by $65,000,000, and represents an average of $2,250,000 for each working day of the year.

LIFE INSURANCE IN FORCE—The Company's insurance in force increased during the year by $403,000,000 and now exceeds $4,196,000,000, not including annuities, or business reinsured with other companies. Today over a million and a quarter Canadians are insured under London Life plans.

POLICY PAYMENTS—Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries, together with amounts set aside for their protection, exceeded $880,000,000. This is $6,000,000 more than the corresponding sum for 1956.

INVESTMENTS—In 1957, the major part of funds available for investment was again placed in new mortgage loans. These loans, principally effected to provide new dwellings for families across Canada, exceeded $58,000,000. The Company's total mortgage loans, now over $389,000,000, represent over 64 per cent of the Company's net invested assets of some $602,000,000.

POLICY DIVIDENDS—The high scale of dividends which was established one year ago will be continued in 1958. Dividend payments in 1957 totalled over $13,000,000.

SICKNESS AND ACCIDENT BRANCH—In the Group Sickness and Accident Branch, the insurance on Canadian employees and their dependents increased by more than 16 per cent. Benefits paid out reached a new mark of nearly $10,000,000—some $1,400,000 more than for 1956. Over 208,000 separate claim payments were made during the year.

The London Life's progress in 1957 reflects the confidence of the people of Canada in the Company's carefully selected and well trained representatives, and in its ability—proved by its record through the years—to provide life insurance at low cost to its policyholders.

Short Story

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Leather looms large on the horizon of fashion, as each season sees more varied and smart leather apparel. This smart new evening jacket should be at home anywhere through spring and summer. Of white pearlized kidskin, it is garnished with a rhinestone and pearl-covered shawl collar.

Well suited to the resort scene as well as spring is the topper of orange-toned, basket-weave woollen with white lining. The small stand-away collar and the two flapped diagonal pockets add to the fresh appeal of this cropped coat.

Women Curlers Draw Schedule For Club Games

With two afternoons of instruction from Garnet Campbell to give confidence, the Ladies' Section of the Quinte Curling Club will start scheduled games on February 8. Ninety-six women are included in the four groups that make up the draw and 37 others have signified their desire to play as substitutes. Women's Institute

SPRINGBROOK W.I

The January meeting of the Springbrook Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Barlow, Bonarlaw, with 19 members present.

Mrs. Clarence McKeown welcomed all, and called the business for hospitality and conducted the business.

Several letters of thanks were read for Christmas gifts received, and one referring to the spring conference for district directors at Guelph. It was voted to send $10 to the Mental Health Association and to forward the 25 cents per member to the F.W.I.O. for expenses. Stirling W.I. sent an invitation to their display of lamp shades on February 5th.

Five birthday fees were contributed and members were reminded of their March project. Strips of quilt blocks were handed in and a quilting was planned for the Bonarlaw ladies. A finished quilt for Mrs. C. Robbins was displayed.

Historical research convener, Mrs. A. Burkitt, had charge of the program.

Two humorous readings, "Friday Bargain Day," by Mrs. Burday Bateman, and "No News," by Mrs. Cyril McKeown, were much enjoyed.

Mrs. Campney gave an informative paper on "Lighting from Candle to Hydro" and Mrs. F. Cosbey read the A.B.C.s of the W.I.

The topic "Pioneer Life," contrasted with present conditions in Hastings county was capably given by Mrs. Wallace McInroy and evoked much interest and discussion.

After a song contest by Mrs. Pickle, a social time was spent with Mrs. Barlow and her committee serving afternoon tea.

NAPS IN JAIL

LONDON —(CP) — Police released an 18-year-old laborer, Kevin Hogan from Marlborough Street court where he stayed overnight when he fell asleep while visiting a friend in the cells.

Wife Preservers

Take a few minutes now, before the Christmas rush is on full-tilt, to check on the whereabouts of things you know you'll need but don't see on the shelf in the rest of the year. Examples: party clothes, including dressy jewelry; slacks, skirt-steals, accessories; Christmas cookies; stamps; blank checks; medications; holiday toiletries; cocktail napkins, wine glasses and barware; d'oeuvre dishes.

Spring Attraction

By ALICE ALDEN

The little straw boater, ribbon garnished, is youthful and attractive, a perennial choice of the pretty young girl. Here, ready for spring, is a saucer boater of natural-colored sewn straw. Trimmed with green and white ribbon, picot-edged, it has clusters of gram currants for a beauty bonus.

Congregational Meeting

WHITE'S UNITED CHURCH

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The congregational meeting was held at White's Church on Monday evening with Mr. Robert Percival as chairman.

The Rev. A. C. McCallum opened the meeting with prayer. The secretary, Mr. Lorne Hunt, gave the minutes of the 1957 meeting. The secretary was returned for 1958.

Reports of the session were given by Mr. Percival; finances by Arnold Ketcheson; the Woman's Association by the treasurer, Mrs. W. Jeffery; Bayside Woman's Missionary Society by the treasurer, Mrs. Lorne Hunt; the parsonage board by Mr. Percival; the Sunday School by the treasurer, Mrs. Lorne Hunt. All reports showed that White's Church was active in all departments in 1957.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Percival and to Mr. McCallum by Mr. C. Rush for their service throughout the year which was heartily approved by all. Both Mr. Percival and Mr. McCallum responded thanking all for their kind wishes.

A vote of appreciation was also extended to the pianists, Mrs. Jeffery and Mrs. Bowers.

Claim Happy Marriage Depends On Good Income Is Assailed

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Incompatibility, the Marriage Guidance Bureau told young couples Monday, depends mainly on income.

Nonsense, a chorus of impromptu critics replied.

The argument arose with the publication of an MGB booklet advising the prospective bridal pair to put their finances in order before taking the plunge.

"There's nothing like poverty for making you feel tired and snappy with each other," the booklet warned.

If two people are to live as cheaply as one, it added sonorously, they must be sure of how much they have and not spend any more.

The MGB's views were not shared by Bessie Braddock, a lucky Labor member of Parliament, who announced her husband had been on the dole when they were married and that they had been happy ever since.

CASHED IN GIFTS

Actor Richard Attenborough said he got married "on nothing" during the Second World War, cashing in wedding presents to pay for the honeymoon. He's still happily married after 13 years.

"Love and friendship are the only things that count," echoed Mrs. Colin Crewe, a great-niece of Sir Winston Churchill.

"Among the few supporters of the MGB's Spartan outlook was Lady Pakenham, writer and mother of eight.

"You must have money in the bank, Frank," she said.

Colorful Touch

By TRACY ADRIAN

There's nothing like a note of color to give dark winter clothes a bright, cheerful look. One easy way to achieve it is with scarves, which may be tied at the throat in a variety of flattering effects.

The one pictured is gently looped to outline the neckline of the dress. Of silk, it has a wide Paisley border in stained-glass colors to counterpoint the precise foulard pattern.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

AN ASH-TRAY SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm planning to give a Mixed Shower, in honor of a very dear friend of mine and her soon-to-be bridegroom. My fiance and I have been talking over the plans together, and he suggested that the shower be an Ash-tray Shower. What do you think about this suggestion? — Amy R.

I'm not the slightest bit enthusiastic about this suggestion. Not sensible . . . not practical . . . not imaginative. Today's living space generally doesn't allow for so many ash-trays. The chances are that too many of the ash-trays that will be brought may be too small or too decorative to be useful. Also, the bride-to-be may, probably will, receive too many ash-trays as wedding presents, from friends who can't think of anything else to give. (Many of today's brides regret this.) Then for housewarming presents there may be another deluge of ash-trays. That couple will soon be needing equipment for their pantry-shelf . . . so how's about a practical, if not fun, too? Pantry-shelf Shower? Or a Buffet Party Shower . . . useful accessories and gadgets for today's most popular and convenient form of entertaining? Or a Record Shower, if they are music-enthusiasts? Or every popular, particularly for the do-it-yourself-ers! a Toolbox Shower?

SENDING WEDDING INVITATION TO IN-LAWS-TO-BE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance and I are making plans for our wedding, which is to take place next month. We disagree on only one point: Should an invitation be sent to his parents? — Sally N.

Here's your opportunity to make a charming and loving gesture to your in-laws-to-be. Naturally you and their son have kept them informed about the plans for the wedding, and you'll know that they are to be there, but still you will want them to have the joy of receiving the very first invitations. So, when the invitations arrive from the engraver, you could at once enclose several in a large envelope or packet, and with them enclose a loving little note, saying something like this: Tommy and I want his mother and father, the guests of honor at our wedding, to receive the first invitations to our wedding, for you, if you wish, to keep as mementos of The Day. Dearest love to you both, and looking forward most happily to having you with us on T. is Twenty-first. Sally."

Resort Wear

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

This is the sort of outfit that smart young women are choosing for their southern resort wardrobe. It is a three – part affair consisting of a hip – bone length sleeveless blouson with slim, matching skirt of striped cotton tweed, plus a separate shirt of yellow and white dacron-and-cotton mixture. Shorts available to match.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Muriel S. — He won't forgive and forget.

Donald S. — She'll do it again.

Muriel S. — The day I made up my mind to leave my husband and two children I should have been shot. I don't know what got into me. I had been upset and unhappy for a long time, but I really didn't think about leaving. It kind of happened to me.

Well, since then I have snapped back to my senses. It took almost four months. I went to stay with an old friend of mine and she helped me to realize what I was giving up and where my duty lay.

I have begged my husband to forgive and forget, but he won't see things my way. He has been living with his mother. She takes care of the children and he says they are all getting along fine without me. I am afraid of what will happen if I bring him to court.

Donald S. — How can you trust a woman who would walk out on two children, aged 7 and 5? How can you trust a wife who deserts a husband without even a word of warning?

My mother says I'd be crazier than Muriel if I tried to make a go of it again. I'm not worried about going to court because I'm sure I can get custody of the children. Muriel is really crazy. They have been a good husband and always supported my family well. Muriel and I married when we were 16 and 18 — probably too young. But I grew up and she never did. She wanted marriage to be one long romance. She resented housework and taking care of the children.

Muriel would be sick of us all again within a month.

The Council: Donald is doing himself and his children a grave injury by shutting the door on his wife. He is now deserting her just as she deserted him.

Muriel's action was rooted in emotional and psychological illness. Probably she is still ill and greatly in need of help. She evidently has enough rational control to see the strangeness and folly of her actions, but it is not enough for her to simply recognize her duty. Despite her best efforts, her mind could play his tricks on her again — unless she goes about getting some treatment.

On the one hand Donald calls his wife "crazy," and on the other, he talks about her as though she is simply a bad child. Neither is true. Donald's refusal to face the facts of his wife's illness appears to be cruel, but it indicates some illness on his part too.

Donald and Muriel need to get together with a competent social worker to talk over the problems of their marriage. They both need some psychiatric help.

Mrs. Pearson Will Travel With Husband

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Lester B. Pearson said Monday she will travel with her husband during the March 31 election campaign.

The wife of the Liberal party leader told a reporter that campaigning "could be very exhausting."

Mrs. John Diefenbaker already has said she expects to accompany her husband during most of his campaigning.

Cherry Pie Contest Attracts A Crowd

By Mary Moore

I had to get my Cherry Pie Contest data secondhand this year. Regretfully I had to decline the honor of judging for the contest fell on January 17th and I had barely returned from the Maritimes.

My sister Peady attended and all of the judges are friends so my sources are infallible.

PASTRY:

Two cups cake and pastry flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup lard, ¼ cup (approximately) ice water. Measure flour into mixing bowl and mix salt through it. With pastry blender cut in ½ of lard until particles of lard are the size of cornmeal (for tenderness). Cut in remainder of lard until particles are size of peas (for flakiness). Sprinkle gradually with water, mixing lightly with a fork, and removing lumps of pastry as they form to avoid overmixing. Add water only until all flour is moistened. Divide dough into two balls and chill while preparing the filling. Yield: Pastry for bottom crust and lattice top of a 9-inch pie. Bake in 400 degs. Fahr. oven for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 375 degs Fahr. for 25 to 30 minutes.

The filling for the pie which won second prize is very different. Perhaps you would like to try it. This is Barbara Hay's, Toronto Ryerson Institute's entrant.

SECOND PRIZE CHERRY PIE FILLING:

Three and one-half cups frozen cherries, (3 15-oz. tins), 1 cup cherry juice, ¼ cup grapefruit juice (fresh), 3 tablespoons tapioca Juice (frozen, thawed) ¼ cup sugar (granulated), 3 tablespoons corn starch, ¼ cup black cherry wine, 2 teaspoons butter. Method is substantially the same as for first prize pie. I know that I for one am going to try it.

TUESDAY

Oven – Barbecued Shoulder Pork Chops; Broiled Apple Rings; Broccoli; Hard Rolls; Carrot Curls and Celery Sticks; Apple Tarts; Cheddar Cheese; Coffee.

The winner, Betty Jones of Brantford, Home Economics student in her final year at the University of Western Ontario, won an Admiral electric range* and of course a trip to Chicago for the International Cherry Pie Bake-Off on February 20th. I sure hope she brings the grand prize back to Canada this year with this recipe.

*BETTY JONES '58 CHERRY PIE FILLING

Two 15-oz. cans (2½ cups) frozen cherries (thawed), 3 tablespoons starch, ¾ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon butter. Drain cherries. Reserve ¾ cup cherry juice and heat in saucepan while mixing cornstarch with 3 tablespoons cold juice. Silkily add cornstarch mixture to heated juice and stir until thickened. Add sugar slowly to the hot mixture, cook for several minutes and remove from heat. Stir in salt, lemon juice and butter and pour over drained cherries, mixing cherries thoroughly with juice. Allow to cool while rolling pastry.

Spouse Lazy So Hejress Wins Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Athlie Joan Irvine Penniman, who at 24 is one of the wealthiest women in the United States, obtained a divorce Monday on allegations that her husband stayed in bed until noon and refused to get a job.

Mrs. Penniman inherited half the $250,000,000 real estate fortune of her late grandfather, James Irvine Sr.

The pretty blonde heiress divorced Russell Sylvanus Penniman, 27, airplane broker and member of a La Jolla, Calif., family.

Mrs. Penniman, who asked the divorce on grounds of cruelty, was granted custody of their baby, Russell Penniman IV, five months. Under a property settlement she will receive $100 a month for support of the child.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The time has come, the Wally-run said
To talk again of things,
Like firing, moving out of town,
To bolster up the Kings.

Somewhere the sun is shining,
Somewhere the people shout,
But there ain't no joy in Pembroke
When the Kinglets are shut out.

There is one thing at least, you can say about the slumping Kings from the northern town. They do not do things in half-measures. When they win they do it with a roar and Lawdy help the opposition. When they slump they hit the skids like a fifty-foot log going over Niagara.

For a few weeks, or so it seemed, the pesky Kings breathed their icy breath down the McFarlands necks just one point in arrears. The Hildebranders tried to shake 'em, but they clung tenaciously to their perch. When the Macs lost the Kings lost. And vice versa.

Then the Kings faltered a little and absorbed a couple of defeats—and Boss-man Lenser went into action. He had already guillotined former playing coach Ken Campbell, following this action with the edict "Play or you get the payroll cut, if not your head," or words to that effect.

The apparent lethargy of the Pembroke faithful had also irked Mr. Lenser no end, so he came up with the declaration that he would move the Lumber Kings, lock, stock and barrel, Aurora Borealis and what not, to the more appreciable atmosphere, he thought, of Hull, Quebec.

That brought a couple of verbal volcanic explosions from one Samuel Pollock and his trusty lieutenant Scotty Bowman, but they went for naught, because the Lumber Kings decided to do something about keeping their hockey calisthenics at home.

And the Kings were not fooling. The next time out they entertained the Kingston CKLC's and walloped 'em to the tune of 9-4. True they took a 7-5 edging at the hands of the same club a night or so later, then they backed up for a fresh start.

They went to Cornwall and garaged the Chevies by a 4-3 score. Sparked by this "away" win, they hosted the Ottawa-Hull youngsters and sent Sammy's beardless ones back to Hull with an 8-3 shellacking attached. The next victims to fall beneath the King's driving onslaught was Kingston, who succumbed 7-3 to Gleschbrecht Incorporated.

Meanwhile, the grimly-determined McFarlands were matching the Lumber Kings win for win and were hanging on to that one-point lead like a burr to a horse-blanket.

Then came the "game of the season," so the Pembroke news outlets cried. The McFarlands were slated to appear in the northern arena—and first place was at stake. The Pembroke faithful fired by local news "reports" that the "arrogant Mac, etc.," would be run out of the rink, and so forth, and hurtled again by a Lenser opinion that he had an Allan Cup winner, came out in droves to watch the Belleville Christians being tossed to the Pembroke lions.

And for twenty brief, but glorious hours, the Lumber Kings were in first place. For, to the shouts of the multitude up thataway, some 2,300 of 'em, they whipped our side 8-5, and looked down at the league pack for the first and probably last time in their seasonal career.

The next day they were back in familiar second-place surroundings after the Macs had defeated the Chevies 4-3 on Cornwall ice. The Belleville crew added two more points with a 5-0 blank of the Ottawa Canadiens. Then, came the second visit of the McFarlands to Pembroke. This, said the Kings and the faithful, "will put us back to a point in arrears of the Macs."

The McFarlands had other ideas. They edged the Kings 4-3 for the first time in the royal courtyard and grabbed a five-point lead. The Pembroke sports editor claims it was some "traitor" in the Pembroke camp who tooted a whistle during this game that cost the Kings a victory. He says both teams stopped play, then the Macs went on to score a goal—and that was that.

The alleged whistle started the Kings on a downhill skid that hasn't stopped yet. The Macs hung a 5-0 horse-collar on them in their next visit here and on Saturday last the Chevies blanked them 3-0 in Pembroke and followed it with a 5-1 triumph in Cornwall. This is the longest loss-streak the Kings have had so far this season.

The rest of the circuit now awaits with more or less bated breath, the next move on the part of Mr. Lenser to bring the Kings out of their current doldrums. They have scored but one goal in their last three outings, four in their last four.

Moore Leads Field With 65, Pocket, Boom-Boom Next; Rangers' Bathgate Moves Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Durable Dickie Moore, so far one of the few hale and hearty members of Montreal Canadiens present for every game, continues to set the National Hockey League scoring pace with remarkable consistency.

Dickie has never been better. In 39 games he has collected 29 goals and 36 assists for 65 points, five more than teammate Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard, the runner-up.

In the full 70-game schedule last season Moore compiled 29 goals and also 29 assists. His 58 points topped anything he had done since breaking into the league with Canadiens in the 1951-52 season. He finished eighth last season, 21 points behind scoring champion Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings.

Moore's previous high for goals was 13, in only 33 games during his break-in season.

BOOM BOOM THIRD

The NHL official statistics, released today, show Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Canadiens still in third place with 50 points. He is in hospital recovering from a bowel injury.

The most notable change among the leaders last week was a move from fifth to fourth place of Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers. His two goals and one assist brought his point total to 49. He displaced sidekick Bronco Horvath of Boston Bruins, who has 47 points.

In Montreal's three games last week Moore scored three goals and three assists, almost individual point - collection in the league.

Until a few seasons ago Moore was about the most brittle piece of chattel ever Canadiens had. Among an assortment of injuries shoulder dislocations and separations plagued him.

His scoring this season has been the more remarkable because he lost as a linemate the brilliant Maurice (Rocket) Richard in mid - November. The Rocket is still out. The little Rocket has missed three games.

Only one other forward, Claude Provost, has not missed a game for Montreal so far this season. Two of the five defencemen have played in all 70. Tom Johnson and Jean Guy Talbot.

Detroit's Gordie Howe, also on the injured list, still holds sixth place in the point standing with 22 goals and 23 assists. Closest are Alex Delvecchio of Detroit and Vic Stasiuk of Boston, tied at 41. Stasiuk got no points last week. Delvecchio scored one goal and one assist.

Camille Henry of New York Rangers, who also failed to get a point, follows with 40 points.

The league-leading Canadiens, with three wins, had the only perfect record last week. New York and Boston broke even—a win, a tie and a loss each. Boston moved into a third-place tie with Detroit, two points behind New York. Canadiens have a 24-point lead over Rangers.

Toronto Boxers Win Prelims

TORONTO (CP)—Les Mason, Canadian amateur welterweight champion, had his first bout since last August halted at the end of the first round Monday night when opponent Tommy Pillisch of Toronto was cut above the left eye by an accidental butt.

Mason, stationed at Camp Borden with the army, was given a draw with Pillisch, a recent immigrant from Hungary.

In preliminary bouts, three Niagara Falls fighters managed only one win in bouts with Toronto boys.

147 pounds—Reg Richardson, Niagara Falls, won five - round split decision over Allan Bass, Toronto.

BEAT LORRAINE'S TIME

SYDNEY (AP)—Sandra Morgan, 15, Monday swam 440 yards freestyle in four minutes, 56.2 seconds, fastest time for any woman over the distance during the last 12 months. The record is unofficial and has yet to be ratified. Sandra's time was two seconds faster than Lorraine Crapp's time last month.

Durelle Moves To Second Spot In Ring Ratings

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Light heavyweight Yvon Durelle, the New Brunswick fisherman who last Friday scored a seventh-round technical knockout over Clarence Hinnant of Washington, today was advanced to second from third contender in National Boxing Association raungs.

The NBA ratings leave Harold Johnson of Pennsylvania as top contender for Archie Moore's crown. But Yolande Pompey was dropped from second to fifth place behind Tony Anthony of New York, who is third, and Willie Hoepner of Germany, fourth. Hinnant now is ranked sixth.

The NBA also named Spider Webb as the boxer-of-the-month and advanced him from sixth to third place in the middleweight ratings as the result of his ninth victory over Rury Calhoun.

The Chicago middleweight, after twice hitting the deck, rallied to score a fourth-round technical knockout over Calhoun in their recent San Francisco bout. The defeat dropped Calhoun from fourth to sixth in the NBA ratings.

Sedgmen Ousts Pancho Gonzales

SYDNEY (AP) — Australian Frank Sedgmen upset Pancho Gonzales, world professional tennis champion, Monday and entered the finals of the Sydney tournament against Tony Trabert.

Sedgmen, utilizing a strong backhand, won over Gonzales 7-5, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2. Trabert, former United States Davis Cup ace who is staging a comeback, surprised with a victory over Australia's Lew Hoad Sunday 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Wings' Kennedy Struck Linesman; Tabbed $100

MONTREAL (CP) — Forbes Kennedy of Detroit Red wings was fined $100 Monday by president Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League for Kennedy's action in a game here last Thursday when he struck one of the linesmen.

The $100 includes automatic fines of $25 and $50 incurred through misconduct and game misconduct penalties imposed upon Kennedy at the time.

Kennedy was warned that any repetition will bring a more severe penalty.

The fine was announced after Campbell had reviewed the case and talked with officials.

The investigation disclosed Kennedy entered a scrap between Andre Pronovost of Montreal Canadiens and Warren Godfrey of Detroit after struck linesman Matt Pavlich on the arm in an effort to get Pavelich to move so he could get at Provost.

Referee Red Storey gave Kennedy a misconduct penalty, then added a game misconduct when Kennedy talked back to Pavelich.

In imposing the fine, Campbell said he took into account the strain Kennedy has been under because of the illness of his brother at their home in the Marilimes.

Marlies, Irish Play 4-4 Tie; Petes Beaten

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto St. Michael's, in the middle of a scoring spurt, scored four more goals Monday night to boost their total to 22 in three games.

A 4-4 tie with Toronto Marlboros kept St. Mike's in third place, two points ahead of Marlboros, who scored a second-period goal after what they thought was the end of the period.

The teams had left the ice before the timekeeper discovered 29 seconds remained for play. Doug Barkley scored a second before the end of the period to level the score 3-3.

The buzzer sounded early again in the third period with 10 seconds remaining. Marlboros came close to scoring a winning goal in the time.

Only other game Monday night saw Hamilton Cubs defeat Peterborough Petes 6-3. Cubs remain in second place, eight points behind St. Catharines Teepees. Peterborough is still fifth.

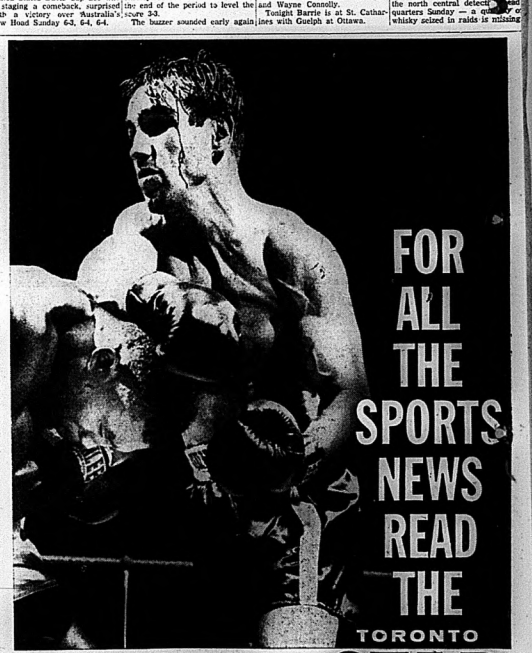
Dave Keon led St. Mike's against Marlboros, scoring twice. Henry Mazerak and Jim Sonnski scored the others. Riseley, Bob Nevin, Bob Davidson and Ian Anderson scored for Marlboros.

Marlboros' Carl Brewer and St. Mike's Bill Curry both needed stitches to close cuts after being hit by high sticks.

Jerry Sullivan and Stu McNeill each scored two goals for Hamilton against Peterborough. Brian Smith and Don Blackburn scored the others. Peterborough marksmen were Tom Clark, Guy Black and Wayne Connolly.

Tonight Barrie is at St. Catharines with Guelph at Ottawa.

Quebec Hockey



MONTREAL (CP) — Jean Pau Denis of Shawinigan Falls Cataracts continues to hold a three point lead in the Quebec Hockey League scoring championship.

Denis tallied a single goal making his total read 25-28 for 6 points. Right behind is teammate Gene (Max) Meiklok with 60 and Gard is Chicoutimi's Greig Hick with 37 points.

Only new development last week in the top 10 was a three way tie for fifth between Claude Laforge and Dick Bouchard of Shawinigan Falls and Jacque Gagnon of Quebec. All have 5 points.

OHA Juniors

Want Equal Player Rights With West in Cup Finals

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association's Junior council Monday to ask the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to allow eastern teams the same number of replacements western teams are permitted in the Memorial Cup finals.

Delegates to the council meeting said the OHA by allowing the West six replacements and the East none this year, is "killing hockey in the East instead of building it up in the West."

Last year the West was allowed three replacements, the East none, said Sam Pollock, manager - coach of Ottawa-Hull Canadiens, whose team lost the Memorial Cup to the Flin Flon Bombers, and since "they won it last year, why should they get more replacements than last year?"

The only dissenting voice was Ted Kennedy, coach of Peterborough Petes, who said "we don't want weak western teams coming down for the Memorial Cup series. Will this kill hockey in the West?"

HING TO KILL

Stafford Smythe, Toronto Maribores' manager, replied: "They've got nothing to sell out there. For one game this season in Winnipeg they drew 77 people. So what have they got to kill? And they're the ones who are telling us what to do."

The council also passed a motion agreeing that French-Canadian players be exempt from the OHA draft if the CASL will agree to recognize the draft or 'make all players living in Ontario subject to the draft regardless of age in the Ottawa Valley and Thunder Bay hockey associations.

A third motion, sent to the OHA executive, proposed that if a player is dropped by up to a higher league for a three-game trial no game shall be included in the trial unless the player actually gets on the ice during the game.

Win Ladies' Bonspiel Draw

TORONTO (CP)—Lindsay, Orillia and Peterborough triumphed in Monday's draws in the Ontario ladies curling playoffs.

Eight clubs are competing to represent Southern Ontario in the provincial championships at Port Arthur Feb. 16.

The Lindsay rink, skipped by Mrs. C. R. Hamilton, skimmed past Mrs. N. G. Squires' Hamilton team 16-7 Monday morning.

Mrs. J. Murphy of Orillia and Mrs. Neille Wooley of Peterborough had last-minute, one-point wins over Kitchener and Peterborough rinks, skipped by Mrs. C. D. Schmidt and Mrs. H. Bapty, respectively. The outcome was 10-9 for Orillia over Kitchener and 11-10 for Toronto over Peterborough.

In afternoon games: Mrs. Murphy defeated Mrs. Squires, 16-13; 14-4; and Mrs. Laidley, Lindsay, defeated Mrs. Schmidt, Kitchener, 13-11.

Marshall Has 12-Point Lead In American

NEW YORK (AP) — Hershey's Willie Marshall is starting to make a runaway of the American Hockey League scoring race. The veteran centre from Kirkland Lake has built up a 12-point lead over his closest pursuer, teammate Dunc Fisher.

League statistics released today show Marshall has accumulated 77 points. His 31 goals and 46 assists also give him the lead in those departments.

Fisher has amassed 65 points and is followed by Cleveland's Jim Pappin with 63 and third with 63. Fred Glover of Cleveland is next with 57.

Johnny Bower of Cleveland boasts the best goals - against average among Indians Monday on 110 goals allowed in 48 games.

HOME OF THE DOGS?

NEW YORK (AP) — The Polo Grounds, once the hallowed baseball home of New York Giants, will go to the dogs—if a racetrack operator in Phoenix, Ariz., has his way. Plans were disclosed Monday for converting the stadium into a $15,000,000 enclosed track for Greyhound racing. But the state legislature must pass a bill approving dog racing in New York. Then voters must approve it in referendum.

Martinez Gets Free Ride Into Welter Finals

NEW YORK (AP) — A draw out of a hat Monday gave handsome Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., a free ride into the final round of the welterweight boxing elimination tournament.

He will meet the winner of Virgil Akins - Isaac Logart 12-rounder for the title vacated by Carmen Basilio.

If the plans of the world championship boxing committee, headed by Julius Helfand, go through on schedule a new IBC champion could be crowned within three months.

Helfand, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission as well as president of the world body, ordered the blind draw when Australia's George Barnes, British Empire champion, declined offers by the International Boxing Club to come to the United States to fight Akins.

Originally six welterweights were slated for the elimination tournament last Nov. 1. Martinez defeated Gil Turner of Philadelphia and Logart whipped Mexico's Gaspar Ortega.

Representatives of the three fighters, manager Billy Daly for Martinez, manager Eddie Mustin for Logart, and Bernie Glickman, Logart's co-manager, agreed to abide by the results of the draw.

JOINS INDIANS

CLEVELAND (AP)—Bill Fazekas, 18-year - old high school pitcher from Lorraine, Ohio, was signed by manager Kerby Farrell Monday for a "substantial" bonus. Amount of the bonus was not disclosed. The right-hander will be farmed to Reading, Pa., in the class A Eastern League.

Quebec Rinks Show Strength In International Bonspiel

By GERRY La FONTAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec City rinks showed strength Monday in opening rounds of the week-long 45th Quebec international bonspiel.

All Muth's powerful Quebec Victoria quartet, two years ago winners of the Canadian Governor's and Grand Aggregate Bowl, won two games Monday. They crushed Al Backstrom's Warwick team, Mass., rink 13-2 in first-round play for the Omega Trophy then defeated J. B. Prince's Halifax crew 11-8.

Oliver Samson led his Quebec Jacques Cartier rink to two wins a 7-3 victory over C. Taylor of Toronto Royal Canadian and a 7-6 triumph over F. B. Fowlie of Newcastle, N.B.

In Chateau Trophy play, Gaston Amyot's Jacques Cartier rink defeated A. C. Dafoe of Sudbury, Ont., 12-7 then rode to the wildest win of the day by downing Keith Fulton's Winchester, Mass., team 17-6.

VON ZUBAN WINS TWICE

A strong outsider, George von Zuban from Sudbury, also had a pair of victories. His team beat Bob Kirouac of Jacques Cartier 13-4 and Don Clark of Sept-Iles, Que., 14-9. Von Zuban, competing this year in the Omega Trophy event, won the Salt - Renfrew Trophy last year.

The 112 rinks from Canada and the United States are competing for 15 major prizes. All rinks start by play in the Chateau or Omega events. First-round losers enter competition for the Frank-Yolis Jubilee Trophy.

Quarter - finalists in Chateau, Omega and Frank-Yolis play-offs earn the right to compete for the Lieutenant - Governor's Trophy. The rink winning most games gets the Grand Aggregate Bowl. Ties are broken by the Chateau drop to competition for lesser awards.

Games are 10 ends with 12-end finals Friday night and Saturday.

Ontario results Monday include:

Ted Szydlowski Will Not Lose Sight of Eye

CORNWALL (CP) — Hospital authorities here say defenseman Ted Szydlowski is out of danger of losing the sight of one eye.

Szydlowski, who plays for Cornwall Cheries of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A serlec, wa. hit in the eye by a puck Sunday during a game against Pembroke Lumber Kings.

Doctors described his condition as "satisfakctory" but said the condition of his eye will not be known definitely for several days.

Officials Probe Soccer Riot

VANCOUVER (CP) — Officials of the British Columbia Soccer Commission said Monday they are investigating circumstances surrounding a riot of some 500 fans Sunday at a Mainland Soccer League match here. It took six carloads of police to restore order.

"We won't tolerate this kind of a demonstration," said chairman Dave Fryatt. "Mob violence may be the thing in other countries, but not here."

The rioting began in the second half of a game between Westminster Legion and Columbus when linesman Percy Mitchell called an offside against Columbus and disallowed a goal which would have given them a 2-2 tie. Lewis Fryatt went on to the field and attacked Mitchell, referee Jack Jones and linesman Frank Lewis. They were not severely injured, although players were forced to protect the officials.

Legion was awarded the game 2-1.

Hoekstra Leads Junior Scramble

TORONTO (CP) — Murray Oliver of Hamilton Cubs, who had a one-game look at National Hockey League play with Detroit Red Wings Saturday night before St. Catharines' Teepees' monopoly on the top three spots in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race.

Oliver jumped into third place this week with 24 goals and 36 assists for 62 points, but is still well back of Teepees' Ed Hoekstra and John McKenzie.

Hoekstra has 39 goals and a league-leading 42 assists for 73 points and McKenzie is one point back with 30 goals and 41 assists. The displaced member of the high-scoring Teepee trio is Matt Ravlich, who dropped to fourth with 60 points. But Ravlich still leads the goal-parade with 32 in 36 games.

Toronto Maribores' Len Brodrick held his lead in the netminding race, with a 2.36 average, best among the regular netminders.

Players, Owners Set Stage For Joint Meet in Florida

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—An informal meeting Monday night set the stage for a joint meeting today of club owners and player representatives from each of the six teams in the National Hockey League.

Owners arriving early for the meeting said it was in no way to be considered as recognition of the newly-formed Hockey Players Association.

"We are just the same as baseball," said Conn Smythe, managing director of the Toronto Maple Leafs. "We feel that management must retain direction. But at the same time we enter the meeting with a free mind and hope we can solve problems with the players. The meeting was called at their request."

Left winger Ted Lindsay of Chicago Black Hawks requested the meeting in a telegram to Jim Norris, head of the Chicago club, said Smythe.

WITHOUT PREJUDICE

Lindsay asked for an informal meeting, Smythe said, "entirely without prejudice to any litigation or labor petitions presently ic existence."

The players association previously filed a damage suit against the league, charging dictatorship and monopoly. J. Norman Lewis and Milt Mound, New York lawyers for the players, were reported en route to Palm Beach.

They previously had announced the group would ask for an improved pension plan, a $7,000 minimum wage, payment for exhibition games, contract release for five-year men assigned to the minors and recognition of the association formed last February.

Kingston Leads Chess League

Kingston snuffed out Belleville's last dim hopes in the South Eastern Ontario Chess League, defeating the local club 9-3 in a ten-board match played at the Aluminum Co. recreation hall last evening. The only Belleville victories came on the bottom two boards.

The race is now between Kingston and Peterborough and the league title will be decided when the final three matches of the schedule are played here Feb. 23. Kingston leads by two points.

Following are the results of yesterday's match, with the name of the Kingston player being given first in each case: Dr. G Dunlov J, D. Payne 0; W. Janischewsky 1, M. Hamelink 0, I. Sakurauskiak 1, W. Hinderle, 0; E. Bachofer 1, V. DePaul 0; Prof. G. W. Leonard 1, T. Meeus 0; S. Nowak 1, H. Wolfe 0; I. Orloff 1, M. Waller 0; F. Saksena 1, R. Suykens 0; N. French 0, W. SPORT IN BRIEF

FROM ACORNS

PEMBROKE (CP) — Little Roddy McGillis, 13, of the Pembroke Minor Hockey League has town sportsmen agog with his record of almost five goals a game. Roddy has 53 goals in 11 games with Victoria Peewees. He won a bet from his father when he beat Maurice (Rocket) Richard's NHL record of 50 goals in a season. With the "rocket" in mind his buddies call him "firecracker." He weighs 86 pounds.

Madoc Defeats Bancroft Twice Over Weekend

MADOC (Special) — Madoc Rural-Wellmet reacted to their tenth OHA Intermediate "C" victory here last night defeating the Bancroft Juniors 7-3 for their second weekend victory over the northern squad.

On Saturday night they took a 5-2 decision from the Pontiacs with Nobber Day scoring three goals, Bob Taylor two and G. Nickle adding the others.

Last night's game was a close-fought affair for two periods with the teams going into the third frame all tied up at 3-3. The Blues erupted with a four-goal explosion in the third to tuck the victory away.

Eleven penalties were handed out with Lawrence Hurst and Williams of Belleville, six to the Pontiacs. Three of them were misconducts in the third period when too much argument with officials took place.

In another Int. "C" game last night Chesterfield defeated Marmora 8-6.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was sewing to herself up in her room, and I said, Hay ma, what kind of a baby was it?

You were small, ma said, and I said, Sure, but was it really a baby in breth, ma said, and I said, G, ma why did you keep me?

Oh, just habit, I suppose, or maybe I was afraid of what the cayboys would say if I sent you back, ma said, and I said, Supposing I got killed eating a toadstool. Instead of a mushroom, would you miss me very much?

Now stop that, ma said, and I did. Then talk about such things, ma said, and I said, Well, G, ma, I didn't say I really ate a toadstool. It looked like a mushroom and it didn't taste much like poison. But dont worry, ma, I'll Puds dont die, I probably won't because he ate only half. I said.

Oh my goodness, where w s this, what on arth are we coming to, ma said, and I said, They were growing in Pads's back yard and nobody ever cleaned mushrooms there, but that dont prove anything.

It proves you're a crazy reck less silly thing, ma said. What if Puds had died, ma said, and I said, In the morning.

I think I'll go to bed and see what he says, ma said. What time this morning? she said, and I said, Aw, ma, not this morning. It was one morning at leest a month ago.

Which it was, and ma made me promise never to eat another toadstool big or mister where it grew or even didn't grow, and she said if I said another word on the subject she would finish it with a good slap.

The next thing I let it stay the way it was.

NBC Plans to Give Increased Attention to News This Year

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Sarnoff, president of the National Broadcasting Company, believes that 1958 is the year when television will have its greatest opportunity thus far to report and interpret the important events of our time.

Discussing general programming trends on NBC-TV in the coming year, Sarnoff said in an interview: "We plan to give increased attention to news-and-public-affairs programs and to documentary. The times call for it. This is the year when television will have its greatest opportunity thus far to prove itself as a medium of communications."

Sarnoff emphasized a point that most viewers constantly overlook. "The amount we'll be able to do and spend on news and special events programming will be greatly influenced by the success of our entertainment programs."

BREAD REALLY CAN

In other words: News and special events programs are TV bread and meat to many serious-minded viewers, but the sponsors they're expensive to produce and almost invariably lost money. So they're costly cake to a television network. Profits made on entertainment shows sustain in a large measure those programs which sometimes are so informative.

The financial picture is bright for NBC this year, Sarnoff said. "Revenues will be one of the bulwarks of the schedule this year," he said in making these general comments on entertainment program trends:

"Situation comedy is at a low ebb. The move is toward family comedies as perhaps best typified by Father Knows Best. To achieve successful situation comedy probably involves the biggest gamble of all."

Musical variety shows?

"The individual singer who is either a master of ceremonies or a performer undoubtedly will have some troubles this year. But that certainly doesn't apply to the Perry Comos and Dinah Shores."

COMICS ARE SCARCE

Comedy?

"I doubt if there will be an increase in stand-up comedy, though I think there will be more general comedy programs. A really good comic is as hard to find and develop as the situation comedy. It's hard for me to believe that the Milton Berles and Jackie Gleasons have burned themselves out. I think that everybody they'll come back—perhaps in other forms."

Sarnoff does not anticipate any radical new forms this year." He sees improvement of the 90-minute spectacular "which is having its most successful year at NBC."

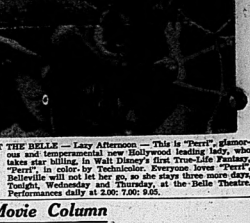
"Being scheduled at various times instead of with monotonous regularity," Sarnoff said, "they have become television events to which everyone looks forward."

Maroons, Wolves Play 3-3 Tie

SUDBURY (CP) — Chatham Maroons retained possession of second place in the OHA-NOJHA senior league here Monday night, holding fifth place Sudbury Wolves to a 3-3 tie before 3,195 fans.

The Wolves tied the game in the dying minutes of the third period after two teams pulled goalie Johnny Albani in favor of a sixth attacker the move paid off, the first time it has worked for the Wolves in this season.

The tie leaves Chatham one point ahead of Sudbury with Maroons still owning two games in hand.



The Wolves took a 1-0 lead on a goal by George Price at 5:58. Chatham—exploded for three fast goals, two by Lloyd Ferguson and the third by Garth Graham to move ahead 3-1 in the third. Leo Lalonde and Joe Malo scored late in the third period to tie the game for Sudbury. Malo got the winning after the team iced six attackers.

SEA EXERCISE

HALIFAX (CP) — Ten thousand men, 34 ships, three submarines and planes of the United States and Canadian navies will start a two-week anti-submarine exercise off the Florida coast starting Feb. 10.

AT THE McCARTHY — At the end of the road! Appropriately enough, Blake Edwards and Nelson Iles against a tombstone, mortally wounded from FBI agents' bullets, pleading with his "wife" (Carolyn Jones) to end his life. Mickey Rooney is starred in the title role of the United Artists release now playing the McCarthy Theatre, 2nd. feature attraction is "The Killing", featuring Sterling Hayden.

AT THE BELLE — Lazy Afternoon — This is "Perri", glamorous and temperamental new Hollywood leading lady, who takes star billing in Walt Disney's first True-Life Fantasy, "Perri", in color by Technicolor. Everyone loves "Perri", Belleville will not let her go, so she stays three more days, Tonight, Wednesday and Thursday, at the Belle Theatre. Performances daily at 2.00; 7.00; 9.05.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The soon-to-be Private Elvis Presley draws this advice from army oldtimer, Eddie Fisher: Take your basic training and then entertain your fellow soldiers.

That's what Eddie did five years ago — "and it's one of the greatest experience of my life."

Their situations are roughly parallel, though Fisher was just starting his climb to fame when he was drafted and Elvis is an international celebrity.

"I think the best thing for Elvis to do is to take his basic training and prove that he can be one of the boys," said Eddie. "The other guys might get a little tough on him because of all the publicity he's had.

KEEP WATCH

"I felt it when I was going through. There's no outright hostility, but they keep watching you all the time to see if you're going to put off. When you're out on a long hike, you don't dare fold up and ride the truck, as some do. You've got to keep going — or else.

"After he goes through basic training, Elvis should do entertaining — but not for officers. That would be overdoing it. Actually, he'll have no choice; that's what he does best and that's what he should do. I did it, and it was a wonderful experience. You learn to entertain under all kinds of conditions.

Eddie added a note of caution: "I don't know how bumps and grinds will go over with service audiences."

Eddie was reluctant to talk about Presley, since he might appear to be stamping out sour grapes. But he made these comments:

CERTAINLY NO SINGER

"I don't know what he's got. Certainly, he's no singer; even he must admit that. Maybe it's the beat. All the rock 'n' roll singers have it, and the beat seems to be important in today's market.

"But I don't think Elvis is right in the way he plays on the emotions of the young girls. Everyone of us who has had that kind of following, from Frank Sinatra on, realizes how easily the girls respond to suggestion. Just a smile or a turn of the head can evoke screams.

"In Sinatra's case, it was the way he'd bend a note, and it could be a heartfelt thing. But Elvis plays on that emotionalism in a way that I don't think is right. I think it can be vulgar."

In order to advance quickly now, it is imperative you go hastily to the most powerful and intelligent persons you know for advice, aid and new, wonderful contacts. Impress with both great vision and commonsense.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Be analytical and know just what it is exactly that has caused failure in certain spheres lately. Remove the weak links and strengthen with new methods, harder work. Be most friendly but always with your eye on the ball.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Pleasant, informal talks with financial advisers, real experts will give you a great insight into the faulty methods you are using that have kept you from great success. Courtesy with everyone will pay big dividends.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — This will be a most successful day for you if you have enlightening talks with all those whom you wish to have associated with you in any way in the future. Use wiser psychology and tonight follow suit with romantic ti.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Putting everything in a more delightful condition whether at home or at place of work, thereby getting the good will of closest ties, fellow workers is fine today. Thoughtfulness will bring real happiness.

If your child is born today... The pretty and charming child born today is the type who will automatically attract everyone and everyone will want to do for your child. Realizing that spoiling a child is worse than being too stern, it is best you teach your progeny early to start earning for himself or herself without dependence on anyone for greatest possibilities in this fine chart.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Tuesday, February 4

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Stepping out of everyday rather monotonous existence will open many a new door into the world of action and creativeness so you must spend every moment wisely. Follow good ideas in paper, meet people, plan.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Although planetary forces are in favor of other people today, you can still make this day lucrative by seeing authorities, financiers, et al. Keep your part of contracts, follow advice given. Above disappointments.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Leave the house early today and get into the swing of things, letting partners to co-operate fully with you. Be sure to contact plain - spoken associate for best results. Then let nothing stop you. Act deliberately.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — This is one of those fine days when there seems to be magic in everything you do, whether it is typing like lightning, making private sales, singing with absolute ease, etc. Cooperate with and give credit due to fellow workers.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A splendid day for happy, satisfying living. Get in touch with tried and tested admirers and work together happily; voice your clever ideas. Make this the very best day in months. Tonight, fine for loving and giving.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — A very interesting day in many ways. Close ties or fine associates just splendid today, for co-operative ideas this day will mean greater income and harmony tomorrow and much into the future. Take care not to pick on others unnecessarily, though.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Here is a day when you can dash about seeing people and expressing your good ideas perfectly, whether it be of a personal or social and political nature, or trade and education interests. See that you make contracts.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Making joint plans with close ties or fine associates just splendid today, for co-operative ideas this day will mean greater income and harmony tomorrow and much into the future. Take care not to pick on others unnecessarily, though.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Herbert will be furious! He just had the car washed!"

Kenneth F. Tupper of Toronto has been elected to the presidency of The Engineering Institute of Canada for the year 1958-1959. He will take office in May of this year, during the annual meeting of The Institute at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec City.

Mr. Tupper is president of Ewbank and Partners (Canada) Limited, thermal and electrical engineering consultants. One of Canada's leading authorities on atomic energy and jet propulsion, Mr. Tupper was awarded the O.B.E. in 1947, for his wartime work in those fields.

Armed Guards At Millbrook

TORONTO (CP) — Reform Minister Dymond has ordered that guards at Ontario's two big reformatories—Guelph and Burwash—be disarmed, it was learned Monday.

The decision means the, tall, Millbrook, the province's new maximum security institution will have armed guards and the will be stationed in security towers.

Guards at Burwash and Guelph, armed since 1914 and 1911, will carry only walkie-talkies for use against attempted escapes. Tests with the portable radios at Burwash indicated they were far more effective than arms, with fewer escapes by attempted and fewer successful Guards at the two reformatories have been armed with sidearms and rifles or shotguns only when escorting parties composed of the prisons' namely sentiments. These prisoners now are housed at Millbrook and the arms are stored in arsenals for emergency use.

"They're trying everything to attract more customers."

UNANIMOUS

The commission also endorsed suggestions of the company for easing the terms under which firemen would be displaced, spread over a period of years.

It also proposed the dropping of "arbitrary" — payment for certain time for firemen on whether or not they work the full time — in favor of having them paid just for hours they work.

Another point in the report was a recommendation that the so-called "mountain differential" for engine hands in the Rockies be reduced.

About 3,000 firemen are, employed by the CPR. Of these, some 2,400 are in freight and yard service. The company does not propose to remove firemen from its passenger diesels.

SAVINGS CITED

Removal of the others, the royal commission said in its report, would amount to a CPR-estimated saving of $1,744,000 a year currently and an ultimate annual saving of $11,581,000 when the system becomes fully dieselized.

The commission declared that: "We are of the opinion that firemen are not required on diesel locomotives on freight and yard service on the Canadian Pacific Railway.

"Their functions have either totally disappeared, as in the case of the production of power, mechanical assistance and inspection, or are a mere duplicate of what is discharged by another or others, as in the case of the lookout functions performed by the head-end trainman and the engineman."

Centenarian Sees Landslide Win for Tories

OTTAWA (CP)—Henry Thomas Smith, "a Tory since I was able to understand politics," celebrated today his 100th birthday with a prediction that the Progressive Conservatives will win "a landslide victory" at the March 31 general election.

The centenarian, who retired from the civil service 41 years ago, is an old hand at elections. For 33 years, as clerk of the Crown in Chancery, he was Canada's chief elections officer.

Mr. Smith's particular assignment was to keep electoral lists up to date.

Still active, though with slightly failing eyesight and hearing, his only concessions to growing years are "At one time Mr. Smith was a printer, or, according to the Prince Edward Observer, and later he published the weekly Ensign at Bryson, Que.

A family reunion tonight is to be attended by sons J. H., manager of the Toronto - Dominion bank in Kingston, and Milton H., retired civil servant, and daughter Muriel, a retired registered nurse; another son, the W. H. Y. Smith, is chief of preventive medicine for the state of Alabama.

BOATS MISSING

TOKYO (AP)—Two Japanese fishing boats with 36 aboard have been missing for eight days and are believed sunk near the Soviet Union's Kamchatka Peninsula. The maritime safety board reported that the 70-ton Kaiyo Maru and 99-ton Yuko Maru were last yeard from Jan. 27.

Latest Bulganin Letter Does Not Go Far Enough
WASHINGTON (AP) — Better proof of Russia's good intentions is sought by President Eisenhower as a condition for an East-West summit conference.
A letter made public Monday from Premier Bulganin did not go far enough, a White House statement indicated, toward meeting Eisenhower's insistence that such a conference would "hold good hope of advancing the cause of peace and justice."
Eisenhower used that phrase in a Jan. 12 letter to Bulganin saying he would agree to the conference if certain conditions were met. Bulganin's note, delivered Sunday, was a reply to the Jan. 12 letter.
The White House statement issued Monday night said the Bulganin note is being considered further, but it was "already apparent that further clarification of the Soviet position will be necessary."
The statement added Bulganin's latest note "consists of a repetition of Soviet proposals previously made and a negative attitude toward President Eisenhower's . . . proposals" in his 12 letter.
Eisenhower called among other things for advance preparations through diplomatic channels and through a meeting of foreign ministers together with some assurance that a summit meeting would succeed.

FIRE KILLS FOUR

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Four persons died and five were injured in an apartment house fire Sunday. An unidentified resident finding his telephone dead, ran four blocks to turn in the alarm. Poor eyesight that prevented him from being accepted by the Royal Air Vice-Marshal Ferrier tells aviation story of his personal engineer.

His father was an officer in the British army in India, where Alan was born after attending school in Europe and England, he attempted to get into Sandhurst, the British military college, but was rejected because of his vision.

He came to Canada and studied science at McGill University until he went overseas with Canadian forces during the First World War, returning as an acting captain with the Military Cross. He completed an engineering course but was laid off his first job because of a recession.

A chance encounter led him to a job with the Canadian airboard under Chief Engineer Ernest Walter Stedman, later air vice-marshal, who was to become his chief for 31 years. Stedman died a year ago. There was no single man in Canada who did more to build up Canadian airpower," says Ferrier.

He followed Stedman into the Canadian air force, and was the 11th permanent officer given the rank. He was formally designated a year later, in 1924. His air force number is still 011.

The RCAF in those days was mainly a fleet of war surplus used for bush flying, justifying its existence through aerial photography, but its officers pushed constantly for Canadian aircraft development and gradually brought in better planes.

Flight Lieutenant Ferrier, as he was then, gained insight into winter flying problems and helped fit planes for Canadian operation of all-purpose aircraft. A new, improved Canadian-designed engine was developed and put into production. Ferrier was in charge of the testing program.

Five years later he was made director of technical services, RCAF headquarters, Ottawa, and in 1939 was appointed director of operations and training. He helped organize the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, which was to train 50,000 airmen in Canada during the war.

Election Guns Loaded, Cocked For Long Duel

P. M. Expected to Open Campaign in Winnipeg

OTTAWA (CP)—The campaign guns for the March 31 federal general election are being loaded and cocked.

The CCF Tuesday got off to a quick start in its election planning by drafting a program at a meeting of the party's national executive in Toronto.

It will concentrate on problems of agriculture and employment and hopes to win more than the 25 seats it held in the Commons when Parliament was dissolved last Saturday.

On other fronts, Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expected, to make his main policy speech in Winnipeg a week from today, on Feb. 12.

He made clear in a speech here Saturday night to the national convention of Young Progressive Conservatives that his chief appeal will be for a return of a majority of his supporters so they can get on with their job.

But he has indicated to reporters that the key part of his speech, in which he said "the campaign starts tonight," was not his big policy item.

TO THINK IT OUT

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson was to retire to a "remote place" today to think out his campaign. His election travelling-companion, Paul Martin, veteran national Liberal headquarters staffer, was expected to be announced next week.

Social Credit Leader Low was expected to attend regional conferences of the party at Vancouver Feb. 14-15 and at Brandon, Man., Feb. 18.

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell's plans were discussed at the Toronto meeting of the party executive. But the election announcement found him in Ottawa keeping previously-made speaking engagements.

He took the opportunity Tuesday night to get in a couple of election digs during the course of a radio interview he said he believed the Conservatives called the election at this time because they were afraid economic conditions won't improve by the summer.

"I don't think it was necessary to call an election. I hope the people of Canada will elect a government that won't have a great majority." When the majority does that, everyone was put to his toes.

The Conservative party standing in the 262-seat Commons was: Progressive Conservatives 113; Liberals 48; Social Credit 19; Independents 2.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the close standing in the Commons during the last - concluded Parliament helped to create conditions to force into effect election promises that might otherwise have been put off.

He said the Liberal party is now without leader Mr. Pearson was a "very good" leader; an "honorable and honest man."

Freight Car Derailed

KINGSTON (CP) — One of 91 cars on an eastbound Canadian National freight train was derailed early today between Collins Bay and Ernestown, 10 miles west of here in Kingston.

No one was injured but traffic was held up. The eastbound passenger train from Toronto to Montreal was four hours late.

EARLY WALKOUTS NOT EXPECTED DUE CONTRACTS

Rail Strike on CPR, CNR Possibility

OTTAWA (CP)—A royal commission report on an urgent problem of automation has given rise to the possibility of new railway strikes in Canada.

This possibility developed Tuesday following a report by a royal commission headed by Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court, now retired.

The report said firemen are not needed on CPR yard and freight diesel locomotives.

W. E. Gamble of Montreal, international vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) predicted that a strike of his union members would tie up the two transcontinental railways — the CPR and CNR—unless it removed the firemen from diesel and yard diesels.

He said over this same issue that the union and CPR deadlocked in January of 1957. The CPR said the firemen removed as unnecessary on the diesel locomotives, but the union refused to agree to this and a nine-day strike ensued. It was settled finally by appointment of the commission to examine the problem.

CONTRACTS STILL BINDING

If strikes are the eventual outcome of the commission findings, no early walkouts are expected. The union contracts with the CNR run to the spring until March 31 and with the CPR until May 31. Both railways think unlikely that, even if the new negotiations expected to begin shortly end eventually in complete failure, no early strike would result, for both sides would fight a general election.

Meantime, the publicly-owned CNR served notice on the union that in coming contract negotiations it will ask that the company be allowed to use its discretion in deciding what firemen are to be used on its diesels. This would give the CNR power to reduce firemen in yard and freight service.

Missing Boy, 4, Found Buried In Deep Drift

TORONTO (CP) — Wind-whipped snow Tuesday nearly smothered a boy, 4, who played 3 feet deep in a drift, caused school buses to gain late and kept motorists wary on slick roads.

Winds up to 50 miles an hour whipped 6 inches of fresh snow in parts of Southern Ontario.

Rescuers found the tot by winds included Georgian Bay, Bruce Peninsula, Peel County, Caledon, Dufferin County and Orangeville.

Raymond Yakechuk, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Yakechuk of Bradford, 21 miles north of here, was found buried in a drift in a farmer's field for 15 minutes while helping his father shovel snow.

SPOTTED HIS BOOT

His mother saw his snowsuit-covered leg and the four-foot-high drift in their driveway.h Dr. Peter Heyland of Bradford said the boy was suffocating because of the snow he had been buried any longer.

The boy was weather forecast says the winds will diminish today to about 25 miles an hour throughout southern parts of the province. High winds have been blowing unabated for 24 hours in the southern part of the province.

Montreal Surgeon Decries Current Campaign Against Fats in Diet

TORONTO (CP) — A Montreal surgeon said today there is no medical evidence to link consumption of fats with arteriosclerosis.

Dr. Ray Lawson of Royal Victoria Hospital told the Meat Packers Council of Canada that medical research has not shown fat diets result in a high level of cholesterol in the blood, generally identified as a prime contributor to arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries).

"There was no proven relationship between blood - cholesterol levels and arteriosclerosis except in "a very small group having metabolic disease" — less than five per cent of the population. The past years included disclosure, forming one to two per cent of the population.

Dr. Lawson's speech was related to the press in advance of delivery.

He said newspaper and magazine articles, based on medical literature, have warned the public to avoid fats and such "lack of polyunsaturates" has been effective.

"Even high school children today can tell you a simplified story of how the body doesn't like fat in the diet, and, how this stuff gets into the blood stream and builds up the walls of blood vessels, and eventually Bingo. Coronary, doctor, or perhaps the mortician."

Dr. Lawson, who has been on a fat diet for more than a year, getting almost 80 per cent of his calories from fat, said he was interviewed last week at a Cleveland institution last month.

Once-Staunch Arab Friends Of U.S. Assail Baghdad Pact

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Once-staunch Arab friends of the United States have bitterly denounced the recent Baghdad pact meeting in Ankara, Turkey, as a victory for communism.

The Beirut, Lebanon, newspaper An Nahas, published and edited by a Harvard-educated Arab, noted for his in-American leanings, suggests that the meeting's results leave the Arabs a choice: but to embrace the "positive neutrality" preached by President Nasser of Egypt.

Another strongly pro-Western and pro-American Arab daily, Beirut, the French-language L'ORIENT, now must face West with this choice: "Solve the Palestine question, or the Arabs will go Communist."

The emphasis of the Baghdad pact session on military measures of stopping communism seems to have embittered even more than before those Arabs who considered themselves pro-Western and friends of the U.S.

Among these is Ghassan Tueni, the publisher of An Nahas. A Christian Arab, he is also vice-president of the Lebanese Chamber of Deputies and a prospective foreign minister. He supports the policy of the incumbent in Lebanon's foreign ministry, pro-Western Charles Malik.

Commenting on the Ankara meeting, his paper says editorially:

"What has the Baghdad pact done in Ankara? It established a combined military planning staff —as if communism has been perishing and is continuing to penetrate the Middle East successfully by military operations, and as if the Soviet Union is planning to invade or even has an intention of invading the Middle East in the near future.

"Arabs — even those in Iraq — have lived with the West in the Baghdad pact game — have indicated their disappointment with the extent of economic aid envisioned in the communique issued at the end of the Ankara meeting. Underscoring this disappointment, Tueni writes that the conferees made themselves war-mongers in Middle East eyes and failed to come up with a resolution which had even any publicity value to offset Communist propaganda in the region.

"The Ankara meeting has signed and sealed the failure of the West to rid itself of the complex which has already paralyzed it completely in the Middle East," the editorial adds.

Navy's Vanguard Fizzles Again After Takeoff

By BEN FUNK

CAPE CANAVERAL Fla. (AP)—The United States Navy's second Vanguard satellite rocket soared skyward early today but ended just like the first—in a fiery explosion.

Sixty seconds after a beautiful takeoff at 2:33 a.m. EST, the bullet-shaped Vanguard wobbled crazily, broke into two pieces and was destroyed by the test range safety officer.

If the flight had succeeded, the navy would have put a tiny "moon" into orbit with the navy's Explorer which was launched Friday by the Jupiter-C missile.

But the Vanguard climbed only about 2,000 feet before the safety officer, R. D. Sheppard, pressed the button that blew it apart and it plunged to earth to warn the ocean is fiercely blazing fragments.

So Soviet Russia, having launched two sputniks, still holds a numerical lead in the race to solve the secrets of outer space. Sputnik I disintegrated Jan. 4 or Sputnik II, carrying a dead dog, still whirls silently around the earth.

ATOMIC CARRIER

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Skies will be cloudy over most of Eastern Ontario today with some drizzle or freezing drizzle expected near Lake Erie. A severe storm now forming over Colorado threatens more cloudy weather for southern regions Thursday. Central and Northern Ontario will be mainly cloudy and today with increasing cloudiness indicated for northwestern region Thursday.

Economists Predict Huge Housing Spending in 25 Yrs.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada may spend an estimated $91,200,000,000 on new housing and community facilities in the next 25 years, Mr. Gordon economic commission has been told in a special study by three Canadian economists.

The estimate, made public today, includes possible outlays on hospitals, schools, roads, sewers, waterworks, airports, playgrounds and other projects. It covers only initial capital costs. Together with other outlays for maintenance and repair, it could bring the total spending over the 25 years to more than $200,000,000,000.

Based on an increase in population of about 10,000,000 to about 26,600,000, the study anticipates that Canada's total of housing and hospital beds may double, that water consumption may more than double and that motor traffic may triple.

Without considering the possible change in the purchasing power of the dollar, the forecasters estimate that approximately $43,700,000,000 will be required to build another 5,000,000 houses, added to the existing 3,900,000.

This extra need is based on the population growth and the increase in the number of households from 3,900,000 to 9,000,000.

The study authors are professor Yves Dube of Laval University, F. E. Thomas of Toronto, finance department economist; and D. B. McQueen of Winnipeg, Bank of Canada research officer.

Construction of new schools and universities may take some $4,200,000,000; hospitals and sewage systems, about $2,700,000,000 each; water works, $2,400,000,000; airports, $1,200,000,000; churches and other religious buildings about $1,500,000,000.

Soup Kettle Goes to Pot After 50 Years

PITTSBURGH (AP)—There was bad news today from the Allegheny County Jail: Officials report that the prison's soup kettle has gone to pot.

Warden Grael E. Price called the county commissioners to appropriate $15,000 for a new 100-gallon model. The old one, he said, has developed leaks after 50 years of service.

Detect Cancer By Dioxide Spray

BALTIMORE (AP)—A team of Johns Hopkins scientists is detecting lung cancer with a cough by inhaling sulphur dioxide spray dispensed from a capsule much like the household fly spray.

The researchers reported Tuesday that in controlled tests on non-cancer persons who normally are unable to voluntarily produce sputum by coughing, coughing—19 patients, or nearly one third, were found to have malignant lung cells.

All 19 cases were confirmed as cancer through other diagnostic techniques. All but one of the 61 found cancer-free received clean bills of health in more exhaustive tests. The one exception was an extremely rare type of mucous cell which slipped by the researchers.

LEGISLATURE WILL CONTINUE INTO EARLY APRIL

Campaign Will Not Halt Any Business

TORONTO (CP)— The 1958 session of the Ontario legislature is expected to continue into April with the March 31 federal election hanging heavy overhead.

Premier Frost said in the legislature Tuesday he has no intention of adjourning or curtailing the 1958 session because of the federal campaign.

The House was concerned with the business of Ontario and it should be difficult to finish within the nine weeks needed last year. This indicated a session extending past March 31.

Election campaigning thus is expected to be a matter of interest during the session.

One member, former mines minister Allan Kelly, has already resigned his seat in Cochrane North to run as a Progressive Conservative candidate in the federal election. Another Conservative member, E. P. Moringstar, is said ready to do the same in Welland riding.

MAY BE FALL ELECTION

Most observers say there is little chance of a provincial election in June but a fall election is considered possible. March 16 depends on the result of the March 31 vote.

The Progressive Conservative government has two years to go in its five-year term. A provincial election cannot be called after three years on several occasions during the fourth year.

Arguing against an election is the fact that provincial Treasurer Porter to become chief justice of the Ontario Appeal Court. Porter also is considered to be Premier Frost's successor. He may have weakened the cabinet.

The first sign of federal election talk is expected to come in the debate on the throne speech, scheduled to start Thursday.

Proceedings were quiet Tuesday.

Liberal Leader Oliver complained about the printing of Hansard being restricted to 1,200 copies but Speaker the Rev. W. A Downer said 600 or 700 copies would be ample. Only 500 are printed last year.

Most attention was given to the appointments of three new members and the appointment of Harry H. Ball, Conservative-South as deputy Speaker.

The three new members, Fernand Guindon (PC—Glengarry), William A. Stewart (PC—Middlesex North) and John A. McCue (PC—Lanark), were elected in by-elections last year after the 1957 session of the legislature.

Half Million Claim Jobless Insurance Pay

OTTAWA (CP) — Claims for unemployment insurance benefits in December totalled 499,213 in December, the bureau of statistics reported today.

This compared with 249,038 in November and 265,230 in December, 1956.

The bureau said the increase appeared to be due largely to seasonal activity in industrial operations as the construction, logging and transportation groups.

It also was due in part to the inclusion of about 8,000 persons among claimants for the first time, and to the fact that the date for filing claims for seasonal benefits was advanced to Dec. 1 from Jan. 1.

In Ontario December claims rose to 153,598 from 76,171 a year earlier.

Decide Fire in Tree of Deseronto Was Not Caused by Falling Sputnik

OTTAWA (CP)—If Sputnik I fell in Ontario, nobody saw it or reported it.

This is the substance of a final report prepared by the Defence Research Board's telecommunications establishment which has claimed Sputnik I fell in western North America.

The DRB scientists had calculated Russia's first earth satellite would pass over Ontario about 8 p.m. Nov. 30 and Dec. 2.

The RCAF's 50,000-man Ground Observer Corps, operating 2,000 stations, was put on the alert to watch for the death of the satellite.

A number of sightings of various objects were reported to the board. Most reports came from an area north of Whitehorse, Canadian Fires Kill 22 Children And Four Adults

N.B. Mother, 3 Children Perish in Latest Blaze

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Four more persons were killed by fire early today, bringing to 26 the number of Canadians to die in flames in less than five days. Twenty-two of the deaths have been children.

Quebec, with nine deaths, all of them children, had the highest toll. Canadian Press surveys from 6 p.m. local time Friday until early today also showed: Five deaths in Saskatchewan, five of them children, five in Alberta, all children, four in New Brunswick, three of them children, one adult in British Columbia and another adult in Ontario.

The latest fire was at Lancaster, N.B., where a mother and three young children were burned to death in a frame farm home. Earlier, six children of a family of nine perished in their frame home in St. Louis de Gonzague Lake Penisula.

The Lancaster victims were identified as Mrs. Lorne Lynch, 29, her sons Brian, 8, and Ronald, 6, and a daughter, Anna Marie, 2.

FATHER ESCAPES

The father, Harvey Lynch, 34, escaped through a window but was unable to save his family. Neighbors said he was given treatment of burns and shock, he was unable to tell police what happened.

Th: fire was discovered about 4:30 a.m. and was out of control when firemen arrived.

The latest Quebec blaze occurred Tuesday.

The victims, children of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Archambault, were Gerard Raymond, 15, Camille, 14, Huguette, 11, Lucien, 7, Carol, 5, and Michel, 4.

Police said the fire started when Francois Archambault, 17, left a fire in a stove with kerosene on it exploded. Six persons escaped, all suffering burns.

Five children of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cardinal were burned to death Monday near Lac la Biche, Alta.

Canadians May Pay More for Choice Beef

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians may have to pay more for choice quality beef as the supply of lighter to get during the next six months as a result of heavy cattle marketings in the fall, officials say.

But a federal agriculture department review of conditions indicated Tuesday that pork prices are expected to be lower than a year earlier.

The review said domestic supplies of high quality cattle will probably be comparatively light during the first half of the year with the likelihood of some further expansion in the total output during the next six months.

Reduced marketings of quality beef cattle in this country in the immediate future would result as a result of the sharply increased sales to U.S. buyers.

BUTTONS TO SPLIT

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Songstress Betty Hutton said Tuesday she and her third husband, Charles O'Curnin, have agreed to a divorce and will split their communal property "down the middle."

His Bulldogs Remind Breeder Of Statesmen

LONDON (Reuters) — Nearly all the 58 bulldogs in the Tuesday kennels of breeder Reg Sparkes remind him of statesmen, the London Daily Mirror reported.

Sparkes, here for a dog show, is quoted on his "people-like" pooches this way:

"Eisenhower's just like some dogs in my kennels. Horribly self-satisfied.

"Diefenbaker, my own premier, is the smooth - tempered bulldog—quiet until aroused.

"Churchill is, of course, the image of the best breed—big-jawed, stubborn, bellicose.

"I have lots of letters from people asking if they can have dogs with heads like Churchill's.

CCF Outlines 7-Point Program For Election

TORONTO (CP) — The CCF campaign leading to the March 31 federal election will be based on a solution of the agriculture crisis and increased employment, the party executive announced Tuesday night.

David Lewis, national chairman believes that the Liberals and the Tories have been playing political football with these serious problems."

Following a four-hour closed meeting, Mr. Lewis and M. J. announced a seven-point program:

1. To build 600,000 low-cost, low-rent homes a year.

2. Enough hospitals to take care of a national health plan.

3. Better highways from coast to coast.

4. Investment in Canadian mines, forests and factories so that Canada's resources will make jobs in Canada.

5. A nationally-operated aid-and-trade program.

6. Substantial financial assistance for school construction.

7. Long-term economic planning to stabilize industry and avoid the boom-and-bust cycle of the present economy.

Mr. Lewis said the party would enter "at least as many" as the 182 candidates it put up last June and expected to win more than the 25 seats it held at dissolution.

LABOR MP DEAD

LONDON (Reuters) — Wilfred Fairhurst, 68, journalist writer and Labor member of Parliament, died today in a fight with a car suffered in an auto accident. Standing in the House of Commons lobby, Fairhurst collapsed and died 335 seats; Labor 279; Liberals five, others 11.

Forecast Trade Deficit Dropped During Past Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's foreign trade deficit dropped to $630,700,000 last year from the peak of $842,900,000 in 1956 as exports rose slightly while imports eased from the all-time high.

That is the fifth successive deficit—balance of imports over exports—and the seventh in post-war years. The last trade surplus was $325,000,000 in 1953. The deficits tends to add to Canada's foreign debt.

Exports rose by $73,000,000 to an all-time high of $4,926,000,000, the bureau of statistics reported today in preliminary estimates. Imports eased by $78,000,000 to $5,629,700,000 from the record $5,707,400,000 in 1956.

U.S. DEFICIT CUT

Canada's customary trade deficit with the United States declined. So did Canada's traditional trade surplus with Britain.

Exports to the United States increased to $2,900,000,000 from the 1956 total of $2,879,100,000, the same time Canadian shipments to Britain declined to $1,700,000 from the 1956 total of $218,400,000.

Canada's trade deficit with the U.S. dropped to $1,064,200,000 from the previous year's record of $1,283,600,000.

At the same time this country's favorable trade balance with Britain declined sharply in 1957 to an estimated $211,400,000 from $333,700,000 the preceding year.

Marked increases were reported in trade with other foreign countries. The 1957 export total was $1,610,000,000, up from $920,400,000 the previous year. Imports from these countries rose to $983,100,000 last year from $537,000,000 in 1956.

Air Cadet Squadron Hosts To Parents at Banquet

Officers and men of No. 608 Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Cadets, were hosts to parents and friends last night at Quinte Secondary School. The occasion was the first Cadet - Parents banquet held in accord with the squadron's second observance of Air Cadet Week in Belleville.

About 160 parents and cadets were present to hear words of praise from Leslie Reid, chairman of the sponsoring committee, John Trudeau, chairman of the Bay of Quinte High School Board, and Flight Lieutenant Keith Boulston, CD, former liaison officer between the RCAF and the squadron.

Mr. Reid congratulated the officers and cadets on a splendid year of accomplishments and wished them success in the future. He announced that the chairman of the provincial committee of the Air Cadet League of Canada is interested in the squadron's calendar of events during Air Cadet Week to guide other Ontario squadrons.

"Air Cadets," said Mr. Reid, "provide young men with a type of training they cannot get during school hours". He was proud to have 608 Squadron in the school of which he is principal. Mr. Reid brought greetings from the sponsoring committee.

On behalf of the Bay of Quinte High School Board, Mr. Trudeau brought greetings and wished the squadron good fortune in the year ahead.

SQUADRON ON MAP

F/L Boulston, who was last year's liaison officer between the RCAF and the squadron, recalled some of the activities at summer camp and said that 608 Squadron has put Quinte Secondary School "on the map." His successor is Flying Officer Stanley Keith of the Flying Instructors' School, RCAF Station, Trenton.

Squadron Leader E. A. Craighead, squadron C.O., was host during the banquet and welcomed the parents and guests. He thanked his subordinate officers, civilian instructors, Cadets and parents for their support in 1957.

Douglas Whitby, chairman of the local provincial committee of the Air Cadet League of Canada, was not able to attend due to a previous engagement.

Highlight of the banquet occurred when one of the school's cast in the forthcoming presentation of Pirates of Penzance rendered a few selections. The Gilbert and Sullivan operetta is slated for March 7, 8 and 9 Ron Poste thanked the singers.

Following the banquet, two films — 24-Hour Alert and The Air Cadet Story — were shown in the auditorium.

FRIDAY'S DINE AND DANCE NIGHT AT DAWSON'S

"Nothing new under the sun". Well, maybe so, but after the wonderful evening we spent at Dawson's Motel it makes us wonder. Nowhere else but in Quinte district can you dine by candlelight, dance to the smooth melodies of Chas. Kammer and his orchestra, and see the floor show featuring top talent! This along with spot dances, the excellent service which Doris and Harry Sweetman always make the evening very enjoyable. Our advise to you would be to make your reservations for Friday night now by phoning Deseronto 342, as this is the finest food in Ontario is served.

Kiwanians Told How to Stave off Physical Ills

If you have just had a nerve-wracking experience, go out and chop a cord of wood, clean out the basement, or engage in some other energy-expendable task. You will help stave off many of the physical ills which plague a person as he or she grows older.

This is the advice offered members and guests of the Belleville Kiwanis club Tuesday by Dr. Clayton Moorhouse, psychiatrist and superintendent of the Cobourg Ontario Hospital.

Dr. Moorhouse received his medical degree from Western University. He took post-graduate course in psychiatry at the University of Toronto, and further studies in the U.S. He commenced his career at the Ontario Hospital in Brockville in 1931. During World War II he was a consultant psychiatrist in the R.C.A.F. After the war, he joined the staff of the Whitby Hospital as a clinical director, and eventually became assistant superintendent. Now the superintendent of the Cobourg Hospital, Dr. Moorhouse is a member of, both the American and Canadian Health Associations.

The genial doctor, in speaking on psychosomatic illness, humorously described the effect the nerves and the body when a person undergoes emotional stress.

He said when faced with danger, a person has a visual stimulus. This combined with the brain which stimulates extra energy in the muscles of the body, thus preparing him for action. For example the heart increases its rate and flow of blood to the muscles, stomach muscles cease to function peristalsis freely, he explained.

DEVELOPED BY ANCESTORS

This "mechanism of safety" was developed by our ancestors, he said, but "most just as well be in a jar in our grandfather" despite the fact we have no use for it, he added.

He explained because we live in a stress complex, although unnecessary, machinery, we simply "stew in our own emotional juices" in such emotional crisis with its recurring stimulation paves the way for skin disorders, asthma, high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, coronary heart attacks, and other illnesses.

The only proper and healthier life people should expend this emotionally stimulated extra energy in physical work, he suggested.

The speaker was introduced by Oriel Griffiths and thanked by Canon A. S. McConnell. He was presented with a token of appreciation on behalf of the club by president Charles Lusk.

CNRA Annual Meeting Slated For Feb. 17

Canadian National Recreation Association President, Mr. L. J Train has announced that the annual meeting for the association will be held on Feb. 17th in the new CNRA building on Hambley Street. At this meeting, the election of a board of Prefects for 1958 will be conducted. The board will consist of 15 members and, at the present time, some 17 association members have signified their intention of contesting the 15 vacancies.

Construction of the new building is proceeding according to schedule and it is expected the opening date will be announced within a very short time. When open, this building will house the various association activities and will also be available to the general public for banquets, dances, wedding receptions, etc., on a rental basis.

Obituary

MRS. MILLARD YOUNG
R.R. 2, Tweed

Funeral service was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Harry Young, Tweed, for his mother, Mrs. Millard Young, R.R. 2, Tweed, who died in the Belleville General Hospital on January 29. She was 78.

The Rev. L. E. Hawkes of Tweed conducted the service and interment was in St. James' Anglican cemetery, Tweed.

Bearers were Harold Varty, Gilbert Cotton, Harold Luffman, Kenneth Credicott, Melvin Leake and Leonard Cassidy.

Memorial service was held the previous evening at the home of her son, Harry, by members of Rebekah Lodge 236, of which Mrs. Young had been past noble grand.

HARRY A. MORGAN

The funeral of Harry A. Morgan was held from the Grant Funeral Home on Tuesday afternoon with many friends in attendance. There was a particularly large number of Masonic brethren in the gathering.

Rev. H. M. Davis of Bridge Street United Church conducted the service in the church and also the committal rites at Belleville cemetery. The bearers were Harold Anderson, Cyril Meade-lien, Harry Darling, George O'Neill, John Tanner and Fred Westover.

On Monday evening a Masonic Memorial service was held at the Funeral Home by the members of Moira Lodge and the Master of the Lodge, Mark J. Vanner was assisted by C. W. Barnett, H. C. Bateman, Cyril Meadelien, H. S. McElrath and William Coulby in conducting the service.

MRS. WILLIAM W. ADAMS
Trenton

A resident of the Trenton and Wooler districts for most of her life, Mrs. Lorne Adams, 37 Lorne Ave., Trenton, widow of William Walter Adams, died in Pender Villa Nursing Home on Friday. She was in her 91st year and had been in failing health for the past year.

Mrs. Adams was buried on Tuesday afternoon in Wooler cemetery following a service in the Weaver Funeral Home, conducted by the Rev. D. C. McLelland of St. Andrew's church.

Bearers were Hilton Adams, Arthur Adams, Al Adams, Victor Cilmo, Victor Cousins and James Pandaziuk.

Mrs. Adams is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Harry Pryor of Trenton; three sons, George, R.R. 1, Hilton; Charles of Calgary, and Alfred of Toronto; seven grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by a daughter, Lucy and a son, Frederick.

Born in Murray township, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Warren Scott, Mrs. Adams was an adherent of the United Church.

She is survived by one sister and last surviving member of 16 children — the late Mr. and Mrs. Scott (nee Samantha Comstock) of Wooler.

CARLETON W. R. CLANCY

STIRLING — The funeral of Carleton W. R. Clancy was held on Sunday afternoon, February 2nd, 1958, at the Duffin Funeral Home, Stirling, and was largely attended.

A former pastor of Rawdon Circuit, Rev. T. F. Townsend, B.A., B.D. of Belleville, conducted the service.

The bearers were Messrs. Lindsay Pollock, Robert Matthews, Carman Nix, Charles Morton, John Anderson and Wilfred Sine.

The interment was made in Wellman's Cemetery.

On Saturday evening at 7.15 p.m. Wellman's Funeral conducted a memorial service with Brothers Norman McConnell, Master; Gerald Russell, Deputy Master, and Clarence Leslie, chaplain, in charge. All the lodges in this area were represented. The deceased had served as a Past District Master and a Past County Master and was a valued member of the Orange Order.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police reported a quiet night watch with little more than routine matters coming to their attention. No serious accidents were reported.

An insecure door at the Morrison Service Station at the corner of Carrington Road and College street was reported, but police said nothing was missing.

Veteran Printer, Chas. Hardwick, Dies in Hospital

Known as the dean of Ontario printers, Charles Henry Hardwick, 73 Burton Street, died in the Belleville General Hospital early Tuesday evening. Mr. Hardwick was in his 80th year.

Retired from active life but a few months, Mr. Hardwick succumbed to an illness that had affected his health for some time previously.

Mr. Hardwick would have been 80 years of age in May Sixty-five of these years were spent in the printing business, fifty-five as composing room foreman of The Ontario Intelligencer and one of its predecessors, The Belleville Ontario.

His 65-year career as a printer is believed one of the longest in Canada. This career came to a formal close a short time ago. His colleagues of the composing room, and members of the circulation department of the newspaper paid fitting tribute, tangible and otherwise to the man who had devoted a lifetime of efficient, faithful service to his newspaper.

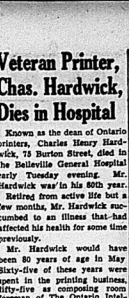
Born in Finchley, North London, England, Mr. Hardwick entered the printing trade at the age of 15 after he arrived in Canada with a friend.

His first job was with the Bulletin, a weekly at Collingwood, then a publication of the Toronto Globe, where he received room, board, clothing and an "occasional 25-cent piece."

RETURNED TO BELLEVILLE

Later he moved to Toronto to learn the trade for a short period of time with a book publishing firm, then he came to Belleville and joined the staff of The Ontario. He made two more moves before settling permanently here. First he went to Wallington, Cobourg County, to work for the Independent, another weekly. His son came back to Canada, but shortly afterwards moved to Galt.

The lure of Belleville proved too strong and he returned to this city where he remained until the time of his passing.



"Charlie" enjoyed the esteem of all with whom he came in contact. His composing room efficiency and manner earned for him the respect and loyalty of the many men who worked with him for three decades. His daily creed "Get the paper out" never lessened his popularity with members of his staff. His manner and spirit of co-operation endeared him to colleagues of other departments of the newspaper.

Besides his composing room "Charlie" was a quiet, modest soul who spent his leisure hours in city circles and close friends to find enjoyment. He took no part in things political or municipal. His home and work formed his life.

He was married in 1902 to Lillie May Carr of Hastings County. Mrs. Hardwick passed away a few years ago. Three of their four sons became printers under the able guidance of their father. These include Cecil of The Ontario Intelligencer, Reg of The Windsor Daily Star and Bert of Guelph. The fourth son, Norman, an electrician, resides in this city.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Charlotte Barr, Toronto, and Mrs. George (Nellie) Clements, East Finchley, London, England.

Mr. Hardwick was a member of Christ Church, a former member of the Sons of England lodge here, and an associate member of the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada, Branch No. 201, Belleville.

Ralph Lund, 21-year-old paraplegic victim, who needs a ground floor rooming place to enable him to keep a new office job with Wilson Concrete Products in Belleville.

Polio Victim Finds His Dream Job If He Can Get Ground Floor Room

A ground floor bedroom and boarding house with a minimum of cooking and cleaning are the need of a young polio victim who this week has realized his dream of rehabilitation through an office job with a Belleville firm.

He is 21-year-old Ralph Lund, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dryden, Ont., who four years ago suffered a polio attack which left him a paraplegic, confined to a wheelchair. Now he has taken an office job with Wilson Concrete Products in Belleville.

But to keep that job he must find a ground floor rooming and boarding house which will allow him to be self-sufficient.

Required is a ground floor bedroom and bathroom in a house with a minimum of outside steps.

DRIVES OWN CAR

Although the polio attack has left Ralph confined to a wheel chair, he is entirely able to look after his own personal needs. With the assistance of hand controls, he even drives his own car, so transportation is not a problem and his boarding house does not necessarily have to be in the city.

Ralph's case history is similar to that of many other paraplegic victims who have been assisted to rehabilitation through the Canadian Paraplegic Association.

While still a high school student he was suddenly struck down with the polio attack which left his right arm and left leg helpless. Following hospitalization he went to the Sunnyside Lodge where he completed his schooling. But in Ralph's case there was an added difficulty in that he had to learn to write all over again, as he was using his left hand.

GETS OFFER OF JOB

Then followed a bookkeeping and accountancy course at a Toronto business school, and finally the offer of a job with the Belleville firm.

Ralph came to Belleville and to his new job this week, accompanied by James A. Bartlett, rehabilitation officer for the Canadian Paraplegic Association.

"Our job is to rehabilitate paraplegic victims by making the man take an active and normal place in life as possible," Mr. Bartlett explained.

He has high hopes for Ralph and is confident he will succeed in his new position with Wilson Concrete Products.

And this feeling is echoed by officials at the Belleville plant who are equally confident that Ralph can do the job.

PERMANENT POSITION

Ralph's position with Wilson's will be that of clerk-receptionist, doing bookkeeping and taking orders.

The position is a permanent one, but only if he can find the ground floor rooming house which will allow him to be self-sufficient.

The need is urgent and any offers will be gratefully received. Tonight telephone Mr. Bartlett at Room nine, Queen's Motel, Woodland 8-6495, or to Wilson Concrete Products at Woodland 2-3335.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market, with profit-taking apparent in most major sections, lost some of the ground gained in Tuesday's strong advance.

Industrials and base metals were both down one-quarter of a point. Golds and western oils lost a few decimal points on their index.

Trading was slower than most of the other sessions this year. Volume at 11 a.m. was 800,000 shares compared with 899,000 Tuesday.

Uraniums were hit by profit-taking but their losses were mostly slight, however, Consolidated Mic Mac closing at 11 cents, up 2 cents among western oils and Hunber was up 11 cents to $1.02. Other changes were smaller.

Senior base metals were mixed to lower. Hudson Bay, trading ex-dividend, lost ¼ at 48 but Falconbridge and Noranda were ahead in a minor - fractional range. McIntyre and Rollinger had minor gains among senior golds.

Ford A had the biggest industrial change, up ⅝ to 78¾. Trans Mountain added ¼ at 32¼. Trans Aluminum, Industrial Acceptance and Trans Prairie had similar losers.

Consolidated Mic Mac closing at 11 cents, up 2 cents among western oils and Hunber was up 11 cents to $1.02. Other changes were smaller.

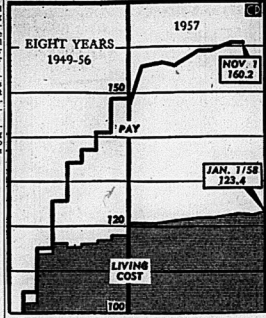
Two Homeless As Fire Guts Frame House

Fire of undetermined origin gutted a five-room frame and insul-brick house on the Trent Road this afternoon before Belleville and RCAF firemen got the blaze under control.

Damage was estimated at $7,000.



Occupants of the two - storey house were Flight Lieutenant and Mrs. Lou Brookes. He is at No. 4 (Transport) Operational Training Unit at Trenton.

Located behind the Green Trees Motel on No. 2 highway, the house was owned by A. B. Collins of Belleville.

Firefighters managed to rescue all furnishings in the downstairs portion of the dwelling, but contents of the upstairs were lost. Insurance covered the loss in part, but the Brookes lost most of their clothing.

Three trucks from Belleville raced to the scene and, when water ran low, Fire Chief Gerald Vance put in a call to the RCAF Station, Trenton, fire department, which immediately despatched one truck.

Cause of the fire is being probed.

Higher food costs helped drive the consumer price index up to 123.4 at January 1. This graph (shaded area) traces the yearly average of the price index during 1949-58 and its movement through 1957. Also shown is the index for average wages and salaries which stood at 160.2 at November 1, last date for which figures are available. (CP Photo).

New United Arab Republic Creation of Two Countries

by ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The political union of Egypt and Syria presents such a wide range of possibilities that few commentators outside the two countries are prepared to assess its significance, even in the short-range terms of the cold war or hot.

The new United Arab Republic appears to be strictly the creation of the two countries involved. Although both Egypt and Syria have been subject to growing Russian influence, their union is viewed in Western European capitals as the logical outcome of their aspirations toward Arab nationalism.

In London, it is generally felt that the immediate effect is likely to be a slowing down of the intrusion of Russian political power, particularly if other states avail themselves of the union's invitation to associate themselves with it.

NASSER RUTHLESS

This view does not presuppose any growing political maturity on the part of Egypt's President Nasser, who is almost certain to be the union's first chief of state. But Nasser, despite his willingness to profess friendship with Communists beyond his borders, has shown by action his sup-pression of Communists at home.

In Syria, where the party has enjoyed considerable influence in government circles, its position now is in doubt. For Syrian Communists to oppose the union would have been political suicide.

But their hope of gaining a similar voice in Nasser's councils is slight.

In any event, the new union is likely to be too preoccupied with its own affairs to play an active role in the cold war for some time to come.

TANGLED FINANCE

Nasser's first task will be to attempt to create some harmony in the tangled economies of the two countries. Syria's economy has nasces undoubtedly will acquire a measure of stability from association with the comparatively stable Egyptian structure. Egypt, with its cotton crop mortgaged in payment for Soviet arms, will not find it easy to bail out her partner.

The richer Arab states — Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Lebanon—are unlikely to make an early move to join the union, although backward Yemen has made overtures to the partners and Jordan's King Hussien is likely to be subjected to considerable pressure by the substantial population of Palestinian refugees within his borders.

Most London newspapers greet the West not to prejudge the new state. While Arab unity has its dangers, it also has opportunities for better relations. The Times comments:

"The immediate effect can be only to make the Middle East more unruly, but the real reason Western policy may have to become more flexible."

"When all the tests came back better than normal, I realized I had brought these babies a double dressing — a large, distressing, particularly since one of their aunts had doctors had just survived a coronary, and the other had become so mean and miserable on the low-fat diet that he had to start eating fat again to get back his speaking terms with his wife."

He told the packers the anti-fat campaign might harm their business and suggested they finance research to prove that "the anti - fat canaanders are wrong, that instead, meat and fats are beneficial to human beings, that, indeed, fats do not make people fat."

Dr. Lamon, who has travelled extensively in the Arctic in research on breast cancer, said Canadian medicine is missing an excellent opportunity to study the effects of high fat consumption by neglecting research on the Canadian Eskimo, "a notorious fat-eater in his native state."

"As far as we can ascertain, Eskimos are relatively free from atherosclerosis (the dangerous type of hardening of the arteries), coronary disease, and cancer."

He said he believes stress may play a more important role in causing atherosclerosis than cholesterol and that fats may have an anti-stress value.

Taking Rest

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Massey left Ottawa by air today for a three-week rest in the Barbados.

He left in the RCAF's plush C-8 aircraft, accompanied by Lt.-Col. Massey, his son and secretary, and Mrs. Lionel Massey.

The Governor - General, who has been ordered to take a rest, is to stay at a small hotel in St. Thomas.

Wants Taxes Equalized

TORONTO (CP)—Albert Wren, Liberal-Labor member for Renfrew, for Ontario legislature, said Tuesday he will introduce a resolution in the House aimed at equalizing the education taxes paid by separate school supporters.

He said his resolution will declare that discrimination now exists in the financial burden of elementary school taxpayers.

It would demand that "essential facilities and human rights in the field of elementary education shall henceforth apply with equal force to all the people of Ontario without regard to race, color or creed."

Chief Taylor Informs Council Need for New Police Station

TRENTON —The town's need for a new police station once again came to the fore at Monday's regular meeting of the town council.

The matter was brought up through a letter to the council from Chief Constable F. J. Taylor which describes the unpleasant circumstances his men were forced to work under. This condition was due chiefly to lack of space and a fast deteriorating building with an unsatisfactory heating system.

The letter was read to the council by Councillor Worrall, chairman of the property committee. Mr. Worrall stated he had not had sufficient time to study the letter as sent to him so council decided to set the matter over until next meeting when he (Mr. Worrall) could bring in his recommendations.

The chief constable's letter reads as follows:

"I would like to bring to the attention of the council the urgent need for increased and more satisfactory accommodations for the police department. I have personally discussed with Mayor Burk and Police Commissioner Merrill when the members of the Trenton Police Association, in their letter, presented a memorandum for some proper accommodation for the members of the department, especially locker room space and a private place to eat their lunch, due to the overcrowding proximity to the cell room which at times permeates the room with obnoxious odors. It was decided to have the property committee investigate the subject.

"Last spring the problem was brought to the fact that three contractors examined the present building with a view to adding space. An architect was employed and after study, both architects and myself were suggested a new building the best source. With the consideration of the fact that some of the building renovations are not practical or economical. Suggested plans were at the time presented by the architect. The architect's study shows the department working in quarters (floor space) far below the minimum required for efficient operation.

"Three years ago I recommended to council that further renovations to the floors and walls would solve the "space" problem and would be adequate. Since that time further expenditures were discontinued.

"During the past few years we have been handicapped in the efficient work of the department by lack of space.

NO LOCKER SPACE

"The members of the department have no place to eat their lunch in private.

"One washroom for the officers and female staff.

"No locker space for the officers. No place to hang up wet raincoats and overcoats.

"Three cells and cots for male prisoners and cots for female prisoners No urinals in the cells. These are unsatisfactory as well as unsanitary.

"Only one desk and typewriter in the constable's room where they can make out their daily reports.

"Poor reception space at the present desk. There is accommodation for about only three or four people with barely enough room to open the desk safely (7' 9" by 8' 8"). There is no privacy for people making complaints.

"Water and muck under the floors causes a constant musty and obnoxious odor in the building. This also results in numerous quantities of water bugs and other bugs in the summer months.

"The heating system has been a source of trouble. Recently floor radiators have been installed in my office and the results have been better but the entire system is not, as yet, satisfactory.

"There is insufficient room to install more cabinets for filing purposes, stationery, etc. As a result files etc. are stored on the floor or on top of the present cabinets in boxes and cartons.

"The Inspector's office is now inadequate. Photographic and fingerprint equipment must be set up each time it is required. He has room in his office to interview only one person at a time and under these conditions the criminal investigation work suffers efficiently has to suffer.

"All liquor confiscated must be stored in his office and there is no proper storage space.

"The floors in both the stenographer's office and the 'constables' office are sinking and have broken away from the walls leaving large cracks along the bottom of the wall. This is a fire hazard.

"On court days the Office will not accommodate people coming in and many times the washroom is used to discuss cases with witnesses or prosecutors with violence to the peace has to come downstairs for consultation with witnesses, etc. This accommodation should be provided on the same floor.

(14) Frequently citizens are subjected to filthy and foul language pouring out from certain prisoners in the cell rooms, since it is so close to the reception counter (19' away). Likewise men and children come into the building to purchase bicycles, bicycle-licences, etc., and should not be exposed to this kind of behavior. All prisoners are brought in through the front entrance.

"The Police Commission and council have been in the past very considerate in attempting to solve these problems and have readily purchased any needed equipment in order to ease the situation. But the time has now come when further serious consideration must be given to more adequate working conditions. The growth of the municipality has now made it impossible for the administration be given to a new building in keeping with the general advancement, progress and future development of Trenton. The members of the police department take pride in the efficient handling of complaints of persons and property and ask only sufficient means to carry out this essential and very important work. It is impossible to properly carry out my duties under the present circumstances.

"I fully appreciate the cost involved but the need is so urgent I must bring it to your attention.

"Should favorable consideration be given on a new building it could not be started before summer and in all probability, not be occupied before the summer of 1959. The cost could be spread over 1958 and 1959, making the financing easier.

"A new building would not necessarily need to be an expensive or elaborate proposition but spacious enough to take care of present and future needs. Your immediate and considered thought and recommendations on this subject will be greatly appreciated."

The letter was signed by the Chief Constable of Trenton, F. J. Taylor.

Stolen Truck Chased at 85 On Icy Highway

TRENTON — A chase which led to speeds up to 85 miles an hour on icy roads was revealed in Magistrate's Court yesterday when Gerald Minifi, 36, of 328 Sidney Street, appeared in court.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills, Q.C. remanded the case until 2 p.m. to be heard tomorrow.

In reporting on the incident Provincial police officials said the incident involved a stolen truck picked up by police belonging to James Nate, R. R. 6 Trenton. The truck was in the parking lot next to Glen Miller's Wholesale with the keys in the ignition when it was taken on Monday night.

Called to the scene in the police cruiser Constable Mastin and Sgt. Bradshaw were making their way along the icy parkway lots when they were told the stolen vehicle had been seen going east on Highway 33 near Glen Miller at a very fast rate of speed.

WENT 85 M.P.H.

They immediately took chase and caught sight of the truck at Glen Miller where it was turning around. The driver parked his cruiser around they went after the truck with siren wide open and driver Minifi put the gas pedal stepped on the gas pedal, sending the truck ahead at a terrific rate of speed. But he failed to shake the cruiser despite, his efforts which is said, went as high as 85 miles per hour. The highway was dangerously slippery with ice and hard packed snow.

On approaching Trenton the truck swung off the highway and headed for Wooler Road just prior to coming to the subway. But before the truck reached the Wooler Road the driver was forced to brake the truck due to oncoming vehicles. This resulted in the truck skidding and ending up in the snow-filled ditch. The driver jumped from the cab and took off across country.

Constable Mastin, when he saw what happened, jumped from the police car and ran after the fleeing man. Sgt. Bradshaw turned the cruiser around to cut him off.

It was shortly after this a man in a car driven by the police officials and placed under arrest.

Police reported Minifi had been released from Kingston penitentiary last July.

Four Top Teams In RCAF League To Play Series

TRENTON — The four top teams in the Air Force Hockey League at RCAF Station Trenton will play a round - robin series to decide which of the teams will represent this air base in the Training Command playdowns. The first game in this series was played Monday night at the Community Gardens.

This decision was reached at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon of the coaches and managers of the various teams, under the chairmanship of W.O. R. C. W. Clarke. The team bosses favored this method in preference to picking an All-Star team. They felt that taking top players from each team would only lessen the chances of their base taking the Dominion title down the line. Besides the players would have little experience in working together as a hockey team.

The four teams which will play off for the honor will be top league leading F. I. S.; Recruits in second place; Falcons, in third and the Comets in fourth place. They will be known as section "A".

In the meantime, the four teams on the bottom of the schedule, 6 R-D, Headquarters, Sparks and Combines will form Section "B" and will also play a round-robin series for a section trophy and crest.

It was made plain, however, that the winners of each section will not play off, but only the winner of Section "A" will represent the station in the Dominion playdowns, if successful. It was also agreed that the winning team of Section "A" will be the one to meet the their line-ups with stars of other teams when they enter the Dominion games. But there can be no trading or choosing of players until the winners of Section "A" have been selected.

The first game of the "Big Four" was played Monday night between the Recruits and Falcons with the Rockets taking a 6-6 victory to give them one win in the new series. This win will also be credited to their standings on the regular loop.

Monday night also saw two games in the "Little Four" section with 6 R-D getting 10 goals to Combines 4. Sparks beat out Headquarters in a surprising 8-1 victory.

Thursday night the F.I.S. will meet the Comets in a "Big Four" game and 6 R-D will play Headquarters, while the Combines will entertain the Sparks in the "Little Four" division.

TWO MAJOR ELECTION ISSUES

When Canadians go to the polls on March 31, there will be no lack of questions which politicians, of one affiliation or another, will assure them are "issues" in the election.

It strikes us, though, that there are two major issues and that it may not be possible for Canadian voters to reconcile their views on both of them to produce a decision which, in their opinion, meets the needs in both cases. Thus it may be that some voters will first have to decide which is the more important of these two major issues.

One of these issues, and one which has been with us since last June and which, therefore, may not receive the attention which is its due, is whether Canada can afford to be governed by a party which lacks a clear majority in the House of Commons and which is, therefore, hampered in its program of legislation.

Not everybody will agree that minority government is necessarily, or even generally, poor government. Indeed, there have been some suggestions that, by making it necessary for its party to take into consider public opinion at every step minority government is most likely to provide the people with the legislative program they want.

To take such a view, however, seems to us to argue that public opinion, and not Parliament, should be the true ruling force in the country. One would hope that there are times when the elected representatives of the people know about the country's business than the people who elected them. If they do not, then one wonders whether it is worth while paying them good salaries so that they can devote all their time and energy to their work. If they do, then they ought not to have to consider the state of public opinion on every issue, but ought to be free to act according to their best judgment in the confident belief that events will prove them right. A minority government faces an extremely difficult, if not an impossible, task in attempting to follow such a policy of long-range planning, disregarding the ebb and flow of public opinion and concerning itself only with the results of its legislative program, by which it will be judged when, in due course, it appeals to the people.

Those who think as we do that a government should have a clear majority in the House of Commons must decide whether they consider the Progressive Conservatives or the Liberals most likely to obtain this majority if Canadians regard this as the major issue, then they will not vote for candidates aside from those of the two major parties.

It ought to be added, though, that there appears little likelihood of this attitude being taken by voters in those areas where the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, CCF, in particular, appears to have enhanced its reputation by acting as the real Opposition during a period when the Liberals were criticizing government bills and then voting for them. It is doubtful, though, whether this performance by the CCF will bring it more seats.

The other major issue which Canadians should consider is one which, under other circumstances, would be paramount. It is the record of the Diefenbaker Government. Generally speaking, we think Canadians will be in general agreement that this record is a good one. Not only Progressive Conservatives, but voters of Liberal, CCF and Social Credit persuasions, too, will think the main support many of the government's measures – such as the increase in the old age pension to $55 a month, the extension of additional aid to the hard-pressed provincial governments, and the assistance for new developments in the Maritimes, to list just a few. The question which needs to be answered, though, is one which has not yet been properly considered – can we afford this program? Only a budget would have provided the Canadian people with the full picture. They know what they are getting, but they do not know precisely how much they will have to pay for it, or how they will pay for it.

Somehow or other we have scant hope that many of the campaign speeches, of any of the parties, will deal with these questions in their proper light. The Progressive Conservatives are likely to stress the benefits, and to gloss over the problem of paying for them. The Liberals, on the other hand, will almost certainly make much of the cost of these programs and gloss over the extent of the benefits.

Weatherman Flubbed Job

Hamilton Spectator

"So gently it fell . . . the fat-flaked snow . . ."

But there was no rhyming in the country at Niagara. Good-bye to nostalgia and rosy-cheeked children, to the dancing tinsel of sleighbells. Every window-pane looks looking out into the winter darkness, goodbye to all that. We see it differently now. On Friday night the weatherman "clouded up" all of the stuff on Hamilton and district, with wet, miserable material with anything but aiomic radiation in it—and frostbite would be too.

Caught again in the quixotic tricks of high pressure and troughs, of fronts and polar tickling, were our meteorological friends. "Cloudy and milder" it was, until, late that afternoon, something happened that made the weatherbird and gets and instruments of modern forecasting right in the face. Too late. Dawn and the snow came Saturday, grumbling and with authority.

There may be some in this fast-moving age of science (the direction is immaterial) who get a left-handed kick out of all the technical mumbo-jumbo, keys of man's technical know-how. But they are not numbered among those who gazed Saturday morn at the little spot of painted metal under the snow that householdsmall in a car; heard the whine of tires singing a crescendo of futility in trying to get some kind of traction in ice, caught the splash spray from the more fortunate and contemptuous.

Naturally many of us saw the wet sky late Friday morning, sensed the north-east wind that smelled of snow and misery, got a tickle in our chilblains and a rheumatic reminder that trouble was on the way. It was just that we forgot to tell our friends.)

To sea captains could state at a clear blue sky and say "weather on the way," and by midnight the ship would be groaning and heaving; the red sky at morning right in some incredible way always gave out what barometers and charts and balloons still occasionally won't; the cloud formations so full of eloquence to the experienced. Where are they gone?

The same way as the jolly old weather.

Too bad!

Fancy Dress For a Fish

B.B.C. London Letter

"First - footing" — the custom of crossing the threshold of a friend's house at the earliest possible moment in the New Year—is one of the many New Year customs kept in Scotland. Often the visitor carries a gift symbolizing good luck or plenty for the house which used to be common in Dundee and the surrounding area was a red herring. Visitors who understood sail herring such as might be seen on the Firth of Tay Cove—an Martin explained in the "Scottish Magazine" programme. Then he was a herring "dressed up to kill." The favourite dress was the full-rigged saddle, complete with kilt, plaid and sporran; or the all-white bride with veil, bouquet and bridal veil of real white net. Before the visitor left on New Year, or Hogmanay, "hansel gift" goes back to the time when there was no refrigeration to keep food fresh and every Scottish kitchen had a salt fish store in the corner, which provided the answer to any food crisis. The herring served by the first-footer was an omen that the barrel would never be empty. Some visitors piped round the belly of the herring with coloured paper, with gilt-er and receiver-from oil, and on top of that went colored paper, ribbons and glittering tinsel.

The curious trade of dressing the Hogmanay herrings ran in families, many of whom had no other connection with the fish trade for the remainder of the year. From the end of the November they would spend every spare moment dressing up the fish and piling them into barrels, so that when at last they could be rushed from the house to the fishy stall. On a fine crisp night the complete stock would be cleared out in the final morning rush. One fish-dealer, Cowan Martin said, "but if the last evening in December was wet and stormy, it was just too bad for the barrow boys, and the hundred herrings lined up in the fuel competitor's office here would be left to rot."

Deductions For Bribes

Milwaukee Journal

Until now a company could claim deductions for bribes it had to pay in order to do business abroad. For instance, a New Jersey contractor bid some time ago on a $1,000,000 water and sewer contract in the Dominican Republic. He had to pay $1,800,000 in bribes to Dominican officials to get the job. He claimed and got a tax deduction for it — after state department intervention.

The state department claimed, with obvious truth, that the contractor could have added on the job without paying the bribe.

Numerous other American firms run into the same problem. Now the government has put standard practice ca'ls for payoffs to top official in power.

THOSE BASIC PRINCIPLES

The physicists tell us that the physical world is built out of ninety-two elements. These are the building blocks out of which everything capable of being seen, touched, weighed or in any way experienced is made. These nine-ty-two elements lie at the basis of the whole world of matter.

There are basic moral principles and spiritual principles, and many very, well call these principles the building blocks upon which character is built. These basic principles of honesty, fair dealing, purity, love, kindness and faith are the building blocks out of which every-day living is made and upon which the entire structure of life must be built. If we do not build on these, we build upon basic

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 5th., 1938

Miss Doris Irwin and Miss Bernice Horrigan spent the weekend at Niagara Falls.

The members of the Weekly Club enjoyed a pleasant meeting last night at the home of Miss G. Burley, Bleecker Avenue.

Mr. Harry H. Ponton, District Fruit Inspector of Hamilton and Grimsby Beach, spent the weekend with his father, Col. Ponton and Mrs. Ponton, Sidney Cottage, Trent Road.

Stewart Morrison McBride, a collegiate student, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Stewart McBride, Foster Avenue, suffered a broken ankle while playing hockey on Saturday.

Mr. Earl Lidstr, Corbyville, Ont., returned home from Toronto where he spent a week with the Goodyear Rubber and Tire Company.

Miss Louise Schryver of this city, was attending the Library School in Toronto, spent the weekend with Miss Grace Trevelyan, Barrie.

The members of the evening branch of the Women's Association in connection with Christ Church Parish, met at the home of Miss Frances Reid, Boswell Street last evening. After the business meeting a very enjoyable social time was passed.

Mayor Jamison Bone is in Ottawa to attend the relief parley of Ontario mayors; they will meet with the Hon. Norman Rogers, Federal Minister of Labor, Mr. Ian Mackenzie and the other mayors will put up a strong fight for increased relief grants. A new relief payment set-up will be urged by the mayors.

30 YEARS AGO

February 5th., 1928

Mr. Edward Landon is renewing acquaintances in town after an absence of thirty-five years.

Aid. Charles L. Hyde went to Toronto this morning on business.

Mrs. Fred Alexander was home from Queen's University, Kingston, to spend yesterday.

Messrs. Sanford Roberts and W. J. Cook went to Toronto this morning.

Mr. Percy E. Follwell, who has been connected with Mr. Don Bloecker, druggist, for a number of years, has been appointed superintendent of the Belleville post office, succeeding Mr. J. A. Hamilton Government appointment. He succeeds Mr. Charles A. W. Thompson, who recently joined the City of Galt police force.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of my elderly female acquaintances is not only a most skilled dressmaker and seamstress, a needlewoman and a maker of lace and petit point, but she is a qualified tailor. In her time, she has made a great many suits, coats and capes for herself and her family and friends. She is rather, She can sew beautifully. Her buttonholes a r e masterpieces. At her fittings, she uses scores of pins.

Thus, when a finished tweed coat was tried on one of h e r nieces, and I was standing by, I naturally paid the best compliment I could think of.

"It is professional," I announced.

And this tore it.

"Professional!!" snorted the old lady. "That means it looks like everybody else's. Professional! That means hands-me-down."

"No, no," I explained. "Professional means . . ."

"This garment," she interrupted, "is custom made. There is nothing professional about it."

Here is a new, or an old, definition of professional. I accepted it as such as I am a fool. With this result. I am soon to be the possessor of a number of these Chesmara tweed, the color of earth, the color of bracken and whin. It is to have a longer tail than is customary, with a flare to it, to allow room for big gussetted pockets, fit for carrying tackle, sandwiches, two small books, and a flask, if so minded, for beer or any other potable.

And it won't be professional.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PEOPLE REMEMBERED

It is the silent spirit of help that makes them remembered. We do not always know it, but there is something about some people that somehow we can't forget. I recall seeing a woman in a Boston hotel many years ago. I was sitting in the lobby when she was wheeled in. I shall never forget her smile. It radiated and seemed to brighten the entire lobby. I did not learn that she was poor, undoubtedly, and one who had suffered, but she possessed the spirit and genius. Time and again the picture of that woman's joyous smile has come to me. How great is the influence of courage, when silent-ly displayed.

It is inspiring to look upon the many memorials to people who have devoted their lives to the public good. Such people can never be forgotten. They are the remembered few. We do not forget people who are kindly, courageous, and pleasant. They always leave something of themselves behind. If we were like with this, what a lift to life we might be!

Just a little while before closing, a plainly dressed woman went into the 5 and 10 cent store in New York City. Clerks were busy getting their wraps and hurrying to close their day, but a young man noted the woman and rushed to serve her. He said that he had plenty of time. She made a few purchases, but the young man's name. Later a big order came to the store with the instructions that this clerk was to have complete charge of carrying out it's order for a big castle in Scotland. The woman's name was Mrs. Andrew Carnegie. People glad to serve are never forgotten.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

The Aspirin Habit

From time to time I have said here that acetylsalicylic acid (aspirin) is the least dangerous pain-killer we have.

Least dangerous, I say, not safest. One authority (Bastedo) states: "From acetylsalicylic acid death has resulted from 0.3 and 0.7 Gm. (5 and 10 grains), and 30 Gm. (1 oz.) have been recovered from."

(The construction is awkward but we can understand what the author was trying to say).

"From idiosyncrasy there are many reports of feelings of weakness, collapse, angioneurotic swellings" (giant hives) "of face and throat, skin rashes, major urticaria" (hives) "and rarely death."

That's why I say that no one should take a dose of aspirin unless he or she can and does sit in quietly at least for at least half an hour afterward.

To the best of my knowledge and belief, acetylsalicylic acid doesn't cure anything.

If you take the stuff under the impression that it will cure your rheumatism, it will numb it; cc, neuritis, neuralgia, bursitis or sinus trouble, you quality for membership in the Dizzy-hammers.

A reader says his wife has been feeding their son (now 18 and subnormal) aspirin from infancy, usually in exceedingly large quantity. She makes him take 8 to 10 aspirins every night; at bedtime, and gives him a dose whenever he coughs or sneezes. She wonders whether this is in the nature of a drug habit.

Now a boy should be examined by a physician, who will advise whether he should have aspirin.

Many foolish people "take an aspirin" whenever they feel emotionally upset, worried, discouraged, jangled, chilly, feverish, jittery, or "nervous." It's a morbid way of life. If anything's wrong, an aspirin will make it right. Perhaps the reader's wife thinks that subnormal boy will be normal if she feeds him enough aspirin.

People who "take an aspirin" and "feel better fast" are great gamblers, for generally the fuse to consult a physician until the drug fails to right whatever it's wrong with, and then the trouble may have become chronic or worse.

Aspirin eaters are so obsessed with the idea that the drug is a panacea for nonsense that they don't comprehend the truth.

He Gave England Umbrella

New York Times

Occasionally in the course of historical research one stumbles across an extremely odd bit of information — such as, for example, the name of the man who introduced the umbrella to England as a protection against rain. That was Jonas Hanway (1712-86), and the story of his life is a perfect illustration of the proposition that fate sometimes works in strange ways.

Hanway was a man of many parts. He was a merchant in Czarist Russia. He was a traveler in Persia in an age when such travel was hazardous. He was the author of seventy-four printed works. He was a philanthropist and social reformer. Yet he is primarily remembered as the first man habituated to carry an umbrella in London. Were he alive today, Jonas Hanway might shun his bread sadly at the irony of it all. Or, being an eccentric, he might be delighted.

In 1743 Jonas Hanway embarked on the first of his careers. He became the partner of the Dingley, a merchant in St. Petersburg whose first name seems to have eluded the encyclopedists. Then began his second career as a traveler to far-off places. He went by land across Russia to Persia itself, where he made many trips by ships. His thig career was that of author, and of the seventy-four printed works he left, not a few still of some literary importance are "Historical Account of British Trade Over the Caspian Sea, With a Journal of Travelers", etc. But it Hanway's primary claim to fame today as a sprechard, a traveler, an author? Not at all. It is as the man who popularized the umbrella in England.

After returning home in 1750 Hanway launched upon the second and fifth careers: philanthropist and social reformer. He founded homes and hospitals. He established Sunday schools. He interested himself in prison reform. He attacked the employment of children as chimney sweeps. He worked to better the wretched lot of foundlings. But today he is not often to be remembered for these activities, but rather for his umbrella habit.

That crusade he began in London in the Seventeen Fifties. The umbrella, of course, antedated Hanway by thousands of years, having originated in Asian lands in remote antiquity. But its traditional use was always been as a protecion against the sun, and as such it was in-ferior to a hood. It was the depth-of-the-depression rate.

Financial Post

The pessimist has been well described as the man who thinks only sees the hole in the doughnut. That seems to be the fate of these gloomsters look or rather half look at business statistics.

In recent weeks they have been trying to chill all interest enough to listen with the rawest of raw statistics of business failures in Canada. The total number of failures and make founded rumors about the end of the dark days of 1932. They completely ignore the fact that in the past year a big lot of business firms have been added to those in the list. In 52 years, that totals which might have been grave for 1,000,000 people but little or little more than normal for the almost 17,000,000 people in Canada today.

Business failures in Canada in 1958, reports Dun and Bradstreet, were 161 per 10,000 concerns. Business failures in Canada for 1958, says the same authority, were 53 per 10,000 or less than a third of the depth-of-the-depression rate.

Diseases of Heart and Blood Vessels Take Huge Death Toll

By DR. McCAUL METCALFE
M.O.H. for Belleville

Diseases of the circulatory system are the chief threat to life in the civilized countries of the world today. In Canada there are more than 500,000 people with some type of heart trouble and it is responsible for one in every three deaths. If you were to add to this vascular lesions, in other words lesions pertaining to the blood vessels of vital organs, one finds that over half the deaths at the present time are due to diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

Diseases of the heart and blood vessels kill approximately three times as many people as cancer, six times as many as accidents and seven times as many as pneumonia and other respiratory diseases.

In infants it has been found that congenital heart disease, or heart disease existing from birth, is a leading cause in infant deaths, however through childhood and up into the early thirties heart disease falls well below accidents and infections. After the age of about thirty-five, heart disease consumes an ever increasing lead over other causes of death.

The huge economic loss becomes apparent in terms of loss of life, absenteeism, disability with resultant loss of gainful employment and cost of care and treatment.

Hardening of the arteries is the leading public health problem at present. It is not only a condition of the aging but a definite disease of the inner coat of the blood vessels and unfortunately the cause has not been discovered, one realizes the importance of this condition when workers in every occupation are suddenly stricken and when business executives are affected in the prime of life.

Coronary thrombosis is now a household phrase. It is essentially a problem of the present day and the actual blood clot formed in the heart or in a blood vessel is the culmination of many years deposition of any one of a group of substances exhibiting animal or vegetable characteristics unsoluble in water in the lining of the arteries. It has been shown that the greater number of cases of diseases affecting the lining of blood vessels occur in countries where the intake of fats is high.

In recent years in spite of the fact that the cause of hardening of the arteries or arteriosclerosis has not been discovered advances have been made in the diagnosis and treatment of diseases of the heart and arteries.

Russians Claim Canadian Acted Like Hooligan

By VINCENT BUIST

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Four Western air attaches here—two Americans, a Canadian and a Briton — conducted themselves like "hooligans" on a trip last month in the south of the Soviet Union, claims the Communist youth newspaper Komsomol Pravda.

The newspaper carries a report alleging that the four acted in a "revolting way" on a train journey and "misbehaved" at a hotel.

It names the four, all attached to embassies here, as the United States military air attache, Col. Thomas W. Wolfe; his assistant, Maj. Charles Portalupi; the Canadian air attache, Group Capt. Sidney Mitchell; and the assistant British air attache, Sqdn. Ldr. Lawrence V. Dale.

The newspaper warns that "in our country we have laws which treat personal insults, the lowering of man's dignity and petty hooliganism as criminal matters." The term "hooligan"—spelled the same way in Russian as in English—is used widely here to refer to juvenile delinquents, toughs, drunks and petty criminals.

The four attaches were alleged to have misbehaved on a train journey from Tiflis, in the Caucasus mountains, to Baku, on the Caspian Sea, and at a Tiflis hotel run by the Soviet travel agency, Intourist. Tiflis is the capital of Soviet Georgia.

Komsomol Pravda prints a letter from "Candidate of Sciences Sventitsky," who said the four made the train journey "insufferable" for him.

The newspaper says "the hooligan-behaving diplomats created insufferable conditions for Sventitsky, who travelled from Tiflis on Jan. 14 in the same compartment with Wolfe.

"They used foul language and would not allow Sventitsky to travel in the same compartment. Wolfe deliberately dropped a suitcase from the luggage rack which painfully hit his leg."

The newspaper also quotes a report by a member of the Tiflis hotel staff saying "Wolfe and his accomplices" left their rooms dirty.

"After they left the hotel, the rooms where they lived were found in an extremely unsanitary condition. The doors, the floor and walls of the rooms were spattered with dirt. Towels belonging to the hotel were found in the toilet bowls and hangers in the toilets were found wrenched from the walls."

The paper says it established the identities of the four by checking the names on train reservations made at the Intourist office in Tiflis.

Eisenhower Has Cold

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Tuesday President Eisenhower has a slight cold and a sore throat—this first announced illness since a minor stroke Nov. 25.

He is receiving treatment from his physician, Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the White House said, adding that Eisenhower still is carrying on a normal schedule. He was to hold a press conference today.

U.S. Air Force Wastes Millions In Newfoundland

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—The U.S. Air Force was criticized Tuesday by a congressional investigating committee for waste and excesses running into the millions of dollars in the handling of supplies at its bases in Newfoundland and Labrador.

It disclosed also that the defence department is reviewing a contract it has with the Canadian government for the disposal of surplus U.S. equipment through Canada's Crown Assets Disposal Corporation. The contract provides a 10-per-cent fee for handling the sale plus a 17-per-cent Canadian government levy.

The air force, the committee said, accumulated surplus materials totalling $19,000,000 at Ernest Harmon field in Newfoundland, $6,150,000 at Goose Bay, Labrador, and $14,130,000 at other bases in its Northeast Air Command.

In one instance, an army battalion at the Harmon Base had on hand more than $1,000,000 worth of spare parts when it needed only $75,000. When the army tried to return the surplus, the air force supply officer refused them because he could not adequately handle the spare parts already in his possession.

SOLD CRUSHER

A $226,000 rock crusher, damaged but repairable, was sold through the Canadian government for a net return to the U.S. government of $68,000 and a refrigeration unit for a new rock crusher submitted to Washington.

The charges were contained in a report filed in the Senate by the Senate committee on government operations, which attributed part of the "confusion" to "the lack of effective supply training for Canadian civilian employees" at the Harmon base.

The committee said many items declared surplus at Harmon and sold in Canada were new and usable. Some items were being sold as surplus while requisitions for the same items were outstanding in Washington.

N.S. Legislature Changes Schedule To Allow Members to Campaign

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It will probably be business as usual in most provincial legislatures despite the March 31 federal election.

Only one province — Nova Scotia — has planned definite changes in its usual schedule to accommodate members who may wish to campaign for federal candidates.

New Brunswick has not yet decided whether there will be a recess or early prorogation and the other eight legislatures either expect to wind up their business well before the election or to continue at a normal pace without aiming for an early clean-up.

Newfoundland's Liberal government is aiming at prorogation by the end of February while the Progressive Conservative government in Nova Scotia plans to recess two or three weeks before voting day. The legislature opens Feb. 12 and normally sits for six to eight weeks.

Both Prince Edward Island's Liberal Premier Matheson and R. H. Bell, leader of the Progressive Conservative Opposition in the House, say they see no need to recess. The island's legislature opens March 11.

MAY RECESS

No official announcement has been made in New Brunswick, but observers expect the legislature, which may open Feb. 20, to recess during the campaign. In Quebec, on the other hand, Premier Duplessis expects the legislature to prorogue as usual in the third week of February, leaving plenty of time for campaign work.

In Ontario, Premier Frost, a Progressive Conservative, said Tuesday the government has "no intention of abbreviating or adjourning the session."

In Manitoba's Premier Campbell, a Liberal, said the question has not been considered by his government yet. However, he said Monday the federal election will not affect the Feb. 11 opening of the session.

The Saskatchewan legislature opens Feb. 13 and CCF Premier Douglas said some members might want to recess for the campaign, however, he said, most of them are farmers and will likely want to adjourn before March 31 anyway to get their spring planting done. By general agreement, budget debates, debate on the throne speech and budget will be cut in half.

MEETS TODAY

The Alberta Social Credit cabinet is to meet today to discuss the possibility of a recess or early closure. However, observers said today a recess is unlikely and since the session, which opened Jan. 9, usually lasts six weeks, prorogation before March 31 might come as a matter of course.

The British Columbia legislature is expected to wind up during the second week in March, so a recess would not be necessary. The Social Credit cabinet ministers and private members of all parties may take time out to campaign.

Open Inquiry Into Airliner Crash in Quebec

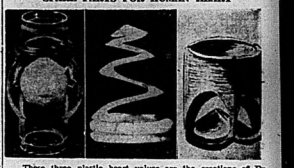
By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — A chartered DC-4 airliner bucketed into a Quebec bog last Aug. 11, ripping apart itself and the 79 persons aboard in Canada's worst air disaster.

A public inquiry begins here Thursday in an attempt to find out why.

The evidence points to a complicated technical detective job whose difficulties are compounded by force which shredded the plane and reduced bodies to a "shapeless mass of human flesh."

The four - engined craft was owned by Maritime Central Airways and was Toronto - bound from London, England, with 73 men, women and children. Chartered by the Imperial War Veterans of Toronto, most passengers were British veterans returning with families from a homeland vacation, many from the Toronto and Hamilton districts.



Members Must Stand to Speak

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the Ontario legislature Tuesday were warned not to speak until they have been given oral recognition by the Speaker and are standing on their feet.

The speaker, Rev. A. W. Downer (PC—Dufferin-Simcoe), said that under the new system of transcribing debates by tape recorder the microphones on members' desks will not be switched on until they are recognized and standing.

"A member's words will not be recorded while he is sitting," said the Speaker.

SPARE PARTS FOR HUMAN HEART

These three plastic heart valves are the creations of Dr. Charles A. Hufnagel of Washington. The simple ball-type, left, has been installed in 400 human aortas in one hospital alone. The spring-like assembly, centre, is one of Dr. Hufnagel's new creations, tested in animals and now ready for use in humans. The tubular device, right, has doors at the bottom that open and close as blood pulses through. Dr. Hufnagel's success with "spare parts" for the heart indicate the day will come when a plastic heart may be substituted for one that does not respond to treatment or surgery.

Canadian A.R. Society Tells Need of W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Quinte Branch, was held at the Y.M.C.A. The president Ross David, was in the chair.

Three new members were welcomed: Miss Gladys MacDonald, representative from the Senior Girls' Club; Mrs. H. Ponton, from the Hospital Auxiliary, and Mr. Jim Patterson, of the Canadian Legion in Trenton.

Mrs. E. G. Gurnett, secretary-treasurer gave the financial report and the results of the canvass of the Community Chest.

Mrs. J. A. Layton gave a report on a visit she and several of the board members, accompanied by Miss Williams, the Physiotherapist, had made to the Kingston branch where an enthusiastic group have been quite active in the work of the society there.

Mrs. Layton gave in detail the work of the Women's Auxiliary, The Bluebird Club for Arthritic patients and the fundraising activities being carried out in the Kingston branch.

W.A. TO BE ORGANIZED

A discussion followed on the need of a Women's Auxiliary being organized here. A committee of three was appointed: Mrs. J. A. Layton, Mrs. J. A. Jarrett and Mrs. E. David, to form an auxiliary of the Quinte Branch.

Miss Hesba Williams, Physiotherapist, gave her report for the month of December. There were 61 visits to Arthritic patients; 27 active cases; three follow up and 16 visits to non-arthritic cases. 1,198 miles were travelled.

Miss Williams also told the members of her visit to the Underhill Women's Institute where a film was shown and she gave an address to the ladies of the Institute on the work of the Mobile Unit in this district. Miss Williams was presented on the behalf of the Institute with a generous cheque to help carry on the work being done by the Quinte Branch.

Miss Williams has kindly consented to speak to several interested groups in the surrounding districts and in this way will be acquainting the public with the work of the Mobile Unit.

Delegates were appointed to attend the first work shop at the Ontario Division headquarters in Toronto on January 30th and on the same day the eighth Annual Meeting of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, held at the Ontario Club. The meeting adjourned. The next meeting will be held in February.

ELKOW — WICKERSON

Tall, white standards of white and pink chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns formed a lovely setting in Kingdom Hall, Belleville, on Saturday, January 18, at 4.00 p.m., when Shirley Ann Wickerson, of Kemptville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wickerson, Bellevill, became the bride of Walter Elkow, of Lac Magantic, Quebec, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Elkow, of Selkirk, Manitoba. Mr. L. K. Grevenlees, of Toronto, officiated.

Mrs. Charles Matthew, Brampton, rendered the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. R. E. Wickerson, was radiant in her bridal gown of white, silk velvet and satin, fashioned in waltz-length with fitted bodice, having a Medici standup collar of velvet and lace and long sleeves tapering to points over the wrists. Seed pearls adorned the sleeves and front of bodice. The panelled skirt fell in graceful folds. She wore a headdress of pleated tulle trimmed with sequins, and shoulder length veil of tulle illusion. Her bouquet was in semi-cascade design of white 'mums, white hyacinth bells and asparagus fern.

Mrs. David Wark, of Sarnia, was matron of honor, wearing a floor length gown of tulle over satin, fashioned with strapless bodice with matching bolero and full skirt in waltz-length. She wore a matching headdress and carried a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums.

Mr. David Wark, of Sarnia, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Tiras Brose of Cornwall, Carles Prosser of Lac Magantic, Quebec, and Ray Sturgeon, of Timagami, Ontario, ushered. The reception was held at the Sidney St. Bellevillle, where the bride's table was appropriately appointed with white damask, centred by a three-tier, all-white wedding cake, topped by a cluster of yellow daffodils, and bronze 'mums and mistled about the base with white tulle, bouquets of daffodils, and bronze baby 'mums.

The bride's mother, for daughter's wedding was attired in orchid shade brocaded silk, with matching hat, white accessories and corsage of deep cold roses.

Following the reception, the young couple left by motor for points west, the bride travelling in a beige dress, brown topcoat with matching feather hat, dusky pink accessories, and corsage of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Elkow are residing at Lac Magantic, Quebec, where they are engaged in missionary work.

Previous to her marriage, they were presented with gifts and a purse of money to aid in their missionary activities, at a presentation held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jay, Belleville, R.R. 6.

Guests were present from Sarnia, Brampton, Woodstock, London, Toronto, Kingston, Kemptville, Burlington, Timagami, Cornwall, Lac Magantic, Quebec.

The bride was educated at the Belleville Collegiate Institute. She has been in Belleville till the time of her marriage.

PLANE IS SAFE

LONDON (AP) — A Canadian airliner carrying 64 passengers from Toronto limped safely into London airport on three engines Sunday night after a transatlantic voyage dogged by engine trouble. The pilot of the Trans-Canada Air Lines Super Constellation decided to bypass the scheduled stop at Prestwick, Scotland, and head straight for London airport.

"Lunch Boxes On the March" Topic at PTA

The regular monthly meeting of Holy Rosary P.T.A. was held in the school on Thursday last with the president, Mr. Jack Barrett, in the chair.

Mr. J. Colligan opened with prayer following with Mrs. Bell reading the minutes of the last meeting. Mr. Jack Darlington gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. T. Morrison, convener for the lights, stoves and home baking sale to be held at the Knights of Columbus hall this week, asked every member to contribute to the home baking table and something to the basket of groceries as well as contacting their friends and telling of the bridge and euchre.

Mr. King told of the great need of the 13th Belleville Scout pack sponsored by the P.T.A. in having a need of a ladies' auxiliary being formed and outlined the purposes and activities of the Scout movement.

Mrs. Darlington introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. D. L. MacKinnon (Dorothy Batchelor) D.H. Sc., who spoke on "Lunch Boxes on the March," She outlined Canada's food rules and the necessary foods. Mrs. MacKinnon also stressed the necessity of children being taught good health habits and how they will contribute to all concerned in later life. Food habits of the father and mother have a good effect on children's habits. Also stressed was the necessity of selecting food wisely and how it effects health and working efficiency and the importance of lunch boxes having appeal and at the same time being nutritious.

Mr. Gordon Tugnett thanked Mrs. MacKinnon on behalf of all present.

Sister Mary Lawrence's room won the attendance prize.

Mr. Jim Colligan closed the meeting.

The monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada is a timely and urgent reminder that physical fitness in Canada and the U. S. is in a deplorable and dangerous state. There are figures given to illustrate that beyond doubt there is very indication of the U. S. being the softest nation on earth with Canada in the running for second. Authorities have concluded "that the children of families on this prosperous North American continent, with what we like to boast of as the highest standard of living in the world, with all the material prosperity that surrounds us on every side, measure up so unfavorably on a simple test of minimum muscular efficiency, stamina and endurance, with the children of families in Italy and Austria, countries which have known so much of hardship and deprivation during the past two decades."

A world leader of the Girl Guides of America observed at an international gathering in Switzerland that "many of our girls did not have the physical energy for the extended hiking, mountain climbing, cross-country games, or even folk dancing, that girls of other countries had to go through without losing their breath." A Canadian authority, Dr. Robertson Davies in one of the findings as they apply to the U.S. are applicable with almost equal force to us in Canada." He has said, "We Canadians are a nation of spectators and spectator sports, or even folk dancing. But it is not a nation of active participation." We are reminded of a report we have about the physical fitness of the men during the Korean war. Apparently an ice cream diet is not a guarantee of physical endurance.

The latest report that no one is advocating a negative return to the good old days. Rather it is insisting that the benefits that came naturally from some of the good old chores, be salvaged within the framework of progress. One thing pointed out is that, in our schools, we have plenty of spectator sports but not enough participating games. Dr. Kraus says, "We are paying the price of progress. The older generation was tougher because it had to undergo adequate physical activity in the normal routine of living. Let's take the sting out of the benefits."

A slogan is suggested for Canada's National Health Week "The health of the nation is the wealth of the nation." It is because this is a problem that cuts across every level of society and because our deficiency is being shown up dangerously that T and T thanks the Royal Bank's monthly letter for its analysis of the situation in Canada.

Although the radio industry in New Zealand is a thriving business, television has not penetrated the island fortress. The question of bringing TV into the country is still a matter of discussion.

The general outlook in the price level of most commodities does not indicate a downward trend. Most vegetables have now gone up and may continue to do so. We have probably seen the last of reasonably priced potatoes and it will not be long before there are imported ones.

Small chickens continue to be the best buy; there are plentiful supplies of broilers, fryers and small roasters. A few specials in the grocery line this week may be stocked up on, such as pickled cottage roll, but pork and beef are two cuts of beef. These are times when one must shop and compare to get the most out of the shopping dollar.

Shoppers are able now to get good values in dress lengths or skirt lengths of cottons and summer goods that were left over from last year. These will have to be cleared out for new stocks; it will give you a lift on these wintry days just to browse around among their bright colors. You might also notice near these counters the new type pillow case that holds the pillow firmly by having an envelope style end which folds over — very practical.

Good shopping!

Fashionable Balance

The interest at the bipline is the focal point of this rayon crepe sheath. Rows of seaming shade the bodice for a smart line. The cuffed band at the hips ties in a bow with full - length sash ends. Here is a compromise for those who cling to the sheath, yet recognize that it must change its ways to stay in fashion. The low-placed detail does just that, while lengthening the torso.

B.C.I.V.S. H-S Assoc. Enjoys Play Film

The February meeting of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational Home and School Association was held Monday evening in the auditorium of the Collegiate.

The president, Mr. R. Freeman, welcomed those present and spoke on the success of the "Open House" held in January when more than 450 parents visited their children's teachers in the various classrooms.

An interesting announcement was made in regard to a special meeting of the Public and High Secondary School on February 27th when the problems of integrating Health Services in the two schools will be discussed. Some outstanding speakers are expected to be present and parents and teachers from both schools are urged to attend.

After the business portion of the meeting, Mr. Orr introduced a play by the school Drama Club entitled "Slippers of Cinderella," directed by Marian Wing and Julie Bradford under the supervision of Miss Celina Kelly.

FILM SHOWN

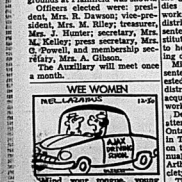
Following the play a film "Meeting the Physical Needs of Adolescents" was shown. A discussion period inspired by the week in the film, was led by Mrs. Buckley, Mr. Orr and Mr. Freeman, and brought out many points of interest, such as the value of companionship between parents and teenagers, rather than the domineering attitude on the part of some parents, thus encouraging discipline in the home; and from the earliest age impressing on the child the fact that to be a member of a family is a privilege, and as a member of that family he or she should contribute something toward the work and happiness of the family.

The amount of time spent on homework was discussed, and a record of time spent had been compiled from the fall term reports and a copy was handed to each parent. The discussion drifted to the Calgary system of dismissing children who have a high or average IQ, but will not give attention to their studies, thus wasting the teachers' time as well as their own.

After the meeting, coffee and cookies were served in the cafeteria.

Ontario Homes M.R.I.I. Elects 1958 Officers

A meeting was held recently in the YMCA of a group of interested women to form a ladies Auxiliary for the Ontario Homes for Mentally Retarded Infants Incorporated.



Alderman Effie McCabe, chairman of the Board of Governors, presided and addressed the meeting stressing the urgent need of Auxiliary to a hospital such as this, with its 32 children, full-bed capacity.

Anyone interested in the welfare of retarded children who would care to join the Auxiliary, would be most welcome. Call any of the members.

After the installation of officers, a colored film of the playgrounds at Plaisted Park was shown.

Officers elected were: president, Mrs. R. Bason; vice-president, Mrs. M. Riley; treasurer, Mrs. J. Hunter; secretary, Mrs. M. Kelley; press secretary, Mrs. G. Powell, and membership secretary, Mrs. A. Gibson.

The Auxiliary will meet once a month.

Romantic Charm

By ALICE ALDEN

Beautiful bags, lushly trimmed, accompany the nicest resort outfits. Josef is responsible for a gathered tote of lacy-weave, lustrous straw that is sure to be around when summer comes calling. A garland of naturally shaded, full-blown roses —leaves and all—encircles the bottom of the bag. Double handles slide easily through squared eyelets and rayon moire lining completes the pretty picture.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

ENGAGEMENT FORMALLY ANNOUNCED. THE COUPLE ELOPE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Two months ago my husband and I gave a small buffet dinner-party for the two families, to announce the engagement of our daughter. Also we had sent a formal announcement of the engagement to our two local newspapers to be published the following day. We were making all plans for the wedding in May. But a week ago the couple eloped. Now what is correct for us to do? I am all at sea about this. — Mother

Since you and your husband made a formal newspaper announcement of your daughter's engagement, I advise you now, to make a formal newspaper announcement of the marriage, giving of course the date of the marriage and the place where it took place. Thus it is correct for you to send formal announcements of the marriage, if you wish to. Or, if you prefer, you may write informal notes to relatives and close friends like a helpless child. She should have participated in the home like another adult.

Shirley also shows that she has not taken the full role as a grown woman when the marriage of her friends contributes to her feeling of being a "leftover." If she were living fully — giving new receiving energy as a pleasure in her job and her social life — she would have a sense of growth and potentiality. She would have confidence in her ability to soon find her own happy relationship with a man.

Whether she remains at home or moves to her own apartment, Shirley should make active efforts to gain emotional maturity through lively participation in every phase of her daily living.

Economical Meat Dishes

By Mary Moore

With a hawk eye I went over the meat counters of two supermarkets hunting for the "just right," cut I wanted at the "just right" price. It was not to be found.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY
(Guests)

Roast Chicken; Stuffing; Gravy; Homemade Jelly; Pan Roasted Parsnip Chunks; Brussels Sprouts; Lettuce and Cucumber Salad with Cheese French Dressing; Cherry Pie (see Tuesday); Coffee.

I was a dreamer to be looking for the "just right" price. That is a thing of the distant past. Honestly I just do not know how girls on really strict budgets manage, with meat at the present sky-high prices.

But they do, and cheerfully too, and I echo to help them and fondly hope these recipes will.

BRAISED SHORT RIBS

Brown 3 pounds of short ribs on all sides in a heavy kettle without added fat, allowing 25 to 30 minutes for browning. Add 2 teaspoons salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, a bay leaf and 1-2 cup water. Cover and simmer until meat is nearly done (about 2—2 1-2 hours). Add 6 medium peeled onions and 5 to 6 carrots, cut in four crosswise. Continue cooking until vegetables are tender. Makes 4 to 6 servings. Remove meat and vegetables to serving platter. Skim off excess fat and add enough water to liquid in pan to make 2 cups. Mix 4 tablespoons flour with 1-2 cup cold water to make smooth paste and stir into liquid. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper. Makes about 2 1-2 cups gravy. These are lovely served in a border of buttered noodles.

EFFIE'S SUFFER
(Glorified Hamburg)

One lb. hamburg, 1 teaspoon each salt, Worcestershire sauce, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 cup milk, 1 large onion chopped, 3 tablespoons butter, melted, 2 eggs, 1 cup each milk, sifted all-purpose flour, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt. Combine the hamburg with the milk, pepper and 1 teaspoon salt and Worcestershire sauce and cover bottom of medium sized baking dish evenly with the mixture. Next layer it of onions and butter. Bake this 10 minutes at 425 degs. Fahr. Beat the eggs, then beat in until smooth the milk, flour, baking powder, and 1-4 teaspoon salt. Remove pan from oven and pour batter over, piercing meat with fork to allow batter to penetrate. Bake 30 minutes longer at 375 deg. Fahr. until puffed and golden. Serve with

TOMATO SAUCE

One and three quarter cups fresh stewed or canned tomatoes, 1 slice onion, 3 tablespoons each butter, flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Cook onion with tomatoes fifteen minutes, rub through a strainer. Brown flour and butter together. Stir in tomato puree and seasonings, stir until thick.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. D.M. — Why should she want to leave home?

Shirley M. — I feel like a leftover, overgrown child.

Mrs. D.M. — I am the mother of four children. My oldest daughter, Shirley, is 23 and recently gave me the shock of my life by saying she wants to take an apartment with a girl friend of hers.

I have done everything I possibly could to give my daughter a nice home. I take care of all her clothes and she doesn't have to do a lick of work in the house, outside of keeping her own room neat. She has all the freedom in the world to come and go as she pleases. I have never interfered with her dates.

Why should a girl like this want to leave home? My husband and I feel that she is up to no good. We are worried to death.

Shirley M. — I have explained to my mother, and she agrees, that if I want to do wrong I can do it without leaving home. I have no intention of doing any such thing and feel that my parents should trust me.

My reasons for wanting to leave home are quite different. I have never been away from home to go to college, as so many girls have. I have never been entirely on my own. My mother does too much for me and I want a feeling of independence.

Many of my friends have gotten married and I have come to feel like a leftover, overgrown child still living with my parents. My friend says she feels that way too and that's why we want to move.

The Council: Shirley seems to have some sound reasons for wanting her own place. Whether or not her parents have anything to "worry" about depends upon how well they know her. Does she volunteer fairly complete accounts of her doings? Does she express her thoughts and attitudes? Does she bring her friends home? Does she seem to be generally happy?

In any case, a financially independent girl of Shirley's age can't be compelled to live at home if she doesn't want to. Living away may help her gain the maturity and self-confidence she evidently feels she lacks, but she should be aware that it is not a total answer to her present discomfort.

Shirley should realize that she has foolishly allowed herself to be placed in the position of a "left-over, overgrown child." Apparently, Mrs. D.M. has taken too many of Shirley's rightful responsibilities upon herself. But Shirley should have fought for her independence and self-sufficiency at home. She should not have permitted herself to be waited on like a helpless child. She should have participated in the home like another adult.

Shirley also shows that she has not taken the full role as a grown woman when the marriage of her friends contributes to her feeling of being a "leftover." If she were living fully — giving new receiving energy as a pleasure in her job and her social life — she would have a sense of growth and potentiality. She would have confidence in her ability to soon find her own happy relationship with a man.

Whether she remains at home or moves to her own apartment, Shirley should make active efforts to gain emotional maturity through lively participation in every phase of her daily living.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Jean Graham (MOTHER OF 5)

"Do new babies need water, and if so, how much?" asks many a first mother. It varies, of course, with the individual baby. Some want it right from the start — others apparently get enough liquid from formula and juices. The baby doctor suggests that some babies may reject water because there's no nourishment in it. Best solution is to offer an ounce or two once or twice a day between meals. If baby turns it down, he probably doesn't need it. Be sure water has been boiled, then cooled.

A liquid baby will like . . . give him a nutritional benefits too, Gerber Strained Orange Juice is delightfully mild and rich in vitamin C, so important to sound gums and body tissues. Gerber Strained Orange Juice is made from selected tree-ripened oranges and carefully pasteurized for baby's protection.

Careful straining makes it easy to feed from spoon, bottle or cup.

Bundling bit. It's always a temptation to over-dress baby and overheat the house these frosty winter days, but babies over 8 pounds are their own "heat regulators" . . . and adjust easily to changes. Good room temperature for a wide-awake, lightly-sweatered or lightly blanketed baby is about 68° to 72°.

A good starting points. When doctor says baby is ready to start on cereal, you'll like Gerber Cereals to make it easy to introduce variety. All 6 kinds—Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat, Mixed Cereal and Proticil Cereal Food—are pre-cooked and ready to serve. Each one has its own delicate but distinctive flavor. All have the creamy-smooth texture little ones like. All are enriched with iron, calcium and B-vitamins. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Canadian Army Unit Learns To Stay Alert, Comfortable In Rugged North Country

By KEN CLARK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP) About 700 members of a Canadian army unit have learned how to stay alert and comfortable on an exercise in the northern bush country.

The 2nd battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment, based at London, Ont., worked through rugged lake and bush country 40 miles northwest of this gold mining centre in a 10-day exercise, during which it moved only four to six miles a day.

Snow - covered, wooded, hilly terrain made use of vehicles impossible in the field. The soldiers travelled on snowshoes, carrying equipment on their back or pulling it on toboggans.

TRAINED IN WAR

Commander of the paratroop unit is Lt.-Col. Donald E. Holmes, who learned his soldiering and barracks-room bellow as an infantry officer in the Second World War and later in Korea.

The RCR, Col. Holmes explained, have been earmarked by the defence department as a mobile striking force ready to go anywhere in the world at a moment's notice, or "capable of dislodging any blankety - blank enemy ground force that penetrated the Canadian north."

One of the difficulties with this type of operation, he said, is the mental attitude of the soldier, who realizes that no matter how tough things get it would all be over in 16 days.

MORE NEXT YEAR

A longer expedition is tentatively planned for next year, with the idea that men knowing they have a month to spend in the bush will bear down harder.

Col. Holmes operated from a 13-man command tent, but most of the officers and men in the exercise lived five to a tent. There was a small naphtha stove for heating and cooking. Everybody ate out of metal mess cans.

Shaving was mandatory — the army says it keeps men psychologically buoyant in a country where it is easy to slip into slovenly ways.

It was no problem. Half the tents were equipped with an electric razor adapted by ingenious soldiers to run off the little remaining in discarded radio-telephone batteries.

HEAVY LOAD

Each sled was pulled through the bush with a 400-pound cargo — two men in harness and a third pushing. Snow was hip-deep and all walking was done on snowshoes. Several men were evacuated with frostbite.

The force carried light armament only, in the interest of mobility. In addition to the standard rifle, there were Sten guns, Bren guns, mortars and rocket launchers.

Food and other supplies were trucked to base camp at Butler Lake.

While packs and sleds became the main method of transportation from there, a light ski-aircraft and snow vehicles were available for use where possible.

Smaller units supporting the RCR were the 1st Airborne Medical Platoon from Camp Borden, Ont., the 1st Airborne Signals Squadron from Kingston, Ont., and units of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers and the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps from Lakeview, Ont.

M. Macdonald Assails Choice Of Fair Pictures

By MARY FRAN BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—D. W. Buchanan, associate director of the National Gallery of Canada, rose Monday to the defence of the Canadian paintings chosen from display at the Brussels World Fair in April.

He was replying to criticism voiced last week by leading traditional painters here.

"The 23 artists whose paintings have been selected for exhibition are among Canada's well-known painters and many of them have been the recipients of scholarships, fellowships and awards from provincial sources," Mr. Buchanan said here.

The critics said names of the 23 painters are hardly known in Canada.

Kenneth Forbes, portrait painter whose pictures have been shown in the Royal Academy in England, called the Brussels arrangement "farce" and said the paintings are "mainly modern art." He said 18 painters chosen were known as abstract painters.

FOREIGN TO CANADA

Manly Macdonald, a traditionalist known for his landscapes, said "so-called modern art isn't representative of Canadian art and is entirely foreign to the Canadian people. The whole aim of these artists has been to stamp out everything that is Canadian, resulting in a rehash of foreign abstract painting."

Canadian Output Of Livestock Will Be Greater

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian livestock output is expected to be eight per cent greater this year than last, G. J. Willows of Saskatoon, president of the Meat Packers Council of Canada, said Tuesday.

"Fortunately for Canadian producers, production in the United States is not expected to show any increase and the demand for meat in the country should increase at least as much as its population," he added in an address to the annual meeting here.

Reviewing the 1957 season, Mr. Willows said farm cash income from livestock and poultry sales during the first nine months increased to $636,000,000 compared with $619,000,000 in 1956 and $590,000,000 in 1955.

Main factor in the output was the record supply of beef, Mr. Willows said. Total cattle and calf marketing was up nine per cent from 1956.

Exports of both beef and live cattle had increased sharply during the last quarter. The U.S. quarterly import quota of 130,000 head, which Canada shares with Mexico and other countries, was reached for the first time since it was imposed in 1953.

Excerpts from his speech were released to the press before delivery.

Separate School Teachers Lured By Que. Boards

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Roman Catholic school boards of Quebec are threatening to draw the most talented teachers away from Ontario Catholic schools with offers of higher salaries and fringe benefits, the London separate school board warned Monday night.

The board called on the provincial government for a bigger share of the tax dollar "so that children of all denominations may have equality of educational opportunity in Ontario."

The Montreal separate school board had published advertisements in more than 40 Canadian newspapers offering teachers a minimum salary of $2,300 and maximum of $3,800 without a university degree. Teachers with a degree were offered $3,650 to $5,350 a year.

"We are already losing many good teachers to public schools because they cannot afford to live on our salary scale," said Frank Carter. "Many of our teachers stay with us at personal sacrifice. Now we are getting it from the other side of the nutcracker. Our average salary is something under $3,000 a year."

Eating Less Pork

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario livestock commissioner W. P. Watson said Monday this year's hog market was declining because Canadians are eating less pork.

Mr. Watson told the annual meeting of the Ontario Swine Breeders Association Canadians ate more than 100,000 hogs a week in 1956 but last year they ate about 90,000 hogs a week.

Last year's average price in Ontario was $32 a hog, compared with the usual average of $28.

Spruce Budworm Can't Be Beaten

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Two forestry experts agreed Monday night that mass aerial spraying would slow up but not destroy the spruce budworm, tree pest which is ravaging many forests in the United States and Canada.

James Bean of the forest experiment station, Madison, Wis., told a conference of the Lake Superior chapter of the American Society of Foresters that the worms had struck at 600,000 northern Minnesota acres last year, an increase of 36 per cent over 1956.

Bean predicted that the pest would strike hard this year in several northern Minnesota counties.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

SHOW MANY, SUH?

The mail brought a letter yesterday from a chappie who says one of his paternal ancestors came upon this earth with a yen for card playing—and never got rid of it. The old gentleman, it appears, never hit the Missouri sidewheelers, the western cowpoke camps, or the city's bright lights, but he made quite a name for himself as a poker-player up around Robert W. Service's Arctic hangout.

The writer says the old boy cleaned up handsomely at times, but more frequently was in the insolvent stage. He says his honorable ancestor once won $20,000 and an ancient gold mine at one sitting, which the Lady known as Lou did not claim. And he wants to know if this was the biggest pot in poker-playing records.

Considerable delving into some more or less musty tones revealed that the old boy's poker bonanza was mere peanuts compared to some of the gilt-and-glitter boys south of the border.

The biggest poker duel on record took place in San Francisco between William C. Ralston, president of the Bank of California and Senator William Sharon of Nevada, who owned enormously rich property in the fabulous Comstock Lode.

Pots of $100,000 were not uncommon when these boys tangled over a poker table, and although they played with a half dozen west coast millionaires their duel was strictly a personal one.

They proved that sometimes the "mostest does not go to the bestest." Sharon was considered the better player but he could never beat Ralston. The latter once won a cool million in 15 months of play. In one game Ralston took a pot of $350,000. He held a pair of tens. Sharon held two jacks but he was bluffed out by Ralston on a $150,000 bet.

Some big poker games were played in other parts of the United States. In a series of games played in the old Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York, a man named John W. Gates, the famous "Bet-a-Million" Gates, lost $1,000,000 of which some $700,000 was won by Diamond Letter the Chicago wheat king. Leiter took one pot of $52,000 from Gates on a pair of sevens. Gates, who held three fours, refused to meet a raise of $30,000.

The most remarkable poker game in history was played at the old Bloomen Club in New York in the late '70's by three Gotham politicians, Jacob Sharp, Isaac Oliver and Richard Flanigan and General Robert Schnek, ambassador to Great Britain and author of a famous treatise on poker. Oliver dealt and after heavy betting from all corners the hands were finally shown. Each man held a straight flush from the three to the seven.

In case you're interested the name "poker" is a corruption of the French word "poque," which was brought to Louisiana by French colonists. It was originally played with 20 cards. The slang phrase "pass the buck" originated in poker. In olden days players used a knife with a buckhorn handle to mark who was dealing the cards. A player who did not wish to deal "passed the buck" as the knife was called.

The origin of stud poker is uncertain. But it is claimed to have started in a mid-western saloon about 1870 by a farmer who ran out of cash and offered to bet his thoroughbred stallion. The players agreed but when the farmer returned he figured they had seen his hand. So he suggested that each player have two cards, turn the remaining three face up and he dealt two more face down.

MACS IN HULL TONIGHT

The McFarlands trekked to Hull, Quebec, this afternoon, where they take on the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens in their last visit to the Quebec city. On Friday night they play hosts to the Kingston CKLC's, not to be Pembroke Lumber Kings, as scheduled. The change in dates was made a couple of days ago through mutual arrangement by the clubs concerned.

The McFarlands Booster Club will give away five pairs of reserved seat tickets for all Belleville home games in the forthcoming playoffs. The tickets for the draw are now on sale at Don Stanton's, Moe Benell's Coffee Bar and Jack Diamond's store. Better get 'em now while the getting is good.

Rugger Union Changes Rules To Speed Game

By ED SIMON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Against a mutered background of Australian discontent, the International Board of Rugby Unions has published a series of rule changes designed to speed up the game.

The Australian touring side was still seething as a result of an unruly match against England Saturday, won by the home club 9-6 with a last-minute penalty kick.

The visitors claimed the final whistle should have gone before the game - winning points were scored. Full time had elapsed and the teams were playing a few extra minutes to compensate for time out due to injuries.

The point is covered in one of the rule revisions effective next season which limits the time-out allowable for an injury to two minutes instead of the previous three.

The Aussies were also upset by the unprecedented wave of booing that swept Twickenham at intervals Saturday after English half Phil Horrocks-Taylor was carried off with an injured leg early in the first half.

TIGHTEN RULES

The new rules tightened the rules in that respect, ordering a referee's warning or expulsion against a player guilty of tackling an opponent not in possession of the ball. Expulsion will be mandatory for a second offence.

Recriminations were also put to rest by England - Australia match in which the home side snatched victory despite the fact a man short for more than an hour after Horrocks-Taylor went off.

Several reporters accused one of the Australian backs of deliberately kicking a prostrate opponent in the head.

The decision for the visitors were particularly caustic about an incident late in the game when an English back rose from a stretcher, apparently uninjured, after a lengthy delay.

Maintenance of Present Pace Over Seventy-Game Schedule Would Give Habs New Mark

By MARTY GOODMAN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal's high - flying Canadiens have come through their first 50 games this year at a pace that could shatter the National Hockey League points record.

Two victories last weekend brought the Montreal total to 72 points for 34 wins and five ties in 50 games. If the pace is maintained over the full 70 - game schedule, the Canadiens could finish with 102 points.

WINGS HOLD RECORD

This record is 101, set in 1950-51 by Detroit Red Wings for 44 wins and 13 ties.

The following year the wings hit 100 points on 44 victories and 12 ties and Montreal reached the same figure in 1955-56 on 45 wins and 10 ties.

Montreal has injuries to contend with in keeping up this stride. Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, who was leading the team in goal scoring when he was injured, may be out for the season with a ruptured bowel.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who was off to his fastest start in many seasons, has been out for 2½ months with a severed Achilles' tendon. His return is still indefinite.

Bert Olmstead, a key playmaker, tore his knee ligaments and will be out another two weeks.

STILL STRONG

But coach Hector (Toe) Blake has handled the hockey machine that apparently can survive injury to any member of the team. His record this season has been compiled despite injuries to Olmstead, Jean Beliveau and Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard, penalty-killer Doug Harvey and defenceman Doug Harvey and a previous loss of Geoffrion.

Montreal's momentum also has a good chance of carrying the team over the hump to place team to a new margin of victory. Canadiens beat New York Rangers 7-1 by 6 points.

The other five teams are within nine points of each other and have shown a tendency to stay bunched. It is unlikely any team will spurt far ahead of the others.

The largest margin a first-place team ever had was 12 points in 1928-30, when Boston Bruins ended with 77 points, ahead of Chicago Black Hawks. However, that was when the league was divided into two sections. Boston topped the American division.

Since 1942 the league has played as one section and Montreal has won by the two largest margins. In 1943-44 Canadiens amassed 83 points, 25 better than Detroit. In 1955-56 Montreal's 100 points was 24 better than Detroit.

Montreal proved its superiority both times by sweeping the Stanley Cup in the league playoffs. Canadiens' goalie Jacques Plante earned Boston wins its division by 30 points.

CUP FOR HAMILTON

The Stanley Cup itself is in Hamilton today—but only for display purposes. Hamilton Tiger Cubs of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior series are engaged for the exhibit, the first time the cup has been in Hamilton.

Hamilton Tyros came close to winning the cup in 1925 when they ended first in the NHL. But a wage dispute stopped them from taking part in the playoffs. The players were suspended before the finals and the Victoria Cougars represented the East, losing to Victoria Cougars.

The team was sold the next year and became the New York Americans.

The present-day Canadiens can increase their lead when action resumes Thursday. Montreal is at Detroit and Chicago at Boston. New York and Toronto Maple Leafs are idle.

Red Wings Not Taking Chances On Gordie Howe

DETROIT (AP)—Gordie Howe looks ready to return to action with Detroit Red Wings, but officials of the National Hockey League team are doubtful.

The big right winger worked out with the squad Tuesday, did a lot of shooting and reported he felt fine.

But Jack Adams, general manager of the Red Wings, said: "We're not taking any chances on Howe returning before he is absolutely ready. I don't care if he's out for 20 games."

Howe suffered a rib fracture 10 days ago. Tuesday's first indications were that he might be out a long as six weeks.

Ted Williams Expected to Get $125,000

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams is expected to sit down Tuesday and sign a contract for $125,000 for the 1958 campaign.

Red Sox general manager Joe Cronin announced meeting Tuesday morning with his 39-year-old star. If all goes as in past years, Williams will have a friendly chat with Cronin and then put his signature on a fat contract.

Williams received an estimated $100,000 last season when he topped the 1958 batting league in batting with a .388 average.

Trappers Blank Maroons 2-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There's still a lot of hockey left in Pete Babando's 32-year-old legs.

The chunky left - winger, who has seen service with five National Hockey League clubs, scored North Bay Trappers of the OHA-NOHA senior A league Jan. 28 and has been spearheading Trappers' attack since.

Tuesday night he scored both goals as the Trappers shutout Chatham Maroons 2-0 before 1,200 hometown fans and moved into a first place tie with Sudbury Wolves.

At Windsor the third-place Bulldogs looked like world-beaters against first - place Kitchener Dutchmen for 15 minutes and 37 seconds of the first period. Then the roof fell in.

GREAT START

Bulldogs scored three fast goals in that span. A 40 lead before Dutchmen scored at 15:37 and went on to pick up an extra point 2-2 to take a 14-point hold on first place.

Babando, a native of Braeburn, Pa., who was once the only American player in the NHL, was purchased by Whitby Dunlops from the Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League to replace Trappers' George Gosselin, who Dunlops wanted for the world hockey tournament.

Derek Bruderer scored his second straight shutout stopping 25 shots while Don Head stopped 22 for Marlboros.

Defenceman Art Hurst was the big mark in Kitchener's comeback, scoring twice and getting two assists. Ken Laufman, Billy Wylie, Butch Keeling, Jerry Theberge and Charlie Brooker scored the other Kitchener goals. For the Bulldogs it was Wally Pawly-shyn, Lou Bendo and Wally Maxwell.

Tonight in the OHA -NOHA North Bay is in Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds are host to Chatham.

In the Ontario Hockey Association's eastern division Kingston CKLCs are host to Pembroke Lumber Kings and Ottawa-Hull Canadiens.

To Start Work On Giants' New Stadium

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Construction of a new baseball park for the San Francisco Giants is expected to begin within two weeks.

Plans for the city-owned stadium on filled land near San Francisco Bay were approved Tuesday by city engineer Thomas Cahill. City officials are expected to approve them within a week.

Builder Charles Harney estimates the 45,000-seat stadium will cost between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 including a parking lot for 12,000 cars.

Ray Robinson-Basilio Fight Could Cross Two Million, TV

NEW YORK (AP)—The possibility of a $2,000,000 gross from closed circuit television of the Carmen Basilio - Ray Robinson middleweight title fight was announced today by officials of the Telecrumpter Corporation, which is handling the television and the March 25 bout in Chicago.

The officials, President Irving Kahn and Vice - President Bill Rosensohn, said they already have signed for showing at 60 seating capacity of 481,000.

"It's the largest network ever assembled for a closed circuit show," said Rosensohn. "We expect to have a million viewers with a seating capacity of 1,500,000 in top form tonight. Of this, we expect between 450,000 and 475,000 tickets to be sold at an average of $4 a seat."

"We would do $2,000,000 the way this is going," added Kahn. "We have just signed up the Cross County Shopping Centre in Yonkers, N.Y. The operation to build a temporary stadium and have a guaranteed sell in excess of 3,000 seats."

"In addition to theatres," said Rosensohn, "we have signed up arenas in Rochester, Syracuse, Houston, San Francisco and Los Angeles. We may get more buildings with huge seating capacities."

At Robinson's insistence, Telepromptter was permitted to bring four cameras into the first three rounds of the bout, limited to 20 minutes and 27 seconds of the first three rounds. The rest fell in.

GREAT START

Bulldogs scored three fast goals in that span. A 40 lead before Dutchmen scored at 15:37 and went on to pick up an extra point 2-2 to take a 14-point hold on first place.

Teepees Whip Flyers 5-1; Hoekstra Hurt

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Catharines Teepees hold their largest edge of the season over the rest of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A teams today, but they may have to do it for awhile without the league's leading scorer.

Ed Hockstra, team captain, crashed into a goal support and suffered a possible broken jaw as St. Catharines defeated Barrie Flyers 5-1 Tuesday night. Twelve stitches were needed to close a neck cut.

The victory moved St. Catharines 10 points ahead of the idle Hamilton Cubs. In a second game Ottawa-Hull Canadiens defeated Guelph Biltmores 6-3 in the Laurier Cup series.

MOVES INTO TIE

Teepees' Jack McKenzie, who scored two goals, moved into a first-place tie with Hockstra in the scoring race, each with 72 points. Hoekstra had an assist before he was injured.

Other Teepee scorers were Bob Corupe, Claude Mahaffy and Stan Mikita.

Pete Panagabko scored for Barrie. Dennis DeJordy played a standout game in the St. Catharines net, particularly in the third period.

Bob Brooker scored a goal and assisted on four others to lead the Canadiens. The production brought Boucher's total in Laurier Cup and OHA Senior A competition to 10 points.

Bill Carter scored twice and Bob Rousseau, Jean Beliveau and Jean - Claude Tremblay scored once each.

Ron Brown, Leon Rochefort and Gord Brown scored for Guelph.

The win kept the Canadiens in first place in the Laurier Cup standings.

The junior schedule resumes tonight with Toronto Marlboros at Barrie.

VAUGHN WINS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Willie Vaughn, 160½, of Los Angeles scored a unanimous 10-round decision Tuesday night over Jimmy Beecham, 156, of Miami. Vaughn, ninth - ranked middleweight contender, cut one of Beecham's left eye in the fourth. The shallow gash troubled Jimmy the rest of the way.

Offers $10,000 To Logart, Akins For Welter Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Boxing Club Tuesday offered guarantees of $10,000 each to welterweight contenders Isaac Logart of Cuba and Virgil Akins of St. Louis for the first tournament elimination here March 31.

Logart's manager, Eddie Mastro, rejected the bid. He wants $40,000.

Logart, Akins and Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., are three survivors of the 32 contestants picked by the world championship boxing committee to determine a successor to Carmen Basilio.

Wants Title Bout Fought On Barge

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A New Orleans boxing enthusiast has suggested that Joe Brown, world's lightweight champion, defend his title on a barge in the Gulf of Mexico.

Lou Viscusi, manager of the champion, said the proposal calls for Brown to defend his title against Ralph Dupas of New Orleans.

Viscusi said the unidentified New Orleans man believes a barge fight in the Gulf would limit a Brown-Dupas fight to Gulf soil near New Orleans despite segregation laws which prohibit such a fight being held in Louisiana. The proposal involves tieing four large barges together, mooring them beyond Louisiana waters, and selling 500 tickets at $250 each.

Viscusi said he is considering the offer. He had no comment otherwise on Brown's plans to defend his title. Boxing sources have indicated Viscusi is planning a Brown-Dupas title fight in Houston, Tex., in April.

Brown is to meet Orlando Echevarria in Havana Feb. 26.

Finnish Star Wins Speed Skating Events

OSLO (AP)—Toivo Salonen of Finland captured both the 500 and 3,000 meter all-round events Tuesday for top honors in the International speed skating competition here.

The Finnish star sped over the 500 meter (546 yards, 2 feet) course in 43.2 seconds. Then he took the 2,000 meter race (240 feet less than two miles) in four minutes 59.4 seconds.

He outdistanced contestants from seven nations on the Bislett Stadium track, where the races for the 1952 winter Olympic games were held.

Salonen, one of Finland's all-time speed skating winners, got a point total for the two events of 92.000. He beat out Henry Eriksen of Norway, who had 92.666. Grnaf of the Netherlands, 94.317.

Following Salonen in the 500-meter race were Oskar Hillerem of Norway, 44.1 seconds and Einer Nacss of Norway, 44.6.

NHL Players

Gain Financially in Talks But Fail to Get Recognition

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The National Hockey League Players Association agreed early today to withdraw all pending litigation and lawsuits against the league. This action, taken at a 15-hour meeting between the players' representatives and owners that ended after midnight, meant that the association failed to gain official recognition.

Pending litigation included a $2,000,000 anti-trust suit and separate labor relations board petitions which have been filed in New York State, Massachusetts and in Toronto.

"It is the earnest wish of the players," read a formal statement signed by Ted Lindsay of Chicago Black Hawks and Doug Harvey of Montreal Canadiens for the players and by Walter Brown of Boston Bruins and Jim Norris of Chicago for the owners, "that for the best interest of hockey and the close NHL race that they will return to their respective clubs and concentrate on winning a playoff position."

HEAD ASSOCIATION

Lindsay is president of the Association of Professional Players and was formed at the meeting to deal with present and future mutual problems.

"The plan is," said the statement, "that the council shall be composed of the players' representatives representing their individual clubs plus the owners of the NHL teams. The council will meet at regularly-scheduled intervals and on requests by either players or owners.

"Among other points the following were agreed upon:

"1. A $7,000 minimum salary.

"2. An increase in pension benefits as the result of which players matching dollar for dollar contributions to the players. As the result of this, long - term hockey players at age 45 will receive a minimum pension of $5,100 annually.

"3. An increase in the playoff pool, making it possible for the league and Stanley Cup champion team to receive $4,000 per man.

"4. Other points of agreement include increased hospital benefits, a limit on the number of exhibition games per month and other expenses as the result of a player representative at training the season, an independent survey of the present pension plan with a view to improving it if possible. Owners agree to the players' right to seek legal aid his physical fitness to play after an injury.

The statement termed the meeting amicable.

Sedgman Whips Trabert for Pro Title

SYDNEY (AP) — Australian Frank Sedgman came from behind to beat Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, Ohio 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4 in a sparkling final Tuesday night of the rich professional tennis tournament.

It was worth £3,000 Australian ($4,680) to Sedgman and £1,500 ($2,300) to Trabert as runner-up. It was the richest prize either of them has won from a single professional tournament.

To get to the final Trabert had to beat Australia's tennis twins Ken Rosewall and Lew Hoad. Sedgman turned back Rex Hartwig and then Pancho Gonzales.

A crowd of about 7,500 tonight did much to boost the cash return from the tournament. Promoter Jack Kramer said tonight's gate receipts were £9,500 ($22,290) against expenses of £14,000 ($28,000).

Atlantic Wins Ocean Title Six Dunnies Down for Count

LONDON (CP)—Canada's contenders for world hockey supremacy, tentatively trying out their shiny legs for the first time on European ice, lost no time informing their British hosts that they prefer their water frozen.

The Whitby players, emerging thankfully from the Queen Elizabeth ship canal defencemen, evinced that the Atlantic packs a more lethal wallop than the most ferocious Scottish defencemen.

Later in the day, after a shaky workout on Lord Lonsdale's Harringay arena, where they play their first exhibition game tonight, they showed just a bit of their greenish tinge. But evidence was gathered early in the night.

Wren Hoist, the team manager, said everyone went short of sleep and half a dozen players missed most of their meals during the crossing.

After their practice at Harringay, the players were welcomed by George Drew, Canada's high commissioner, at Canada House.

The Canadians will have plenty of opportunity to regain form before the world championships open at Oslo Feb. 28. Starting with their tilt against Harringay Racers of the British National Hockey League they have 13 games scheduled against British and Continental opponents, including two against RAC opponents at Zweibrueken, West Germany.

Barons Want No Part of Draft Says Hendy

CLEVELAND (AP) — James C. Hendy, general manager of Cleveland Barons in the American Hockey League, said Tuesday night the Barons will no longer participate in the player draft involving the National, American, Western and Quebec leagues.

He added that he would take the matter to court if any team tries to draft Cleveland players.

"In my estimation the rules of the draft have been violated and are no longer binding." Hendy said. "At the end of the season we will not draft anyone and if any team tries to draft one of our players, we will take the matter to civil court."

He accused the Western League of several infractions of the rules in collusion with various teams of the National League.

He did not mention an, specific violations, saying "they have been too numerous and too complicated to enumerate."

Buchanan Loses Sight of Eye Loop to Discuss Benefit Game

Ralph (Bucky) Buchanan, former American and Quebec League star, now with the Pembroke Lumber Kings, has lost the sight of an eye, it was announced today. Buchanan suffered an eye injury in a Lumber Kings-Cornwall Colts game on January 19.

Ontario Hockey Association president Lorne Cook said last night that a meeting of the Eastern Ontario senior "A" hockey league will be held here on Friday night to discuss, among other matters, the possibility of holding a benefit game for the injured player.

The benefit game, it is stated, will be between a Pembroke Lumber Kings — League All-Star aggregation.

Buchanan's injury was not considered serious at first, but yesterday an eye specialist announced the player would lose the use of it.

The thirty - five year old rightwinger who played for the Kingston CKLC's last season, has a record of over 500 goals scored in his major hockey career. He was born in Montreal and after graduating from minor ranks played for the Chicoutimi Saguenenns. Turning pro he played for Shawinigan Falls, Chicoutimi and the Quebec Aces before turning out with an American League team.

Buchanan's eye injury is the third to occur in the Eastern League this season. Claude Provost, starry defenseman of the Ottawa - Hull Canadiens was hurt during a game here with the McFarlands and suffered a permanent injury to an eye. Last week Syd Cyrdewaz of the Cornwall Chevies was struck in the eye, but lost no sight revealed he would not lose the use of it. — G.H.C.

Makes Offer To Moore for Durelle Fight

TORONTO (CP)—Boxing promoter Jack (Deacon) Allen said Tuesday he has made a "substantial" offer to light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore to defend his world title here against Yvon Durelle of Bale Ste. Anne, N.B.

Durelle is ranked No. 2 in the division ratings by the International Boxing Association. He was impressive Friday when he scored a seventh-round technical knockout over Clarence Hinnant in New York City.

Allen said Clarence Johnson, Moore's manager, asked for a $100,000 guarantee for the fight. Allen said this was "too high" but that his offer was "the highest I ever made anybody."

Johnson said he is also dealing with Montreal promoter Eddie Quinn.

If the fight is held here it would be an indoor event and Maple Leaf Gardens.

Austrian Wins Giant Slalom World Title

BAD GASTEIN, Austria (AP) — Toni Sailer, Austria's double Olympic winner and defending champion, won the world championship giant slalom today with a time of 1:48.8 in one of the all-time great performances in skiing.

All times and placings were unofficial until after a two-hour jury meeting in which possible protests would be settled, but there appeared to be no question that Sailer's great-run would be ratified.

Josi Rieder of Austria was second in 1:51.5. Rieder won gold on the slalom with Sailer second.

Others in today's top brackets included:

Roger Staub, Switzerland, and Francois Bonlieu, France, tied for third with times of 1:53.9.

5. Wallace (Bud) Werner, United States, 1:54.5.

6. Chiaru Igaya, Japan, 1:54.9.

SIGN MICHELS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Guard John Michels of Winnipeg Blue Bombers has signed a one-year contract with Texas A and M for next season, a club spokesman said Tuesday night. Michels played only last season with Bombers.

Today Will Decide Two Major Finalists In International Bonspiel

"Well, did you find a blue dot? No. 10 this time!"

QUEBEC (CP) — Finalists in two major trophy events are decided today in Quebec's 45th International bonspiel.

John Freeman's Pointe Claire, Que., curlers, fresh from inflicting a 17-6 defeat on Alf Muth of Quebec Victoria, meets E. Bourcier's East Malartic, Que., rink in the Omega semi-final. Bourcier defeated Max Robinson's Perth, Ont., rink 11-8 in their quarter-final match.

In the other Omega semi-final today Charlie Cassels of Hamilton Thistle meets Al Reid's Schenectady, N.Y., rink. Cassels defeated Al Hunter of Sudbury Granite 12-8 and Reid downed J. Girard's Quebec club 11-9 in quarter-final games.

In Chateau Trophy play, Neis Findlay of Cornwall defeated P. L. Young of Ottawa Rideau 10-9 in the quarter-finals and meets Lou Conselli's Quebec richemin today.

The quarter-finals in the consolation Francois Baby Gold Cup event were also set for today. Finals in the Chateau, Omega and John events are Friday night.

The 112 rinks from Eastern Canada and the United States are competing for 15 major trophies and awards in the week-long bonspiel.

Other Ontario results in Tuesday's play:

Canada's Top TV Producer Makes Virtue Out of Necessity Wows Critics While Doing So

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean Paul Fugere, French - speaking Canada's leading television producer, makes a virtue out of necessity and wows the critics while doing so.

Spurred by the necessity of satisfying Quebec viewers of the French-language television network, he has achieved in five years a special distinction in TV.

"We cannot draw on English-language television," says the 31-year-old producer who once aspired to authorship. "We have to create our own."

CRITICS APPLAUD

His work, stamped with an individual Fugere pace, has won frequent critical plaudits. But never was praise as prolific as for his production of Marcel Dube's 90-minute television play, Un Simple Soldat.

Viewers and critics chorused approval and acclaim. "A milestone," pronounced Montreal La Presse. Said a bi-lingual viewer: "Gripping, dynamic."

Mr. Fugere was delighted. He is a quiet, modest man. Slim, slight, expressive, he has flashing eyes and mobile hands, a sharp-featured face, horn-rimmed glasses and stubby hair like an untamed cornsell.

He looks dedicated to television —"life in a frame," as he calls it. His work, from ambitious teen-age puppet productions "for relatives" to his present $25,000-per-show-budget dramatic spectaculars for Tele-Theatre is summed up in his experience.

WORKED IN THEATRE

Still dreaming of a writing career, he began first in theatre, working in Pere Emile Legault's amateur company that a decade ago transported many of Canada's best French-speaking actors into professional careers.

In 1952, he joined the CBC as a floor director, and six months later produced his first show — a quiz program. Another six months, and he joined writer Roger Lemelin in turning the popular radio series The Plouffe Family into good television.

"After three years I left that. As an experience, I had taken from it everything I needed. As a person, by definition, I am there to inhabit all kinds of worlds. To produce the same kind of play by the same author all the time . . . I am losing myself. To produce the same good."

In expressive English, he explains:

"An actor has pleasure to be one character today, another tomorrow. So, too, with a producer."

HIGH STANDARD

As a producer, he starts with a high standard and seeks plays to meet his mark, not necessarily Canadian works. English, French and Italian classics have been prepared for television by him. Each time, a show every six weeks.

He was in at the birth of Marcel Dube's play, in a rare partnership of abilities.

"It helped. Marcel Dube came to me with an idea, we discussed it and it was accepted."

The author, a young Montreal journalist, returned a few weeks later with a synopsis — a few pages, pages. More discussion, and characters took shape, the action crystallized.

"In July, he gave me the first script. I made a critical work. Then Dube went back to write again. When he returned, it was too long—too long in time and too long to be produced. I cut 50 pages."

More rewriting, and finally the polished script.

"It was doing a lot of critical work. But how was it doing the creative work. He is very co-operative."

It was the real-life tragedy of a simple soldier from Montreal's East, a young man never habilitated, let alone rehabilitated. It may be translated into English for the rest of Canada.

LEADING PRODUCER

Jean Paul Fugere, French Canada's leading television producer, in five years has mastered the problem of supplying programs for Quebec viewers. Mr. Fugere, 31, says that works for the French - language television network have to be created as he cannot draw on English-language television. He says he started out hoping to be a writer but now has dedicated himself to TV — "life in a frame," as he calls it. (CP Photo) 1958 (CBC).

At the Belle

Walt Disney's "The Story of Perrie", Holiday Over . . .
By Popular Demand of Public

In his ceaseless entertainment ventures, Walt Disney has come up with a new first with an enchanting film, "Perrie". It is the first True-Life Fantasy, and it is all-set to delightful new Disney songs and music and an eloquent, poetic narration.

The story, a inspiring effort for Disney Composers, lyricists and writers, is a primitive love story of a pair of beautiful pine squirrels, based on the popular novel by Felix Salten, author of "Bambi".

Three main songs punctuate the brilliant score by veteran composer-arranger Paul Smith. "Break of Day" which ushers in the film with an ecstatic note; "Together Time", a realization of true love among the wildwood denizens; and "How to Sleep", a lullaby for the young animals in the protective embrace of their mothers. Smith, Winston Hibler, Ralph Wright, Gil George and George Bruns collaborated on the lyrics and the music.

Two instrumental compositions, "A Symphony in Gold" and "Rhapsody in White", provide still other accents to the musical embellishment.

The narrative written and spoken by Winston Hibler, adopts a new style to fit the unique character of the film and the words in poetic cadence, never overwhelm the pictorial action or violate the facts or spirit of the story nature herself is telling.

The popular Disney Color program at the Belle Theatre Tonight, and Thursday, also includes Nick, the tale of a baby elephant and a boy in color. A "Funny Cartoon Comedy, "Sweet and Sour" and Walt Disney's Cartoon special "The Truth About Mother Goose".

Co-Incident

"The Story of Perrie", has been the subject of popular demand of an appreciative public, and will be showing for the final times at Brighton. Showings daily are presented at 2.00; 7.00 and 9.05.

Private Cars Chief Competitor In Transportation

By WILLIAM FERRIS

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States is undergoing a revolution in transportation.

It is a revolution which will accelerate enormously in the next few years. There are these immediate developments:

Railway all over the country are cutting down on passenger service. Says Ike L. Reinsman, president of the Chicago and North Western:

"Our competitor is not the bus or the airplane. It is the private automobile."

Airplane travel has winged out of nowhere to a point where it is the top method of public long distance transportation. The air lines themselves are hard pressed to make money, wondering how they can finance the movement into the jet age.

BUSSES HIT HARDEST

Bus lines are falling behind in the race to keep up with airplanes and private automobiles.

Since 1945 over the last bus has rolled into the garage.

But the bus lines have folded up with a patronage. The attitude of Dr. Gerald Tinsman, a psychiatrist at Harper Hospital in Detroit, is typical:

"I drive 10 miles because I can make it much faster than commuting on the Detroit street railway and I haven't got to stand on some windy corner in rain or snow waiting."

And everywhere there is the automobile.

Three out of every four families in the United States own a car. There are 56,000,000 cars on the road today compared with 26,000,000 at the end of the Second World War.

Suburban living has increased the demand. In metropolitan areas 60 per cent of new car buyers live outside the central city. Improved vehicles have stimulated demand.

Yugoslavs Jail Two Socialists

BELGRADE (Reuters) — Two former leaders of the pre-war Yugoslav Socialist party were sentenced here to a total of 15½ years imprisonment on charges of plotting the violent overthrow of the Tito regime.

Aleksandar Pavlovic, 73-year-old vice-president of the party, was jailed for 8½ years, and Bogdan Krekich, 70, a foundation member of the party, was given a seven-year sentence.

Dr. Milan Zujovic, 58, former deputy dean of law at Belgrade University, was sentenced to four years on charges that he assisted the other two accused in the activity of a "hostile group."

A crowd of 200 was allowed into the Belgrade district court to hear the sentences passed after a three-day trial.

Interview With Truman Best Seen on TV Says Writer

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—See It Now (CBS-TV) has made a distinguished contribution to history in Edward R. Murrow's interview with Truman on television.

It was by far the best interview I ever have seen on television and one of the more enduring actention than is the usual lot of a one-hour television program. There were two reasons for its remarkable impact.

First of all, Murrow and co-producer Fred W. Friendly didn't try to schmalz up the interview with pontificating and film clips and music and all the doodads which so many programs employ in an effort to distinguish them. They simply let Truman and the Florida Keys a year ago and Murrow and Truman talked and talked—and from 10 hours of filmed conversation they carefully extracted an hour which made one wish to hear the other nine.

Secondly — and more importantly—Truman had something to say about his decision and the nature of the presidency that everyone wanted to hear. He revealed a quality that is seldom seen in TV interview subjects: candor.

AN AMAZING MAN

His disclosures of some crucial decisions that confronted him in the White House certainly were newsworthy. Of equal interest to the newspaperwatcher, was his unconscious self-portrait of a man with an amazing knowledge of history and human nature.

I think it's wonderful that we can see and hear a former president saying things like this on television," my old grandmother told me when I was about seven or eight years old that whenever he hear one of his neighbors up in the amen corner of the church praising too loud, he went home and locked his smokehouse."

Probably See It Now never will recover from its particular program, and it is gone forever as far as the vast viewing audience is concerned. About all one can say is thanks a lot for a grand hour of television.

NBC news soundly trounced the opposition television networks in its coverage of the launching of the United States satellite Friday night and in the early hours of Saturday morning.

The NBC radio bulletin Friday at 10:48 p.m. was 30 seconds ahead of CBS radio. NBC-TV's bulletin at 10:51:30 was eight minutes ahead of both CBS-TV and ABC-TV. CBS-TV did not interrupt Murrow's Person to Person program with a bulletin.

ABC-TV had a tough beam. It was covering Adlai Stevenson's speech to Americans for Democratic Action gathering when the bulletin was flashed. A spokesman said Stevenson was disinclined to interrupt his speech to read the bulletin on the air.

NBC-TV was the only network to present films of the satellite launching until the Saturday daytime schedules were under way. To accomplish this beat NBC news kept the network open for more than an hour beyond its usual closing. When the film came on the screen from WFGA-TV in Jacksonville, Fla., at 2:06 a.m., viewers were well rewarded.

The enterprise and initiative of NBC news in covering the event from Cape Canaveral, Washington and New York put it ahead of the opposition and kept it ahead all home screens were dark.

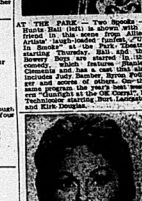
Karloff Hopes All Cowboys In TV Series Saving Money

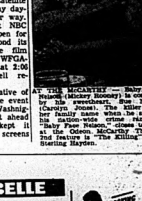
By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They've put the lid on Elvis.

Hal Wallis has banned all interviews and set visitors while Presley is making "King Creole," the producer wants nothing to interfere with the film schedule, since Elvis has a deadline to meet with the army.



George Stevens has revealed an unpublished part of Anne Frank's diary that is to be published now that her life is being filmed. In it, she described her personal fantasy of how she visited Hollywood. Anne's special idols were Rosemary and Priscilla Lane and she dreamed that she was the house guest of the Lane girls during her stay there.



The passage told that Anne visited a studio, where she was given a screen test. Though the studio didn't sign her, she went home a happy girl, according to her dream.

Boris Karloff, himself a victim of film cycles, is among them who believe the current western trend on TV will blow over. He gazed around the Warner Brothers commissary, filled with gunslingers from Cheyenne, Sugarfoot, Maverick, Colt .45, etc.

"I hope these cowboys are starring their money," said Karloff.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 21)—For many days you have been planning a wonderful venture. Now is the time to take concrete steps in that direction. See that you first get your finances in order, put estate in best condition possible, however.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) —A great day for friendliness and bringing to attention of others your very fine capabilities in special fields. Let sociability reign, as you outline your ideas in a specific way. Support and backing will be yours.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct. 23) —Here is a free day which you can devote happily to putting abode in nicest order, business place in more efficent order or get appearance at peak of perfection. P.M. have a joyful evening with loved one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—A special pal who uses own mind and willpower gives you the valuable advice how to attain own desires more readily and easily. Don't be standoffish, and follow advice immediately. Tonight, have fun with comrades.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)—Step out into the business world today, see the right officials and get what you want, the advice you need. Take time to be charitable, too. Increase prestige in all directions, feel alive and start new uptrend.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20)—The paper is filled with wonderful ideas, sales that are applicable to you right now. Get right out and look into them! Meet many fine people all through the day and night. Out of the doldrums and into the dough, now!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—It is your nature to do for others, but remember that you first must do for yourself for the greatest happiness. A great day for consulting these authorities who can quickly put you on easy street. Do it now!

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—What starts out to be seemingly unimportant talk and chatter with many others today results in some fine ideas and co-operative work that will be very lucrative in the future. Let your speech convey sincerity.

If Your Child is Born Today . . . The fine child born today is the lucky little individual who will have the knack of making a happy and lucrative life for himself or herself in almost any field of endeavor where precision and artistry are prime requisites. Yours is the duty to teach method and foundational planning for finite mind. The doctor,' diagnostician, dentist are here. Just make sure nothing spoils the happy little nature.

U.S. Will Grant New Economic Aid to Poland

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States has agreed to provide $60,000,000 in new economic aid to Poland.

This is the same total granted the Communist regime last year. The 1957 aid included surplus wheat, cotton and other farm goods, plus money to buy coal mining equipment.

Meanwhile, Poland and Soviet Union Tuesday signed a new foreign trade agreement calling for a considerable increase in goods exchanges by 1960, the Russian news agency Tass reported.

Russia will supply Poland with iron, manganese and chromium ores, oil products, non-ferrous metals and some industrial equipment. In return Poland will send coal, zinc, ships, railway rolling stock, sugar and some industrial goods to Russia.

Reuther Asks Conference on Unemployment

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther said Tuesday he has appealed to President Eisenhower to call a conference on ways to meet the problems of unemployment and recession.

The United Auto Workers chief made public a letter mailed to the White House Monday "urgently and constructive action to counteract the current recession."

In Washington, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the letter has not been received and there will be no comment on it.

Reuther told Eisenhower the present recession could "rapidly snowball into serious and dangerous proportions."

"More than 4,000,000 workers were totally unemployed in January," Reuther wrote. "In February, economists predict, the number of persons completely out of work will exceed 5,000,000."

DOESN'T BELIEVE

At a press conference Jan. 30, Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell said he did not believe February unemployment figure would exceed 4,500,000. Mitchell declined to estimate how much high the total would go.

Reuther enclosed a copy of a "full employment resolution" adopted by the recent special convention of the UAW.

The resolution declared the Eisenhower administration's economic policies reflected "the undue influence of big business."

Reuther said last fall announced a "do - nothing policy" and that he "sadly is based on reports" from workers and other groups.

Florida Crops Frozen Again, Mercury at 20

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Freezing temperatures struck parts of Florida's reeling citrus and vegetable industry its third blow of the season. Farmers feared at this time they would strike out.

Townsfolk in Plant City, where many homes lack modern heating, shivered and shook. Mercury readings dipped to 20 degrees in suburban Tampa.

The state frost warning service forecast overnight temperatures as low as 30 degrees.

Forecasts for later in the day, but the overnight readings held the promise of citrus crops and vegetable farmers.

Crop experts saw the greatest danger in low-growing citrus and to plants set out after mid-December by early January freezes. The earlier cold snaps ruined about 37,000,000 boxes of fruit and damaged other fruit.

FACES TOTAL LOSS

Still the new freeze is facing total destruction. Frost and low temperatures, followed by heavy rains, have ruined thousands of acres of pastures and left hundreds of cattle to starve.

Tourists, one of the state's major industries, have failed to arrive in the usual numbers. Some who came left quickly; others headed for Florida cities to escape the cold.

Hundreds of migrant workers are without work. Many are without money or hops of quick jobs.

The latest cold snap brought Tampa, on the west coast, its lowest temperature in 28 years. At Miami it roped a 36, coldest since 1917.

BULL CAUSES HAVOC

LIFE NOT WORTH LIVING?
Then wake up the liver!

You know that sour, sick feeling? Bad breath? Is your tongue coated? Is the liver to blame? If your liver doesn't pour out up to two pints of bile a day into your bowels to help digestion, you feel that life's just not worth living. That's the time to take Carter's Little Liver Pills. Little Liver Pills. Then vegetable pills help make bile flow freely. Soon you feel cheerful again—digestion starts functioning properly and you feel like eating. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Always keep Carter's Little Liver Pills on hand.

EARLY WALKOUTS

Prime Minister Diefenbaker stressed belief that the talks between and the CPR will get back into negotiations. They were never removed after the strike that lasted from Jan. 2 to Jan. 11 last year.

"I would naturally expect that there would be negotiations," he told reporters after a cabinet meeting. He also asked Transport Minister George Hees to look into the situation between the CPR and the firemen's union.

TALKS TO REOPEN

There were indications from CPR and union officials that talks would reopen shortly.

Last year's temporary settlement was imposed largely by former prime minister St. Laurent with assistance from Labor Minister Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he understood there had been agreement between the CPR and the firemen that they would resume talks after the Kellock report was delivered.

In Montreal, CPR President N. R. Crump said he believes that the company will abide by the commission findings. It took that stand from outset of the temporary settlement.

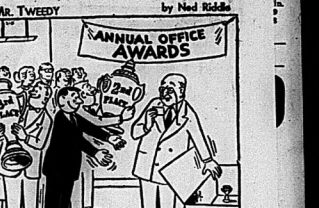
The commission report, said Mr. Crump, "brings to an end this long-standing dispute in a manner consistent with the public interest in safe and efficient rail transportation."

Union head Gamble, however, said at Montreal that he is "quite confident" the report will not result in the recommendations of the royal commission.

He said in an interview that this would apply to both the CPR and the new merger of the CNR.

Asked whether the union would call the two companies' railways stuck by the firemen-reducing proposals of the royal commission, Mr. Gamble replied:

"Yes . . . we would, subject of course to the vote of our membership, which I am sure would be a vote for a strike."



The commission findings would result in about 3,000 of the union's 9,000 Canadian membership being displaced over a period of years in the two companies. The findings are only suggestions and are not binding.

Mr. Gamble was in touch by telephone today with the Cleveland, Ohio, international headquarters of his union, and he said that copies of the Kellock report have been sent to Cleveland.

The union of about 100,000 members has a big stake in the Canadian scrap, since the United States railroads have been trying to cut off diesel fuel from the same way the Canadian roads are proposing.

The U.S. companies dropped the move a couple of years ago but are expected to renew it when contracts open this year.

A definite win for either side in Canada could have a strong bearing in the U.S.

Investigate Blast Which Wrecked Auto

CLARKSON, Ont. (CP)—Police are investigating an explosion which wrecked a car owned by Jack MacGlashan of St. Catharines, Tuesday night.

Provincial police told police he was visiting friends here when the car flamed in the rear parked in the driveway. A moment later the car exploded. Parts were scattered 50 feet from the scene and a witness said flames shot 50 feet in the air.

Clarkson is 18 miles southwest of Toronto.

Election Blizzards Seen Looming On Many Horizons

P.M. Tells of Spending Plan of $250,000,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Mostly, the campaign front for the March 31 federal election continues calm. But the winds are rising with a promise of verbal blizzards to come shortly.

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson has slipped off to an undisclosed retreat to contemplate campaign strategy for a day or two. Only his wife knows where he is.

"He wants to sort out his thoughts, sitting quietly and without interruption," an aide in the Opposition Leader's campaign station leader told a reporter Wednesday.

But meantime, both Mr. Pearson's and Prime Minister Diefenbaker's later campaign schedules were being disclosed. They promised plenty of action.

Mr. Diefenbaker fired off a couple of shots Wednesday by announcing to reporters after a cabinet meeting the start of an anti-unemployment spending program on public works that could run up to $250,000,000.

DEVELOPMENT POLICY

The program will be "designed to meet unemployment conditions in various parts of the country," he said. It would be part of the Conservative government's national development policy promised to electors during the last federal campaign.

The prime minister's office almost immediately announced the first stages would be a $12,000,000 development for the port of St. John's, Nfld., and a $7,000,000 engineering study of the long-proposed $50,000,000 seaway to Prince Edward Island with the mainland.

It appeared likely that other parts of the program would be disclosed by Mr. Diefenbaker on a regional basis as he goes about the country in search of votes.

He will make his keynote speech at Winnipeg next Wednesday, Feb. 12. Then he will be in Saskatoon for a speech the next day and Regina on the 14. Prince Albert, Sask., for nomination in his home riding on Friday, Feb. 14.

TO KEEP QUIET

Mr. Pearson will set his main campaign lines at Hamilton's Central High Secondary School on Feb. 14. The 60-year-old Liberal chief attended that school as a youngster.

He was due back in Ottawa Saturday or Sunday of this week and then was to go to Espanola, Ont., to be nominated on Feb. 13 for election in Algoma East.

After that, he was expected to concentrate for early attention in Ontario constituencies, where the Liberals took a beating in the general election of last June 10.

Campaign plans of CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell and Social Credit Leader Solon Low had not been disclosed but likely would be made known soon.

Man and Woman Killed, Car Hit By CNR Train

OAKVILLE (CP)—A man and woman were killed Wednesday night when their car was struck by a CNR passenger train at a level crossing.

They were identified as Thomas A. Spring of Toronto Township and Mrs. Eliza Norton, 56, of Oakville.

Police said the man, who was driving, sailed at the crossing here while a westbound freight passed then moved into the path of an eastbound train passing on another track.

The two deaths marked the end of more than six years—2,280 days—during which Oakville had no fatal accidents.

STEPPED ON ROOF

Joseph Trimback of Mimico, baggageman, said he opened the door of the baggage car when the train screeched to a stop and stepped out on to the twisted roof of the car.

The vehicle apparently was struck by the locomotive, operated by engineer Alec Campbell of Toronto, 20 miles east of here, and then wedged beneath the baggage car, "just like" back.

Police and railway wrecking crews worked more than an hour to free the woman's body from the wreckage. Two nurses were called to the train and the man but by the time they arrived both victims were dead.

Warning lights at the crossing were operating, police were told.

$4,000 Robbery At Quebec Bank

ST. ZACHARIE, Que. (CP)—Three men Wednesday night escaped with about $4,000 after holding up a branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale in this community 80 miles southeast of Quebec City.

Police said three men entered manager Alexandre Morin's home and bound the head and forced him at gunpoint to open the safe. They tore out telephone wires before escaping by car.

A storm will pass south of the lower lakes tonight causing more cloudiness and a threat of wet snow in Southern Ontario. Increasing northerly winds and falling temperatures will follow Friday. Skies will remain generally cloudy with snowflurries likely in the snow-belt areas of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay.

Northern and central Ontario will experience increasing cloudiness followed by light snow today. Clearing is forecast for Friday with temperatures expected to remain seasonably cold.

Man Who Took Best Pick of Pickled Peppers

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Police are looking for a thief who picked a peck of pickled peppers.

Mrs. Frank Ruotolo thinks the intruder entered her cellar in search of liquor belonging to a men's club in the same building. Finding no liquor, the thief took two gallons—a peck—of her best pickled peppers.

NEEDY, WORTHY STUDENTS WILL BE GIVEN LOANS

25 Government Bills Introduced

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's needy and worthy university students will get $1,000 loans of more than $500 this fall under legislation planned by the provincial government.

Education Minister Dunlop introduced a bill in the legislature Wednesday which provides for a loan fund to be set up with government funds and contributions from private firms and individuals.

The loans, to be made each year under regulations to be established by the education department, would supplement Dominion - provincial bursaries totalling about $200 each last year.

Dr. Dunlop's bill was one of 25 introduced by cabinet members, most designed to streamline existing legislation.

A bill introduced by Attorney-General Roberts would increase the number of coroners available to medical schools in Ontario. Medical hospitals would be included in legislation providing for the payment of coroners' bodies of persons who die in Ontario institutions.

TO GARNISHEE WAGES

Power to garnishee wages of husbands who desert wives and children was given in an amendment to the Deserted Wives and Children Maintenance Act.

An amendment to the Vital Statistics Act would permit Ontario to recognize changes of name made outside the province.

Bills were also introduced by two opposition members.

CCF member Donald MacDonald moved for legislation which would permit the adoption of farm marketing plans with a majority of votes cast instead of a majority of votes eligible to vote.

Reg. Gisborn (CCF — Wentworth East) introduced a bill which would bring apartment accommodation under the Fair Accommodation Practices Act.

Knifed Merchant To Obtain Money For Hockey Game

MADAWASKA, Me. (AP)—A teen-aged Canadian, who said he needed money to go to a hockey game, was held today in the knifing of an elderly storekeeper here.

Police have charged Kenneth Jones, 17, of Iroas, St. Edmundston, N.B., with attempted murder in the attack Monday on Joseph 65-year-old Joseph Rioux in his tobacco shop.

Rioux, 71, is in hospital in Edmundston, just across the Saint John River. He has been placed on the danger list.

Rioux scarred his attacker off with his cane, police said, and then walked almost 100 feet to a hotel, with a stab still protruding from his back.

While the hotel manager called police, Rioux pulled the knife out himself and walked back to his shop. He collapsed shortly afterward.

New Evidence of Shadowy Line Between Man, Animal Found

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—New evidence dealing with the shadowy line between animal and man has been dug up at the famous Sterkfontein caves near here, three scientists report.

They are Dr. Robert Broom, Dr. Brain and R. K. Masson told the South African Society of Archaeologists Wednesday about the discovery of the remains of a man who walked upright and had a larger and more-used brain than his contemporary ape - man, found earlier in the same caves.

They said this shows that primitive man was a different creature from the ape-man, who had been considered the direct ancestor of humanity.

Mason, a geologist, said: "We have found the border of human experience at one of the few places where the fateful transition from animal to man can be seen in detail."

The discovery, called "epoch-making" by other South African scientists—solved a long-standing puzzle of the Sterkfontein site.

For a long time anthropologists had wondered who made the far - from - primitive tools found in the caves. The tools were contemporary with—but not attributable to — the small-brained ape-man inhabitants.

The anthropologists now conclude that the ancestor of humanity moved into the area near the end of the ape-man era, advanced stone culture which bringing with him a moderately was beyond the ape-men's capacities.

Fuchs Said in Bad Trouble; Sno-Cats Fall Into Crevasse

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters) — British explorer Vivian Fuchs was reported tonight to be in serious trouble about 28 miles south of Depot 700 on his trek from the South Pole.

Two snow-cat tracked vehicles belonging to Fuchs' British Antarctic party were reported to have dropped into a crevasse. Both were recovered, but one has a broken steering gear. Their drivers escaped injury.

At the time of the accident, headquarters here said, Fuchs had strayed from the course laid out by New Zealand explorer Sir Edmund Hillary and was trying to find his way back. Hillary left Depot 700 on the route on his trip to the pole last year.

If one of the sno-cats is definitely out of commission, Fuchs will be left with three others plus a large weasel vehicle of the same tracked type.

The British party has been racecasoning polar winter. From Depot 700 they will have a further 700 miles to go to Scott Base on McMurdo Sound and the end of their epic 2,100-mile trek across Antarctica—a journey never before attempted.

The British party is to be met at the depot by Hillary, who set it up and who plans to accompany the party back to Scott Base.

From a point 33 miles from the depot Fuchs radioed earlier to day that he was doing six miles an hour in good weather, and estimated that he would arrive at the depot at midnight New Zealand time (7 a.m. EST).

Meanwhile Hillary was standing by at Scott Base, ready to fly to Depot 700 as soon as weather permitted.

Nasser Opens Negotiations On Extending Rule to Yemen

CAIRO (AP)—President Nasser today—began negotiations to determine just how far his dictatorship over Egypt and Syria will extend over Yemen.

The leader of the new United Arab republic opened formal talks with Yemen's Crown Prince Seif el Islam el Badr, who arrived Wednesday from the medieval kingdom on the Red Sea. Nasser entertained the crown prince Wednesday night at the presidential palace.

El Badr, who is also premier of Yemen, brought instructions from his father to arrange membership in the union. The father, Imam Ahmad Ahmed, is absolute ruler of the 4,500,000 persons in the undeveloped land.

Nasser, 39-year-old Imam is not expected to relinquish any internal power in Yemen, although earlier that other Arab states would be welcome to "federate" with the republic. Federation would allow Arab kings to keep their thrones in the new union.

Yemen for some time has followed Egyptian - Syrian foreign policy and been friendly to Nasser.

El Badr arrived in time to hear Nasser outline the sweeping powers he will have as head of the UAR. In a speech to the Egyptian National Assembly, Nasser listed the powers of a "provisional" constitution providing for presidential appointment of a single legislature and executive councils for the "provinces" of Syria and Egypt.

The Egyptian Parliament roared its approval and nominated Nasser as the UAR's first president. In Damascus, Syrian President Shukri Kuwatly made the same report to his Parliament, nominated Nasser, and got the same unanimous approval.

Celebrations throughout Syria were reported, and the government declared a three-day holiday.

In addition to making the legislative and executive council appointments, the president will set up the powers to be exercised by have a velo over elective enactments also have a limited.

Speakers at rallies in Lebanon called on the mid-East giant to join the union, but except for Yemen the rest of the Arab world's big men at the end of Arab world's leaders made no move to line up.

In Western-oriented Iraq, Premier Abdul Whab Murjan told Parliament that Iraq "wants cooperation, federation and unity, but Egypt and Syria should have consulted the Iraqi government with their desire to be merged in accordance with our fraternal and co-operative Arab relations." This was considered cautious because of the headlong plunge into union last week before full details had been worked out.

Bought Dynamite Car Explodes, Charged by Police

CLARKSON, Ont. (CP) — John MacGlashan of Beamsville whose car blew up Wednesday, was charged today with negligence in the car of explosives.

He told police he was visiting friends in this community 15 miles west of Toronto when he saw flames coming from his car parked in the driveway. A moment later the car exploded, scattering parts 200 feet.

Police said the explosion was caused by six sticks of dynamite in the car. He said a year ago he bought the dynamite and 12 caps last week, put them in the car and forgot about them.

PERHAPS RUSSIA URGENTLY NEEDS BREATHING SPELL

Might Accept Pact On Arms Limitation

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States officials are talking of the possibility that Russia wants a breathing spell in the Cold War badly enough to make some limited disarmament agreements.

President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles are working on a prompt report to Premier Bulganin's note of last Sunday about summit conference issues. They intend to keep the way open for a possible meeting.

One reported aim is to explore all the details of Bulganin's proposal which may be desired by Russia at Moscow's behest. In that case, despite the lack of encouragement Eisenhower found in the latest message from Bulganin.

Although some officials consider Bulganin's series of letters only a propaganda effort, others believe that the Russians, because of internal problems, actually feel the need of a breathing spell sufficiently to agree to some measure of arms limitation and control.

One internal problem, according to the best information available here, is industrialization. It is that the Soviet people urgently want assurance of peace, and their leaders must come to something with which the Kremlin must reckon.

WANT EXPANSION

Another and related considerations is that the Soviet leaders are determinedly driving toward the fastest possible expansion of industrial production. Their long planning and thinking far into the future that sometimes spear with Westerners in Moscow about the production goals they hope to achieve in 1965.

They also are confronted with problems of persistent restlessness in the eastern European countries under Communist rule. According to Washington, consistent analysis here there is a possibility — but perhaps no more than that—that Bulganin, party chief Nikita Khrushchev and others who make up the ruling group will eventually come to terms with the West on certain issues in order to get the relaxation they want in other fields.

The Russians have made it emphatically clear that they have no intention now of discussing the German issue or negotiating over their control of Eastern Europe. The Western powers in turn have rejected Russia's bid for a recapitulated summit conference. But diplomacy thus has returned to disarmament problems.

CHARGE TWO

QUEBEC (CP) — Two men were charged Monday with the murder of Alphonse Morin, 71, who died in a fire at his suburban home Jan. 25. They were set for preliminary hearing Feb. 18 were Fernand Aube, 25-year-old barber, and Georges Wagner, 25-year-old truck driver.

Railway That Was Never Built Holds 40th Annual Meeting

CALGARY (CP)—The board of directors of the Calgary and Southwestern Railway Company the railway that was never built has held its 40th annual meeting.

President T. Farrell and several directors filed into an office Wednesday, and listened vaguely to a report from last year's meeting were read. The meeting lasted about seven minutes and after it began.

"It's just a legal formality," explained Mr. Farrell. "We have to keep the charter alive."

The company was granted a charter in 1910 to build a line to Highfield, 40 miles south of here. Senator R. J. Burns, founder of a big meat packing company, and J. T. Farrell, father of the present president, formed the company to haul high - quality coal from mines being developed near Highfield. Both original founders are dead.

The mines, now known as Rio Alto Collieries, never produced enough coal to warrant the railway obtain plenty of coal. Rising costs and falling markets discouraged development.

Consequently, the railway was never built.

"If you can tell us when the coal industry will revive," said Mr. Blair in an interview, "we can tell you when the line will be built."

The corporation costs little to operate. Its only requirements conforms with a law requiring corporations to hold a meeting if they have anything to discuss or not. Money hardly enters the picture.

Why is the charter being continued?

"Just in case the coal industry does revive and as a railway is needed," answered Mr. Blair.

"It was easier to get a railway charter in 1910 than it is now," explained. "These companies aren't unusual at all."

Manchester U. Soccer Team And Writers Aboard

Team on Way Home After Game in Belgrade

MUNICH, Germany (CP) — A British European Airways plane carrying the championship Manchester United soccer team crashed on takeoff here and West German police said at least 20 of the 44 persons aboard were killed.

A Munich hospital spokesman said 15 to 20 injured had been taken there and some were under-going operations.

BEA said in London that "we know of only 15 survivors although we hope there will be more."

The chartered twin-engined Elizabethan airliner was bringing the team and leading British sports writers home from a soccer match in Yugoslavia. It stopped to refuel and burst into flames just after leaving Munich Airport.

A BEA spokesman in London said the survivors included some members of the Manchester team. He said among the other survivors were four of the crew and six.

17 PLAYERS ABOARD

Police feared at least two members of a German family were killed when the plane struck houses.

Those aboard the plane included 11 Manchester players, 11 sports writers and Manchester's manager, Matt Busby.

An eyewitness said the airliner "went up in a big blaze when it hit the ground."

Rescue teams were still at the burning wreckage trying to pull out the injured.

The spokesman said rescue operations still were going on and that "10 to 12 to 15" persons had been pulled out of the wrecked airliner alive.

Fire brigades were sent to the scene to quell the flames that spread to two buildings in the vicinity of the crash.

Police threw a tight cordon around the accident scene.

The spokesman said his information was that the plane pledged 56 feet to the runway after taking off.

The two-engined Elizabethan carried some of Britain's leading sports writers.

PLAYED IN BELGRADE

One unconfirmed eyewitness report said 16 badly burned bodies were removed from the wrecked airliner.

Manchester United, England's soccer league champions for the last two seasons, played the Red Star team of Belgrade in the European Cup Match Wednesday night. The game ended in a 3-3 tie but sent the English club into the semi-finals. The club, with 17 players and officials, was due returning to England.

The team had been outstanding in post-war soccer and man for man was one of the most valuable in Britain.

NOTED SPORTS WRITERS

A travel agent in London said there were about 23 passengers aboard.

Rose of The Daily Express and Frank Smith of News of the World.

The agency said also known aboard were Frank Taylor of the London News Chronicle and these newspaper men: George Follows, Tom Jackson, P. Howard, E. A. Ellyard, Eric Thompson, H. D. Davies and A. Clarke. Wilkinson, B. P. Minion, a travel agency director, his wife, and two Yugoslav officials also were reported aboard. The officials were listed as G. Vuciajc, an assistant press attache at the Yugoslav Embassy in London, and M. Tomasevich.

It was not immediately known whether the team manager, Matt Busby, was aboard, but he accompanied the team to Belgrade.

YOUTHFUL TEAM

The team has been called the "Busby Babs" to emphasize the youthfulness of the players, most of them in their early 20s.

Other officials who accompanied the team to Belgrade were Walter Crickmer, secretary, and Bert Whalley, coach.

Players who travelled to Belgrade for the Red Star match were:

The players were valued at an estimated £300,000 in fees they would bring if transferred to other clubs.

SIMILAR ACCIDENT

A plane crash in May, 1949, also in Italy, killed a soccer team. Members of the Torino team of Turin, Italy, were all killed when their plane crashed into a Turin church.

Another sports catastrophe occurred in March, 1950, when 80 fans died in a plane crash in Wales. They were returning home from an Ireland-Wales rugby international game.

ACROSS THE ANTARCTIC ICE-CAP

In a bid to make exploration history, the British scientist-explorer, Dr. Vivian Fuchs, has started on the second stage of his attempt to become the first to cross Antarctica.

With his party of 11 men, he reached the South Pole Jan. 20 after a gruelling 57-day trek across more than 900 miles of snow and ice between the Atlantic Ocean side of the continent and the Pole.

On February 3 he was reported 350 miles from the Pole on the second stage—the trek to Scott Base on the Pacific Ocean side and the goal of his journey.

This map shows his route starting at the Atlantic side across terrain no man had set foot on before, over the 10,000-feet-high polar plateau and then through the mountainous territory between the Pole and Scott Base.

At Depot 700, a distance of 500 miles from the pole, a stock of fuel and supplies awaits his arrival. The supplies were left there by Sir Edmund Hillary who reached the Pole overland Jan. 4 after starting out from Scott Base. (CP Newsmap.)

Tries to Enter Locked House By Chimney

ALTMORE, Northern Ireland (AP)—Harry McVeigh, 44, is getting the nickname Santa.

Locked out of his house Wednesday and unwilling to break a window or force a door, McVeigh got a ladder, climbed to the roof and started down a chimney.

Some 13 hours and many plaintive calls for help later, McVeigh attracted the attention of a passing hiker. Rescuers hauled him out at the end of a rope, nearly sunburnt.

Then they helped him force a door.

Kids Get Road

GANANOQUE (CP)—The lad with the sled has the right of way in this town if miles east of Kingston. On one street, anyway.

After reports by motorists of near accidents, Bay Street was closed to traffic for the rest of the winter. Editors slide down a neighboring hill and across the road.

Bay Street has been barred with a "Road under construction" sign until a town bylaw is changed permitting the road to be closed officially after Dec. 1 to April 1 each winter as a playground area.

IN MEMORIAM

DAFOE. — In loving memory of a dear father, Oliver Nathan Dafoe, who passed away February 6th, 1956.

Years of striving, little of play,
Years of toiling from day to day,
Then the end came, a heart of gold,
And the dearest father the world could hold.

Happy memories, fond and true,
Of the best father the world ever knew.

Always remembered and sadly missed by his daughter Hessin, Leslie and boys.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market slipped lower today in moderate morning trading.

Industrials were more than one-half point easier on index and base metals lost one-half point. Western oils dipped one-quarter of a point on their index while golds had a similar gain.

Barnat, adding nine cents at 59 cents, trading 320,000 shares alone, thus accounted for one-third of the total sales of 999,000 at 11 a.m.

Ford A lost the most among individual industrials, dipping two points to 76 on a few sales.

Biggest loss among mines was a $1 drop to $4 by Granby on a single sale. Preston East Dome was up 10 cents to $5.85 among golds but McIntyre lost ¾ at 75. Senior base metals were lower in a fractional range. Canadian Homestead featured western oils, climbing 35c to $2.25 on a 44,000-share turnover.

Call Tenders For Demolition Of Legion Hall

TRENTON — Tenders will be called this week for the demolition and removal of the old Memorial Hall of Branch 119 of the Canadian Legion here. This was decided at a recent meeting of the branch executive.

The old hall has been replaced by a new building which was officially opened recently. The executive also decided to hire a full-time janitor for the new building.

Sports committee chairman Bill Milne announced during the meeting that a euchre tournament will be held for regular and social members of the branch in the games room at 2 p.m. Saturday, February 8.

Bill Lawson, chairman of the refreshments and concessions, told the executive the accounting for the week-long celebrations in connection with the hall has not been completed but that he anticipated a profit of $1,000 from the project. He and his committee were warmly congratulated for their efficient handling of the entire affair.

First vice-president Bruce Ketcheson was appointed chairman of a special committee to devise a new set of rules governing the operation of the canteen. Members of the committee will be Ross Grier, W. J. R. McLaren and Gerald Currey.

It was also unanimously decided to donate the use of the Legion auditorium to the Trenton Scout group on February 27.

Bank Manager Named to Board

TRENTON — T. W. Hetherington, new manager of the Bank of Montreal here, has been named to fill the vacancy on the Board of Mortgage Trustee Board of the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

The vacancy was caused through the transfer to Toronto of A. J. Boorne, former manager of the local bank. Mr. Hetherington had indicated his willingness to help the organization as Mr. Boorne, who had actually served as financial editor to Branch 110 for many years.

Under the terms of the $60,000 bond mortgage agreement with the Canadian Legion was required to appoint five independent citizens to supervise the bond issue and redemption.

Those appointed at the time were A. J. Boorne, Claude V. Graham, Councillor James F. MacDonald, W. Clarence Taylor, and James E. Uttley, all prominent and well-known local residents.

At a recent meeting of the Bond Mortgage Trustees, it was recommended that Mr. Hetherington be appointed to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Boorne's departure and, at a meeting of the Branch executive, the appointment was confirmed.

GETS LEGION POST

TRENTON — Grenville "Denny" Cummer was named to the position of assistant steward, to the Board of Management of the new Trenton Legion Memorial hall.

Mr. Cummer is an RCAF veteran and a long-time and active member of Branch 110. He will commence his new duties on March 1. He was elected by the executive from 17 applications received for the post.

GUEST SPEAKER

Harold V. Lush, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce which will be coming soon. Final arrangements have not been completed.

DISMISSES CASE

Henry Albert Hopkins was acquitted by Magistrate T. Y. Wills, Q.C., on a charge in connection with the shooting of a TV set.

Mr. Wills said the accused had acted very stupidly and although his actions were highly suspicious there was not sufficient evidence of intent to steal to warrant a conviction. The charge arose after the television set had been removed from the premises of Garrett and Leigh during the night of the blaze which destroyed the Warren block. Hopkins testified he took the TV set to his hotel room for safe custody and had told the hotel manager to tell the owner where it had gone.

"THANK YOU" LETTER

C. W. McCoy, vice-president and general manager of the Lakeland Gas Company, sent a "thank you" letter to the local Chamber of Commerce for sponsoring a recent meeting to discuss the coming of gas service to the people of Trenton. Mr. McCoy said in his letter, "It is the type of people you meet in connection with the Chamber of Commerce work that makes our job re much easier."

OPEN HOUSE

Air Force Teams All Confident They Will Win

TRENTON — Hockey is about the only subject personnel of the Trenton air station will bother discussing these days. Ever since it was announced that a meeting of the coaches and managers of the various teams last Monday.

This talk, of course, is chiefly concerning who will win the Belleville Intermediate "A" Hockey League play-offs in the "Big Four" section of the new series.

The manager of the Comets was the first to comment saying there was no doubt in his mind they would take the title and enter the Training Command playoffs at Camp Borden.

The boss man of the Rockets was sitting in the next chair when the remark was made and only gave a moaning smile and a wink as though he knew full well that the Comets, in fourth place, wouldn't even make a showing compared to what his Rockets will do.

The Rockets won their first game in the new series Monday night, beating the Falcons by two outscoring their opponents 4-0 in third frame. The Comets will play the league leaders, the Jets, that night and will be a testing ground for the latter team's ability.

The coach of the Falcons said his team feels it "will be no sweat at all" to take the Comets "completely."

A member of the F.I.S. squad when asked if he thought his team would take the round-robin series said "positively." But it carried a note of confidence and determination that, if lived up to by the rest of the team, should carry them through as winners of many games to come. The F.I.S. squad has an almost perfect record to-date, losing only to Trenton Lions' first game after they had played a hard match the Sunday before against the crack Lions of that city. They tasted defeat the next day from the Rockets.

Only Two Accidents Despite Icy Streets

TRENTON — Only two accidents between cars were reported to the police during the last two days, despite streets made slippery by ice and hard-packed snow.

On Tuesday a car driven by Stanley W. Conley of Scott St., Frankford, was proceeding east on Henry Street and approaching the intersection of Victoria St., when another car approached the same intersection from south on Victoria St. Mr. Conley applied his brakes but the wheels would not hold on the snow-packed street. His car skidded about 12 paces and hit the rear of the second vehicle.

Eleanor L. Masters of R.R. 3, Trenton, driving the second car, said her vehicle went out of control when the car in front of his lit made a complete turn and ended up off the road and turned backward between a parked car and a large tree.

Damage was estimated at $100 to each vehicle.

Yesterday two cars collided in the intersection of West Crown and Campbell streets, causing an estimated $250 to both vehicles.

Mildred Bigwood, 36, of 67 Lawrence Street, Trenton, was the operator and Dianne Bigwood, 14, was the passenger of one of the cars involved in the mishap.

The second car was being driven by George Ellsworth, 37 Campbell Street, Trenton. Both cars suffered $125 damage to front ends.

Russ Buchanan of R.R. 2, Trenton, reported to police he had backed his truck into a parking meter on Quinte Street, bending it over.

Belleville Juveniles Get 7-5 Win Over Hallorans in Rugged Contest

TRENTON — The Belleville Juveniles presented the Trenton Hallorans with a 7-5 defeat in the Community Centre here last night, in a "fast and rugged" game which forced referee Gordon Flynn to hand out 15 penalties to the two teams.

The Belleville team was in command all the way through the game as far as scoring was concerned and the Hallorans posed their only threat during the second period when they outscored the city boys 3-2.

However, it was not enough to match the 4-1 lead the visitors had built up in the first frame. Both teams got a goal each in the final stanza.

Doug Moreau lead the scoring for Belleville, getting four goals, with teammates Bern Boulter, Sonny MacDonald and Larry Hull each getting single-tons.

Jim Ellis, Gary White, Wayne Leavy, Rod Green and Don Cole connected with one goal each for the Belleville squad.

Eight of the penalties went to the Trenton jumpers while seven were dished out to the visitors.

First Period

Belleville, Moreau (Lucas, MacDonald)	3.26
Trenton (Leavy, Long)	8.06
Belleville, Boulter (Moreau)	8.34
Belleville MacDonald (Boulter, O'Neil)	13.28
Belleville, Hull (Boulter, O'Neil)	18.12
Penalties: Leavy, Cole Hull.

Second Period

Trenton, White (Payette)	3.36
Trenton, Leavy (Long)	6.55
Trenton, Green (Leavy, Long)	9.35
Belleville Moreau (Lucas, MacDonald)	10.53
Belleville, Moreau (Lucas MacDonald)	19.50
Penalties: Ellis (2), Green, Long, O'Neil, MacDonald, Rayeroft.

Third Period

Trenton—Cole (Ellis)	7.56
Belleville—Moreau (MacDonald)	12.30
Penalties: Cole, Green, MacDonald, Green, Bluer.

The line-up:
Belleville — Ken Jackson, Ted Blaker, Karl O'Neil, Ron Painter, Lorne Davis, Al Buller, Larry Greene, Ralph Plane, Wayne Walte, Ralph Boomhow-er, Doug Moreau, Sonny MacDonald, Doug Lucas, Bern Boulter, Don Bayeroft, Bern Boulter.

Trenton — W. Fauman, Don Cole, Gary Payette, Jim Ellis, Gary Long, Wayne Leavy, Gord Simmons, Jack Green, Gary White, David Kidd, Lou Yarrow, Jim Rathbun, Bill Ireland.

Flyers to Meet Falconbridge in Exhibition Game

TRENTON — The F.I.S. league-leading team in the RCAF Station Trenton hockey loop, will play another exhibition game on Sunday, February 9 from 11.30 a.m. to 1.30 p.m. at the Community Centre here.

It will be a return match with Falconbridge Intermediates, coming from a town by the same name near Sudbury.

In their first game the Falconbridge crew eked out a 7-6 victory over the local flyers on their home ice during the month of December.

Ice conditions may be a big ally for the local squad on Sunday. In the northern parts of Ontario artificial ice is much harder and faster because of the colder outdoor temperatures there.

The local lads feel the softer ice in the Community Centre may slow down the team from the north a bit, but they will be remembering their visitors are very good on their feet between the nets and will take some doing to beat them.

All local hockey fans are welcome to attend the game and there is no admission charge.

The F.I.S. squad are still not definite as to when they will be making the trip to Halifax for a return match with the flying crew from the East. Bonaventure.

At present the ship is at sea on a training cruise and is not expected to return to her home port in Halifax for a few days yet. After she does return there will be a couple of weeks needed by their hockey team for practise purposes before they are ready to meet the F.I.S.

It is expected the game will take place some time during the month of March. The Bonaventure crew suffered a 13-3 defeat when they met the locals here in January of this year.

THE UNITED STATES OF THE MIDDLE EAST?

Under other circumstances, there might be general approbation for the action of the rulers of Egypt and Syria in uniting their countries into one state. Since it now appears possible that other Arab states in the Middle East will associate themselves with the United Arab Republic, either through full membership or by a loose federation arrangement, the move may eventually alter the whole complexion of politics in that section of the world. Today, because of the tension between Israel and her Arab neighbors, and because of the infiltration of Communist influence, Western capitals are uneasy about the development. The long-range view, though, should surely be that a federation of this nature could do much to erase rivalries between these small Arab states.

Even the short-range developments may not be so undesirable as some Western observers may fear. What has been going on in the Middle East has been fairly obvious. The Arab states have no real desire to become satellites of Moscow, but they do want to increase their independence of the Western nations which in the past have played such an influential role in that area. They have been playing off the two big power blocs, the East and the West, one against the other. This, though, is a very dangerous game. If, however, these small Arab lands can manage to achieve real unity amongst themselves, they will be much better able to play this game with some chance of winning it. If the Arab lands are united, there will be less danger of Russia being able to foment trouble between them, and the final analysis, full unity of the Western lands in their efforts to maintain peace in the area.

On the other hand, as long as the Arabs display bitter hostility towards Israel the prospect of a strong union of Arab countries cannot help but prove disquieting to citizens of Israel.

THE TRUE YARDSTICK

We have heard so much, of late, about the increasing traffic toll on highways on the North American continent that it will come as a surprise to many readers to learn that fewer people died in traffic accidents in the U.S. last year than during 1956.

The decline was not only not large, only 1,128 from the 1956 figure of 39,528 deaths. This is a drop of only 2.8 per cent, but the real yardstick is in the number of deaths compared to the mileage travelled. In 1957 the mileage death rate was the lowest in U.S. history. The rate was figured on vehicle miles and was 5.9 deaths for every 100,000,000 vehicle miles, compared with 6.4, the lowest previous rate, in 1956 and in 1954.

It may be that the vehicle mileage does not give a completely accurate figure, that some consideration should be given to passenger-miles, since the possibility of fatalities obviously increases when the average number of people carried per vehicle mile is raised. This passenger-mile figure, however, would almost certainly be impossible to estimate with any real degree of accuracy.

The decline in the mileage death rate does not alter the fact that the number of people killed on highways today is much higher than it was years ago. Realism, however, demands that we recognize that, if more and more people will drive more and more miles every year, an increase in the number of fatalities is virtually unavoidable.

INSULT TO INJURY

Now here is something that might give some young men cause to pause and reconsider before popping The Question to their favorite girl.

Down in Los Angeles the other day a 24-year-old woman was granted a divorce from her airplane broker husband on grounds of cruelty.

It seems, so The Associated Press report said, that the husband lolled in bed until noon each day and refused to get a job. These are grounds for divorce when his wife is said to have inherited $123-million from her father?

Guess who has the sympathy of most males?

But that is not all. The divorcee was awarded $100 a month for support of their five-months-old child.

That's adding insult to injury!

This just goes to show, men, that your dreams of finding a rich widow or divorcee can turn out to be nightmares.

He is always very quick
To detect the shrewdest trick
And nobody ever bunooed him, it's true.
He's a brilliant and a wonderful
success,
Though I never saw him show
a roll of peil;
But I'm sure he must be great,
for I'm very free to state
He's very often told me so himself.

There aren't many things that he has never done,
And it's certain that he's onto
all the ropes;
But with all this talk and blow,
I would really like to know
If he ever tried to pick out canisloopes?
There is one thing more I'll bet
he cannot do
And on it I'll wager now my wad of pelf;
I will gamble now with you
Every solitary sou,
He can't talk on any subject
in 30-per-cent turnout.

Rails Move Big Freight

By W. L. Clark
in the Winnipeg Tribune

Having recently completed a railroad into New Brunswick mining country, the Canadian National Railways are planning to build two lines to help mining development in Northern Manitoba.

In these days of trucks and planes, the railroads still do the heavy hauling. They are needed when mining expansion is they have to carry the big freight. Right now Manitoba interests were opening the iron ore development in the Lynn Lake district. One of the first things to do was build a railroad. That type of transportation was essential to successful operation of the mines. Trucks and planes were trains to bring the ore to the

Those who think the days of the railroad are numbered should give the matter another thought. Planes and trucks do a fine job, but for the real hauling, the railroads are necessary. The trains can haul the heavy stuff to wherever it has to go.

And, the trains operate in all weather. The trucks and planes are tied up by bad weather, the trucks by mud, the planes by fog, carrying food supplies to the towns, villages and hamlets.

U.S. Import Of Cars Rise

Milwaukee Journal

For how long can America's automobile manufacturers ignore the success of the small car, both foreign and domestic?

Consider the evidence:

While most auto production lines were closed down over the holidays for "inventory adjustment," American motorists kept right on buying. And Kenosha plans humming to fill orders for the "compact" Rambler. This soon is a new version of the still smaller Rambler 6, due to spotlight a few seasons back.

At the Chicago auto show, foreign make autos now outnumber domestic models for the first time in the show's 50 year history.

Volkswagen of Germany and Renault of France have chartered ships to be sure of speedy delivery. Fiat of Italy has bought its own ships. Renault, the French state, owns 15 percent in transportation costs, thus enhancing the price advantage of its cars.

When 1957 figures are totalled foreign makers are expected to have exceeded 200,000 in sales, more than double the 98,187 sold in 1956. United States car imports in 1957 are 350,000 car imports in 1957 for the year.

To be sure, 200,000 is a small figure when compared to the more than 6,000,000 assemblies turned out by American manufacturers. But the trend is not so encouraging for 1958. For a growing majority of American car buyers, extra power, extra length, extra gadgets seem to have lost their appeal particularly with gasoline tags as much as $150 to $200 over 1957.

Substitute For Road Salt

Winnipeg Tribune

The heated protests last winter against the use of salt on city streets pinpoint a problem that may have had more than one good result.

For one thing, the outcry quickly ended the use of salt as a de-icer. Even members of the city engineer's department will probably admit that had the practice become established, fashioning a substitute would have been etched into iron lace because of this reason alone.

Another thing, W. D. Hurst, city engineer, was persuaded that there is a substitute for the objectionable salt. He found it in the form of sawdust mixed with flakes which makes short work of ice on bridge approaches and important intersections.

The compound is lighter in price than salt, but, according to the city chemist, it is noncorrosive. In the long run, it will be much less costly to citizens.

Winnipeg is the first Canadian city to use the stuff. The city engineer's office has had a number of requests from other cities for more information about this compound.

Mr. Hurst is proud that Winnipeg is leading the parade, on non-skid surfaces — in this field. But now he is besieging to ponder whether the possibility given the use of this compound here may not cause a shortage and possibly a price increase.

Mr. George S. Kerr, right hunter man at the Canadian National Express Company for nineteen years has since left and last evening at Dickens Restaurant he was honored at a dinner party by his fellow employees Mr. George H. Griffin, the agent for the company here, presented Mr. Kerr with a handsome and pearl, suitably engraved and spoke of the faithful and efficient service rendered by Mr. Kerr and wished him happy days in his retirement. Other members of the staff made brief speeches expressing regret at losing Mr. Kerr and wishing him enjoyment in retirement. Among those from out of town were; Mr. A. G. Taylor, traffic supervisor, Toronto, and Mr. J. Waterhouse, traffic supervisor at Montreal. To spend a few seasons back.

RENUNCIATION

If there is one thing which makes many people shy away from religion, it is the word religion involves renunciation. a person makes certain definite decisions or oversimplicate this aspect of religion so that it appears that religion is nothing but renunciation. Religion involves renunciation, but religion is very much more than renunciation. However, all true religion begins when a person makes certain definite decisions regarding the religious life. This always involves turning one's back on some attitude, facing certain unplea and problems, and acting with decision.

The temptations of our Lord constitute a study in renunciation. Even the Son of God had to renounce certain things. Particularly He had to renounce ambition read by.

and the inclination that all people of decided character have to do things their way. God made it very plain that in matters pertaining to the kingdom of heaven things would be done His way. Even Jesus found this fact hard to accept.

The temptation to follow the crowd, to try out daring types of behavior, to go to the forbidden places, to do certain things because other people — these are the temptations most moderns have to contend with. We handle them only if we are willing to renounce.

Diefenbaker And the CBC

Ottawa Journal

We like something Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in the Commons on Thursday. This:

"There can be and will be no (Government) interference with the CBC. The stand we took last year is the stand we take now and will continue to take."

Mr. Diefenbaker's statement related to reports that members of his cabinet intended to put the CBC against alleged pro-Liberal bias in its programs. Following against the representations of Mr. Pearson on two successive days following his succession to the Liberal leadership.

The CBC's task of coping with party bias, especially in periods of political excitement, is a hard one; had its directors the wisdom of Solomon and the neutrality of Pontius Pilate they would still be in trouble.

But it is The Journal's view that on the whole the CBC does a creditable job, the CBC people, in their political programming, do a pretty good job.

Mr. Pearson's appearance on TV on Tuesday night was unfortunate; he was in the news, had just been elected as the Liberal leader of the Opposition and was the central figure in a House of Commons which the public was interested.

And Conservatives were objecting to the CBC's getting so much CBC attention seemingly — now you've had your share, appearance involved a seven-hour session in which we were cross-examination by Liberal members, and notably from one who is a distinguished Liberal journalist.

Any rate, Mr. Diefenbaker's stand is the right stand; not only constitutional but built into the law. If we want to preserve the just amount of the movement, the way to do it is by a statute of Parliament. As long as it is run by an independent broadcasting agency, free to arrange its broadcasting as it sees fit, Mr. Diefenbaker or any of his ministers, nor anyone else for that matter, has any business interfering with it.

Alphabetical Fun-Making

Wall Street Journal

The practice of identifying organizations by their initials has become widespread in mid-20th century ago largely through governmental agencies such as the FBI, CCC and WPA.

In recent years, the trend has been toward the creation of organizations of reasonably relevant words describing their activity, so that the initials will spell a common English word. There's SANE, for example, and FREE and ACTION. There remains a need for many other organizations as yet unborn. Experienced committee promoters can count on a substantial contributions towards the success of:

ANTIC: Fraternity for Reducing All Necessary Taxes on Income or Property.

RIOT ACT: Restrictive Institute Over Acts to Prevent Conventions on the Telephone.

CORNCOB: Committee to Restrict Corporate Nuseating Chatter of Bores.

IMPEL: Institute for Modifying the Passionate Audacity of Commercials on Television.

LAMPOON: League of Americans for Minimizing Prices of Ordinary Necessities.

DOORMAT: Determined Order to Ostracize Resolute Numbers of Adolescent Trumpeters.

Tomorrow's Supermums

Peterborough Examiner

Everybody jokes about spaceships and moon flights, but it is no joking matter. We are assuredly all but well in a race against time in the lifetimes of people by no means young, and not all the problems which it presents are scientific. Consider this one.

Space travel will be terribly rapid, as we think of speed, for it will probably be lon-powered. But our bodies of speed are trivial when matched against the distance ahead. Take the star called Alpha Centauri Proxima—which is the nearest star to the earth, and therefore a logical one to aim at—is 4.27 light-years away. Even if we could take 400 years to reach a good iron-rocket. To reach it, however, the rocket crew would have to renew itself on the trip, and be entirely devoted to science (or perhaps merely to scientists) would be born, live and die in the passenger-list. It would take thirteen generations to carry out such a project. And, of course, another thirteen generations to make the return journey.

Who will be the first mother of a spaceship? An entirely new profession is opening up for girls who like adventure and do not mind spending their living quarters.

Don't Let It Creep Up On You

A reader asks whether part of the piece, titled Cholesterol, which appeared last week was omitted. He quotes this paragraph:

"When degeneration creeps upon you, muscle nerve, gland and organ cells which wear out and die are no longer replaced by functionally efficient new cells, but more and more by inert, functionally useless material — fibre, calcium, cholesterol."

In the next paragraph I said: "That is what happens before the deposit of calcium or cholesterol in the arteries, joints or other tissues of the body. Any physician who has studied pathology knows it."

Now, I think I see what the reader was confused. By "that," I meant degeneration.

Degeneration is what happens to an athlete when he or she can no longer compete successfully. In baseball, football, tennis, track, he becomes an old man at 40 or earlier. No particular complaint. Just decline in functional efficiency. Body cells which, in youth and early manhood, reproduced themselves or were replaced with new cells faster than, or at least as fast as they were worn out, can no longer keep up the pace. Instead of young new cells, there is shift repair material — fibrous (scar) tissue, calcification, cholesterol — now replaces the worn-out cells.

Arterio-sclerosis, hardening of the arteries, coronary occlusion, angina pectoris and slow heart muscle failure are common manifestations of cardiovascular degeneration, wearing out of the muscle wall of heart and arteries.

Degeneration of the jaw bone, muscles of mastication, gums and teeth is commonly called "pyorrhea," a misleading term. It means literally pus discharge of pus, but that is incidental and, in every well cared for regular visits to the dentist, perhaps never evident at all. To "diagnose" bone, muscle, gum and tooth degeneration as pyorrhea implies, in the mind of the untutored patient, that it is a disease for which there is a remedy or treatment — and afraid some dentists pretend to be pyorrhea specialists.

One of the main causes, if not the main cause, of the three degenerations I have mentioned today is, in my opinion, malnutrition or, as we call it today, nutritional deficiency. That is to say, beginning in childhood and more than ever before, and continuing through youth and adulthood inadequate daily intake of vitamins and minerals essential for good nutrition. Let's believe that is the situation in Yankeeland.

I do not know what the situation may be in other countries. I know only that when I grow my own pop, pap and toothbrushes, the nutrition of the people is poorer.

Study and observation indicate that rheumatic, pyorrhea and many diseases in America and England than in other countries, due, I believe, to poor nutrition in both our countries.

LIFE'S SAVINGS

Life's best savings do not all go into a savings bank. Impossible as this may be. The best savings in life are concentrated in the books that we love, we have loved, and the friends that have marked our way through the years. Many a man's library is a mecca of books which I turn every day of my life. When the living friends are no longer near, or have left me quite alone, there are my books that remain.

If I were to be deprived of my material savings, I would be in a very rich man, for all about me would be my friends and I would have many a friend, or the happy memory of such a one. I look upon these two gains of life as far more valuable, and far better, than gold!

Often we read a book we are reading the life story of, we one who wrote it, for it is impossible for a writer not to put revealing himself in his book. "If you want to know what I am like, read my books," read my book."

Another thought about the reading of many books is that one introduces us to scores of characters who, though imaginary, are merely taken right out of the life itself. Many of the great and famous names of people in novels we learn to know, many of them inspiring characters in Dickens; characters in Hugo's "Les Miserables," Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities," or Jane Eyre" as examples!

Friends drop away from us, but their precious memory remains Love is not dissolvable. Its fragrance never leaves the world. It is planted deep in people's hearts. It's life's choicest saving.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Why should a pedestrian have to jump out of the way of a motor car? What is the authority for this? Does he have over a man on foot? Why have I less authority when I am on foot than when I am in my car?

This curious tradition goes back to the good old days when aristocratic days when only the lordly were able to afford vehicles. And when a lordly body on wheels came by, we pedestrians were supposed to jump out of the way. If we didn't, we got run over. Or else the coach and the footman, sitting behind, lashed at us with his whip. Wheels were the symbols of authority.

Respect for gentlemen's wheels is so ingrained in us that here, in this mid-twentieth century, we are still observing it. Over, for, we are in the driving seat, expecting others to jump for their lives.

Of course, it isn't as romantic as all that. With the vast increase in vehicles, we have all agreed together that traffic must move as rapidly as possible within reasonable margins of public safety. So we have set up rules and ways for wheeled traffic and pedestrians to jump out of the way of it.

But the principle remains the same. Wheels are the symbols of authority.

Only one thing bothers us. If this machine is so important, why will not before it figures out that it isn't making any profit?

This Gadget Is Too Smart

Chicago News

A new electronic gadget introduced here this week accepts dollar bills and spews out cash in exchange. It was hailed as a boon to the vending machine industry, which has been losing people pass up coin slots because they lack coins.

It's a counterfeit detector, according to its inventor, William A. Patner. It examines a proffered bill and rejects counterfeits with a 95% of any denomination except the one-dollar variety. If the electronic eye and brain approve the bill, the machine coughs up the proper change in three quarters and four nickels.

Only one thing bothers us. If this machine is so smart, why will not before it figures out that it isn't making any profit?

Effective Cancer Treatment Depends on Early Recognition

By DR. McCAUL METCALFE
M.O.H. for Belleville

Last year in Canada approximately 20,000 people died of cancer. This group of diseases is the second leading cause of death and unfortunately the death toll is increasing. This increase may be due to one of two things or both, first because of the growth in population and secondly because of the newer methods for treatment and prevention of infectious disease are saving lives and thereby increasing the number who reach the age group in which cancer is more liable to occur. Certain types of cancer such as leukaemia which, is a fatal disease of the blood making tissues with a great increase in the number of white blood cells in the blood and cancer of these lungs are increasing at a rate which is greater than can be explained by an aging population.

At the present time the only hope of cure is removal of the cancer by surgical incision or destruction of the cancer cells by radiation or a combination of the two methods. Application of these methods requires facilities which are becoming more and more expensive and skilled staffs to carry out the methods must increasingly be centralized.

It is generally a prolonged illnes in the serious types and the average patient is not able to pay the full costs of treatment. In each province the government is assuming an increasing responsibility for the treatment, this being the only sure way of all receiving the best treatment however in spite of the fact facilities are being provided much more is needed.

Better methods of treatment must be found before the disease can be brought under control and these methods will result from a better understanding of the nature and cause of cancer. This demands intensive research by scientists.

As is well known the effective treatment of cancer depends on its early recognition and the public should report any suspicious symptoms to his doctor particularly when he has reached an age when the likelihood of cancer increases. Further the doctor must investigate such symptoms without delay.

Liberals to Choose Candidate At Convention February 15th

Liberals in Hastings South will hold their party nomination convention on Saturday, February 15th, at the Belleville Collegiate Auditorium, it was decided by the riding executive which met Wednesday evening. The convention will be held at 2.30 p.m.

At least five names are expected to go before the convention as potential party candidates to represent the riding in the March 31st federal election, with at least four of these expected to definitely stand.

Rumour has it that the names of Frank S. Follwell, former federal member for Hastings South; Dr. D. C. McVicker of Deseronto; ex-Warden Leslie McLaren; Robert Temple, Belleville lawyer and George Brown of Trenton, will be placed before the convention.

Already signifying their intention of allowing their names to stand are Frank S. Follwell Dr. McVicker and George Brown of Trenton.

The party organization is attempting to line up a prominent speaker for the convention and attempts will be made to have Liberal party leader Leslie B. Pearson come to Belleville.

OTHER NAMES MENTIONED

Other names mentioned if Mr. Gordon 12.

Care, Courtesy Needed to Be Good Driver

Care, courtesy and good manners behind the wheel, all go toward making a safe driver, cadets of the Quinte Sea Cadet Corps were told Monday evening by Corporal Harry B. Barker, of the Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville.

Corporal Barker, highway safety patrol officer for the Belleville provincial police detachment office, told the cadets that a good driver exercised the same good manners while behind the wheel as he did in his everyday life.

"If everybody drove with the same good manners that they showed during their everyday life and were equally as courteous, we would all be good drivers and there would be fewer accidents," he said.

Pearson cannot be secured are former health minister Paul Martin, James Sinclair and J. W. Pickersgill.

Although choice of a candidate to carry the party banner on March 31st will be the main business of the convention meeting, new officers for the riding association now headed by Irving McGaughey of Trenton, will also be elected.

Two hundred and ninety-two riding association delegates will be eligible to vote at the convention, while for the first time in the history of the local association the Young Liberal Association will have 25 voting delegates. The 25 Young Liberals, headed by John O'Flynn, Jr., vice-president of the Ontario Young Liberals, will be chosen from all parts of the riding.

Official riding association delegates will be on the basis of two delegates per ballot box.

Belleville will have 112 delegates, Trenton 44, Thurlow 38, Sidney 24, Tyendinaga 16, Hungerford 19, Tweed 6, Deseronto 10, Middleton Park 12 and Ameliasburgh 12.

Rabbits Only Casualties As Canadian Army Unit Roughs it in Northern Bush

By KEN CLARK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP) — The only casualties were the rabbits when about 700 Canadian so'diers roughed it on a cold-weather exercise near here.

Rabbit meat was used as a change from army fare by snare-setting members of the Battalion Royal Canadian Regiment.

The paratroop unit, dined with four small supporting units, had regular meals of everything from beefsteak and onions to pork chops, hamburger, chicken while meat only or wieners and beans. The rabbits were extra.

MEN WARNED

The unofficial rabbit meat was consumed despite a warning in the unit newspaper that the rabbits were suspected carriers of a germ that started a minor mumps epidemic during an exercise last year.

There was no official estimate of how many rabbits were consumed during the 10-day exercise which ended Jan. 20, but the number was believed considerable.

For breakfast, everybody from Lt.-Col. Donald E. Holmes down might have oatmeal, sausages, biscuits, raspberry jam and coffee.

After working up an appetite by hauling the bed and other supplies around on a toboggan for a few miles, the hungry soldiers tied into corned beef, more biscuits, raisins, cocoa and a chocolate bar.

There were five different daily menus—six if you count the rabbits.

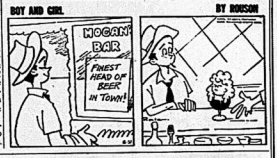
The big meal was at night, consisting of pea soup, beef steak, mashed potatoes, corn, steamed fruit cake, biscuits, cheese and tea.

In between meals, soldiers on the march nibbled at cheese, chocolate bars, raisins, dried biscuits, hard candy, almonds and other energy-giving tidbits.

Food for each five-man tent came in 30-pound cartons and contained one day's ration.

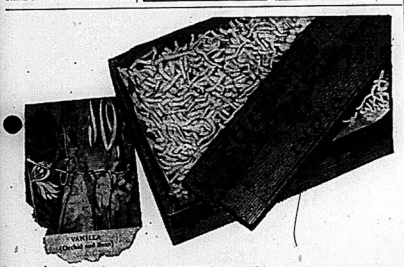
Quartermaster - Sergeant Bill B'ake of Kitchener, Ont., said each day's ration contained about 4,300 calories and was "more than enough" for each soldier. "Often he cannot eat it all."

The food cost the army about five times as much as ordinary victuals prepared in the mess.



Col. Holmes said barracks food costs about $1 a man per day. On the exercise, the pre-cooked, highly - condensed frozen food cost about $5.

Getting it to the men was a logistics problem. Soldiers on the move could carry no more than two days' ration.



A ski plane on a shuttle service, landing on lakes near temporary RCR camps. In other areas, supplies went overland as far as snow tractors could carry them.

After that, the men dragged their supplies behind them on toboggans.

'From Beet To Sugar Bowl' Topic at W.I.

Mrs. C. Milligan was hostess for the January meeting of Melrose W.I. which had a record attendance in spite of the icy conditions of the roads.

Mrs. C. Wese, the president, presided and conducted the business period during which it was decided to purchase flannelette and make layettes for the Unitarian Service of Canada. Members are to bring the garments they have on hand to the February meeting. A quilting at the home of Mrs. R. MacFarlane was planned for February 11th and Mrs. E. Lazier was appointed delegate to district Conference at Guelph, which takes place early in May.

A progressive euchre is to be held in Melrose Hall on February 21st to which all are welcome.

At this stage, Mrs. Vincent Pascoe, convener of Canadian Industries, took charge and all joined in Community singing with Mrs. C. Bates as song-leader. An amusing reading, "Our Bargain Chair" told of surprising incidents which resulted in its final state of being prized as an heirloom by a neighbor.

Mrs. Pascoe gave the topic, "From Beet to Sugar Bowl" in which she traced the history of sugar from the year of 1500 when it sold at $33 a hundred weight in London, to the amazing discovery of sugar being extracted from beets resulting in a keen competition between this source and sugar from cane.

In Canada sugar dates back to 1854 when Redpath refinery at Montreal was constructed. The sugar-beet industry is carried on extensively in S.W. Ontario, and the method of growing, harvesting and unloading them into the storage bins at the refinery was thoroughly explained.

The intricate process through which they pass in the refinery before they emerge in the form of crystals was clearly described. The size of the grain depends on the length of time the thick syrup is boiled in the vacuum pans, the finer grains take three to five hours while the coarse requires eight or ten hours boiling. It is dried, cooled, packed and weighed before it is ready for shipment.

Often the question arises which is the sweeter of the two, beet or cane sugar? It has been proved that there is no difference as it is all in a refined state, and even a chemist cannot tell them apart.

Mrs. R. Badgley followed with a short sketch, "When Cabbage was King", which described the method of making the delectable relish known as "Sauerkraut".

Mrs. J. English gave an entertaining version of "The Tale of our Cat", after which Mrs. T. Howard read a delightful clipping, "Buddy", depicting a birthday party at which this small "party" proved himself a gentleman and rewarded the hostess with a small bouquet of flowers as token of his gratitude.

A "Hidden-Animal contest was won by Mrs. J. McLaren and Mrs. C. Wese after which a ready response was given by all members to the roll call "Name a Canadian who made good in Industry".

Mrs. Wese conveyed thanks to the hostess and to all who contributed to her delightful program after which dainty refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

Tabernacle Women's Assoc. Gives Detailed Annual Report

The February meeting of Tabernacle United Church Women's Association was held on Tuesday in the form of a pot-luck supper where all four groups required four tables to hold the delectables. A hint of St. Valentine was in display on the head table by Cupid dolls.

The retiring president, Mrs. Powell, welcomed members with sincere appreciation to all the members who have supported her during the year. Mrs. Powell's office and asked that this be the aim of all, that members will attend regularly.

The secretary's minutes were read and adopted and the roll was called by Miss Myrtle Johns. The members answered by stating the number of calls made on sick and shut-ins. The treasurer, Mrs. Eldon Wright, reported $815.15 on hand at the end of January. Correspondence was read by Mrs. G. J. Lent, reported that she had sent 65 letters and cards last year and received 45 in return, through January. A number of acknowledgements were read from persons being remembered at Christmas time.

Mrs. N. Robb; Mrs. L. E. Grey and Mrs. M. McKinnon of Group 4 conducted the devotional used by the Women's Association of the United Church of Canada on "Christian Stewardship and Peter and John when warned by the high priestly family . . . that they must not speak or teach at all in the name of Jesus but Peter and John said "Whether it be right in the sight of God, to listen to you rather than to God, you must judge: for we cannot but speak of what we have seen and heard".

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Mrs. Davidson introduced the Rev. James C. Eastcott and he conducted the postponed installation of officers following a brief message about the Church and what it means. He used as an illustration the story of a man who never had been too interested in the affairs of any church but after he had acquired a good bit of money he built a church, he hired a minister to preach, but was disappointed that the church was not filled with people.

He explained that to build a church there has to be a group of people who are so anxious to have a church that they meet somewhere and maybe start a Sunday School, more people come to help in the Sunday School giving of their time, talents and money and then comes the church.

"We find that the Church is people, not a building. The Church is a group of people gathered together for a purpose centred around Jesus Christ — their purpose is to know Him and have fellowship with Him and make Him known to others. Once the spirit of Jesus Christ is in your midst you are more than just a group of people and so from Christ and His Church there comes power and effectiveness and so a Church is a group of people united in fellowship with Christ.

AS SONS

"The father of the Prodigal Son did not want the hired help — he wanted his son. Christ can use the service that we offer but first of all He wants us as sons belonging to Him with that intimate fellowship that unites us to Him. Our first duty as Christians is to have that sense of belonging to God. When we have that bond, that sense of belonging to God's family, we can do everything through His power and strength."

Mrs. Davidson thanked Mr. Eastcott for his message and the very impressive installation service and welcomed Mrs. Percy Kerr newly elected President to her office.

EXECUTIVE INSTALLED

The following is the 1958 executive: honorary president — Mrs. J. C. Eastcott; past president — Mrs. F. Davidson; president — Mrs. Percy Kerr; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. Morley Graham; 3rd vice-president — Mrs. W. J. Old, recording secretary — Miss Myrtle Johns; corresponding secretary — Mrs. G. F. More Good Books Read by Teen-age Pupils

The Foxboro Teen - Age Book Club recently concluded its first term of activities with the selection of 18 free dividend books earned from purchases made during the year.

Miss C. Reid, teacher, and sponsor of the Club described the Teen-Age Book Club as a unique plan which enables students of the seventh and eighth grades to buy books each month at a low cost, which are specially selected to appeal to teen - agers.

During the first term of 1957-8 over 63,000 books were obtained by students through more than 1,000 Teen - Age Book Clubs in elementary, junior and senior high schools across the Dominion.

Miss Reid says, "I find that as members of Teen-Age Book Club of Canada, my students are now reading and enjoying more good books than ever before."

Mr. Reid, Marjorie Wannamaker and Barry Dafoe are the secretaries of the club, and are in charge of the operations of the club, ordering the selected books; keeping records and directing other club activities. This year there are 20 members in the club.

Carmel C.G. Installs Officers

CARMEL — The Carmel Comrade group met in the church hall on Friday evening for their monthly meeting. Rev. R. J. McCrea conducted the worship service, assisted by Mrs. A. Tufts and Judy Dafoe at the piano.

The following list of officers for 1958 were installed by Mr. McCrea:- past-presidents — Mr. and Mrs. Stan Green; wants — Mr. and Mrs. Art Tufts; vice-presidents — Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Birch; secretaries — Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reynolds; treasurers — Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Sharpe; social convenors — Mr. and Mrs. Stan Green; press secretary — Mrs. Russell Ritz; official board — Russell Ritz; new members — Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thompson; planists — Mrs. M. Robinson and Mrs. C. Horton.

Several items of business were discussed. It was decided to send a leader for the Junior Farmer banquet in April.

Progressive crokinole followed the prizes going to ladies — Mrs. C. Barlow and Mrs. C. Chambers; men — Clarence Chambers and Merle Robinson; girls — Judy Dafoe and Barbara Ritz; boys — Carl Green and Gordon Ritz.

The ladies on the group served refreshments and a social half hour followed.

Y's Menettes Induct Three New Members

Following dinner at the Queen's Hotel the Y's Menettes met at the Y.W.C.A. for the business meeting and induction of new members.

President Mary Schurman opened the business meeting.

Norma Clark reported on the details of the cookie sale to be held in February.

Bell Lo Gorman on behalf of the pre-natal clinic, explained to the Y's Menettes the future schedule of the classes and the assistance required of the club.

The three new members Joan Massey, Diane Muhread and Eleanor Terejko were inducted in a candlelight ceremony with president Mary Schurman in charge.

Rooster prize was won by Diane Muhread.

The meeting was adjourned by Eleanor Terejko.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TOO MUCH TIME-LAG BETWEEN CEREMONY AND RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is soon to be married, and has planned to have a formal wedding reception, to be held in a hall. The ceremony is to be at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and the reception is to be at 6 o'clock. We have been told by friends that immediately after the ceremony I must entertain the friends that have any distance to travel. We are a family of modest means and have very limited space, and my daughter and I feel that this would be an unnecessary additional expense which we really cannot afford. But if it is customary, of course we will do it. Please advise us.

Bride's Mother

Your problem comes, I believe, from the fact that your daughter has planned to have too much time between the end of the ceremony and the beginning of the reception. That's a mistake. You should plan the timing on today's customary wording of the reception invitation: "Immediately following the ceremony at—" etc. If there is this unnecessary time-lapse between end-of-ceremony and beginning-of-reception, wouldn't it be possible to have the ceremony at 4:30? Or, if this isn't possible, have the reception begin whenever the guests arrive at the hall . . . then there will be no interim when any guests will have to be provided for your house.

You, the bride's mother and hostess of the wedding, should immediately after the ceremony, be on your way directly to the hall to see that everything is in order for the reception, and to see that the receiving-line is all ready for the receiving of the guests.

PLANS FOR AN INFORMAL WEDDING AND RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Both my fiance and I want our wedding to be very informal. So we have decided to have the small chapel of the church to which we both belong, only our families, attendants, and a very few close relatives and friends present. Then a large reception, informal and intimate, a "fun-reception" (as we are calling it) in a very attractive hall here which may be rented for wedding receptions and similar occasions. We want to have dancing, of course. We want also to have really delicious late-afternoon snacks, and instead of serving champagne, which many of our relatives and friends don't particularly like, we would like to serve fruit punch, gingerale and a "cola" drink for those who prefer a soft drink, and for others, peculiar cocktails and highballs. Would these plans we have in mind be correct planning? — Wm. Tell

Yes! And have fun!

BOUTONNIERES FOR MEN GUESTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are going to the evening wedding of a close, life-long friend of his. It is to be a semi-formal evening wedding, and we know that the groom and his attendants, and most of the men guests will be wearing dinner jackets. My husband would like to know if, with his dinner jacket, he may correctly wear a boutonniere (he is not an attendant). — D.B.

No . . . on this occasion boutonnieres may be worn only by the groom, his attendant, the bride's father and the groom's father.

PRE-WEDDING DAYS ARE "SHOWCASE" FOR MANNERS OF BRIDE-TO-BE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to be married next week, and the invitations have already been mailed. She is now beginning to receive wedding presents, a n d although she is writing thank-you notes to relatives and friends who live out-of-town, she thinks that it is not at all necessary to write notes for gifts sent, or left at the house, by relatives and friends whom she meets, or is likely to meet, these days. Among these, for example, are the girls with whom she used to work.

I want her to be "just right" about her thank-you notes at this important time of her life, and I have told her that she has absolutely no right to omit any of these kind and generous friends who casually ask to write their thank-notes of thanks and immediately. Right, Mrs. Beeckman?

— Mother

Right . . . you are so right. For every wedding gift your daughter receives she should write a thank-you note. As soon as possible after she receives the gift . . . or as possible, the same day. And there should be no casualness about this, even if she thinks she will meet or "is likely to meet" the friend given a dozen times before her wedding. As you say, this is no time in her life to be socially casual. These days are a showcase for her manners.

LADIES, YOUR ATTENTION, PLEASE!

When you sign a letter . . . any kind of letter, business or social . . . or a card . . . any kind of card, postcard, picture postcard, greeting card. . . Never write a title before your name. Your signature is your information too — no title! . . . Mary Robinson or Mary Smith Robinson. Never should your Miss signature to a letter or a card be "Mrs. John Robinson."

If, for information or identification, you should include your formal name, write the name in parentheses under your signature. Like this:

Very sincerely yours,
Mary Robinson
(Mrs. John Robinson)

Afflicted Girl Can Take Credit For Invention

MONTREAL (CP)—A little girl named Brenda who can't move her head can take some of the credit for an invention that is helping other afflicted people to write and draw.

It was Brenda who inspired design Jacob Barg to think up the writing device that is the next best thing to a hand for armless or paralysed persons.

The device consists of a long plastic arm attached to a circular head band with a clamp to hold a pencil or brush at the other end. The slightest movement of the head controls the instrument.

The model he made for Brenda—that's the only name disclosed—is an exclusive one. The headband was sealed to a cast of her head, and would be a perfect fit for—no one else.

Now however he is supervising full scale production of the invention with orthopaedic hospitals. Their cost is about $35 and Mr. Barg says he plans to put all proceeds from sales back into other self-help devices for the incapacitated.

Mr. Barg was first introduced to crippled children by a doctor with whom he used to play tennis. After a visit to the Shriners' hospital "I couldn't get the kids out of my mind," he said.

A free-lance commercial artist who has worked for the National Film Board, taught handicrafts and developed his own puppet theatre, Mr. Barg volunteered to lead he youngsters in a class in painting and drawing.

But Brenda remained apart. "I couldn't get her to participate, which was hardly surprising since she could move only her head," he said. Brenda had given up trying to write with a pencil in her mouth.

He began a series of experiments with the aid of a plastics firm official, Charles Senecal, who loaned the specs, power tools and other facilities for working with a lightweight plastic He finally produced Brenda's model and she learned to paint and write with it.

Still totally paralysed, she wrote from her New Brunswick home after drawing from hospital: "Sorry I'm so late answering your letter but I have been so busy and having so much fun that I almost forgot about writing to you."

Mr. Barg won't talk about the other devices on which he is working. "It's cruel to say anything about them until they are actually developed," he said. "It's cruel to arouse too much hope in the hearts of incapacitated people who desperately desire to become a little more independent."

Rice Pudding To Remember

By Mary Moore

On Monday last I mentioned a rice pudding we had on the train out of Montreal to Saint John, I couldn't wait to get home and have guests for dinner and make it for dessert.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Effie's Supper (see Wednesday): Potato Logs; Spinach Souffle; Cabbage and Pineapple Slaw; Baked Rice Pudding (see Thursday) with Pouring Cream; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Braised Shortribs (see Wednesday); Potato Logs; Spinach Souffle; Cabbage and Pineapple Slaw; Baked Rice Pudding (see Thursday) with Pouring Cream; Coffee.

They said they enjoyed it and I know I could have eaten two helpings. But I didn't want to enjoy it too, but at the moment of writing I've gone inexplicably modest. There must be hundreds of you who make wonderful puddings. This then, is for those who have forgotten how perfect it can be.

BAKED RICE CUSTARD

One-half cup raw long grain rice, 1 cup boiling water, 1-2 cup light brown sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 egg yolks or 2 eggs, 3 cups whole milk, 1 cup seeded (or seedless) raisins, 1-4 teaspoon each salt and grated lemon rind. Cook the raw rice in the boiling water with the salt for 10 minutes, covered. Beat the egg yolks. If 2 eggs are used separate whites and yolks and reserve whites for later. Combine all ingredients (except the whites if used) and pour into greased baking dish. Bake at 300 (that's fifty Two Hundred) for 4 hours, stirring twice during the first 2 hours. If desired this may be baked at 375 deg. F. standing pan in larger one containing hot water for about 2 to 2 1-2 hours. If whites are used, 10 minutes before baking time is up, beat them with 2 tablespoons sugar until stiff and spread this mixture over top and lightly brown. Serve with plenty of rich top milk or pouring cream.

The next recipe for Chocolate Bread Pudding will warm the hearts of stale bread savers. Knowing cooks will recognize it as an epicure's dessert too. Don't though, include potatoes in the main course when either of these puddings is for dessert.

CHOCOLATE BREAD PUDDING

Two cups milk, 6 slices stale bread cubed, 1-3 cup sugar, 1-3 cup cocoa, 2 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 egg whites. Scald milk, remove from heat, add bread cubes and beat until smooth. Add sugar, cocoa and egg yolks. Beat until blended. Add butter and vanilla. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into milk mixture. Pour into 8-inch square baking dish and stand in pan of hot water (the pan, not you) and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes or until firm to touch.

Delicious served warm topped with pouring or whipped cream and garnished with maraschino cherries.

MARK INDEPENDENCE

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters)—Representatives from nine Commonwealth countries — the only official foreign guests—today sat alongside Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike to watch 10th-anniversary celebrations of Ceylon's independence. Last year the chief guest was Chou En-lai, Chinese Communist prime minister.

Congregational Meeting

TABERNACLE UNITED CHURCH

The congregation of Tabernacle United Church held its annual meeting Monday evening in the church school auditorium. The new minister, the Reverend James C. Eastcott, B.A., B.D., presided over the entire meeting and conducted a brief devotional service following which the names of 13 deceased members were read and silent tribute was paid.

Mr. Gordon Priest was elected secretary of the meeting and upon reviewing the annual report of each organization same were unanimously adopted.

The reports were presented in the novel form of an "ad lib" manner and were found to be interesting and brought to the attention of the congregation the many activities of all departments of the church.

SPIRITUAL UNDERTAKINGS

In the absence of Mr. Blake Walker, clerk of session, Mr. W. J. Slavin brought some of the spiritual undertakings of the year to mind emphasizing the "Every Member Visitation" when over 80 laymen stood at the chancel steps on Stewardship Sunday morning and rededicated their hearts to God and accepted the commission to go out two by two visiting the homes of members of the congregation in the name of Christ and for the extension of His Kingdom—calling each to a wider and fuller practice of his Christian faith, that God's work may be done, and that this congregation may become a more effective agent of His in bringing the Gospel to the whole world.

Tabernacle was host church for the Presbytery "Sector Project" with five other churches completing the program. A glowing report of this hospitality has been made to head office.

Two members of the congregation, Messrs. Fred Jewell and Roy McGrath, who last year began their preparations for full time service in the ministry, have taken student charges where they may minister while attending Queen's University in Kingston. The goodwill and prayers of the congregation are constantly with these two young men as well as a third member, Mr. George Wright, who took a student's charge about four years ago.

The congregation regrets the departure of the Reverend Ray Rowley who gave splendid guidance through the last five years but Reverend James C. Eastcott has come with great ability. His kindly understanding and readiness to help in all matters is already most noticeable.

During the meeting Mr. A. B. Archibald pledged the loyalty of the congregation to Mr. and Mrs. Eastcott and Marilyn, their daughter, who has readily found her way into the friendship and love of the CGIT and Teenagers. The service that Reverend Dr. A. E. MacKenzie, principal of Albert College, who acted as interim minister during the last four months of the year, has been greatly appreciated by the session.

MEMBERSHIP INCREASED

During the year the membership of the session was increased to 25 to better serve the expanding congregation. There were 18 baptisms, 8 marriages and 16 burials up to the first of September. 50 new members were received into the fellowship and 37 transferred to other congregations, the membership at the end of the year 1957 was 722.

The envelope givings to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund were increased to the amount of $3,643, also the White Gift offering of $353, and Sunday school $378., although in 1956 there were two Memoriam gifts which brought the total M. and M. amount to a higher figure than 1957.

The four departments of the W.M.S.—The Afternoon Auxiliary with 34 members, gave $311; the Evening Auxiliary with 20 members gave $370, The Mission Band under the supervision of Mrs. Jack Aitchison, has 19 members, held 29 meetings and gave $32; the Baby Band that has been in the care of Mrs. Morris Smith, has 28 members and gave $8. The CGIT and Explorers affiliated with the WMS gave $10 and $5.

GOOD FINANCIAL STATUS

The church treasurer, Mr. K. M. Day, explained the church's financial status which appears to be in a healthy condition, showing a surplus in the general account of almost $1,000. The triplex envelopes which have been in use for a year and a half have been extremely beneficial. Contributions in the green section are for the local church advancement program and have paid almost $9,000 for the new pews and carpet. It is the ambition of the congregation to retire this debt of $4,000 by June of 1958 and commence further extensive renovations in the Christian Education department.

The Women's Association under the presidency of Mrs. Frank Davidson, with a membership of 52 raised $1,402. The Comrade Club and Keen Age Club, two women's organizations not affiliated with the W.A. raised $1,200 and $1,000, respectively and these amounts were turned in to the general treasury of the church and donations to United Church projects and local benevolent societies.

CHURCH BAZAAR

Mrs. Percy Kerr, convener of the bazaar, explained that this is the one event of the year that every organization in the church functions together happily toward one ambition—that of uniting the congregation in harmonious workmanship. She gave the amounts raised by each department.

Mr. Arthur Firth reviewed the activities of the Men's Club. Not as many men of the congregation as one would like to see interest themselves in the work of the Men's club. He threw out a challenge for the men to enter into this fellowship. One of their features this year was the "Pancake Supper" they attempted with splendid results and they aided in sponsoring the two Boy Scouts who went to England and Valley Forge. Their efforts in the bazaar were also outstanding.

Mrs. John Bablak, Miss Thelma Schlievert, Mrs. W. J. Slavin with three members of the CGIT, Misses Marilyn Brown, Betty Archer and Judy Oliver gave a synopsis of the work of the Explorers and CGIT. The Sixth Belleville Cubs and Scouts have had a wonderful year under the supervision of Akela M. J. McClelland and Scouter John Bablak. They have had hikers, picnics, camp outings, parties and good Christian training.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Time did not permit Mr. W. J. Slavin, superintendent, to eulogize on the Sunday school but this is an interesting department of the church. It has been said by those who should know that the church school is the very foundation of the church. Jesus said "Let the little children come unto Me and forbid them not." At the baptism of their children parents promise to rear them in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. The church school staff recognizes these facts and strives to do something about them.

During the year the school was in operation 41 Sundays with an average attendance of 202, the membership being 275. Tribute was paid to Mr. Ed Schlievert who gave a fine service as secretary - treasurer for a number of years, but found it necessary to resign last June. The school is self supporting and raised approximately $1,400 for all purposes including M. and M. givings.

CHOIR

It was not possible for the choir to attend in person but Mr. Miller entertained the congregation with a tape recording of one of their Easter Cantata numbers by Mrs. Beverley Shaw. Mr. Eastcott expressed his personal appreciation of the work of the choir as he has found it since coming to Tabernacle. Mr. Beate, director, and Mrs. Miller, organist, are to be commended for their faithful service as well as the full membership of the choir.

Mr. Eastcott in summing up found that the church has raised for advancement program $5,230. For all other local purposes $16,396. For Missionary and Maintenance, $4,492; the Woman's Missionary Society $821; other United Church projects $863; benevolences, Presbytery $321 and Conference and Presbytery Fund $162. Raising a grand total of $28,298.

OFFICERS

Mrs. Percy Kerr is the newly appointed president of the Woman's Association; Mrs. Ray Lee's term is president of the WMS Afternoon Auxiliary; Mrs. Jean Miller, president of the Evening Auxiliary.

Newly elected members to the session are Messrs R. E. Nelson, H. Lord, T. W. Williamson, R. Sargent, William Smith and J. Bostock.

Newly appointed members to the Committee of Stewards are: Earl Grills, Morley Graham, H. R. Moorman, George Stanton, Frank Douglas and Ronald Walmsley.

Explorer Received Assistance From Earth Being Fired in Same Direction as Rotation

NEW YORK (CP) — Although the man-made satellites now orbiting in the sky are insignificant in comparison with the real moon, scientists nevertheless find points of comparison between them.

They don't know for sure how the moon, 2,160 miles in diameter, got into orbit. But they're learning more and more about how to imitate it.

An orbit is the elliptical path that the moon—real or artificial — follow around the earth. The man-made moons stay in orbit because their speed is so great that the pull of gravity is not powerful enough to draw them toward the earth.

Why do some rockets shot into space fall back to earth, while others level off in orbit, to circle the earth perhaps for years?

This is because the courses of the three artificial satellites so far put into orbit—two Russian and one American — were carefully calculated to bring them into an as approximately horizontal with the earth at the planned height.

In the case of the first American satellite, Explorer, which is scheduled soaring prcess was performed with rockets, but other methods can be used. If the Explorer "leveled out," a final burst of rocket propulsion blasted it to speed up to about 18,000 miles an hour.

This speed balanced the pull of gravity, so the Explorer goes around and around like a ball on the end of a string. As it slows, it will descend but because it encounters little resistance at that height—varying up to 1,600 miles it should retain its speed for a long time.

Some U.S. rockets, on the other hand, reached 4,000 miles and then fell back immediately, apparently because their course was vertical and they had no opportunity to level off. They are weren't aimed and angled to orbit. Given sufficient power, they could hurl out the earth's field of influence altogether.

The real moon, like the Explorer, stays in orbit on the ball-on-a-string idea. It travels only 2,300 miles an hour, fast enough because it is 240,000 miles away from the earth.

Incidentally, the Explorer received some assistance from the earth itself when it was kicked off into space. It was fired in roughly the same direction as the rotation of the earth—which spins at 1,000 miles an hour on its axis —thus getting some impetus.

If the law of gravity were suddenly suspended, the Explorer and the Russian Sputnik would shoot away into the unknown reaches of space. So would you, and Nikita Khrushchev, and John Foster Dulles.

Scientists speculate on some day putting up a satellite at a height and speed that would enable it to hover in a "stationary" position over a particular area. They see important possibilities in this for radio, television and science in general.

Scientist have been talking about sending a satellite that would move into the moon's field of gravity and orbit there, taking television pictures to be fed back to earth. Theoretically at least, it would be possible to place a single satellite in orbit around both the earth and the moon, although sometimes it might pass "inside" the moon as that body whirled in its own orbit around the earth.

The much-discussed space platforms of the future—great circular

Three Members Of 'Crewcuts' Await Decision

TORONTO (CP) — Three members of the Crewcuts, a Canadian singing quartet, are awaiting the decision of United States immigration officials on whether they will have to change their status to go on working in the U.S.

Ray Perkins, 25, his brother, John, 26, and Rudolph Maugeri, 25, have been refused entry permits by U.S. officials at Toronto's Malton airport Tuesday. The singers were starting on a U.S. tour to begin at Lincoln, Mich., Saturday night.

An immigration official said the members of the quartet have been spending most of their time in the U.S. since 1952. The fourth member — Pat Barrett — crossed the border at Montreal Monday and is in New York City.

John Perkins said the decision on admittance probably will come today or Thursday.

"We're in the dark as to why this thing was imposed on us in the first place," he said.

It was believed their case was to be argued human understanding — is only one galaxy among many.

The earth's particular neighborhood is the solar system, where the sun is king. Its gravity holding slaves — and giving existence — to nine planets in all.

Mercury, nearest, has a diameter 10 times greater than earth, and two of its 12 moons are bigger than Mercury, the smallest of the planets.

Venus and Mercury have no moons but Venus, like the earth, has an atmosphere. Astronomers don't know how deep it is or whether it will support life. So there has been speculation in science as well as in fiction that there is life on Venus.

Mars, with two moons, has canal-like patterns on its surface, a fact that for years caused debate on whether it supports life. Astronomers believe there is at least plant life there.

But nobody knows.

New, Complete Farm Credit System Promised

TORONTO (CP)—A new four-point agricultural policy, including establishment of a new and complete farm credit system, was pledged Wednesday by Richard A. Bell, parliamentary assistant to the federal finance minister.

Mr. Bell told an Agricultural Council of Ontario luncheon that the Progressive Conservative party is determined to achieve economic equality for the Canadian farmer.

He said basic agricultural legislation to fulfill the farmers' right to equity would be a program based on four essential policies—conservation, credit, protection and support prices.

The institution of a national soil and water conservation program is basic to any long-term approach to the relief of agricultural problems.

CREDIT INADEQUATE

He said the over-all credit situation is inadequate. Modern machinery and techniques had accommodated agriculture to urbanization "yet accompanying the change has been a steep, a giddy rise in debt, a situation in which the farmer has been squeezed for credit — long-term, intermediate and short-term.

He said a new farm loan system for Canada was needed to make available money for the modernization and improvement of farms and farm machinery to ensure more efficient production.

Protection had two implications. First, protection against hazards for which a crop insurance system was under study.

"Secondly, I speak of protection in the established sense. Here I refer particularly to fresh fruit and vegetables."

Britain Favors Conference of Foreign Experts

LONDON (Reuters) — British Wednesday recommended a foreign ministers' conference to prepare summit talks in what appeared to be a softening attitude by the United States' view.

Reports in the past two weeks from Washington would suggest preparations for top - level talks through diplomatic channels as an alternative to a meeting of foreign ministers.

Diplomat quarters said Britain's shift back to her original position was made at the meeting between U.S. State Secretary Dulles and British Secretary Selwyn Lloyd during the Baghdad pact conference in Ankara last week.

President Eisenhower was held out as publicly preparatory talks despite Soviet opposition to such a meeting.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Wednesday: "It is no secret that we prefer to see the talks between foreign ministers' conference."

He denied there are any differences on this point between London and Washington.

Hearing Aid Fitted on Dog

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Grubby, a 15-pound cocker spaniel deafened by a firecracker, was fitted for a hearing aid Wednesday.

But his owner, Miss Catherine Pierce, said it may be a few weeks before the dog returns to the exciting world of cat noises.

A hearing aid fitted and an earmold laboratory tackled the job after hearing of Grubby's plight. A battery and amplifier resting on the dog's harness will be attached to a plastic ear mould.

"There's no question about making Grubby hear," said A. V. Culver of the hearing aid firm. "The problem is getting him to leave the unit in his ear, and I think he will get enough pleasure out of hearing to leave it alone."

Grubby became deaf after a firecracker was thrown into a closed car in which he had been placed.

Jury Finds OPP Constable Falsely Arrested Accused

OWEN SOUND (CP)—A six-man Ontario Supreme Court petit jury Wednesday found Constable Ivan D. Wade falsely arrested William Lyle Kennedy last May 23 and has awarded the 46-year-old Arran Township farmer $1,000 damages.

The jury Wednesday night found no malice on the part of Magistrate Otto C. McClevis and awarded no damages for Kennedy's 28-day confinement in an Ontario mental hospital at London after a vagrancy conviction May 30.

Kennedy had brought actions for false arrest, false imprisonment and malicious prosecution against Bruce County Crown Attorney J. W. Freedom, Magistrate McClevis and Constable Wade of the Ontario Provincial Police detachment at Walkerton, 30 miles south of here.

Mr. Justice D. I. Ferguson withdrew Mr. Freeborn, crown attorney for 34 years, from the case on a list of questions he posed to them in his charge.

Similar actions against Edward Law, and lawyer William Somerville of Port Elgin were dismissed Jan. 27.

Court was adjourned by Mr. Justice Ferguson after the jury decision. He has still to produce final judgment.

The jury found Constable Wade did not honestly believe the plaintiff at the time of arrest was committing the offence of "disturbancy."

It said the constable did not inform Kennedy of the grounds for arrest and did not believe an offence had been committed for which Kennedy might be arrested without a warrant.

Constable Wade testified earlier he did not have time to get a warrant after he was informed Kennedy was on his way from Port Elgin to Walkerton and threatening to shoot his estranged wife, Isabel, and the superintendent at Bruce County Hospital where she worked.

He told Kennedy's counsel, Lewis Duncan of Toronto, that he did not ask whether Kennedy had money, property or a car when he made the arrest for vagrancy.

Mr. Justice Ferguson said in his charge to the jury the defence by Campbell Grant was justified in making the arrest.

He said if anyone believed Kennedy guilty of a crime, there was a question why he was not arrested on a more serious charge than vagrancy. If Kennedy was mentally ill, there was a proper method of dealing with him.

Kennedy testified earlier that he had pleaded not guilty to the charge. He appealed his conviction and one-year suspended sentence as far as the Supreme Court of Canada but it was upheld in each instance.

Magistrate McClevis testified Kennedy's original counsel, Hugh E. McAvoy of Owen Sound, had pleaded him guilty and requested that no evidence be taken.

He said Kennedy, asked how he felt about medical care, replied: "I think I need some medical care."

Mr. Freeborn said he advised Constable Wade to obtain a remedy on information from Walkerton Police Chief Donald Clinton. He said eKnnedy's eldest son Bill had registered a complaint. He said "had some effect on my decision."

Continuing are actions by Kennedy against his wife for breach of contract and against Mr. Tomlinson for breach of professional duty in connection with the sale of his farm for $15,000 last April 25. The trial is in its 13th day.

Letter Received From Investor Believed Cause

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Herald Tribune links the suicide of railroad leader Robert R. Young to a letter he received from a financial investor.

Young, chairman of the New York Central Railroad, shot himself Jan. 23 at his Palm Beach, Fla., home.

Investment and financial editor Donald I. Rogers writes in The Herald Tribune that Young told two friends husband's body and that "Young had opened only one letter of the morning mail that day."

"The story continues in part: The letter "may not have been the straw that broke the camel's back; but the few intimates who know this story believe that it was." Young had tried to straighten out the Central but couldn't.

Production-Cost Formula Not Favored by Govt.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker told Ontario representatives the government does not favor a cost-of-production formula as a basis for establishing agricultural products price supports, informants said Wednesday.

It was understood the prime minister told a 14-man delegation of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture the federal government considers such a rigid policy in determining support prices unsound.

In a brief presented to the cabinet during a 90-minute meeting, that the agricultural prices stabilization legislation did not include a formula "by which production - price relationship in the economy could be measured" and used as a guide to establishing price supports.

Dr. H. H. Hannam, CFA president, was head of the delegation presenting the brief touching on many domestic farm problems, said the federation "recognizes and expresses gratitude for the initial steps taken to support legislation as expressed in the throne speech."

The prime minister told reporters after the meeting that he had presented the delegation that the federation would have a representative on the committee to be set up in connection with the government's new farm income stabilization legislation.

Dr. Hannam said the prime minister asked the CFA to submit its suggestions on more detail a proposal urging the federal government to take a role in establishing some system of giving surplus food to needy parts of the world.

Recover Parts Of Vanguard

APE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Search and wreckage from Wednesday's early-morning debacle in the Vanguard rocket has been recovered near the launching site, it was learned Wednesday. The nature of the material was not disclosed.

Parts of the big United States Navy missile were found on the sand flats near far from the Vanguard launching stand. There also were reports that some debris had been recovered in the shallow waters just off Cape Canaveral.

Project Vanguard experts were going over t hematerial closely to see if it would be to go to work for the spectacular blow-up.

A ton of dust rocket thrust down from an altitude of about 20,000 feet when the 72-foot rocket, with its second stage ignited in the nose, broke apart a minute after the launching here early Wednesday.

Two more Vanguard test rockets are on hand here, ready for assembly when the navy decides it should not another launching. The all-fated flight has been analyzed in part.

From this information the navy hopes to be able to make improvements that will help make the next Vanguard launching successful.

Politically Speaking Young Republic of Indonesia in Danger of Flying Apart

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President Sukarno of Indonesia may have started something he cannot stop when he opened his new campaign against the Dutch two months ago.

Politically speaking, the young island republic is in danger of flying apart. This is spotlighted by the demands of an insurgent group, including army officers, for reforms under threat of setting up a new government. The group demands expulsion of Communists from the government.

The Java government thus is showing signs of losing the shaky measure of control it held over the islands in its domain, notably the oil-producing island of Sumatra.

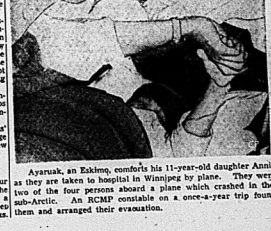
The rebel spokesmen apparently envisage some sort of nationwide government based in Sumatra, remaining under the Indonesian flag, if Sukarno and his government do not agree to their plans, which were not yet known immediately. Apart from the two governments would work together as it now is explained.

Java certainly didn't plan on this when it started the current drive demanding that the Dutch hand over control of West New Guinea, a territory of jungle and mountains inhabited by wild men and pygmies in the island. The Dutch claim that the Indonesians used this quarrel deliberately as a mask while spreading $1,500,000,000 in Dutch business interests and expelling 45,000 Dutch citizens, many prominent in commerce.

This turned out to be a double-edged sword, and the islands — Indonesia — but strangled when Dutch shipping withdrew—have been in trouble since.

Sukarno left on an extended "health tour," which involved shopping for arms, and now is in Japan, where he was faced with the insurgent challenge by a delegation. He made plans to cut short his trip and return home.

Incidentally, it was hardly an accident that Japan decided at this juncture to sign a peace treaty with Indonesia, which the Japanese occupied for 3½ years during the Second World War.



The Japanese promised investments of 300,000,000, and probably hope to pick up some of the Indonesian shrings of commerce wrested from the Dutch.

One of the internal problems faced by the Java government has a religious background. Moslem Natsir, leader of the largest Moslem party, has charged the Sukarno regime with following a plan aimed at cutting Western ties and dragging Indonesia into the Russian bloc.

The Moslem political leader also described the West New Guinea dispute as just a stepping stone for a greater strategy.

It said aspect of the border dispute is the plight of the expelled Dutch citizens, many of whom have no place to go but the already heavily populated Netherlands, although they are just as strange to that country as they would be to Canada.

The estimated 10 per cent are of mixed European-Asian blood who lived all their lives in Indonesia, with which independence in 1949.

Ayaruak, an Eskimo, comforts his 11-year-old daughter Annie as they are taken to hospital in Winnipeg by plane. Severe in two of the four persons aboard a plane that crashed in the Port-Harrie area, RCMP constable on a once-a-year trip finally reached them and arranged their evacuation.

'Broken Old Man' Leopold Pleads For His Release

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — Nathan Leopold, 53, Wednesday asked the parole board prisers with 40 years to life. "I can do more good outside."

Leopold, pallid from 33 years behind bars, made his bid for "a second chance" before the Illinois parole and pardon board.

"I know I can be more good outside," he said. "I am an old man, a broken man, who pleads for a second opportunity. I want a chance to find redemption for myself and to help others."

Under questioning by members of the five-man board, Leopold said he would like to go to work for "a hospital in the mountains of Puerto Rico 80 miles from the ocean."

Leopold, scion of a wealthy family, barred back to the waiting slaying of 14-year-old Bobby Franks May 21, 1924, in Chicago. He and his partner in the killing, Richard Loeb, plotted the crime.

"I would have to be watched and he suggested—anything for his favor," Leopold said, "even this revolting crime."

Appeal Against CPR Acquiring Smith Transport

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—The Canadian Trucking Association of Quebec in appealing a decision of the board of transportation board which approved transfer of Smith Transport, Limited, largest Canadian highway carrier, to the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Delegates to an executive meeting of the CTA said the appeal would be taken to the Quebec Court of Appeal. The association's annual meeting ended Wednesday night.

The CTA pledged financial support from all other provincial trucking associations to help the Quebec association bear the transfer.

Camile Archambault, Montreal, assistant to the president of the Quebec Association, won the support of CTA delegates with an address attacking the "railway transport monopoly of the CPR." The meeting also heard that Canadian rail interests are "investing over" another group of large trucking companies.

Ryerson Studies Ban on Drinking

TORONTO (CP)—The Ryerson Institute of Technology students' council is considering officially banning drinking at alcoholic beverages at council-sponsored football weekends, dances and field trips.

A spokesman said Wednesday the council is seeking ways to discipline campus student groups for disorderly behavior and will vote Feb. 12 on the code banning drinking.

Council began considering disciplinary measures after 18 students were placed on probation following a field trip to New York City. One passenger on the 14-hour bus trip complained he and other passengers were kept awake by talking and singing students.

Principal H. H. Kerr also cancelled all overnight trips and football weekends for an indefinite period.

Last fall the Ryerson students' council paid Waterloo College $600 for damage done by a few exuberant students.

WELLINGTON

United Church Elects Officers

WELLINGTON — Mrs. Clifford Cleave, Front Road, entertained the W.A. at her home on a recent Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Harry Pierson, was in the chair and opened the meeting with a poem, "God of Our Life," followed by a hymn with Mrs. Brian Cronk at the piano.

Members and guests were cordially welcomed by the president, who thanked all who had helped her last year and asked for continued co-operation for 1958.

The Rev. A. Poulter then conducted the installation of officers:

President, Mrs. Harry Pierson; vice-president, Mrs. B. Gilmour; secretary, Mrs. H. Nash; assistant secretary, Mrs. William Yeaky; treasurer, Mrs. A. Fleming; assistant treasurer, Mrs. R. C. Pyne; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. A. Thompson; citizenship secretary, Mrs. B. Gibson; stewardship secretary, Mrs. Leonard Palmer; literature secretary, Mrs. B. Cronk; Christian education and youth work sponsor, Mrs. Bryan Cronk; press reporters, Edith Ward and Mrs. Earl Marvin; group leaders, Mrs. A. Foster, Mrs. D. Tayler, Mrs. C. Tripp, Mrs. John Wait, Mrs. William Jackson, Mrs. William Adams, Mrs. B. Bishop, Mrs. N. Allison and Mrs. Allan Pettingell.

The treasurer gave her report. Letters of thanks were received from Mrs. G. Gibson, Doug Tayler, Mrs. R. Ellis, Mrs. H. Bryant, Mrs. A. Fleming, Mrs. L. Bryant and Mr. and Mrs. Martin.

Mrs. L. Palmer gave a few timely remarks on "How to Face the New Year" and be good stewards, also a letter was read from Mr. Mooney, re contribution to Overseas Relief.

The president reported that 25 new chairs had been ordered for the new church parlor. A film strip is to be obtained to be used by the various organizations as well as the Sunday school. Bills were presented and moved to be paid. The next work meeting is February 5th at the home of Mrs. Nash.

The program was in charge of Group I. The theme of the devotional, "Christian as a Homemaker." Mrs. D. Tayler read an article, Mrs. A. Foster read the Scripture, "Mary and Martha." Mrs. A. Foster read Proverbs 31: 10-28.

Mrs. Gerald Stoneburg read some of the highlights of the life of Dr. Albert Sweitzer, who won the Nobel Prize in 1952. Mrs. Bryan Cronk delighted all with a piano solo.

Mrs. Foster moved a vote of thanks to all who helped with the program and to the hostess.

After the president closed the meeting Group I served refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Albury

REDNERSVILLE W.I.

ALBURY — The January meeting of Rednersville W.I. was held at the home of Miss Audra Brickman on Thursday evening with a good attendance. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Harmon Montgomery. Community singing was enjoyed.

In the absence of the health convener, Mrs. Beuford Peck introduced Mrs. Marion Smith, the home economist, who spoke on the roll call, "How Much Overweight or Underweight I Am," which proved interesting.

A vote of thanks was extended to the speaker, the hostess and lunch committee.

Sorry to report Mrs. Roy Williamson and Mrs. Cora Crouter are under the doctor's care. All wish them a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Mac Wallbridge spent a recent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williamson.

Several attended the quilting at the home of Mrs. Ernest Russell on Tuesday, with $21 being realized. Several men and women were in attendance for the dinner.

Several attended the Rednersville W.I. euchre at Mr. Dawson's on Wednesday evening. There were 13 tables of euchre in play with several receiving the lovely prizes. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. N. Dulven is in Belleville Hospital. All wish her a speedy recovery.

Several attended "The Miknado" at Belleville collegiate on Thursday and Friday evening.

Mrs. Percy White spent Saturday with her sister, Mrs. Roy Williamson, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Weese spent Sunday with Mr and Mrs. Edwin Carmichael.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bonter left on Saturday for a holiday in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Williamson called to see his mother on Saturday. They left on Sunday on a trip to Florida.

WELLINGTON

Farewell Gifts Presented to Departing Rector

WELLINGTON — Prior to the Rev. C. R. Gale's departure for Stirling on Wednesday about 70 members of St. Andrew's and Christ Church parishes met at the rectory on Tuesday evening for a pot-luck dinner.

After the banquet Mr. Warhey McFaul graciously addressed the rector and congratulated him on the work he has accomplished during his one and half years here.

Mr. Gale was presented, on behalf of those present, by Mr. Gerry Spriggings, with a Westminster Chime Clock, and a purse of money. Later he received a gift of an engraved Ronson lighter from Christ Church Sunday School. This presentation was made by Mr. Best of Hilller, for which the rector graciously replied.

WELLINGTON

Couples' Club Enjoys Fine Program

WELLINGTON— The Wellington Couples Club met January 27th in the United Church Sunday School rooms, with a record attendance. The president, Mr. Ross Pierson, was in the chair.

The secretaries for 1958 are Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Smith; the treasurers, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Cleave; the vice – presidents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nash.

The devotional period was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Brian Cronk with Mrs. Tom Nash as pianist.

A skating party was planned for February 3rd at the rink, with B. B. C. as guests.

Refreshments to be served in the Sunday school rooms.

An interesting program was enjoyed; a debate "Resolved that TV programs as they are today, do not contribute to the higher cultural life of the people". The negative side won.

All enjoyed a recreational period followed by refreshments.

White's District

WHITES DISTRICT — Mrs. George Bilsam opened her home on Tuesday for a quilting for White's Woman's Association.

A successful meeting of the congregation, was held at White's Church on Monday evening.

Mrs. Lorne Hunt, teacher of the Intermediate class of White's Sunday School, held a sleighing party for her class on Saturday evening with a social time in the home after the ride.

Quite a number from this district attended "Peril" an outstanding animal bird and nature show at the Bells Theatre.

Church and Sunday School were well-attended on Sunday morning. The Junior choir contributed "Jesus Loves Me", while the senior choir rendered "Peace, Peace Wonderful Peace."

Lalande Rifles In Four Goals In Bears' Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

If the Hershey Bears needed any help to stay in front of the American Hockey League, they know today they have it in the person of Hec Lalande.

The little centre from North Bay has scored six goals and three assists in the six games he has played since he was sent to Bears by Detroit Red Wings of the National League two week ago.

Lalande, who also has seen service with Chicago Black Hawks, had his biggest splurge for Hershey Wednesday night, rifling in four goals in the Bears' 8-1 victory over the last-place Buffalo Bisons.

With the second place Cleveland Barons losing 3-1 to Springfield Indians, Bears widened their first place margin to seven points. Another former NHL player, Wally Hergesheimer, saved Buffalo from a shutout, scoring with about 10 minutes left in the third period.

Backing up Lalande in a goal-scoring way were Al Desbury, Ed Panagabko, Dunc Fisher and Larry Zeidel.

At Cleveland, Gerry Ehman scored what proved to be the winning goal for Springfield, moving Indians into fourth place one point ahead of Rochester Americans.

Al Nicholson got credit for the first Springfield score when the puck was knocked into the Baron net by a Cleveland defenceman and Cal Gardner added the insurance tally. Don Hogan counted for Cleveland.

Marlies Hand Flyers Fifth Straight Loss

BARRIE (CP) — Toronto Marlboros handed Barrie Flyers their fifth straight setback in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league, defeating them 7-4 Wednesday night.

Bob Nevin and Bill Kennedy led the Marlies attack with a pair of goals each. Jack McMaster, Doug Riseley and Sonny Osborne scored the others.

Billy Forhan, playing his first full game for the Flyers since being put out of the lineup with a charley horse last Thursday, scored two of the Flyers' goals, his 30th and 31st of the season. Peter Panagabko and Bernie Cole had the others.

Ken Venturi Out to Make It Three in Row

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Ken Venturi, currently the hottest golfer on the pro circuit, is out to make it three in a row in the $15,000 Tucson Open golf tournament, which starts today.

But the 26-year-old San Francisco resident, recent winner of the Thunderbird Invitational and the Phoenix Open, is only one of a dozen contenders considered as likely winners.

The flat, 6,424-yard par-70 El Rio Country Club course is so easy that 72 hole of par isn't expected to win a dime unless it rains. And the weather bureau predicts sprinkles for Saturday and Sunday, the last two days of the event.

The smooth-swinging Venturi first gained national recognition in 1956 when, as an amateur, he went into the final round of the Masters' tournament with a four-stroke lead. He shot 80, lost and exploded verbally after coming off the course.

Oddly enough, Venturi believes finishing second may be more valuable than winning.

LEARN BY DOING

"I want to win," he explains, "but I think you learn more by losing. I learned how to cope with the situation at the Masters.

"Things I learned in that last round have helped me in the four tournaments I have won since."

Seventy-eight qualified Wednesday to raise today's field to 150.

ROB CREDIT UNION

MONTREAL (CP) — Two armed and masked bandits took about $5,000 Tuesday in a noon-time robbery of the St. Denis caisse populaire (credit union) on ancient Bert Street.

On the Tracks

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Old Pueblo once again proved himself the best of California's Derby hopefuls Wednesday but he was lucky to escape the furious stretch run of the sensational chestnut, Silky Sullivan, in the $67,250 California Breeders' Champion Stakes.

Old Pueblo, with Eddie Arcaro in the irons to guide him to his eighth straight victory against no defeats, held on to win the $39,-230 winner's share by a slim neck.

The Shoe, ridden by Willie Shoemaker, for whom he was named, ran third.

Time for the 1 1-16 miles over a heavy track was 1:46 3-5.

Sport Bigwigs Will Attend London Dinner

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A flock of sports greats from Canada and the United States will attend a $25-a-plate sportsmen's dinner here Tuesday.

Among stars at the dinner, in aid of the London and district Crippled Children's Treatment Centre, will be football coach Jim Trimble, kicker Cam Fraser and halfback Ray Truant, all with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, 1957 Grey Cup champions; Bobby Simpson of Ottawa Rough Riders and Lou (The Toe) Groza of Cleveland Browns in the National Football League.

Also sittings at the head table will be Rocky Marciano and Jersey Joe Walcott, former heavyweight boxing champions, Gordie Howe and Red Kelly, of the National Hockey League's Detroit Red Wings and Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens.

an outstanding NEW BROWN EGG LAYER...

J. J. Warren's SEX-SAL-LINK!

In keeping with Swift's policy of always offering you the Pick of the Nation's Bloodlines, we are glad to announce that arrangements have been made for the production and sale of J. J. Warren's new Sex-Sal-Link Layer.

The Sex-Sal-Link has an outstanding record in official egg laying tests throughout the country. In the 1956 Storrs egg laying test, the Sex-Sal-Link placed third out of 102 pens entered, with production of 285 eggs per hen housed. This is 56 more eggs than the average of all birds entered. The Sex-Sal-Link has also, time after time, in side-by-side tests, proved itself a kind of great production and high feed efficiency!

Now is the time to order money-making Sex-Sal-Link layer chicks for your flock. You can get these and other fine Swift chicks by contacting:

Schmidt Breaks Up Boston Top Line; Chevrefils Sent To Springfield

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The news that Ralph "Bucky" Buchanan, starry forward of the Pembroke Lumber Kings, had lost the sight of an eye following an injury incurred during a Kings-Cornwall game January 17, was met with sincere regret and sympathy around the Eastern Senior "A" League circuit.

The thirty-five-year-old winger who, it is stated, has scored more than 500 goals during a colorful hockey career, had apparently just returned from a hospital siege when the accident occurred. Bucky was one of the more potent scoring forces in the league, and the Kings will miss him in their important drive down the schedule next week. He played for the Kingston CKLC's last season, and bolstered that club's offensive power by no small margin.

Wally Lemser, owner-manager of the Lumber Kings, contacted managers of other clubs, also OHA president Lorne Cook with reference to a benefit game for the injured player. It met with the approval of Cook and Manager Dreury Dunyes of the McFarlands, and there isn't the slightest doubt managers of Kingston and Cornwall clubs will fall in line.

Cook has called a meeting of the league brass for Friday in Belleville. The bigwigs will convene in the arena at 7 p.m. and adjourn to Manager Denyes' office to await word from Lemser. While the main purpose of a benefit game will be discussed, playoff dates and pool business will also come under discussion.

Lemser, in typical fashion, was all for having the benefit game played right away, next Tuesday night in fact. This met with opposition from Manager Denyes and it is safe to say the Cornwall-Kingston managements would concur with the Macs' boss.

With the teams readying for the drive down the playoff stretch, I do not think it proper to call the benefit game before Tuesday week. The way opinion is I should take place immediately following the end of the schedule on February 26."

The game will probably evolve into one being played with representatives of Belleville, Cornwall and Kingston clubs against the Lumber Kings, not an "all-star" selection. In any event with the game being played in Pembroke and in such a cause, the Memorial Arena in the northern town should be bursting at the seams. "Bucky," it seems was very popular with the Pembroke fans.

That hockey "is hard on the eyesight" seems to be true of the Eastern senior league this season. Buchanan is the third victim of eye injury, and the second to suffer permanent hurt. Claude Provost, of the Canadiens, is missing young defenceman, who was injured in a game here not so long ago received a permanent eye injury. Ted Sepkowski of Cornwall was struck in the eye last week, and badly injured, but late reports state that he will not lose the sight of his eye.

It is quite probable that Buchanan's injury will mark finis to his hockey career. After all he is 35 years of age and could not have too many seasons in front of him. However should he come back he would not be the first player to play hockey handicapped by the loss of an eye.

Perhaps the most notable was Tommy Burlington of Owen Sound who lost an eye while a youngster playing cowboys and Indians. Tommy was struck in the eye by an arrow that took its sight, but that did not deter him from playing hockey. He rose to American League ranks where he played for five seasons, amassing 133 goals and 228 assists. He holds the record for points scored in consecutive games. Later Tommy played for Owen Sound Mercurys, in the capacity of playing coach.

Closer to home, oldtimers will remember Jo-Jo Gerbold of Oshawa. Jo-Jo was one of the best in those parts, and like Burlington would probably have made the big time if not physically handicapped.

We have the greatest admiration for players like Burlington and Grabold, but we are of the opinion the risk, however still it may seem, of playing hockey is a big one great. Flying pucks and sticks are no respecters of persons, and the rest of one's life spent in darkness, is too much to pay for a brief period of playing hockey.

Kingston Trims Pembroke 6-4 With Three Goals in Third

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Chuck Scherza's North Bay Trappers, hanging around the bottom of the OHA-NOHA Senior A ladder for about three months, jumped clear Wednesday night and into the loop's fourth place—last playoff spot.

A goal by rightwinger Johnny Bucyk with less than a minute to go in the third period gave the Trappers a 3-2 victory over Sudbury Wolves.

The win took Trappers above Wolves and Chatham Maroons, victims of a 5-3 beating from the second-ranking Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds.

In the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A eastern series, Belleville McFarlands remained an eight-goal third-period pitch for Ottawa-Hull Canadiens 11-6. LEAD THIRD SHRINKS

Pete Payette and Ike Hildebrand led the goal spree, each scoring twice. Wayne Black, Gerry Goyer, Barton Bradley, Minnie Menard, Moe Benoit, Russ Kowalsky and Ted Snowdon also scored.

Carter, Alan Lousteau, Richard, Bob Rousseau and Terry Gray scored for Canadiens.

Only other game in the series saw Kingston CKLCs also burst into life in the third period to down Pembroke Lumber Kings. CKLCs scored three final-period markers to win 6-4.

Kingston lost the services of rightwinger Don Bellringer 57 seconds after their game with Pembroke began. He was rushed to hospital with a cut over his right eye. Nine stitches were required to close the gash.

But even this didn't disturb CKLCs. They took a 2-0 lead in the first period, were tied 3-3 in the second then opened up a three-goal scoring burst in the last 20 minutes.

Ted Toppazzini, with two, Mike Sukachevich, Ken Linesman with two, and Ken Laufman were the Kingston marksmen. Jack Bownass, Bruce Gladenbeck, Farelli and Limoges scored for Pembroke.

Boston Bruins were the whiz team of the National Hockey League last year when Don McKenney, Real Chevrefils and Les Labine scored 70 goals among them.

This year coach Milt Schmidt came up with a second high-scoring unit and fondly eyed a move up from Boston's third-place finish last year.

Bronco Horvath, Vic Stasiuk and Johnny Bucyk started quickly and so far have amassed 52 goals. Things looked bright—until it became obvious the number one line wasn't functioning.

Only McKenney, who scored 21 goals last year, was producing. He is 18 markers rank him second to Horvath's 19 in output this season.

But Chevrefils, whose 31 goals last season were fifth best in the league, couldn't get going.

DOWN TO MINORS

Wednesday, his output at nine and bogged down completely by injury, the 25-year-old Timmins native was sent to Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League. These general manager Lynn Patrick hopes the seven-year veteran will regain his touch.

Three years ago the line came into prominence when Labine scored 24 goals, McKenney 22 and Chevrefils 13. Chevrefils was dealt to Detroit Red Wings to start the 1955-56 season but was soon back with Bruins when he was a disappointment with Wings.

Last year they clicked again and Detroit, with Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League, obtained Bucyk.

Schmidt has come up with Labine-McKenney-Bucyk combination Flyers of the Western Hockey

BRING UP BECKETT

Leftwing Bob Beckett, 21, who didn't score in 19 games last season and two this year, was brought up from Springfield to replace Chevrefils as Bruins attempt to hold their third-place tie with Detroit.

The two teams are two points behind New York Rangers and three ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Boston is at home to Chicago Black Hawks Saturday night before resumes tonight while Detroit plays at home against Montreal Canadiens.

Montreal already missing Maurice Richard, Bernie Geoffrion and Bert Olmstead, will be without defenceman Jean Guy Talbot as well. Talbot was injured in a practice at Chicago and is being examined as a halfline fracture of the right ankle.

Bob Turner, who has been used largely as a forward when Canadiens are shorthanded, will play defence regularly with Doug Harvey, Tom Johnson and Dollard St. Laurent.

Quebec Hockey

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) Trois-Rivieres Lions scored five unanswered goals in the first period and went on to swamp Montreal Royals 7-2 Wednesday night to get out of the Quebec Hockey League cellar.

The loss dropped Royals into the pit, a point behind Lions.

Pat Kelly led the Trois-Rivi-ers attack with two goals. Maz Pearson, Rollie Leclerc, Gilles Thibault, Al Cleary and Jim Mc-Kenzie scored one each.

Ken Mondell and Wally Hergesheimer were the Montreal marksmen.

Marlies Goalie Tops Junior Pipe Minders

TORONTO (CP)—Len Broderick, goaltender for the Toronto Marlboros, is in the odd position of leading the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series goals record while filling third place in the tables.

With an average of 3.26 he has allowed 134 goals in 38 games. Lower in actual percentages, however, are Gerry Jordan of Hamilton and Gerry Cheevers of Toronto St Michael's.

Jordan, who has played 13 of a game and between, with one game, both have a 3.0 average. Second is Peter Broderick of Charles Adamson of Peterborough with a 3.32 average. In 33 1-3 games he has allowed 41 goals.

Scoring honors still go to league - leading St. Catharines Flyers' Fred Hoekstra, who Tuesday night injured his hand in a collision with a goal post during a game against Hamilton. He is No. 1 position with 72 points. He has scored 34 goals and 40 assists. John Mcdonell is one point behind his teammate, has accumulated 39 goals and 34 assists.

Murray Oliver of Hamilton, in third place, is nine points behind McKenzie. He has 24 goals and 38 assists.

A third St. Catharines player, Matt Ravlich, with 26 points and 28 assists in his credit, is in fourth place.

Durelle Will Meet Anthony On March 14

NEW YORK (AP)—Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., British Empire light heavyweight champion, and Tony Anthony were booked to meet Tony Anthony of New York in a 10 - round bout revised bout at Madison Square Garden March 14.

A scheduled bout Anthony would put Durelle in line for a title shot attained Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore.

Durelle and Anthony originally were scheduled to meet at the Garden, Jan. 31, but the New Yorker was forced to withdraw because of the flu. Durelle stopped substitute Clarence Hinnant of Washington, D.C., in the seventh round.

If he beats Anthony and can get a promoter to put up $100,000 for Moore, Durelle, ranked second among the contenders by the National Boxing Association, will get the crack at Moore.

"Archie would be delighted to put Durelle in either Toronto or Montreal," said Charley Johnston, Moore's manager. "But Durelle has got up $100,000 for Archie."

Johnston said he has been approached by Toronto promoter Jack (Deacon) Allen for an indoor title fight against Durelle at Toronto.

No Television From Oslo

TORONTO (CP)—There will be no CBC television coverage of the world hockey championships at Oslo late this month, Jack Mc-Cabe, CBC sports director of TV and radio, announced last night.

CBC radio, however, will carry a broadcast by Foster Hewitt of the Canada-Russia game March 9 on the Trans-Canada network starting at 1 p.m. EST.

Canadian Girl Wins Downhill Ski Title in World Contest

BAD GASTEIN, Austria (CP) Lucille Wheeler of St. Jovite, Que., upset Europe's best women skiers today to win the ladies downhill title in the world ski championships here, and Ann Heggtveit of Ottawa put Canada twice into today's top 10 by taking seventh place.

The 23-year-old Miss Wheeler swooped down the course in 2:12.1 to bring Canada its first world title in the 32-year history of the event. The 20-year-old Ottawa miss had a time of 2:16.3 for seventh place.

Austria's women skiers, considered the world's best, were left in a class with the Ireland-born Canadian girl who has been training and striving for a world championship for four years. By winning today, she became Canada's first world ski champion.

Her time remained unofficial until after a two-hour jury meeting held to consider any protests, but there appeared no doubt that her time and victory would be ratified.

SWISS IS SECOND

Second pending the official placings was Fridei Daenzer of Switzerland, who was .3 seconds behind Miss Wheeler for a time of 2:12.4.

In third place was Carla Marchelli of Italy, who had a good 2:12.5 despite a newly healed broken ankle suffered in a month ago.

Forty-two girls from 14 countries raced over the 2,400-metre (7,872 feet) downhill course on Graukogel Mountain in western Austria.

The track, with a drop of 580 metres (1,901 feet), was composed mostly of hard - packed snow. There was a few uncovered spots, but it was not thought to have affected the times.

The sky was overcast and a light snow was falling.

Miss Heggtveit got much of the credit for her great showing to Austrian coach Eby Hasenmayer who has been working with the Canadian girl here.

THIRD IN OLYMPICS

At Are, Sweden, four years ago in the world championships, she was fourth over the list. Two years ago at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy, at the 1956 Olympic Games she was third in the downhill, bringing Canada its first Olympic skiing medal.

Jan. 20, 1957, the Quebec skier won the Arlberg - Kandahar - Skikamm race for women at Kitzbuehel, Austria, and finished seventh in the slalom event at that meet.

A year ago at Bad Gastein she got second in the Ladies' downhill, and roared to the front today to climax her advancing career.

Miss Heggtveit, whose career was set back by an ankle fracture in 1955 while practising slalom runs at Mont Tremblant, Que., has been much improved this year over 1957, when she placed 81st at the Kandahar tournament in Arlberg and 13th at Sestriere, Italy.

Ski fans think she now may be just starting to reach the potential indicated by her victory in the Holmenkollen giant slalom in Norway in 1954, when she was just 15. After the ankle fracture the following year she took some time before getting back into shape.

HARDLY BELIEVES IT

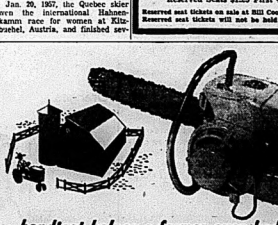
Miss Wheeler flahed a big mile today when her time was announced, and said:

"I can't believe it. I almost missed a gate up there in the slalom and I had to make an extra turn to get through it. My skis were just the right touch for this varying snow. I am very, very happy."

Miss Wheeler was wearing a blue and white ski jacket, dark blue ski pants and a white crash helmet.

Of the top favorites, Austria's Hilde Hoherrr, had a fall and finished far down. Annemarie Waser, Switzerland's pig-tailed newcomer who finished strong in previous events this season, also had a bad fall and flashed through the finish with only one ski.

Swedish Coach Believes Dunnies 'Hard to Stop'



STOCKHOLM (AP) — Ed Reigle, a Canadian now coaching Sweden's entry in the world hockey championships, says the Canadian entry is going to be hard to stop.

And he should know—he lost to virtually the same team, Whitby Dunlops, last spring in the Eastern Senior A Allan Cup finals while he was playing coach for North Bay Trappers.

Reigle, who left Canada after last season to coach here, said today Sweden has a good chance in the championships.

"But the Canadians are hard to get at," he said. "To beat them you need a hockey day, a brilliant fighting spirit and a goalie in top shape."

McFarlands Crush Baby Habs 11-5; Up Top-Spot Lead To Nine Points

Menard, Payette, Hildebrand Fuse Eight-Goal Explosion In Wide-Open Third Period

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

HULL, Que. — Whatever Coach Ike Hildebrand told the McFarlands in the dressing room between the second and third periods here last night—it worked. For they erupted in their biggest single-period scoring explosion of the season to crush the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens 11-5 to extend their top-spot margin in the Eastern senior "A" League.

When the smoke had cleared, the Macs had buried eight goals past Goalie Claude Cyr in the Habs' net in a free-wheeling, wide-open third frame while his mates battled back to score twice. The teams had battled to a three-all stalemate in the first two periods.

The Macs' first line of Hildebrand, Menard and Payette headed the 32-scoring points parade. The trio, hitting its best scoring pace of the season, accounted for 16 of this number with Hildebrand getting two goals and three assists, Payette two and four assists and Menard one goal and four assists. Kowalchuk, Bradley, Gwyer, MacDonald, Bru wn and Benoit each had singles.

Gwyer had two assists, Guidolin three, Marineau two and Brown, Bradley, MacDonald and Lepine one each.

Bert Bradley scored in his eighth successive game but it was very close. Bert hit the hemp with the clock reading 12 seconds to go in the third period.

While the checking was fairly close in the first two periods it was mostly stick-work. Referee McEvoy handed out but two penalties both minors to Marineau of the Macs took off three and Hildebrandem a goal — but who cared.

Rene Kowalchuk crashed into the boards heavily in the second period and was carried from the ice. It was revealed later he had sustained torn knee ligaments.

Gwyer, Carter and Drummond looked the best for the Baby Habs, the former getting one goal and three assists, Carter one and two and Rousseau one and one. Bob Boucher, the Habs top scorer who has amassed 101 points this season in two leagues was held off the scoring list. Cyr was outstanding especially in the second period but failed to hold the Macs onslaught in the final chukker.

IKE HILDEBRAND
"It's This Way Boys"

Kowalchuk netted Gerry Goyder's close - in pass midway through the first period to open the scoring but the Habs got the one break five minutes later when Grey's shot deflected off the toe of a Macs defender, Richard's hard slapshot drew well out at 18:47 gave the Habs their only lead of the game but it was shortlived for Hildebrand duplicated the feat at the other end less than a minute later to knot the score at two all.

The Macs had a decided edge on the play in the second period but they failed to beat Cyr in Habs net to any extent. Payette's scored his first goal of the game and period at 7.56 with linemates Menard and Hildebrand, but Rousseau again squared matters seven minutes later when he beat Bell on a Habs power play with Marineau sitting out a holding penalty. The period ended three all.

The roof started to crumble over the Habs early in the second period with Hildebrand scoring with Menard and Payette at 1.47. Four minutes later the trio repeated with Menard hitting paydirt. Ottawa cut the score to 5-4 from Grey's pass at 6.57, then the Macs took off over.

Brown and Gwyer scored within 36 seconds of each other and Benoit added to the rout one minutes later, taking Payette's pass to whistle a shot past Cyr.

The Ottawa youngsters battled hard and gave Bell a few anxious moments, Carter went through alone only to have Gordie out-guess him then Bradley broke into the clear to have Cyr beat his shot.

Longarini swept the puck into the net after 14 minutes on a play with Carter and Grey but the McFarlands were not to be denied. MacDonald, Goyer and Guidolin took on the offensive [illegible] home runs [illegible] 6-5 and two minutes later Payette, Hildebrand and Menard rounded out their night's work with Paul scoring his second goal of the night.

PAUL PAYETTE
"Or, Like This"

Bradley who had been coming close was still shy that goal to equal his record and it came with the clock reading 19.48. Bart took Wiener Brown's pass to beat Cyr for the Macs 11th counter with Joe Lepine getting in on the play.

The victory gave the McFarlands 50 points, nine in front of the second - place Pembroke Lumber Kings who were beaten 6-4 last night by Kingston. The Macs are now but seven points in arrears of the Whitby Dunlops record of 57. They meet the Kingston CKLC's here tomorrow night, and trek to Pembroke Saturday.

Hamilton Cubs To Play With Detroit Wings

HAMILTON (CP) — Coach Gerry Brown of Hamilton Cubs of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series says two of his players will don Detroit Red Wing uniforms this weekend.

He said Brian Sabish, a left winger, and centre Stu McNeill, will play with the National Hockey League Wings Saturday against New York Rangers and Sunday against Chicago Black Hawks.

Smith played with Wings last week against Toronto Marlboros. Junior players now are permitted five games a season with professional teams before they lose their amateur status.

McNeil, 19, is from Port Arthur and is a pre-medical student at McMaster University.

Minoso Rejects Tribe Contract For $40,000

CLEVELAND (AP) — Minnie Minoso Wednesday returned to Cleveland Indians unsigned a contract which would have given him $40,000 more than he received from Chicago White Sox last year before he was traded. With the contract was a note to Indians general manager Frank Lane:

"You still poppa No. 2, but I want more money."

Lane shipped the contract right back, affixing a note:

"Better take a good look and sign it. It's the only one you'll get."

Ralph Dupas Wins Decision Over Ortega

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Ralph Dupas of New Orleans took another step toward a lightweight title bout by winning a split decision Wednesday night over Gaspar Ortega of Mexico. Dupas weighed 141; Ortega 145.

Dupas, ranked No. 2 among the lightweights, had been mentioned this week as the next opponent for champion Joe Brown. He did nothing to hurt his chances as he outpointed Ortega, the latter appearing in the welterweight division.

Dupas, unbeaten in seven bouts last year, scored his points by keeping Ortega off balance, tagging him with frequent left jabs and leaving the Mexican wondering when he could catch up with his swift opponent.

Three Finals Friday Night In International Bonspiel

QUEBEC (CP)—Play to determine the finalists in the Francois Jobin Gold Cup event tops today's activities of the week-long Quebec International bonspiel which began Monday.

The finalists in the two major events of the 45th bonspiel, the Chateau Trophy and Oonega, were decided Wednesday. All three finals will take place Friday night.

In Chateau play, the finalists are Nels Findlay's Cornwall crew which toppled Luc Gosselin's Quebec Etchemin 7-6 and Bob Mellett's Toronto Royal Canadian which defeated Del MacTavish's Lachute, Que., rink 8-7.

Charlie Cassels led his Hamilton Thistle rink to a 9-6 victory over A. Redi's Dobescheid-N.Y., rink in the Onega Trophy semi-final. The other Niagara finalist is E. Bourcier's East Malartic, Que., quartet.

Dr. D. Pendrigh's West Saint John, N.B., quartet drew a bye into today's semi-final round of the Francois Jobin event, matched with Tony D mer's Quebec C.C. rink. The other semi-final has Nick Jenkin's Oshawa, rink against Jim FFleming's team from Windsor. Jenkins defeated G. Boivin's Quebec Jacques Cartier 16-4 in one quarter final match.

Chevrefils Sent To Minors for Disobeying Rules

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins winger Real Chevrefils, a member of the National Hockey League's second all-starm team last year, has been sent to the minors for disciplinary reasons.

General manager Lynn Patrick said Wednesday that the Timmins forward was demoted to Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League because he "refused to observe the training rules after repeated warnings."

"I think it is only fair to let the fans know we are not strengthening Springfield at the expense of the Bruins," Patrick said. "But it is not fair to the other players or to the fans, either, when one man fails to live up to team regulations."

Chevrefils, a veteran of nearly seven NHL seasons although only 25, scored 31 goals for Boston last year. He has only nine goals and seven assists in 39 games this year.

The Bruins had to obtain waivers from the five other NHL clubs before farming out Chevrefils. Under regulations, he must remain with Springfield for at least two weeks.

Chevrefils' spot on a line with centre Larry Regan and right winger Ivo Labine will be filled over by Bob Beckett for tonight's game with Chicago Black Hawks here.

Whitby Whips Harringay 6-2 In Impressive London Debut

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Whitby made an impressive European debut Wednesday night with the 6-4 victory over Harringay Racers, the British National Hockey League team staffed mainly by Canadians.

Canada's representatives in the world ice hockey championships, making their first outing since they arrived Tuesday after a rough Atlantic crossing, outplayed Racers most of the way.

The first of two goals by Gord Myles and another by George Samilenko gave them a 2-0 lead at the end of the first period. Playing coach Sid Smith added to their margin with the only second-period goal. Tom O'Connor, Myles and Jack MacKenzie completed their total.

Both Harringay goals came in the third period, Clare Smith getting one while Whitby was shorthanded and Giles Woods scoring the other on one of the few defensive lapses by the winners.

UNSUNG HERO

The Canadians still aren't letter-perfect on the International rules. Two of their four goals — ties were for bodychecking outside their defensive zone. A second offence, by Tom O'Connor, gave Racers the manpower advantage that resulted in their first goal.

Although Whitby appeared to falter as the game progressed, it was MacKenzie's goal in the last minute of play was the prettiest of the night.

The right-winger combined with Myles in a give-and-take knockout rush that had Racers baffled and goalie Al Halliday completely out of position.

Roy Edwards, at the other end, seemed in no hurry to intervene but is likely to have busier nights before the loop ends.

A stray stick clipped him on the forehead just before the last Harringay goal and scored had he finished the game after a brief pause for repairs.

SHORT OF STAMINA

Whitby show promise of better things to come before the world championships end in Oslo next month. They won virtually as they pleased against the unimpressive British club that included 14 Canadians in its lineup.

Whitby was short of stamina in the closing stages but the Canadians made the most of their scoring opportunities and their defensive work was almost faultless.

Apart from Smith's effort, the home club got nowhere when Whitby was shorthanded. When Bobby Attersley served a penalty for hooking a few minutes later the Racers barely saw the puck as captain Harry Sinden, George Gosselin ragged it effectively until his return.

The Canadians showed the effects of their eight-day layoff in the closing stages, conceding the second Harringay goal by Woods through inability to get the puck out of their defensive zone.

Whitby faces a stiffer test tonight when they oppose Brighton Tigers, who lead the British league. Then they leave for the Continent for further exhibition games in Germany, Sweden and Norway before the world tournament opens in Oslo Feb. 28.

Blue-and-Whites Shade Marmora By 4-3 Score

MADOC (Special) — "Nobber" Day's clutch goal at 19.02 of the third period gave the first-place Madoc Blue - and - White a narrow 4-3 victory over their arch rivals, the Marmora Millionaires, here last night in an OHA Intermediate "C" fixture.

Madoc never trailed as they took a 1-0 lead in the first period and upped the score to 3-1 in the second. They added another early in the third but Marmore charged back with a blast at 6.47 then tied the score at 9.14 on Mansfield's marker.

Bob Taylor gave Madoc their one - goal lead in the first period with a pair of assists and Maynes of Marmora traded markers in the middle twenty minutes. Baker made it 3-1 at 5.25 of the third before Maynes got his 2nd at 6.47 and 9.14 knotted the score for Marmora, but from that his scoring was assists from McLellan and Taylor with just 58 seconds remaining.

"Shaker" Baker with two goals and two assists led the Madoc scoring attack with Bob Taylor getting a goal and two assists. Day had his million dollar goal while Fred Nickle had two assists, McLellan and Palmer one each.

Marmora with Mantle getting the other four assists were divided among Cousins, Trumble, E. Leonard and Jones.

Minor Hockey

The city midget playoffs got under way at Memorial Arena last night with three games being played, while the squirts continued on their regular schedule.

Home and School pulled an upset 3-1 victory over Big "A" in one midget fixture, but lost one of their players for the remainder of the season in the process. Jim Rushlow was banned from further BMHA play for the rest of the year by league officials for using profane language. Rushlow was assessed a minor, major and misconduct penalty when involved in a fight with Dick Clapp. Rushlow protested because he was given more penalty time than Clapp, using language which brought about his suspension.

D. Archer tallied twice for Home and School with Keller getting the other goal and L. Philips two assists. H. Pelmer fired the Big "A" goal with Thompson assisting.

Booth Radio-TV's blanked Elliott Motors by a 5-0 count with Ted Hook scoring three times. Scott Bowler had a goal and assist with G. Gazley also scoring. T. Ronsley, D. Rose and L. Harvey each helped on one goal.

Northern Electric and TPT's battled to a 2-2 deadlock. D. Chestnut and J. Sheridan scored for Northern with T. McCabe getting an assist. P. Brown and R. McGuire scored for the TPT's with assists for J. Graham and D. Lawrence.

The second games in the midget playoffs will be played next Wednesday.

In squirt action the Red Wings blanked Browns 5-0. James Pringle had two goals with one each for David Bearfor, John Bleakley and Bobby Tomaso.

Black Hawks edged the Maple Leafs 3-2 with Terry McVicor, Mike Fahey and Rodney Carter scoring for the winners. Donald Emerson and Karl McFarland were the Leaf marksmen.

Barons shutout the Rangers 9-0 with Gary Lucas firing three goals. Ian Morris and Brian Fullerton each scored twice with Lloyd Clements and Martin Sheridan adding single goals.

Bruins edged Canadiens 4-2. Robert Lancaster, Mike Hynes, [illegible] ing Gaddis.

AT THE PARK — Hunkz Hall (left) finds a skeleton in the closet of his doctor, Fritz Feld, in this scene from Allied Artists' hilarious comedy, "Up In Smoke", for its first Belleville showing, starring Hall and the Bowery Boys and now at the Park Theatre. Stanley Clements is featured in the laugh-loaded fumfest and the cast also includes Judy Bamber, Byron Foulger, Ralph Sanford and Ric Roman. On the same program year's best outdoor attraction "Gunfight at the OK Corral", starring Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas and Rhonda Fleming.

Nude Fan Dancer Appears on TV

LONDON (Reuters)—A nude, masked fan dancer appeared on commercial television Tuesday night.

The naked dancer performed in a tribute to a London revue theatre, The Windmill, which was celebrating its 26th birthday.

A spokesman for the producing company said at midnight—half an hour after the show — that there had been no immediate viewer protests.

Two dances were staged: The first an Indonesian ballet in which dancers of both sexes participated. It told the story of a young couple who eloped, became lost and then were reunited by a G-string-clad goddess.

Four girls in transparent costumes appeared in a forest in which the fully-dressed hero and the scantily - clad heroine lost their way.

FAN DANCER NEXT

Next came the nude dancer in an "underwater" ballet. The corps de ballet appeared behind a filmed background of swimming tropical fish.

The masked nude star appeared, gyrating two huge fans around her.

She lured the upper part of her body twice and all her back and legs once.

In the climax of the dance, her nude silhouette was shown.

Asked why she was masked, a theatre spokesman said:

"We did not want anyone to recognize her because at the Windmill nudes are anonymous. Relatives or boy friends might object or be embarrassed."

Nick Todd Says Following His Brother Has Hazards

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This fellow Nick Todd looked familiar.

Nope, he wasn't related to Mike Todd—that's out Mike's specialty—but he looked a lot like Mike's brother, Nick's. The light dawned when he said his actual handle was Nick Boone.

That was it! In profile, Nick had the same handsome looks as Pat Boone, his brother. Darker and a year younger, Nick is also trying to carve a career for himself as a singer, and he's having more success. Tonight he appears with Bob Hope on television, and his records are selling well. But he admits that following a famous brother can have its hazards.

BROTHER HELPS

"I'm often asked if being Pat Boone's brother has helped or hurt me," said the tall 22-year-old (both were born on June 1, 1934). "I can only say that I'm certain it's helped me more than it's hurt me. Pat's a great brother.

"But in other respects it can be a drawback. That's one of the things I'm trying to change.

"I know that I can never get away from the fact that I'm Pat's brother," he explained. "People will be conscious of it. But I think they will be less conscious if my name is different.

"Last summer, when his first record was getting some out, he and his associates suggested that I use a pseudonym. Of all those presented, Nick favored Todd. Randy Wood, monkey of both Boone boys' careers and head of Dot records, didn't agree. He became convinced that it was potential out what Todd is equated backwards.

LUCKY SAYS HOPE

Cracked Bob Hope: "We lucky kids don't need for Credit. Then you're name might be Nick Lodge."

Nick doesn't sport white shoes, nor does he carbon - copy his brother in other respects. But though other kind of famous entertainers complain of their jet flick career remarkably well adjusted.

"I asked if Pat gave him any help in his career.

"Not specifically," he said. "But he has given me some advice. He told me that when I sing I ought to be sure to think about the lyrics and really believe them."

Durelle Wants Fair Cut to Fight Moore

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Chris Shaben, manager of Yvon Durelle, No. 2 contender in the world light-heavyweight division, said today that he is interested in a tilt bout with champion Archie Moore "but Yvon won't fight for nothing."

"There's been a lot of talk about Yvon meeting Moore since he (Durelle) fought a draw with Tony Anthony but nobody has mentioned any amount that Durelle would receive.

"Moore's handlers have predicted that Durelle hasn't got a chance of beating Moore, but that has to be proven.

"If Moore's handlers figure that Durelle is not a very dangerous opponent, why not cut Moore in on the gravy and live and let live?"

Shaben was commenting on a report by Charley Johnston, Moore's manager, that the champion "would be delighted" to risk his title against Durelle in will be $100,000.

"I've been asked by several Americans why some Canadian promoter doesn't put up the $100,000 Moore is demanding," Shaben said. "I don't see why it should go after the Canadian promoters to make money for Moore when Tex Durelle's manager."

"My fighter is anxious to get a shot at the title which we have been promised many times, but if he has to pay money out of his own pocket to get it he is leader of to stay where he and try to make a living."

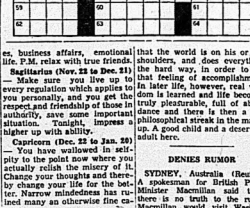
Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER



Thursday, February 6

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—It is best to put aside those ideas, new ventures you want to dive into until the present obligations, work are out of the way. Keep very busy all day, then in P. M. plan your contacts, political affairs well.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—While you are able to visualize the fine results that are possible in some lucrative entertainment venture, you know you do not have the necessary capital. Do not jump in until money is plentiful. P.M. meet new friend.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—This is a day when the good advice of family ties does not synchronize at all with that of a good friend in the world of activity who has had experience. Think before you act. P.M. rest or invite guests in for dinner.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21)—While you much prefer to remain at home or office to do your work there, it is wisest today to attend to all shopping, marketing, quandary with regard to finances, business affairs, emotional life. P.M. relax with true friends.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)—Make sure you live up to every regulation which applies to you personally, and you get the respect and friendship of those in authority, save some important situation. Tonight, impress a higher up with ability.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—You have wallowed in self-pity to the point now where you actually relish the misery of it. Change your thoughts and thereby change your life for the better. Narrow mindedness has ruined many an otherwise fine career.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Procrastinating is getting your indebtedness out of the way today would be unfortunate. At least give an approximate time when you will get your credit higher. This is very important. P. M. a fine night for romance.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Be certain you avoid getting in between one whom you consider an associate and a higher up who are having a fine, heated quarrel, or you get the short end of things. P. M. excellent for joy and laughter with closest one.

If your child is born today . . . The little child born today is the type who literally will feel that the world is on his or her shoulders, and does everything the hard way, in order to get that feeling of accomplishment. In later life, however, real wisdom is learned and life becomes truly pleasurable, full of abundance and there is then a real philosophical streak in the make-up. A good child and a deserving adult here.

DENIES RUMOR

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—A spokesman for British Prime Minister Macmillan said today there is no truth to the rumor Macmillan would visit Washington on the way home from his current Commonwealth tour.

MADOC JUNCTION

Hiram Ashley Reaches 92nd Milestone

MADOC JCT. — On Tuesday evening several friends and neighbors called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Ashley to convey to Mr. Ashley best wishes on the occasion of his 92nd birthday.

Mr. Ashley is in exceptionally good health, enjoys visiting with his neighbors and reading. He also takes great enjoyment in listening to his radio.

Mrs. Warren Harlow, Eggleton Sunday school superintendent, presided over a short program for the happy event.

Several favorite hymns were sung during the program with Mrs. Maurice Clancy accompanying on her guitar.

Mrs. W. Harlow read a selected portion of Scripture and led in prayer.

Sharon Reide read a poem, "If We Had But a Day." Two other readings were given by Annamae Clarke and Norma Woodcox.

The young girls and boys from the Sunday School sang "Jesus Bids Us Shine."

Mrs. Harlow spoke briefly, expressing the good wishes of all present, also a word of welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Ray, new neighbors, and to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hollinger, who had joined in the yearly party for Mr. Ashley, which had been held each year since his 80th birthday.

PRESENTATION MADE

Miss Joanne Reide, on behalf of Eggleton Sunday School, presented Mr. Ashley with a large box of treats and fruit.

Master Lloyd Clancy carried in a beautifully decorated birthday cake, with lighted candles forming 92, this was also presented from the Sunday school.

All joined in singing "Happy Birthday."

Dainty refreshments of sandwiches, cookies and cake were served by Mr. Ashley, assisted by Annamae Clarke and Norma Woodcox.

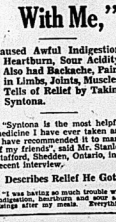
Mr. Ashley received many cards and remembrances, also a much appreciated letter from Mr. Kenneth Stewart, a former pastor.

(ADVT.)

"Everything I Ate Disagreed With Me," Says This Man

Caused Awful Indigestion, Heartburn, Sour Acidity; Also had Backache, Pains in Limbs, Joints, Muscles; Tells of Relief by Taking Syntona.

"Syntona is the most helpful medicine I have ever taken and I have recommended it to many friends", said Mr. Stanley Stafford, Shedden, Ontario, in a recent interview.



Describes Relief He Got

"I was having so much trouble with indigestion, heartburn and sour stomachings after my meals. Everything I ate disagreed with me and although I took about everything I knew of I got no satisfactory relief.

"After reading about Syntona I decided to try it and in a short time I noticed that my food was digesting better. Now I can eat anything without the fear of indigestion and heartburn is cleared up. All the pains from rheumatic and rheumatic pains in my joints and muscles are gone. Still aching pain in my back."

Syntona is a compound of medicinal ingredients including 13 of Nature's finest Herbs which have acts on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels and relieves Gas, Constipation, Headaches, Rheumatic Pains, Nervousness and Sleeplessness.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan the Druggist.

During the question period Premier Frost implied his government this session may take steps to help municipalities get loans despite credit restrictions.

ANSWERS MEMBER

The premier was answering J. J. Wintermeyer (L — Waterloo North) who also asked Attorney-General Roberts whether government plans to grant right of appeal or review in decisions of administrative boards in Ontario.

Mr. Roberts said he is awaiting recommendations from the Civil Liberties Committee of the Canadian Bar Association, meeting now in Toronto.

A report tabled by the department of travel and publicity said that Ontario's $250,000,000-a-year tourist industry still is growing and described enforcement actions taken to maintain high standards in facilities.

REFUSE LICENCES

Last year 30 licences were refused to tourist establishments, one was cancelled and another suspended. In addition 1,561 establishments were ordered to make improvements meeting requirements of the Tourist Establishments Act.

The report said Ontario is attracting more tourists every year despite competition from other vacation spots. It described the "very conservative" the 1953 estimate of $250,000,000 for the province's annual take from tourists.

Who record $,435,875 American cars entered Ontario last year, said the report. Motor licences for parties the province for stays of two or more days numbered 1,-233,362, according to the report. On last five years and surpassing 1956 by 3.3 per cent.

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. Stan Trudau, of the Trudeau Motor Sales, here, is back at work after a siege at his home with the influenza and pleurisy.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Sowden, of Loon Lake Lodge, Clyde, are spending a week's vacation in Florida. Their son, Michael, attends Tweed High School.

Sorry to hear of the illness of Pte. Whalen, at Camp Shoo. She has been confined to her home for some time through illness.

A recent visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Le-Berge, R. R. No. 2, Thomasburg, was Mrs. Fred LaBerge of Stockdale.

Mrs. Ed Goulah has arrived home in Tweed, last Saturday, after an enjoyable three-weeks' holiday with her daughter, who is employed in Niagara Falls and her son and his wife from the same city. It was the first tour and they saw many interesting spots in the U.S.A., including Florida.

Pleased to report that Miss Ruth Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Luffman, of R. R. No. 3 Tweed, has returned to return from the Belleville General Hospital, and is much improved in health.

Report Shows Liquor Profit Of $56,593,688

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government made enough money—a record $56,593,688—in the liquor field in its last fiscal year to pay for public welfare services and interest on the public debt.

The previous mark, in the 1956 fiscal year, was $50,700,000. For the year ended March 31, 1957, the government picked up the record total from the liquor control board, liquor fines and transfer fees.

It was the third most important source of revenue for the treasury. This was shown Tuesday when the public accounts and provincial auditor's report were tabled in the legislature.

The federal government provided the greatest share of the province's revenue. Tax - rental agreements with the federal government gave Ontario $160,558,229 or 33.46 per cent of the total.

The gasoline tax provided $113,670,067, or 23.53 per cent. Motor vehicle licences provided $49,101,136. Total ordinary revenue was $479,783,191.

The largest consumer of money as the department of highways. It took $232,391,971, or 25.58 per cent of the provincial expenditure. The department of education was second with $107,395,641, or 22.47 per cent.

Ambassador Moves May Lead To Summit Parley

New Soviet Envoy Takes Over Washington Duties

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Russia now appear about ready to open the diplomatic negotiations which may eventually lead to an East-West summit conference.

A new Soviet ambassador, Mikhail A. Menshikov, arrived Thursday to take command in Moscow's embassy here. He is expected to seek prompt meetings with State Secretary Dulles and President Eisenhower to present his credentials and thus clear the way for active work.

U. S. Ambassador Llewelyn Thompson, who has been home from Moscow for two weeks of consultation on Soviet relations and summit conference problems, is leaving Washington today and will get back to Moscow early next week.

Thompson is expected to meet soon with Russia's Foreign Minister Gromyko to find out how the Soviet government wants to proceed on negotiations for a top-level meeting.

EXCHANGE

Premier Bulganin advised President Eisenhower in a message Thursday that Russia agrees to an exchange of ideas through diplomatic channels to prepare the way for a conference. Eisenhower has insisted on careful preparation for any hope of positive agreements, is essential before a conference can be arranged.

Although Russia and the West-ern powers have long been deadlocked on such major issues as Berlin, Germany and basic disarmament problems, some high officials are known to feel that prolonged negotiations eventually may make some headway toward initial steps control arrangements and measures to prevent surprise attack.

Menshikov, who speaks English well, arrived Thursday aboard a Soviet jet airliner. At his official welcome he spoke English and especially emphasized the "peace, friendship and cooperation."

EXPRESS HOPE

He expressed a hope for "normalization of relations between the two" between the U.S.S.R., "especially mutually advantageous trade."

He also recalled that he had spent three years in Washington after the war, when he was an adviser to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (UNRRA).

In that period, he said, he became acquainted with the country, its leaders and the "talented and energetic American people whom I deeply respect."

"On my part I will try to do my best to do everything in order to establish and strengthen this atmosphere and understanding and trust between our countries."

Menshikov is likely to be much more active in Washington than his predecessor, Georgi N. Zarubin, who did not speak English.

START WORK AGAIN

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — The Lakehead Shipbuilding Workers' Union said Thursday clearing of the Trans-Canada pipeline right-of-way near Fort William will begin by next week. Work on a 300-mile section of the pipeline, from Fort Arthur to Hearst, was halted Jan. 2 when workers went on strike for higher wages.

Frost Unhappy With Federal Aid In Hospital Plan

Wants Ottawa's Help In TB, Mental Care

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost has indicated he is not yet satisfied with the federal government's contribution towards Ontario's projected hospital insurance scheme.

He told the Ontario legislature Thursday he still wants Ottawa to contribute toward mental hospital and tuberculosis care in the province's $210,000,000 hospital plan scheduled to begin operation next year.

Mr. Frost said Ontario's agreement with Ottawa will have the same terms as those disclosed in the legislature a year ago after negotiations with the former Liberal government.

This would provide for $72,000,000 from Ottawa with the Ontario government shouldering a lot of the burden of mental and TB care.

"But you're still interested in getting the full $100,000,000?" asked CCF Leader Donald MacDonald.

The premier nodded.

He said he did not like the federal proposal last fall which made contributions toward mental and TB care contingent upon reductions in grants under donation-provincial tax agreements.

Qby a handful of government bills were introduced Thursday. One by Health Minister Phillips provided for increased powers to remove bodies from cemeteries in police investigations.

Another by Attorney-General Roberts would include Ontario's 11,662 Indians in the basis for per capita grants to municipalities for the administration of justice.

Supervision of tourist resorts would be handed solely to the travel department under a bill introduced by Travel Minister Cathcart. Control now rests also with the lands and forests department and liquor licence board.

Tranquillizer Fails to Quiet Trapped Deer

ROCHESTER, N.Y., (AP) — A plan to free three ice-trapped deer on Lake Ontario by shooting them with darts loaded with tranquillizer drugs has collapsed.

A 14-man expedition approached the deer Thursday in a motor life boat and shot one in the flank, but nothing happened.

It was hoped that the darts, containing sedative drugs, would quillizing drug and shot from an air gun, would quiet the animals long enough to get them to shore.

C. Raymond Marsmore, local Humane Society director who led the expedition, said the boat turned back to shore with the dart-stricken animal looking on as silent as ever.

The deer were part of a group of five sighted Wednesday on a moving ice mass 300 feet off shore.

The ice was reported half a mile out Friday and two of the deer were missing. They may have drowned, Marsmore said.

Magicians should be barred from sawing women in half. There are too many of them as it is.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Cold Arctic air is once again invading Ontario in the wake of a weak weather system that brought cloud and some light snow to the province Thursday. At least partial clearing will come to most of Ontario today although a few scattered snowflurries are to be expected in almost all regions today and Saturday. More frequent flurries and local snowsqualls are indicated for the Lake Huron and Georgian Bay snow belt areas.

Election Drive Still Mainly In Training Camp

Candidates Getting Ammunition Ready

OTTAWA (CP)—Activity in the campaign for the March 31 federal general election was still mainly in the training camp today.

But CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell and former Liberal immigration minister J. W. Pickersgill hurried briefly but briskly Thursday leiting blows fall where they would.

Mr. Coldwell at a press conference aimed blows at both the Conservative administrative government of Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the Liberal led by Leader L. B. Pearson. He had a word for Social Credit Leader Solon Low and his followers, too.

Both the CCF leader and Mr. Pickersgill were somewhat scornful of the pre - election public works program announced Wednesday by Mr. Diefenbaker. It would touch every province at a possible over-all cost of $250,000,000.

"PRE-ELECTION PROMISES"

Mr. Coldwell said: "I would welcome a really substantial program. But this looks like one of those pre-election promises."

Mr. Pickersgill, seeking return to the seat for the Newfoundland constituency of Bonavista-Twillingate, said of the initial works program: "It is Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island:

"There's nothing new about it." He said the $12,000,000 airport development at St. John's is "the biggest white elephant for 2½ years. Former Liberal works minister Robert Winters had indicated:

There was nothing new about the other announced project, a $50,000 engineering study of the feasibility of a causeway to link Prince Edward Island to the mainland.

"Both the Tories and ourselves unscrtook to study them." Mr. Pickersgill said. "Both parties were completely committed."

Mr. Coldwell said his party expects to win more than this election than the 25 it held when Parliament was dissolved last September.

He doubted that either the Conservatives or Liberals would get set an over-all majority in the 265-seat Commons.

NEEDS GOOD SHOWING

He added that "if the Liberal party doesn't make a good showing in this election it is on the way out."

Mr. Low's room in Canada for only two parties, one radical—if you like that word—and a conservative party spelt with a small c.

The battle between the Conservatives and the Liberals under the latter designation.

Social Credit, Mr. Coldwell said he believes that party will be "wiped out" in the election.

Meantime, Mr. Diefenbaker spoke Thursday at non-political matters. It was "just a nonpartisan visit" to the latter's home minister, an aide said.

Mr. Diefenbaker continued his campaign meditations at an undisclosed retreat.

Players Only Remember Running From Wreck on Advice of Crew

MUNICH, Germany (Reuters) — Manchester United soccer players Harry Gregg and Bill Foulkes said early today they acted apart from the wreckage of their crashed airliner after a crew member suggested they "run for it."

Describing Thursday's crash at the outskirts of Munich airport, Gregg, a goalkeeper, said:

"I thought I had been killed for me. Then the crash came, I just cannot remember the details. My feet were facing the tail. My safety belt was broken but I got all the way out.

"I pushed some bits of metal and rubber out of a hole in the side of the plane. I landed up in quite deep snow but I did not realize it at the time.

"I heard somebody about 'Run for it, the plane is going to blow up.'

"At first I thought I was the only one left. I could not realize I was alive myself. In fact, I thought I was dreaming."

"I lost both my shoes in the crash. Then I found one of them and I picked another up. I was running around barefoot in the snow, helping to get people out of the rubble.

"I think I was very lucky. I only got a nosebleed and my right leg injured. I was treated at the hospital and I am told it is O.K."

Foulkes, a right-back said:

"I got a bang on the back of my head and I think I blacked out. When I came to, I heard one of the crew shout, 'Get clear—run like hell.'

"I felt my head and my knees and everything seemed to be there. I unstrapped myself and ran like hell.

"I stopped 50 or 60 yards away, turned and then saw the wreck for the first time. I came back to it, and jumped over a lot of wreckage and some things which looked like bodies.

Canada and United States Missile Bases Plan Likely

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canada-United States air defence agreement now being worked out likely will include provisions for possible American missile bases in this country, authorities say.

However, it was learned on the highest authority that the U.S. has not formally requested that it be permitted to build any new radar or missile stations in Canada.

Washington reports have said the U.S. Air Force will soon begin construction in the Arctic of three ballistic missile detection stations equipped with 2,000-mile range radar. Range of present radar extends only a few hundred miles.

It is assumed here that two of these stations will be located in Greenland and Alaska. Authorities said that if the U.S. wants to erect the third in the Canadian Arctic it will request the government of Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the Liberal led by Leader L. B. Pearson. He had a word for Social Credit Leader Solon Low and his followers, too.

Both the CCF leader and Mr. Pickersgill were somewhat scornful of the pre - election public works program announced Wednesday by Mr. Diefenbaker. It would touch every province at a possible over-all cost of $250,000,000.

World of Sports Laments Loss of Manchester Stars

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters)—Flags flew at half-staff throughout this motoring city today and the whole world of sports lamented the loss of Manchester soccer stars and sports reporters in a Munich air disaster Thursday.

Manager Matt Busby, defending English champions and favored to win the European Cup this year and next spring, was returning from Belgrade, Yugoslavia, where his team was to play the semi-finals of the European Soccer Cup competition.

Relatives of injured players took off this afternoon in special British European Airways plane. The airline prepared the plane to fly the dead back to Manchester.

Scheduled Football League match Saturday between United and one of its chief rivals, Wolverhampton Wanderers, was called off.

All other scheduled league games will be played, but every stadium will observe two minutes' silence before the game and hundreds of soccer players throughout Britain will wear black arm bands.

Manchester soccer officials received a flood of sympathy notes from teams throughout the world.

Yugoslavia's Red Star club knocked out of the European Cup competition in home-and-away series with Manchester, has decided to suggest that Manchester United be proclaimed honorary European champions for 1958.

The Belgrade newspaper Politika suggested other finalists withdraw from the contest in favor of Manchester.

The Spain, Santiago Bernabeu, president of the Real (Royal) Madrid club, which produced awarding the 1958 Europe Soccer Cup to Manchester if the United States team popular foreign team ever to have played on soil.

Italian fans mourned, and recalled the black day in 1949 when 18 members of the popular Turin club were killed in an air crash. Their funeral was a national occasion ordered flag lowered at all playing fields for the occasion. Regarding to Vienna reports.

British newspapers, which carried little other news but reports on the disaster on their front pages today, raised the question of whether teams should travel together in the plane.

The Daily Mail says authorities face the question whether "corporate bodies of any kind, including political bodies, should travel together in one plane.

Cigaret Prices Raise Problems For Government

OTTAWA (CP) — An intricate problem in application of the rule of law — which, ideally, is intended to guarantee each of the individual a fair deal — has arisen around cigaret prices.

If necessary, how can legitimate interests of the public be safeguarded while at the same time the smokers' right to benefit from free-enterprise competition is preserved?

The growth of giant sales outlets has added new entanglements to this question of whether there is any discrimination in distribution of cigarets in Canada.

Corner tobacconist have swamped the government with complaints. Their main target is the supermarket. They fear the growth of these and other huge sales outlets will force them out of little tobacco shop to disappear.

Complaints have been lodged with committees scrutiny, are double-edged. The tobacconists complain that the supermarkets are buying in huge quantities, get supplies from the wholesaler at lower prices.

CHARGE PRICE CUTTING

They also charge that some supermarkets and other outlets are engaging in "predatory price cutting" — selling cigarets below cost to attract more customers.

Meantime, smokers are able to buy their cigarets cheaper, if they choose.

Justice Minister Davie Fulton told the Commons last December that so-called loss - leader selling in cigarets is under "vigorous" investigation. selling cigaretion facing federal officials is whether unfair price-cutting exists.

Missing Driver Found, Rushed To Hospital

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — David McBay, 66, missing and feared drowned after his car disappeared Thursday overturned on a small creek, was found today. Police searchers located Mc-Bay huddled in a farmer's car about a mile from the accident scene. He was rushed to hospital here suffering "from exposure."

Doctors Working In Relays Strive Desperately To Save Manchester United Injured

Disaster struck at this British soccer team shortly after the members celebrated a victory in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, as part of the European championship matches. At Munich, Germany, their plane crashed into a house, and of 44 aboard the plane seven players, eight Manchester sports writers, four other passengers and one crew member died. Many of the players of the Manchester United team toured Canada. The team won the English championship three years in succession.

Pete the Budgie Can Belt Out Some Beethoven

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete the budgie not only can give out with a silly wolf whistle accompanied by saying "Hello, baby" and "I love you, too"—he can belt out some Beethoven right on key.

Pete occupies a private cage in the bird department of the American Museum of Natural History.

He arrived at a museum office window a couple of years ago and was taken in by Mary Elizabeth Jones, Edna Brock, a former music teacher, taught Pete the first eight notes of the last movement of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. Within a few hours Pete was singing melodiously without a flaw.

Disaster struck at this British soccer team shortly after the members celebrated a victory in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, as part of the European championship matches. At Munich, Germany, their plane crashed into a house, and of 44 aboard the plane seven players, eight Manchester sports writers, four other passengers and one crew member died. Many of the players of the Manchester United team toured Canada. The team won the English championship three years in succession.

MUNICH (CP) — Relays of doctors worked desperately throughout the night to save the lives of Britain's soccer championship soccer team, Manchester United, and others critically injured in a plane crash that took the lives of 21 persons in a tragedy mourned throughout the soccer world.

Seven players of the coach of the famed United club died Thursday in the crash, along with eight British sports writers, one member of the chartered British European Airways crew, and four other passengers.

Of the 23 survivors, 15 were still in hospital today. Most critically injured were Matt Busby, Manchester manager and one of soccer's top masterminds; John Berry, a forward; and sports writer Frank Taylor.

"We do not believe that the case of any one of these is hopeless," the hospital director, Dr. George Maurer, said this morning.

INVESTIGATE CRASH

Among those caring for the injured was Dr. Michael Newhouse, a young Canadian physician from on a year's exchange visit.

Meanwhile a nine-member investigating commission from BEA, flown from London Thursday night, searched the snow-covered wreckage of the twin-engined Elizabethan plane that crashed at the airfield perimeter on its third takeoff attempt.

Representatives of West Germany's federal air office joined in the probe of one of Germany's worst air crashes since the war.

The London Daily Mail, one of seven camera men survived the crash, in a dispatch from Munich quoted BEA chief executive Anthony Milward as saying that the possibility of sabotage "be completely ruled out at this stage."

But a BEA official in London said the airline had "no reason at all to suspect sabotage," and Josef Reichel, chief of the Munich airport's aircraft inspection, said the possibility of sabotage "seems entirely far fetched."

The team from Manchester, North England's industrial area, was on its way home from Belgrade after tying Yugoslavia's Red Star team 3-3 and advancing to the semi-finals of the European Cup matches.

The plane stopped in Munich to refuel. On the third try to take off in a snowstorm, it got about 60 feet above the ground, faltered, and plowed into a two-lilted 30 wooden shed crammed with gasoline and oil cans, creating an inferno.

ESCAPE INJURY

A woman and four children here in Britain were on the plane but, but escaped injury. Earlier it had been feared that two children had died in the house.

Only 18 players of the club which toured Canada twice in recent years survived.

Soccer fans throughout the world reacted with shocked disbelief, finding it hard to realize that their idols Tommy Taylor, Roger Byrne and David Pegg were dead.

Fuchs' Sno-Cats Limp to Depot 700, He Messages Hillary to Bring Skis

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters) British explorer Vivian Fuchs, leader of the Commonwealth trans - Antarctic expedition, arrived at Depot 700 today on his trek across the frozen continent.

The six-foot Britton now has completed two-thirds of his 2,100-mile march across the frozen continent in a race against time. He hopes to set out shortly on the remaining 700 miles to South Base, on the coast, before the end of the polar winter in the beginning of March.

No man has ever made the trip.

Fuchs arrived at Depot 700 at 4:20 a.m. EST ahead of two tracked vehicles limping along after they plunged into crevasses 30 miles to the south. The vehicles were dismantled yesterday and patched up by other members of the 12-man party.

Sir Edmund Hillary, who heads the New Zealand section of the Commonwealth expedition, plans to fly to Depot 700 Saturday and accompany Fuchs on the remainder of the journey.

Hillary had opposed Fuchs' attempt to make the transcontinental trek after the Britton was delayed on his 56-day journey from Shackleton Bast to the South Pole.

In a radio message to South Base, Fuchs asked Hillary to bring skis for his party.

Near-Capacity Crowd Enjoys Portugal Film

The fifth in a series of six World Travel and Adventure programs, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, was held last night in BCIVS.

"Portugal and the Azores" was Karl Robinson's latest accomplishment in his career as a roving motion picture photographer. The near-capacity crowd saw scenes from some of Portugal's romantic cities and towns and they visited the country's hinterland, the Algarve.

The collection of small islands several hundred miles off the west coast of Portugal, known as the Azores, have a population of roughly 280,000 people. It is here that many commercial and military airplanes land to refuel after crossing the Atlantic Ocean. The Azores, sometimes referred to as the Canary Islands, are possessions of Portugal and have a combined area of 1,000 square miles.

Mr. Robinson's film was colorful and interesting, and his comments described even more vividly the flora and fauna and the history of the small and the Azores.

The next and final program in the series will be held on March 13, when Curtis Nagel is scheduled to paint a "Portrait of London."

PCs to Hold Convention on February 19th

PICTON — Prince Edward - Lennox Progressive Conservative Association has announced Wednesday afternoon, February 19 as the date for a convention at which a candidate will be chosen to represent the party in the March 31 election. The convention is being held in the Regent theatre, Picton, commencing at one o'clock. It is expected there will be a special speaker and since there is accompanying the election several hundred others, not delegates, the public will be admitted. It is expected that approximately five hundred delegates, in addition to those party in the riding, will be selected at meetings to be held on Monday night, Feb. 10.

Clarence A. Milligan of Napanee, who was elected member last June with a majority of more than three thousand votes, has announced that he will seek the nomination. Though others are being mentioned, none has definitely stated he will contest the nomination.

Several liberals who were queried yesterday, stated that they had not heard anything definite in regards to a nomination meeting of that party.

Chrysler May Enter Small Car Field

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chrysler Corporation is carefully studying the possibility of getting into the small car field, President L. L. Colbert testified Thursday.

But so far, he told the Senate anti-trust and monopoly committee, his company has been unable to find a way to produce small cars in the United States that could sell for much less than present makes.

He said the price difference would be only a few dollars.

The Senate group is studying pricing practices in the U.S. auto industry.

Colbert testified Chrysler is looking at the small car idea despite an unsuccessful effort to market a smaller and cheaper car in 1933. At that time, he said, General Motors and Ford "went the other way and we lost out."

He said a small car has approximately the same number of parts and the labor, "the biggest part of the cost," is just about as great.

Small One-Day Fairs May Be on Way Out Supt. Of Fairs Tells Convention

The question of whether the smaller one-day fairs are fulfilling the purpose for which they were intended, will come up for some spirited discussion at the annual convention of the Ontario Fairs Association to be held later this month in Toronto.

Mr. F. A. Lashley, superintendent of fairs, speaking at the Central Fairs Association convention at Kingston in the Belleville Thursday, said that the question of whether small fairs should be cut out and whether they were doing a good job, was being asked.

"Whether they were cut out would depend upon the people who run them," he said.

In an effort to get some answers on the question a panel discussion dealing with whether the small fairs were facing extinction would be staged during the big fairs convention.

Mr. Lashley noted that these fairs should be cut out and growing majority of people now living in the cities and the boards must plan their programs to catch the interest of the urban dwellers.

"Gate receipts," he said, "were the life blood of fairs."

Mr. Lashley asked, with the changing times, whether emphasis has been placed in the right place. As an illustration he noted that while the cost was the same today as they were 25 years ago, but the value of the horse today was never lower.

However, he assumed he was not critical when he shows, only emphasizing that fair programs must be revised and kept up to date.

CAREFUL PLANNING NEEDED

"With careful planning we can still emphasize agriculture in our fair programs and at the same time provide entertainment for urban fair-goers."

Stating that some fairs were little more than carnivals, Mr. Lashley stressed that the program of fairs be a combination must be kept.

He said the department of agriculture was watching the matter very closely with view of subsidizing whether fair grants were being spent wisely.

Mrs. Mary E. Lashley invited fair boards to take full advantage of capital grants offered for the improvements. He noted that the department subsidy is 50 per cent basis on such improvements.

Sidney Fitzgerald of Shannonville, vice-president of the Ontario Fairs Association and expected to be the next president, also warned that the smaller fairs must be on their toes, stating that they must show good spending in agriculture classes or lose out.

With many new buildings being constructed by the larger fairs, Mr. Fitzgerald suggested it might be a good thing to have such buildings named, for the conveniences of fair-goers.

He felt that fairs generally were on the uptrend noting there were now three class "B" fairs in the Central district. "Another fair would soon be entering this class", he said.

With the central area dairying district, Mr. Fitzgerald felt there should be more cheese shows at fairs.

Entertainment for the smaller fairs will be another for discussion at the Ontario Fairs Association convention.

In closing Mr. Fitzgerald complimented the women for their interest in fair work. "They usually have something new every year, if it were not for the ladies our fairs would be lacking," he said.

WELCOMED BY MAYOR

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde welcomed fair delegates to the convention, stating that Belleville, the "Friendly City," was always happy to have such conventions. A banquet Thursday an early age Mayor Hyde said he realized that planning of fair programs meant a lot of work on the part of directors. He hoped that all fairs in the district would have a successful season in 1958.

Mayor Hyde was introduced to the convention by Belleville Fair President Dr. J. Russell Scott.

Ernest Henderson of Picton, was named district fair director, succeeding John Thompson, of Queensboro. Assistant director is Gordon McCubbin of Warkworth, with C. W. Varcoe living in the district as the agricultural representative. Auditors are Emerson Hodgett, Picton, and Jesse Locke of Campbellford.

According to the custom of previous years, the fair board members held separate meetings in the morning when fair reports from the various delegates were heard, while at the men's meeting Thursday night the 1958 was fixed. The men had an attendance of 52, while 37 attended the women's meeting, representing 14 different fairs in the district.

Mrs. Fred Clarke of Belleville, was named president of the women's section with Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald of Shannonville, and Mrs. A. Wilkes of Denbigh as vice-presidents. Mrs. Harry Rollins of Belleville, was returned as secretary-treasurer.

The women's meeting was also presided over by last year's president, Mrs. R. J. Penney of Kingston.

Their program included a paper by Mrs. F. Wilson Reynolds "Fair Days, Dull Daze," written by Mrs. Harold Rowe of Simcoe. The debut phases of fair programming were gone into when Mrs. Sid MacDonald, Agricultural Representative for Hastings County, and Donald Taylor, agricultural representative for Prince Edward County.

Last year's district director, John Thompson, of Queensboro, chaired the joint meeting and gave a verbal report on the district fairs visited last year.

Fair dates set were as follows:

35 Harness Horses Stabled At Track for Winter Training

The half mile track at the Belleville Fair Grounds is fast gaining popularity among racehorse owners as a good track for winter training of their trotters and pacers.

At the present time there are no less than 35 harness horses stabled in the town barns at the local fair grounds and are daily put through their paces on the race track. More horses are expected to arrive before the week is out.

Vernon Waddell, racehorse owner from Norwich, Ont., noted today that he personally prefer Belleville for winter training is that the track remains in good condition despite adverse weather conditions.

"The track always stays hard," he said.

Mr. Waddell now has 11 horses stabled at Belleville and expects to have more arrive soon.

He prophesied that next winter could see as many as 100 racehorses winter training at Belleville if the accommodation was available.

The horses will remain in Belleville until the middle of April and will then go to Montreal for the start of the racing season.

There is some high class horse flesh stabled at the local fair grounds, but one of the horses has won trials remains in good condition despite adverse weather conditions.

Witness Tells Of Funny Noise In Air Disaster

MONTREAL (CP)—A witness Thursday told a board inquiring into an air disaster in which 79 persons died last August 11 that he heard a noise "like an aircraft about to swoop down to bomb a ship" just before the crash.

Hilaire Desroches, 34, of St. Croix, Que., who served 23 months aboard the aircraft carrier Magnificent, said he was returning from fishing nearby when the crash occurred. A dog near Iroquois, Que., 15 miles from Quebec City.

He was one of five witnesses called Thursday, first day of the inquiry.

Four of Thursday's witnesses said they had been fishing in the area and either saw or heard a low-flying plane about the same time the DC-4 struck.

The fifth, Sgt. Jack Glydon, 22, of the RCAF Search and Rescue Unit base at Trenton, Ont., said he was the third RCAF man to investigate the crash scene.

IN SHARP DIVE

He said it appeared to him the Maritime Central Airways DC-4 airliner—chartered to bring home families of ex-servicemen serving in the Korean war—"plunged straight in . . . it was in a sharp vertical dive."

"In my opinion," said Sgt. Glydon, who has seen many crashes in his 10 years with Search and Rescue, "there was no explosion before it struck. There were bits of clothing and debris stuck in the trees, but there was no chance from impact.

"If there had been an explosion in the air a big scene would not have been so well defined.

"There was one baffling thing about the crash scene," Sgt. Glydon said.

"We didn't discover one soldier or airman with his safety belt on. I wonder if this meant anything or not I don't know."

Mrs. Ethel Desjardins, 37, a Montreal laundry foreman, was the only witness who reported seeing flame in the air before the crash. He heard a "hissing sound" similar to that made by jet planes he had seen come down during overseas service with the RCAF during the Second World War, he said. He ran from his cabin and saw the plane in a steep glimpse of the doomed craft. He estimated its altitude was about 1,000 feet.

The plane's engines were silent as it passed his shelter, he said. But one sounded as though it started again as it disappeared. The plane crashed in a flat area about 2½ miles from the airport.

Mr. Marcel Lord said it sounded to him as though an engine started over the shack, as "the noise changed the sound of an aviation motor."

Pioneer Pilot Poulliot, 45, of Ste. Croix, Que., returning from fishing with Mr. Desroches, said he heard a plane about 20 seconds before the crash. It seemed to be "accelerating."

Like the other ground witnesses, he emphasized visibility was poor because of heavy rain. Thunder was intermittent but rainstorm was not severe.

Lighting Hall fell after 3 p.m. Mr. Desroches said "I heard the plane about 20 seconds. It was the aircraft made a noise like as a plane about to swoop down to throw a torpedo."

"It is a sound of going down and pulling up again. Only this case went down and we didn't hear it coming up."

The inquiry into the crash, Canada's worst air disaster, was called by the department of transport.

Chairman Lucien Beauregard, a Montreal lawyer, said its purpose is to express an opinion on the cause and to find a culprit or assess blame." That was the responsibility of others.

AROUND THE WORLD IN 89 HOURS

Joe Cavoli, Cleveland restaurant operator, checks arrival time on clock of Cleveland airport after he set a new speed record for an around-the-world flight via commercial airliners. At left is Cleveland Mayor Anthony Celebrezze. Cavoli completed the 20,400-mile trip in 89 hours, 18 minutes, shaving one hour and 39 minutes off the record set by Pamela Martin of Chicago in 1953.

Canine Distemper Rampant In City, Surrounding Areas

Dogdom's number one killer is speeding through the Quinte district almost like wildfire. The deadliest ill, canine distemper, has reached its pinnacle here in Bayside, Belleville and surrounding areas.

Dr. Harry Burns, Belleville veterinarian, said yesterday that the canine distemper is reaching "the worst it's ever been in this district." He added that hundreds of letters to report pick up the disease which kills over 50 per cent of the dogs it strikes.

This winter's peculiar temperatures are partly to blame for the epidemic.

Dog owners are not doing all they can to curb its advance.

Like other district veterinarians, Dr. Burns urges dog owners to keep their pets tied up. "Don't let them run at large, particularly in built-up areas," is where canine distemper can spread very fast.

"Dogs that have contracted feline distemper, but pussy's disease is not considered a serious as bowser's.

Puppies are most susceptible and less than older dogs, although that doesn't mean mature dogs are immune to the disease. Distemper occurs most frequently among pups and old or sick dogs. And if a dog has been vaccinated against distemper, that is no sure-fire protection, although vaccination does give dogs a better-than-even chance of immunity or survival should they become afflicted.

Dr. Burns, who probably hasn't had a good night's sleep in weeks, suggests that dog owners take their unvaccinated pets to the veterinarian. There is no reparative need of previously vaccinated dogs being "re-shot", although in some cases revaccination might be in order.

No fear 100 per cent safe from contracting distemper. The earliest symptoms of the disease are loss of appetite and fever. Any abnormality spotted by dog owners is often abruptly met by a slight cold, an upset stomach, too much playing or eating or something the previous day. It could be distemper.

COMMON SYMPTONS

Here are the common symptons of canine distemper: fever and, in some cases, a watery discharge from the eyes and nose, lasting about two days. Advanced distemper is symptomatous, by convulsions. That's when the disease claims another life.

Be on the lookout for dogs that don't show much interest in eating unless coaxed and those which, left alone, curl up and don't display much interest in anything. Play safe, take those animals to a veterinarian.

For a good example of the horrors of canine distemper here is a brief story of a little fatherless, except for one small brown puppy, that was wiped out by the disease. The survivor may die yet.

Yesterday afternoon a woman took six dogs to the Belleville Animal Hospital. One went home alive. The others were picked up later, dead. A young female dog, adopted last September, and four of her seven puppies were "put to sleep" yesterday because they had contracted distemper. Before the pups were killed the mother had become afflicted. Naturally, the new-born pups contracted it from her. One pup died at birth. Another was shot Wednesday night when the owner couldn't stand its pitiful cries any longer. The mother, her eyes pasted almost closed, and looking every inch a very sick dog, was the next seriously afflicted in the family. She died first.

Sally Burns who looks on every animal as his personal friend: "This is the toughest thing we have to do in our business."

Dr. Burns could not recall off-hand how many afflicted dogs he has "put to sleep" since the outbreak began a short while ago. But the mother dog and her pups constituted the first "family" he has had to do away with. He said "too many" dogs in Belleville have the disease.

The viruses of distemper can be carried by the air. There is no absolute protection from the disease, but immediate vaccination can be the difference between life or death for many dogs.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market eased in moderate morning trading as industrials dropped 1¼ points on their index.

Base metals and western oils each lost more than one-half point on index while golds were virtually unchanged. Volume at 11 a.m. was 78,000 shares compared with 999,000 at the same time Thursday.

Trans Mountain led individual losers, among industrials with a 1¼-point decline to 50¾. Consol-Paper, Trans-Canada Sielco, Powell River, Imperial Oil, Gatineau Power and Canada Permanent Mortgage each lost at least one-half point.

Dominion Steel, Moore Corp, Interprovincial Pipe Line, Dominion Bridge, B.C. Forest and Bank of Montreal had small fractional gains.

Senior base metals were easier with International Nickel down ¼ to 74, Hudson Bay off ⅛ to 44¼ and Falconbridge down ⅛ to 34. Steep Rock lost 10 cents at $9.35.

Mining groups showed no definite trend as prices moved in a narrow range. Western oil changes were extremely narrow.

Weekend Livestock Report

TORONTO (CP) — All classes of slaughter cattle sold steady except bulls at the Ontario public stockyards this week. These gained fully 50 cents a hundredweight.

Top grades of veal calves were in active demand at firm prices. Hogs lost two dollars a hundredweight and sheep and lamb prices were unchanged.

Light receipts, coupled with improved quality, made for a fairly active market, particularly on the good and choice grades. Lower grades of steers and heifers met some buyer resistance, however these were also sold by the close of the week. Many buyers were of the opinion that the yields would be better this week in spite of the fact that excessively dirty cattle continued to dominate the receipts. Cows sold well throughout the week with bulls, particularly the good heavy bolognas, being in short supply. Thir latter class gained fully 50 cents and a hundredweight.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers 22-25; with numerous loads at 22.25; good 20-21.25; medium 18.50 — 19.50; common 16-17.50; good heifers 19-20; medium 17-18.50; common ranged from 14-16.50; choice fed yearlings 22-23; good 20-21.50; good cows 15-15.50 with good light beifery cows selling up to 16.50; medium 13.50-14.50; common 12-13; canners and cutters 10-12; good heavy bologna bulls mostly 17 with sales to 17.50; light bulls 16-16.50; common and medium 14-16.

Replacement cattle: Good feeder steers, weight feeder steers 21-22; good lightweights 22.50; medium 20-21; medium 18-20.

Calves: Good vealers 29-32; with choice selling to 33 and yearlings sold well at fully steady prices.

Cattle receipts were 1,000 head less than last week and about 1,300 head more than the same week in 1957. Receipts from Western Canada totalled 201 head and compared with 193 head last week. No shipments were made to United States and Canadian slaughterers and two carloads were shipped to the U.S.A.

Prices

Hogs: Grade A 23; sows 22 with lights 24; stags 15 a hundredweight on a dressed weight basis.

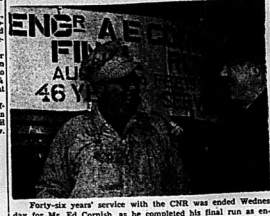
Sheep and lambs: Double deck of western lambs 24.50; native lambs 23.50-24; one small lot of Southdowns at 26; medium lambs 23-25; sheep 3-5; according to quality.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged today.

The egg market was reported firm with offerings light and demand light.

Country dealers are quoted on graded eggs, delivered Toronto, in fibre cases: A large 36-37; A medium 34; A small 28; B 29; C 21. Wholesale to retail: A large 41-42; A medium 39; A small 33; B 34; C 30.



Butter prices: Canada, first grade: Ontario 62¼-62½ in extremely light trading; western 62-62½ (nominal).

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 1 21-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 98⅝.

Pound sterling $2.77, down ¼.

Completes Final Run

Forty-six years' service with the CNR was ended Wednesday for Mr. Ed Cornish, as he completed his final run as engineer of the "International Limited." Mr. Cornish is shown (left) receiving a farewell from G. L. Galloway, CNR superintendent of motive power.

46 Years of Service Ends For E. Cornish, CNR Engineer

It was the "end of the run" Wednesday for CNR engineer Ed Cornish, 394 Bleecker Ave., as for the last time he brought the Montreal-bound "International Limited" to a stop at the north station.

At Toronto friends draped the locomotive of the flyer with a banner noting his 46 years with the service and as he climbed down from the cab for the last time at Belleville he was greeted by a host of friends and brothers railroaders.

A native of Hamilton, Mr. Cornish started his railway career at Windsor as a fireman in 1911. He remained in the border city for a short period before being moved to Toronto and then was transferred to Belleville in 1931 where he has since remained. For the past several years he has been exclusively on passenger service.

A lover of flowers, Mr. Cornish expects to spend more time than ever in his flower garden next summer. He has no other hobbies.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornish have two sons, Ralph, with the Sun Life at Calgary, and Barry, a high school teacher at Bowmanville. Their only daughter is now in training as a nurse at Western Hospital in Toronto.

Belleville has been home for Mr. and Mrs. Cornish for the past 27 years and they will continue to make it their home here.

"There is no place like Belleville," Mrs. Cornish told The Ontario Intelligencer.

Metro Police Ordered to 'Get Tough'

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police commissioners have issued "get tough" orders to police dealing with a swollen tide of armed robberies.

Commissioner Chairman Magistrate C. O. Bick Thursday approved use by police of whatever force is necessary to stamp out what he called the local aspect of an international crime wave.

There have been 41 armed holdups in Toronto in the new year, including five bank robberies.

Said Metropolitan Chairman Fred Gardiner:

"Powder puff tactics are out. Criminals are going to get shot at."

He said once the underworld learns police are going to get tough, criminals will know Toronto is no easy mark and will leave.

The commission authorized a letter of congratulation be sent to RCMP Constable Robert Nichols who shot at three men, fleeing after a robbery last Friday at a branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

Seek to Raise Qualifications For Teachers

TORONTO (CP)—Higher qualifications for elementary teachers in Ontario will be required by an amendment to the schools administration act introduced in the legislature by Education Minister Dunlop.

The new clause will require a board to appoint a principal and teachers who are all qualified, he told the legislature Wednesday.

He said later the move was an attempt to cut down on such practices as issuing "letters of permission" to persons without teacher training. The change is also aimed at boards which hire unqualified teachers although qualified eachers are available.

If such practices continue, the department will get the unqualified teacher grants from the province, the minister said.

Bank of Canada Interest Rate Declines Again

OTTAWA (CP) — A net cut in the Bank of Canada interest rate has been taken as further indication of easier monthly supplies with the result possibly a sharp downward trend in interest rates generally this year.

During the last five months the central bank's rate has declined by some 25 per cent.

The rate, a reflection of credit availability on money market, reached a 18-month low by week a 3.24 per cent, down 50 per cent from last week and .59 per cent from the week before.

It was still a long way off the all-time low of 1½ per cent in 1951. But it has declined by 1.00 percentage points from the record of 4.32 last Aug. 22.

The United States, meantime, appears to be moving away from high interest rates at a faster clip than Canada.

SET ABOVE

The Bank of Canada's charge on its loans to chartered banks and other lending institutions is set at one-quarter per cent above the week's average yield on the government's 9- , day treasury bills.

Informants said there was a heavy bidding or the $115,000,000 worth of three short - term securities. This apparently indicates that some banks and investment houses had a lot more idle uods on their hands than they could put to immediate use in long-term investments.

The average treasury bill rate in Canada currently is 2.99 per cent. But in the U. S. it is well below that level at 1.58 per cent.

And the difference between the treasury bill rate in the two countries appear to be growing. 1.54 per cent and the U. S. 2.86— a difference of .78 per cent. This low has widened to 1.41 per cent.

The lowering yield in treasury bill interest returns eventually is expected to get the long - term bond field. Some of these long-term interest rates have already declined and appear likely to slip further.

Comets Defeat F.I.S. Squad By 5-4 Count

TRENTON — The manager of the Comets had the first phase of his big come true as his RCAF hockey team downed the F.I.S. squad in a 5-4 victory at the Community Centre last night.

The winning goal came at 12.45 of the third period when LAC J. W. Kaulback took a pass from FO R. C. Beebler and slipped it past the FIS netminder. It was Kaulback's second goal of the game. His first came in the second frame.

Cpl. C. M. Wilberforce also slammed in two markers for the winning Comets. Both of them came in the crucial middle stanza.

LAC J. L. Hayes was the other Comet scorer, getting a single, also in the second.

FO J. Miller was the big gun for the FIS, getting two counters in the first. His teammates FO Henderson and FO Branch collected one each.

Both goaltenders, Prescott for the FIS and Kaulbach for the Comets, did an outstanding job, with LaRush being more so in the third frame when he stopped shots from an angles and keeping his opponents scoreless.

The hard-skating Flyers took an early lead in the game and held it until the 10.45 minute mark of the second period when Comet's Hayes tied the score at 4-4.

The Comets were scoreless at the end of the first period the FIS had a 3-0 lead. But they came back strong in the second to outscore the league leaders 4-1. The losers were scoreless in the last frame with Kaulbach and the Comets collecting the only marker.

Adding "insult to injury" was in the lineups when the Comets were only dressing nine of their players and the FIS turned out in full strength.

SUMMARY

First Period
FIS—J. Miller 1.10
FIS—Henderson 8.20
FIS—J. Miller (Pelletier) 8.45
Penalties—none.

Second Period

Penalties—Beebler, Voelkl, Hayes (2), Burley, Davis.

Third Period
Comets—Kaulbach (Bechler) 12.45
Penalties—T. Miller, Branch (game misconduct), Davis (2).

In other games played last night the Flyers whipped the Combines 7-1 and 8 Repair Depot coasted to a 4-1 win over the Headquarters squad.

Motor Vehicle Production Down

OTTAWA (CP)—Motor vehicle production was 37 per cent lower last month than a year ago but still was almost 11 per cent above output two years ago, the bureau of statistics reported Thursday.

Output totalled 32,908 units in January compared with 45,103 a year earlier and 29,671 two years earlier. Passenger car production in January was 24,949 compared with 38,377 a year earlier but still was above the January, 1956 output o 24,721 cars.

Commercial vehicle production was 7,959 units in January from 6,726 a year earlier and 4,950 two years earlier.

Vote to Expel Insubordinate New York Pupils

NEW YORK (AP) — The city board of education has ruled that effective today, any public school student accused of violence or insubordination shall be suspended from regular school attendance.

The board, after a meeting at the Tuesday, termed the new order "a departure from previous policy."

The school agency's ruling followed by only a few hours the urging by a special Brooklyn grand jury of "prompt exemplary action" to clear out of our schools that one per cent who prevent the other 99 per cent from getting the benefit of almost $200,000,000 of our tax money."

The grand jury has been investigating violence, including a series of raping, knifing, assaults and general lawlessness, in the city's 900 public schools housing 1,000,000 pupils.

The jury's latest statement was issued shortly after hundreds of mothers and school officials converged on the state capitol at Albany to seek more state aid for school safety facilities.

In its edict the board made it clear that "under existing conditions no instructional time is provided for such (suspended) pupils."

This poses the problem of what to do with pupils ejected from the school's Youth House, in the Bronx, is now the only place to which delinquent minors can be remanded for temporary custody pending hearing of their cases. And it already is overcrowded.

Welcomed to City

Mr. Cecil E. W. Hiuser, former supervisor of the UIC insurance branch at Sudbury, is show being welcomed to Belleville where he has been named manager of the Unemployment Insurance Commission succeeding Mr. H. H. Reed. Mr. Hiuser takes over from Mr. A. P. Lleahy (right) who has been acting manager of the Belleville office.

Cecil E. W. Hiuser Named Manager Employment Office

Former supervisor of the insurance branch of the Unemployment Insurance Commission in Sudbury, Cecil E. W. Hiuster, has been named manager of the employment office at Belleville, succeeding Mr. H. H. Reed, who retired last autumn. Mr. Hiuser assumed his new duties this week, taking over from Mr. A. P. Leahy, who acted here acting manager.

A native of the Stratford area Mr. Hiuser received a B.A. degree at Embro and has been with the Unemployment Insurance Commission for the past 13 years.

Following high school he studied for a year at Western University at London and also went to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph for one year.

He joined the Canadian Army in 1943 but due to a disability suffered during training was discharged the following year and in 1945 joined the civil service and became associated with the Sudbury office where he was employment and claims officer. In August, 1950 he was promoted to supervisor of the insurance branch supervising a regular staff of 17 workers.

Prior to joining the army he was employed with International Nickel at Sudbury for four years.

Keenly interested in sports and in reading, Mr. Hiuser is a Presbyterian and was active in church work in Sudbury, where he was elder for eight years and Sunday School superintendent for 14 years.

He is married and has four children in age from five to 13 years.

WHEN IS A GREEN LIGHT NOT A GREEN LIGHT?

When is a green light not a green light?

Between traffic, the gentleman from North Front Street said it was when one was crossing the road at the intersection of Front and Station Streets, at the Upper Bridge.

Not only was the green light facing pedestrians down-town bound not a green light once, it was not a green light three times over.

It was not a green light when the pedestrian stepped off the curb on the north side of the bridge to cross Front Street, because he had to hold up his hand and halt south-bound traffic on Station Street, turning right onto the bridge.

It was not a green light when he was in the No Man's Land of mid-street, because he had to glance back over his right shoulder and make sure there was no surprise attack from the rear, by a car coming off the bridge and turning left onto Station St.

And, finally, it was not a green light as he neared the other shore after the perilous crossing, because north-bound traffic coming off Front Street found a red light cancelled by a green arrow and, heeding the latter, sped for its mark, which could easily be the puffing pedestrian.

The man from North Front Street said he raised these points in a casual conversation with a limb of the law and had been told that traffic on his right had the right of way. In other words, if a pedestrian gets killed by left-turning traffic as he steps off the curb at the bridge, it is the motorist's fault - - but if he gets smacked in mid-stream or in the shallows near the far shore, then it is his own fault.

Observations like these make us glad that the courts stand between the citizen and some policemen on the beat, but nothing stands between the pedestrian and a pasting but a pair of nimble feet.

A "walk" signal would help.

WHY BILL ATE A NEWSPAPER

Bill Downton of Calgary ate a newspaper the other day. Newsmen, being nothing if not fair-minded, immediately decided to square the account. Now, they did not eat Bill Downton. But, since the newspaper was in Bill Downton, they made sure that Bill was in the newspapers.

The real story, though, may well have been overlooked in the headlines. The big news, we suggest, was not the fact that Bill ate a copy of the University of Alberta biweekly, "The Gateway", but why he ate the copy. That is not so much because he has a taste for newspapers - - as a matter of fact he had publicly proclaimed his distaste for "The Gateway" long before he seasoned it with buttermilk and mustard and gulped it down. Bill ate the mess of newsprint because he had lost a bet. And the bet he had lost was that the Social Credit party, of which he is campus leader, would win more seats in a campus election than would the Progressive Conservative party.

The PC's leading Social Credit in Alberta! Now there's news. And please do not shrug it off as only a college section. These college students will be the active Alberta politicians of a few years hence. If the majority of them have forsaken the Social Credit party, perhaps the memory of Bible Bill Aberhart is at last losing some of its lustre out there on the prairi - pahdon us, amongst the oil derricks.

HE'S GOT A DOG-GONE NERVE

We'll just bet Sir Winston Churchill is tickled about being compared to a bulldog.

Toronto dog breeder Reg Sparkes told the London Daily Mirror that he has a bulldog which resembles Winnie - - big-eyed, stubborn and belligerent.

"I have lots of letters from people asking if they can have dogs with heads like Churchill's," said Mr. Sparkes.

We'd settle for heads like Churchill's, too, but not on pooches. Perhaps at Ottawa?

Canada last year welcomed some 475,000 babies—citizens of the Dominion by birth. Lovely to have them, even though five years hence we shall be wondering where on earth to find classroom space for so many. (Ottawa Journal.)

PROMISE TO CALL

An acquaintance she happened to meet
That night on her way to a ball;
They stopped for a chat on the street
And, in parting, she promised to call.

At a meeting she sat by a friend
Whom she said that she scarce knew at all,
But not daring, this one, to offend,
In parting, she promised to call.

"Do come up and see us," said one.
"Our home's very nice though it's small,"
And she said as she turned to go on:
"Yes, really I'll come up and call."

There are only seven days in the week;
There are only seven evenings—that's all;
But if to ten thousand she'd speak,
She'd promise each person to call.

Ghost Train Of Future?

Ottawa Journal

Every enthusiast for amateur plays will remember "The Ghost Train", that terribly funny production in which a noisy but unseen train rushed (if the backstage soundman was on the bit) through the deserted station over the heads of the actors.

It was great fun, but not so funny is the train of the future with inhuman qualities which are visualized by Dr. G. M. Solandt, C.B.E., Vice - president, who knows as much about "machine language" as anyone. He says the contents of a railroad could be put on a punched card, or better yet, into a magnetic memory, and from then on the information would be available for every need. As a freight pulled into a terminal the car sequence would be checked automatically, the train journal would be automatically transmitted to the next terminal to allow planning of work there, and empty cars and utilities would be available to everyone connected to help (we hope) efficiency and speed.

Quite without Dr. Solandt's permission, we think of these trains operated without crews, with a tape of instructions at the forward end, a punched card in the fireman's seat. Presumably there could be an electric eye to blow the whistle when locomotives raced to beat the train to a crossing. And, we think, there would be a pencil to make a dirty black mark on the documents when the last unit of train made a rough start or turned up two minutes late at Okotoks or Blind River.

Old Houses Worth More

St. Thomas Times-Journal

If you go house-hunting these days, whether to buy or rent, the price asked will probably stagger you. Houses that were erected generations ago command several times their original value. When a tenant moves out the incoming tenant is invariably asked for a higher rent, or if he wants to buy he wants $1,000 more than he paid 10 or 15 years ago. Nothing may have been done to it to improve the value. Of course, the added cost and the owner's running costs for public utilities and maintenance expenses have gone too also.

We perused with interest the list of new homes in the St. Thomas Times-Journal of 50 years ago, which gave a list of those erected in 1907. The basis for which permits had been approved. There were more than 20 of them, and the estimated cost of building ran from $1,200 to $1,800 for frame houses, and from $2,000 to $2,500 for brick homes. We recognized with interest the names of the homebuilders and we see some of their descendants are active and also apparently in good condition.

But if you seek to buy one of those homes and could probably be asked to pay $5,000 or more for a frame house and $10,000 or more for a brick house, depending on size. And if you are a young person else has lived in them for 50 years! Did you ever think that such a house told us some time ago that he bought it 30 years before for $3,000, and recently a buyer offered him $10,000 for it. Did not like his price, did he. "At my age," he said, "I need a roof over my head more than I need $10,000."

Nobody Cried But Teacher

Minneapolis Tribune

Our neighborhood's favorite 5-year-old, Sammy Lou Laurie, calmly looks out on her expanding world with an honesty and objectivity the rest of us could well emulate.

She was asked (probably for the umpteenth time in a few days) how she liked going to kindergarten.

"Fine," said Laurie, with just a flash of that conventional enough. The pat answer with almost-no thought. Except that after brief reflection she added, dead-pan: "But sometimes I get so hungry I could eat crayons!

First day she reported that she was the only kindergartner in the room who didn't cry. After the second day, her mother asked: "Did any of the children cry today?"

Laurie reflected a moment. "No," she said. "Nobody cried today, but the teacher."

The public school cadet winners in the signalling contest have been announced and School inspector H. J. Clarke is distributing the prizes which are a certificate and a bonus of $5. to each cadet. Queen Alexandra School heads the list with the following nine winners: Walter Armitage, Russell Gardner, Donald Holmes, Harry Morgan, Carl Morgan, William Robinson, Neil Saunders, Raymond Rowbotham and Cummings Boyle. This is a good showing; nine entered and nine passed. Only three public schools in Quinte entered: Ann Street, gained the honors Bayview, Cooke, Munsinger and Porritt. Queen Mary School had six winners, they are Sydney Jamieson, Wilfred Bird, Fred Large, George Gaysley, Tom Vales and Horace Day. King George School winners are James Follwell, William Hall Gilbert Barber, Nelson Fitzgerald and Philip Renous.

A much needed improvement is being made on the Grand Trunk General Hospital: the ward formerly used for isolated cases is being renovated and prepared as a residence for nurses. No more isolated cases will be received by the hospital.

The flood situation has not improved today: in some cases it is worse. This is due to the sudden rise in temperature causing considerable anchor ice to form During the forenoon the water rose rapidly in the part of Front Street, causing more people to move to the upper part of their houses. On the west side of the river known as the flats the water is over the metal causing considerable inconvenience. The situation is serious.

More Ghosts In Scotland

Montreal Gazette

A British book reviewer recently made the unwise statement that ghosts are dying out in Britain. Not so, answered Professor Scottish readers. In Scotland, they said, ghosts are actually on the increase. The latter man of Scottish blood, particularly along the west coast," said, "is not going to desert the Scotsmen, he said, are particularly gifted with glimpses of the realms of life.

A survey along the west coast of Scotland might produce a very interesting report. It would be interesting to know, for instance, whether the increase in the English ghost population directly connected with the increase in Scottish. Is it, in short, what the Bureau of Statistics calls a "natural increase," or is it the result of Sassenach immigration?

If it be the invasion of English ghosts, is nothing being done about it? Could there ever be an Irish ghosts who have mistaken the directions given in the lyrics of "Galway Bay?"

Obviously, must more is happening in Scotland than meets the eye. For all we know, Bonnie Prince Charlie may be gathering a party bent on burning down the haunted houses of England—with a ghostly carriage in the luggage-train, full of ghostly Drambuie.

Strength for The Day

FULL OF MUCH DANGER

The age in which we are living is by all odds the most wonderful age humanity has ever experienced

It has a number of serious drawbacks. More people have been killed in battle since the year 1900 than in any corresponding fifty-year period in history. Although much of the world today is educated, sophisticated, and highly civilized, there are nations which are living as primitively as did their ancestors centuries ago.

Eighty-five per cent of the possessions of our country belong to fifteen per cent of our people. There is still abject poverty in this land of plenty. We have scourges today which are almost as bad as the fearful plagues through which humanity passed in the middle centuries. We are not blind.

Most serious of all, we are at the present time experiencing a profound moral decline. This is rode the all fields of morals especially as regards sex morals, and it has three difficulties, handicaps, and disgraceful and unnecessary evils, this age stands alone as the most comfortable but the most promising humanity has ever known.

But we will not hold our advantages unless we hold our moral character. A dangerous delusion exists when standards of comfort are going up and moral standards going down. This is the kind of a spirit which must produce disaster.

Tariff Board Defines Hat

Ottawa Citizen

The Solomon-like quality of many of the Tariff Board's judgments ought to be more widely appreciated. For these judgments involve dignity and impressive blend of erudition and impartiality. And the range of the Board's interests is astonishing. One week this tribunal may be hearing an appeal from an importer about manure spreaders, the next about some obscure chemical. And so it goes. What tariff item implies in the east!

The latest decision to hand had to do with women's hats. This, however, is a misleading statement, because what the board had to decide was whether the article placed before it for inspection was a hat at all or a "bonnet," the reference said. The revenue department had claimed this object, consisting of a narrow band of knitted cotton with elastic, for hitching under the chin, was not a bonnet at all, but merely an ornamental hat. The importer, the thing should cover a certain part of the head before it ended the department. But the appellant firm disagreed.

The board came to the spectacular conclusion that the specimen knitted article with ornamental elastic was a bonnet and not a hat, and then it looked at the dictionaries for guidance. The dictionaries were not very helpful, but they said enough to persuade the board that they couldn't cannot rightly qualify as a bonnet unless it covers a major part of the head and not more particularly the back thereof. And it should have a shape.

So the appellant lost his case, but the public is presented by some thoughtful prose on the subject of women's fashion in headgear, including poke bonnets and sun bonnets. The literary standards of the Tariff Board are too little known and appreciated, which is a pity.

Discoveries In Upper Air

Scientific American

Discoveries in the upper air may be expected to result from the international geophysical year include the following:

Rocket shots indicate that winds in the high Arctic air blow as fast as 235 miles per hour. A rocket flight during a magnetic storm disclosed bands of intense electrical activity at a height of 56 miles. Geophysicists had expected such currents, with strengths up to 10 million amperes, to explain certain features of auroras.

At a meeting of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics in Toronto, physicists reported that an atomic bomb blast in the stratosphere releases the electrification of our atmosphere. Ordinarily, the ionization of the air by radio-active debris conducts electricity from the earth to the sky. The ground, and this short circuit prevents the normal difference between the air and the ground from the normal 100 volts per meter to 15 volts. The voltage returns to normal in a few days, reports say.

A more lasting effect of bomb tests has been discovered in New Zealand. Dr. Arthur W. G. J. Ferguson reported in Wellington that the carbon-14 content of the New Zealand atmosphere has increased 4.8 per cent since 1953. This increase is due to the increase in radioactive carbon is even greater in the southern hemisphere where most of the nuclear explosions have taken place. If so, a misleading picture of the difference should give valuable information about some of the most important unknowns of meteorology — the rate of mixing of the air between the northern and southern hemispheres.

Ernestine Russell, petite 19-year-old gymnast from Windsor, who has been a double all-round performer in her class in Canada, recently found the experts of "To Tell the Truth" and thereby won $333.

But Ernestine never saw the dough. Proceeds of her appearance on the New York television stage went to the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. Then she didn't ripple a muscle in her stint—she appeared with two other girls who admitted to be Ernestine Russell and the panelists couldn't pick her out — she was finally adjudged a professional by the silly standards of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada if she had accepted her winnings.

That brings up a fine point—can an amateur perform for money and still retain amateur status?

Personal Health Talks

Well Then, Practise B. B.

Why limit the practice of belly breathing to six inflations three times a day, if B. B. is correct and we all breathe that way when asleep? This is the query of a reader who says there is no doubt that regular practice of the belly breathing exercise is beneficial — one has but to try it to prove that.

For one reason, as most persons who have tried it will agree, doing the exercise takes as much stern self-discipline as any other routine physical drill, such as walking two to six miles a day. To the poor soul who has not got every opportunity to work, play or exercise, it is onerous to do six inflations just once a day.

Another reason why I advise you to do the belly breathing exercise three times a day and no more is that I'm afraid some persons may carry the thing to extremes, on the principle that "if a little is good more would be better." The physiologists tell us that overbreathing may do harm. Without going into details I'll say merely that several times I have tried overdoing the B B and found that I got no more than might do. My effort was defeated each time. I had to quit before I got much beyond six inflations. It was like holding the breath. You have to quit after 30, 40, 30 seconds, whatever your physiological capacity may be, no matter how determined you are to hold out longer.

I still say three times a day is often enough to do the belly breathing exercise, and I doubt that there would be any advantage gained by doing it oftener. We can derive many benefits from belly breathing without going nutty about it.

The chief benefit a sedentary person derives from the B B exercise is improved circulation. Improved circulation, of course, has a booster - pump effect on the return of blood from the veins. This explains how belly breathing warms up cold feet at night, tends to prevent or relieve varico-ele, hemorrhoids (piles), varicose veins and varicose ulcers.

The B B exercise also tends to prevent or relieve liver and gall bladder trouble. With each inflation, the diaphragm contracts, pressing upon liver, gall bladder, bile ducts, squeezing bile into the intestine. This may be likened to gentle massage.

A Rochester reader reports: "I have been following your "deep breathing" regimen every day and find it does do my well-being. Plan to keep it up as long as I live."

Not to the Rochester reader uses the euphony because he knows

Most Canadian Provinces Make It Hard for Uninsured

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

In face of a rising toll of traffic accidents, most Canadian provinces are making it harder for uninsured drivers to use the roads.

Saskatchewan, which has Canada's only CCF government, also has Canada's only compulsory automobile insurance plan, operated by the state.

CP reporters making a cross-Canada survey found supporters in almost every other province for the compulsory - insurance idea, though the surveil beyond Saskatchewan does not seem imminent.

PROVED RESPONSIBILITY

But eight of the nine other provinces—all except Quebec—require insurance or other proof of financial responsibility from drivers who have accidents.

They also have unsatisfied judgment funds to pay damages assessed in court against drivers without resources.

Quebec has no fund and no insurance requirements for private motorists but suspends a driver's licence until he pays accident damages assessed against him.

In Ontario a royal commission recommended compulsory insurance last year — a law that would eliminate practically all of the irresponsible motorists — by requiring the system of privately-financed insurance in Nova Scotia.

Premier Frost of Ontario has approved the principle of compulsory insurance. But newspapers have complained for it. "Ontario should tell every driver: Carry insurance or walk," the Toronto Star headlined a recent article. But Ontario seems likely to try persuasion before turning to compulsion.

QUEBEC CAUTIOUS

Delegations have asked Premier Duplessis for compulsory insurance as an unsatisfied judgment fund for Quebec but he opposes. Opposition might increase carelessness because drivers would know insurance would cover any damages, he told one group. Unsatisfied judgment funds are based on the wrong principle, he told another—"The good motorists have to pay for the bad. The wrong-doers are in the minority."

In other provinces, compulsory insurance is not a live issue.

Massachusetts pioneered compulsory insurance in North America 30 years ago. New York became the second state with a universal law in 1956. Thirty-five states have limited forms of compulsion, mostly in respect of minors, or drivers at fault in accidents which hurt injured.

The Canadian toll of deaths and injuries in motor accidents has mounted sharply since the war. In 1946, 3,194 persons were killed and 72,881 injured. In 1950 there were 1,477 deaths and 50,031 injuries in Canada outside Quebec, for which figures are not available. (Quebec's toll last year was 1,208 dead, 43,000 injured.)

Insurance rates have soared correspondingly.

NEW CAMPAIGNS

Campaigns have been under way in provinces to reduce the number of accidents.

One of the most effective is in Manitoba. Its key is a demerit system for motorists convicted of driving offences or involved in accidents. Driving licences of persistent offenders are suspended. There is a driver-improvement clinic.

T. B. Baillie, Manitoba motor vehicle commissioner, said he considers Manitoba's system is "something better" than compulsory insurance. Within "compulsion" per cent of drivers involved in accidents now are insured, he said.

Ontario this year increased to $6 from $1 the amount uninsured drivers must pay into its unsatisfied judgment fund. Insurance companies report an increase in applications for coverage. Transport Minister James Allan said: "We feel the present plan is working well toward increasing the percentage of insured drivers."

Here is a province-by-province summary of steps taken to protect the public against the financially irresponsible driver:

NEWFOUNDLAND

Motorists under 21 and over 65 and those convicted after accidents or for drunken or impaired driving must have insurance before driving permits are issued.

An unsatisfied judgment fund costs each motorist $1 a year and pays claims up to $5,000 for injury to one person, $10,000 for two or more in one accident, $1,000 for property damage.

NOVA SCOTIA

Motorists involved in accidents causing bodily injury or property damage of $100 or more must prove financial responsibility or face suspension of licences. Minimum requirement is insurance providing $5,000 and $10,000 for injury and death and $1,000 for damage, or a posted bond of $11,000. To drive again, a motorist must pay all claims arising from the accident. The unsatisfied judgment fund costs each driver $1 a year and pays claims to a $5,000-$10,000-$1,000 maximum.

NEW BRUNSWICK

This province has regulations similar to Nova Scotia's.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

Proof of financial responsibility is demanded when a court assesses damages against a motorist but not before. Until a driver shows he cannot meet a damage claim he may continue to drive. The unsatisfied judgment fund is similar to that in Nova Scotia.

QUEBEC

There is compulsory insurance for persons carrying paying passengers—taxis, buses and so on —but not for ordinary drivers. There is no court order insurance plan, but a driver unable to pay assessed damages loses his permit until he makes the amount. A brief submitted to Premier Duplessis by the Montreal Chamber of Commerce, recommending such a fund, said only 30 per cent of Quebec motorists in the province carry liability insurance. The Quebec Automobile Club supports the idea of compulsory insurance through private companies.

ONTARIO

All drivers pay $1 into the unsatisfied judgment fund. Those who cannot show they carry "adequate" insurance — $10,000 for one death or one person, $20,000 for more than one, $5,000 for property damage — must pay an additional $5. The fund pays claims up to $5,000-$10,000-$1,000 level. Drivers involved in highway offences resulting in injury, property damage or conviction or in certain other serious driving offences must prove financial responsibility before permission to drive again is granted. No traffic fines may be paid to drive.

The $5 fee from uninsured motorists will this year give Ontario for the first time, information on what proportion of drivers carry no protection. On basis of this, it is expected, the government will decide whether further action is required to protect the public.

MANITOBA

Drivers involved in accidents causing injury or damage must show proof of financial responsibility—at least $30,000—or have their car impounded. All motorists pay 50 cents annually into an unsatisfied judgment fund which pays claims of a maximum $10,000 to one person or $20,000 to more than one. The Conservation government plan keeps tab on all drivers involved in traffic offences. If offences continue after a warning, suspension of driving permits is ordered.

SASKATCHEWAN

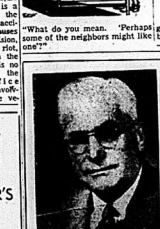
All drivers must carry the CCF government's compulsory insurance policy, the cost based on wheel-base and age of vehicle. In addition, all motorists pay a $2 fee when they take out their driving permits. The government policy provides a variety of benefits, paying up to $10,000 for injury to or death of one person, $20,000 for more than one in a single accident, and $5,000 for property damage. There is a $200-deductible clause within the province but none on accidents outside. Additional clauses cover damage from collision, fire, theft, flood, hail, upset, riot, and falling aircraft all with the $200-deductible limit. There is no unsatisfied judgment fund; the government insurance office pays claims for accidents involving uninsured out-of-province vehicles and hit-run motorists.

Motorists wanting more complete protection can buy a supplementary policy through the government office or a private company.

ALBERTA

Drivers involved in accidents causing injury, or property damage of $100, must show proof of insurance paying up to $10,000—$20,000—$2,000. Vehicles are impounded until proof is shown or all damage claims paid. All motorists pay $1 annually into an unsatisfied judgment fund which provides maximum payments of $5,000, $10,000 and $1,000. These amounts will be increased next July to $10,000, $20,000 and $2,000. Every motorist against whom a judgment is made in solving the fund must repay the fund in full before he may drive.

BRITISH COLUMBIA



This province has the same insurance requirements after accidents as Alberta. The unsatisfied judgment fund does not require an annual contribution from motorists. Insurance companies must contribute to it on a pro-rata basis, according to the volume of automobile insurance they write. There is no provision for payment from the fund to persons involved in accidents caused by motorists who leave the accident scene and are not identified.

Veteran Member Moves Motion To Adopt Speech

TORONTO (CP)—Col. Thomas L. Kennedy, 73, serving his 26th year in the Ontario legislature, on Thursday moved the motion to adopt Monday's speech from the throne before the admiring eyes of six grandsons in the Speaker's gallery.

The Progressive Conservative member for Peel said the three sons and six grandsons of the family is what makes a nation and he hopes one of the grandsons will succeed him in the legislature.

The honor of making the motion is usually given to a new member but Mr. Kennedy, who served as premier for a year after George Drew resigned in 1948, has been exceeded in service by only one man, Harry C. Nixon (L—Brant).

Both were elected in 1919 but Mr. Kennedy suffered one defeat in 1934. Mr. Nixon, also a former premier, has held his seat continuously.

ADDRESSES FRIEND

It was to Mr. Nixon, a former colleague as well as a friend, that Mr. Kennedy addressed many of his remarks. His recollections brought to the House the atmosphere of days when kerosene lamps and candles provided light. Many of the members could not be born when he entered the legislature, Mr. Kennedy said and he recalled that he had sat with the fathers of some present members.

Twice agriculture minister, he summed up his own life: "The service we give the public is the real reward."

When he resumed his seat, Mr. Kennedy smiled up at the gallery where his grandsons listened to the desk thumping from the member below.

Premier Frost Made Member Of Press Gallery

TORONTO (CP)— Premier Frost won applause in the Ontario legislature Tuesday when it was announced he is the first Ontario prime minister to become an honorary member of the press gallery.

Speaker Rev. W. A. Downer told the House of the "high honor" bestowed upon Mr. Frost when the gallery executive last year after both he and Mr. Frost were re-elected.

The premier, in giving thanks to the press, said men in public life are all members of the difficulties these men have in doing a job for the good of all.

"I am not deserving of this honor, sir," said Mr. Frost. He was sure the membership honored all of the members in the legislature.

Opposition members toasted the premier in adding to the tribute accorded him. Liberal Leader Oliver said that since the premier now is a member of the press, he might alter his "relations in the future information."

CCF Leader MacDonald said it would mean premier must join a newspaper guilds and become a union man.

Frost Promises To Investigate Reports Given

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost has promised to investigate reports that Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited is "pressuring" farmers in the New Liskeard area into signing contracts for the use of their land.

The matter was raised in the Ontario legislature by CCF Leader Donald MacDonald who read an account of it in the Kirkland Lake Northern News.

Mr. MacDonald said farmers apparently are being threatened with expropriation and asked if the government would grant them legal advice. If one were given the "guidance" they received from the pipeline firm would be dissipated in legal fees.

The premier said there was "no right" to tell farmers such a thing when rates are provided under statute. But he said "no human agency can stop persons who are attempting to get agreement from saying things they shouldn't."

As for legal advice, the government would look into the whole situation before doing anything.

The company possesses powers of expropriation, the premier said in reply to a question from Liberal Leader Oliver.

J. M. HARTWICK, Wellington, Ontario, vice - president, The National Dairy Council of Canada, will address the Saskatchewan Dairymen's Association in Saskatoon next Tuesday, the subject of "Looking Ahead."

Shotgun-Toting Teen-ager Held Without Plea

KINCARDINE, Ont. (CP)—A shotgun-toting teen - ager, overpowered by a service station owner here Thursday when he attempted to make off without paying for a tank of gasoline, was remanded to Feb. 13 without plea on charges of armed robbery and possession of an offensive weapon.

Edward Allen Carter, 16, of Camlachie also faces a charge of theft of a car in Sarnia.

Hack Powers, owner of a service station and restaurant, grabbed the end of a double-barrelled shotgun that was shoved at him through a car window, wrestled it away and threw it in a snowdrift. He then reached through the window, grabbed the steering wheel and forced the car into a snowbank.

Mr. Power said he had just closed his restaurant when a car pulled up at the gasoline pumps and the driver asked to have his tank filled. He had just finished when the shotgun came through the window.

Measles Never Long Absent From Even Smaller Centres

By DR. McCAUL METCALFE
M.O.H. for Belleville

Measles is the most widely distributed and the most commonly recognized of all the eruptive fevers to which man is subject. It is to the most constant in its paroxysmal manifestations. The incubation period is commonly 10 days from exposure to the appearance of recognizable symptoms about 12 to 14 days from exposure to appearance of rash.

Onset is marked by appearance of fever and malaise followed promptly by catarrhal symptoms which increase up to the time the eruption disappears. The characteristic symptoms of the pre-eruptive stage are those of severe coryza increased lacrimation, photophobia, sneezing discharge from the nose and cough. The first sign of the rash becomes evident from two to six days after the onset. Before the rash, spots appear first on the buccal and labial mucosa generally opposite the lower molar teeth. The rash extends rapidly to the entire body. In an uncomplicated case the temperature returns to normal in three to five days and within a day or two after the fever has ceased the rash has disappeared except for a slight residual pigmentation which may last for a few days longer a fine branny desquamation follows.

Transmission to a susceptible person is effected directly by droplets exnelled during talking or coughing. The virus may also be transmitted indirectly by articles freshly soiled with buccal or nasal discharges. The virus dies within a few hours outside the body so transmission by interest but particles and contaminated articles are relatively unimportant medium.

NEVER LONG ABSENT

Under modern conditions the disease is never long absent from any community. It is with us continuously throughout the year and from year to year in the larger cities.

An infant enjoys immunity from infection during the first few months of its life provided the mother has had the disease. Exposure to the disease is inevitable. Although second attacks may occur they are extremely rare. The colder months of the year are more favorable to transmission than are the warmer months, consequently measles exhibit a more or less constant seasonal pattern. In all large population groups the prevalence reaches a maximum during the later winter or early spring months and minimum during late summer and in addition to the regular seasonal increase and decrease there is an inter-annual variation which is marked by peaks or epidemics occurring at intervals of two, three or more years.

There is no evidence that in large communities the spread of measles can be materially reduced by isolation of patients and restrictions upon suspected contacts as measles is contagious in the pre-eruptive ambulatory stage before diagnosis is made and further there are many cases that are not brought to the attention of the physician. Exposure of every individual is inevitable and the only immunity is by having measles.

Cases of measles should have besides care and if possible separate room isolation. Hospitalization is not desirable. Isolation serves to protect the patient from exposure to secondary infections during the period of lowered resistance. The services of a physician should be sought in event of complications. Convalescence is unpredictable. In the case of epidemics it is not practical to close schools or discontinue classes.

Following the invocation by Mr. Wilbur Wright, a short devotional was led by the pastor, the Reverend Sackville Palmer, who presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. S. Palmer. Special prayer was also made for one from out-of-town about to enter hospital.

The business portion included the appointment of the new executive: president, Mrs. Sackville Palmer, re-elected; vice - president, Mrs. George Millard; secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Harold Ward, re-elected; social convenors, Mrs. Wilkie Simmons, and Mrs. H. F. Pickard; program committee: Messrs. H. Vasselin; William Austin, and James MacKay.

A brief talk on the origin of St. Valentine's Day was given by Mrs. A. Henderson, after which Mrs. Vareen directed a series of games, including words formation, with Mrs. Lang and "what-is-it?" panel of four persons, all of which were enlightening as well as amusing.

Bearing out the Valentine motif, hearts were passed around on which the names of those present were written, and little jingles in harmony with the theme, respectively. A ring and queen game, with Mrs. Lang extending thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Atyeo for their gracious hospitality. After a most delectable repast was served by winning workers, the "king" was later seen doing "K.P." duties with several of his subjects assisting.

Holloway St. WMS Enjoys Talk on Japan

The W.M.S. of Holloway St. United Church met in the church parlors on Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance of members and visitors. A fine program was planned by Mrs. W. Coleman and her group of ladies and presided over by Mrs. T. F. Towsend, who extended a hearty welcome to all.

Mrs. M. B. Wesse, reporting on Community Friendship, stated 48 calls had been made by the ladies upon the ill and shutins, during the month of January.

Mrs. Fred Scott reported on the cards sent out and received from the ill and bereaved during the month.

Mrs. W. Phillips gave the financial report.

Mrs. W. Johns read a letter which she had received from the prayer partners, Miss Ruth Tillman and Miss Nancy Edwards, describing their endeavors in St. John's and Newfoundland.

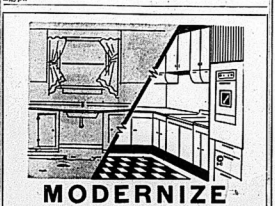
Mrs. R. Bunnell, supply secretary, had a fine display of children's clothing and numerous other articles for the bale. She and Mrs. Townsend conducted a short panel on the supply department's work.

Quiet music by Mrs. Hubbs gave the right spirit to the devotional period. This was conducted by Mrs. N. Brown and Mrs. C. Smith, using as their theme "Looking to Christ and Not to Ourselves". The third chapter of Philippians was read where Paul showed provocation of the Jews, who insisted that God would not be pleased unless they became circumcised, and worshipped according to the strict letter of the Old Testament laws. Paul set up faith in Christ Jesus only in the spirit and knowing Jesus Christ as Lord and Saviour, of salvation. "We cannot earn our way to heaven by the credit of good works".

Mrs. C. Templer sang a beautiful solo, "When Jesus Walked in Galilee."

Mrs. Cordes assisted Mrs. W. Coleman with the study of Japan, who pointed out how the love of beauty and nature has molded the lives of the Japanese. This land of scenic beauty makes for an artistic people with their shrines, festivals and floral arrangements.

The influence of China and the East is seen in her culture. The influence of the West is seen in her social sciences, education and medical progress.



"Underneath all this is a feeling of unrest and insecurity due to the 90,000,000 people living in an area about the size of Newfoundland, 2,800 people per square mile, 1,000,000 born every year, every available inch of land is cultivated for food. They must enlarge their small rocky industries, such as toys, to increase their livelihood.

"This challenged Canada C. of ours places us in a position to assist this ambitious, resourceful nation to work out solutions to its problems and extend a friendly hand of fellowship to the immigrants who have asked for areas where they may locate."

Mrs. Coleman closed the meeting with prayer after which a social half-hour was enjoyed over a cup of tea prepared by the ladies of her group.

Mr., Mrs. W.H. Montgomery Mark Golden Anniversary

On the afternoon and evening of January 22nd, Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Montgomery, of Carrying Place, R.R. 1, were "at home" to about 50 friends, neighbors and relatives on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

The living room was bright with yellow daffodils and feathery chrysanthemums, while a beautiful, three-tier anniversary cake, yellow and golden colored candlesticks graced the tea table.

Pouring in the afternoon were: the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Stephen Springer, of Guelph; and the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. M. B. Weese, of Belleville and in the evening, Miss Margaret Montgomery, registered nurse, of Guelph; sister of Mr. Montgomery and Mrs. Gilbert Waite, of Brighton.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery were the recipients of over 100 cards. Among the many lovely gifts were 50 golden daffodils from Mrs. T. C. Montgomery and family, of Lanark, and a basket of beautiful flowers from the Roderesville W.I., of which Mrs. Montgomery is a past president.

GET CONGRATULATIONS

Letters of congratulations were received from the Prime Minister, John Diefenbaker, and Florence Milligan, M.P.

During the afternoon, Mr. Norris Whitney, M.L.A. and Mrs. Whitney called to express their felicitations and to present a scroll from the Ontario Government.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery were married on January 22nd, 1908 at the home of the bride. Mr. Montgomery is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Montgomery of Lanark. And Mrs. Montgomery is the former Mabel Weese, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weese. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Reverend A. Howard. The bridal attendants were: the bride's twin sister, Miss Minnie Weese, and the bridegroom's brother, Oswald Montgomery, both of whom are deceased.

They have three children: a son, Harmon, at home, and two daughters, Mrs. Clifford Barber (Evelyn), of Huff's Island, and Mrs. Howard Walt, (Kathleen), of Consecon. There are seven grandchildren: Mrs. Gordon Fox; John and Jean Barber; Beverley Walt; Margaret, Mary and Brien Montgomery. A beloved grandson, Monte Walt, was killed on November 3rd, 1956.

Mr. Montgomery is an ex-member of Prince Edward County, and a past president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association.

They were also honored by family gathering, on Sunday when relatives were present from Lanark and Guelph.

St. Michael's C.W.L. Sub-Division Sponsors Valentine Tea

A delightful mid-winter Valentine tea was held on Wednesday afternoon by the Catholic Women's League of St. Michael's sub-division at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lee, Bridge Street, which was attractively adorned with blooms of white chrysanthemums.

Receiving the guests were, the hostess, Mrs. Alfred Lee, and the president, Mrs. Ed Logan, whose warm welcome added greatly to the success of the afternoon.

A lovely centrepiece of red tulips and white 'mums in a silver bowl, flanked by silver candelabra with tall, red candles, on a handmade English lace cloth, carried out the Valentine motif.

Those presiding at the silver tea services were, Mrs. H. Sheridan and Mrs. J. McAuley; Mrs. F. Ross and Miss A. Doyle; while those who served the delectable sandwiches and dainty cakes, included: Mrs. F. Cowan, Mrs C. Shannon, Mrs. O. Griffiths, Mrs. E. Rivers, Mrs. J. Whalen, Mrs. C. Lanctaber, and Mrs. T. Flynn. Replenishing the urns were Mrs. A. Bigonesse and Mrs. M. Robertson, and replenishing the plates; Mrs L. Buckely, Mrs. J. Trepanier, Mrs. F. C. McCubbin and Mrs. J. Murphy. Mrs. A. McFee, Mrs. J. Gallagher, Mrs. B. J. Flagler, Mrs. T. Dugan, and Mrs. J. Sheridan were in charge of serving the dainty plates.

The tea room hostesses were Mrs. T. Barrett and Mrs. R. Rashotte; while Mrs. Cruji was responsible for the delightful music of tea, and the Misses M. and K. McLellan collected the various items of food.

A home cooking table, in charge of Mrs. W. Frawley, Mrs. J. Boyle and Mrs. T. Mascearo, did a thriving business with its delicious pies, tarts, cakes and cookies, some of which were most attractive in their Valentine accents.

A lovely jewel box, which was in charge of Mrs. T. Florey, became the coveted property of Mrs. L. Buckley.

A most successful and attractive tea bringing commendation to the conveners, Mrs. Frank Domenico, Mrs. D. Moran, and Mrs. J. Perrault.

Six Hastings W.I.'s Display Lamp Shades

On Wednesday at Stirling Community Hall an interesting and colorful display of lamps and shades from the various branches of the Women's Institutes of Hastings County was held.

Those branches represented were: Roslin, Madoc, Chatterton, Quinte, River Valley and Marmora.

The program opened with the showing of a film "Bright Future" which demonstrated how proper lighting enhanced one's furnishings and cut down on accidents and eye strain.

Mrs Armour presented the leaders and assistants with badges for merit. Those receiving the badges were: Mrs. R. Richards, leader, and Mrs. A. Papp, assistant, Marmora; Mrs. Atkins, leader, and Mrs. Jeffrey, assistant, Roslin; Mrs. Reilly, leader, Mrs. Country man, assistant, Tweed; Mrs. Chisholm, leader, Mrs. J. Emerson, assistant, Roslin; Mrs. Barry leader, Mrs. Brennan, assistant, River Valley; Mr. Gardner, leader, Mrs. Mitts, assistant, Chatterton.

The leaders gave a talk on the difficulties they encountered. Several had trouble getting supplies. Some suggested that the course be held from January to April so that Christmas would not interrupt the classes.

A survey was taken on preferred colors for the next project. Most preferred hooked rugs and "Sew and Save."

Mrs. Bush, of River Valley, gave a summary on their meetings for the year. Mrs. Parrott played the piano for a sing-song and Mrs. Gardner sang a Calypso tune accompanying herself on the ukelele.

Miss Armour, the home economist from Toronto, gave a report on Summary days in other counties and complimented the ladies for their fine showing and original ideas.

'Food for Health' Topic at St. John Ambulance 150

The members of the St. John Ambulance Nursing Division 150 met with the Home Nursing class at their headquarters on Wednesday evening last.

Mrs. Barbara Haynes, divisional officer gave a report on the boxes of canned goods and groceries which had been delivered by the division to the families that were burned out on Station Street. She also gave a report on the voluntary first aid duty which the division was doing at the Trenton Community Centre, and asked for the usual support and co-operation of the division in carrying out the spring artificial respiration training programs.

The speaker of the evening, Mrs. D. A. MacKinnon (Dorothy Batchelor) spoke on "Food for Health", stating that good nutrition is enjoyable eating. Even before birth, food makes a difference. Food food is necessary for children for growth; for adults as it promotes health and working efficiency, and for the aged to help them maintain physical and mental vigor, MacKinnon stated

The Canada Food Rules"s are a blueprint upon which homemakers should build their meals.

ELDORADO — The regular monthly meeting of Missionary meeting of the Madoc and Eldorado churches was held recently in the Eldorado Church.

On account of bad roads and a stormy night the attendance was cut down, there were but 20 present.

Mr. Elgin Post the president, who was in charge read the Scripture lesson which was followed with a solo by her daughter, Miss Jean Wager, entitled, "Tell Me His Name Again."

Mrs. Charles McCann gave a reading on "Harvest Time."

The roll call was called and an offering of $9.25 was received.

Mr. M. Stevenson gave a short talk on the need of sending more missionaries.

The various officers were appointed for the year 1958 as follows: Honorary — Mrs. Post, was re-elected president; T. Lough was re-appointed as vice-president; Mrs. Lough — secretary; Mrs. Bessie Wagar — treasurer.

Maria Callas Took 7 Curtain Calls at Met

NEW YORK (AP) — "Brava! Brava la divina! Brava!"

These cries greeted Maria Callas Thursday night at her first performance of this season at the Metropolitan Opera House.

The shouts that broke out when the curtain went up on La Traviata turned into roars when the final curtain went down and Callas, breaking no end of Met tradition, took seven solo curtain calls, bowing, kneeling, and waving kisses.

She may have troubles with audiences in Rome and elsewhere, or they may have trouble with her, but at the Met they could do no wrong.

The applause was ear-splitting when her voice was at its most lovely, as in the touching scene of renunciation with the elder Germont. The clapping was just as ear-splitting when, tazing her voice beyond the limit, she made it strident.

Mario Zanasi, in his debut as Germont, shared the applause with Callas and deserved it. The tenor, Daniele Barioni, was the weak spot; he kept slipping off pitch, tangled a foot in a drape, and got some boos and catcalls to pay for it.

Callas reached the theatre two hours early, but already the crowd outside was so great that police could not clear a way for her to the stage door. She had to come in the front.

Eternal Line

The domed skirt and bell skirt are invariably present in dress collections designed for the youthful figure. This is true regardless of the current silhouette, which just now is the loosely fitting line. Lanvin-Castillo does a dance dress that's young-in-heart, short and sweet. For it he has selected taupe Chantilly lace irregularly spattered with black lace motifs. More excitement is added in the typically Castillo touch of a mantilla in the same magnificent filmy lace.

Potatoes Baked In the Oven

Now that it's cold outside, the time has come to turn on the oven and have all the delicious casseroles and other baked foods that usually likes best. This includes potatoes which take to baking just as well as they do to all other methods of cooking. The home economists of Canada's Kitchens like ovens cooked potatoes these ways, and they know you will, too.

BROWNED POTATOES

Peel and parboil potatoes 10 minutes in salted water to cover. Drain, coat with fat and place around roast 45 to 50 minutes before meat is cooked. Baste several times.

OVEN-STYLE POTATOES

Wash and peel 6 medium potatoes. Cut into fingers 1-2 inch thick. Soak in cold water 30 minutes. Drain thoroughly and dry. Place in shallow baking pan. Combine with 2 tablespoons melted beef or pork fat, salt and pepper. Bake in 425 deg. F. oven. Turn after 15 minutes and sprinkle with a tablespoon of melted fat. Bake another 20 minutes. Six servings.

BAKED POTATOES

Scrub potatoes thoroughly. Bake on rack in centre at 425°F. oven for 60 minutes or until tender. Make cross – wise slits in sides of potato and pinch gently to make potato fluff up. Top with butter.

To speed baking time, cut potatoes in half. Brush potato halves with oil and place face down on baking sheet. Bake in 425F. oven 30 to 35 minutes.

STUFFED BAKED POTATOES

Cut a slice from top of medium sized baked potato and scoop potato out of shell. Mash hot potato and add: 1 cup diced ham and/or cooked corned beef; 2 tablespoons each of: finely chopped onion, chopped parsley, milk, or mayonnaise, melted butter; ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; salt and pepper to taste.

LITTLE-PIG POTATOES

Scrub medium sized potatoes. Make a hole through each potato with apple corer. Stuff hole with a sausage. Place on rack over baking pan and bake in 425F. oven about 50 minutes.

BRIDAL ATTENDANTS EXPECTED TO PAY FOR HER COSTUME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been invited by a dear friend of mine to be a bridesmaid at her formal church wedding, which is to be late this Spring. The exact date of the wedding has not been set yet, so far she has said nothing to me about the expenses for the bridesmaids. I've never been an attendant before, and I have no idea whether or not a bridal attendant is expected to pay for her own dress and accessories. Is she?

—T.S.

Yes. Although the bride-to-be chooses her attendants' dresses, hats or other head-covering, shoes, and all other accessories, each attendant pays for her own costume. But if maybe you are somewhat worried about the expense) most brides today have been good sense and considerate enough to choose dresses that are not only lovely but also inexpensive. Shoe stores and department stores and specialty shops are much accustomed to and cooperative about this. Generally the dresses are selected at least a year after the wedding for many occasions. Always the attendants are provided by the bride-to-be or her family. And sometimes the bride orders and pays for the headdresses, particularly when these are not "real hats" but simply small, "fitted pert headdress" classification.

CORRECT FORM FOR THEIR MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a widow, in my middle fifties, and I am soon to be married to a widower in his earlier sixties. Our wedding is to be in my home, and a small, informal wedding. But we do want to send many formal announcements of our marriage. Will you please tell me the correct wording of these (especially as to the correct form of my name)? Widow

Here is the correct form:

Mrs. Robert Allen and
Mr. Phillip Robbins announce their marriage on Tuesday, the fourth of March
Nineteen hundred and fifty-eight

FRIDAY

Tomato Bouillon; Broiled Halibut; Lemon Wedges; Scalloped Potatoes; Braised Celery; Tomato Jelly Moulds on Shredded Lettuce; Chocolate Bread Pudding with Whipped or Pouring Cream (see Thursday); Coffee.

ANSWER:

Here is exactly what you want. Recipe courtesy Lollie.

CHILI SAUCE:

(From canned tomatoes) Two 25-oz. cans tomatoes (7 cups), 1 large onion (½ cup grated), 3 medium apples (1 cup grounded), 1½ cups finely diced celery, 1 cup cider or blended vinegar, ¾ to 1 cup sugar (depending on tartness of apples and tomatoes), 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon each ground allspice, ginger, cinnamon, ¼ teapoon cayenne pepper, 12 whole cloves (tied in cheesecloth bag). Strain off excess liquid from tomatoes. Place tomatoes in kettle, put onions and apples through food chopper using the final blade. Dice celery in small pieces. Add onion, apples, vinegar, celery, sugar and seasonings to tomatoes, bring to boil and boil until thick, about 1½ hours, stirring frequently. Remove cloves and pour at once into sterilized jars and seal. Store in a cool dark place.

I was sending you what I believe is the recipe for Lemon pie you are looking for, by mail.

LETTER:

We have certainly found that chicken is delicious cooked with th. chicken and served it with potatoes and vegetables (saving the broth for soup). Sunday afternoon we had company drop in and not having sufficient chicken left to serve "as is" I decided to fall back on the old reliable "Chicken Pie is king" . . .

CHICKEN A LA KING:

One can cream of mushroom soup, ½ cup top milk or light cream, 1 cup diced cooked chicken (if use two cups), 1 egg yolk, beaten, 3 tablespoons pimiento, cut in strips, 3 tablespoons cooked green pepper, cut in strips (if desired). Heat soup into a saucepan; stir well. Add milk or light cream; heat. Add chicken and egg yolk. Mix in pimiento and green pepper (the latter may be cooked in boiling water or browned butter). Heat but do not boil. Serve on toast or in patty shells. Makes 4 servings. One of the finest delights you fix all your delightful and in extravagant recipes and menus and of the best to you for 1958 . . . Mrs. W. J. Q.

QUESTION:

I thought maybe after the holiday rush, you would have time to try to answer a couple of requests, if anyone can; it will be you. First do you have a recipe for Chili Sauce made with canned tomatoes, preferably for a small amount? Secondly, for many years I used a lemon pie recipe that was printed on a cornstarch box. All I remember is there were 7 tbs. spoon thickening, 4 and 3 of flour and cornstarch respectively but don't know in what order, also 2 eggs. The filling was quite "stout" and when cooked but quite a lot of lemon juice was added which made it perfect. I have tried dozens recipes since. I never found one so good . . . Mrs. E. A.

Mrs. M. S. — Roger is trying to estrange himself from his father.

Roger S. — We have nothing in common.

Mrs. M. S. — I was a widow until last year when I married a widower with one grown son. This boy, Roger, had lived with his father until two years ago when he went away to college.

Roger is the spoke of my husband's eye and I was prepared to treat him as a son of my own. Unfortunately, however, he does not seem to like me. This doesn't bother me as much as the fact that he seems to be trying to estrange himself from his father.

Roger didn't come home for his past two vacations. He went visiting friends of his in another city. His father was heartbroken.

He doesn't write often in spite of the fact that his father writes twice a week. I want to help bring them closer together.

Roger S. — I have tried to reassure my stepmother that this has nothing to do with her and that I bear her no grudges. I don't think she should have indulged herself into the situation that exists between my father and me.

Actually, I have known for a long time that my father and I have nothing in common. He was younger we had a common interest in sports. This no longer interests me in the slightest. My father's talk bores me to death.

My father has tried to show an interest in my books and studies, but his attempts are pathetic. He doesn't really care about these things. My stepmother's interests are the same as his. He doesn't need me and shouldn't be loosing any more.

The Council: There is little Mrs. M. S. can do to alleviate this painful situation — outside of showing her good will toward Roger and her desire to make him feel at home when he does visit.

Roger seems to be going through a stage in which he is trying to establish a new and higher identity for himself. His bold on this identity is so feeble that he is using rather violent methods to cut himself off from his old self — the self that enjoyed sports and contact with his father.

Roger should recognize that his attitude is extremely immature. The statement that he and his father have "nothing in common" is laughable. If nothing else, they have in common a thousand memories based on daily life under the same roof.

Roger's sudden disdain of sports is equally foolish. It is possible for him to lose the great enthusiasm for them he probably had in his teen years, but it is most unlikely that he has really so completely lost interest he cannot endure any talk at all on this subject. This smacks of pretense and affectation.

Roger does indicate he has some feeling that his stepmother has taken his place in his father's life. If he looks the facts squarely in the face, he will recognize the absurdity of this notion. Roger should level with himself and face the fact that his current attitudes are way off the beam. He would probably find it helpful to discuss some of these things with a school psychologist, if one is available.

Florida Prices Cut as Result Of Business Drop

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Vacations in Florida have suddenly within range of the average American or Canadian tourist this winter as resort hotel operators have scraped—for business made necessary by bad weather.

Three freezes, windstorms and torrential rains have added up to the lowest tourist season in Florida within recollection of the Miami weather bureau. Business is off 30 per cent.

The bottom was reached Wednesday when the mercury plunged to 28 degrees in the Miami area.

Temperatures, however, climbed back Thurs. and prices are expected to follow soon with a late winter crush.

REDUCE RATES

The slump, which began in December with the first freeze, brought drastic reductions in vacation costs.

Hotels which formerly charged $50 a day per room—and turned away takers—are now glad to get $25 a person. Those low rates sometimes include breakfast and dinner.

One Miami Beach hotel posted a sign in January that it advertised "the lowest summer rates."

Hotels placed ads in northern newspapers with "slashed" rate prices, with extras. One promised that the hotel would pay for the wife's round trip by airplane if a couple would make a reservation for 19 days or longer.

BLAME WEATHER

The weather, which brings Florida $1,000,000,000-a-year tourist business, is blamed almost exclusively for the slowdown. Few think the natural business slump has had much to do with it.

There are already indications that the bargain vacation rates won't last much longer.

The state hotel commissioner, Richard Edgerton, said hotels are booked solid for the remainder of February and March.

"Unless the weather continues there will be terrific crowds through March—and nobody wants to miss that weather will continue," Edgerton said.

Canadian in Nepal Innkeeper in Everest Foothills

Betty Mendies enjoys the distinction of being the only Canadian woman in Nepal—a country of some 7 million—as well as co-owner with her husband, Tom Mendies (extreme right) of the Snow View Hotel, jumping off point for many of the famous assaults on Mount Everest, among them the successful expedition led by Sir John Hunt with Hillary and Tenzing. Above, native bearers prepare to take an anthropologist into the Himalayas.

Mrs. Mendies, formerly Betty MacDonald of Hamilton, Ont., was an officer with the Salvation Army in Calcutta before her marriage. For evenings, she likes to wear the traditional and graceful "sari" worn by women of the East.

Nepal is a devoutly religious country of the Buddhist faith and no Christian missionaries are permitted entry. Above, Betty Mendies, who has mastered the Nepali language, stops to speak with one of the local holy men.

The Nepalese people, Betty Mendies has found, are cheerful and friendly and although very often poor and ragged, conduct themselves with great dignity.

This ancient and enormous bell outside one of the many temples in the capital city of Katmandu is frequently rung by Buddhists to call attention to prayers which have just been said.

Many of the temples in Nepal have prayer wheels which are turned round by the believer as he prays. Mrs. Mendies' warm and friendly personality has won her many friends both among the local population and the continuing stream of westerners who come to her pleasant hotel as expedition headquarters and jumping off point into the mountains, for many of the Himalayan peaks remain unconquered—a constant challenge to men who love adventure.

Wellington

WELLINGTON — Miss Helen Guernsey of Kingston, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Guernsey.

Sorry to report Mrs. Gerald Springings is a patient in the Trenton hospital having undergone surgery there last Thursday. All wish her a speedy recovery.

The Wellington friends of Mrs. Percy Weir were sorry to hear of her passing last January 30th in the Trenton hospital. Sympathy is extended to the family. The Lakeside Chapter 81, OES, held their memorial service on Friday evening at the Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton. Members were present from Picton, Bloomfield, Wellington and Hillier, also Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Wood, of Brighton, (Mrs. Weir's former neighbors), and Messrs. Joe Greer, Trenton, and Joseph Greer, of Toronto.

Mr. Joseph Greer, of Toronto, spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. C. H. Greer.

Miss Carley Cleave, of Queen's University, Kingston, was a week end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cleave.

EQUIPPED FOR ISOTOPE DIAGNOSIS

In Hamilton, Ont., a new isotope department of St. Joseph's hospital is Canada's best-equipped clinical laboratory for radioactive diagnosis. The clinic will specialize in blood and tumor diseases, in which radioactive isotopes are particularly effective in diagnosis. Here, Bill Burns demonstrates how one of the laboratory machines function as he holds a radioactivity detector to Gwen-La Clair. When isotopes are admitted to the blood stream they concentrate at the site of tumors, which can then be pinpointed and treated.

Bobby Hull Sparks Hawks' 4-1 Win Over Boston; Habs, Red Wings Tie

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

The Macs were mulling over the possibilities of finishing in first place ahead of the Whitby Dunlops on their return trip from Hull, Quebec, the other night. Strangely enough the fact they had whomped the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens with an unprecedented third-period eight-goal outburst did not cause any feelings of elation, although the atmosphere was far from gloomy.

As matters stand now the McFarlands have eight games to play, four of them on home ice. Tonight they head down the home-stretch in a schedule affair with the Kingston CKLC's—and this should be a dilly since Hildebrand Inc. is still smarting from that 3-2 setback in Reddenville last Saturday night.

But revenge is not the only reason the Macs will go out after victory. Four more triumphs regardless of home or away and they will top the Whitby Dunlops by a point to take over undisputed possession of first place, a spot they rightfully held now since the Dunlops are finished with the Eastern senior "A" league for this season, a fact not generally known to Toronto sportswriters and other metropolitan news outlets.

The remaining home games of the Macs include Ottawa Canadiens here on February 11; Cornwall Chevies, Feb. 14, and Pembroke Lumber Kings on February 21. This latter game is the one which has been exchanged for tonight's tilt with Kingston.

On their "away" trips the Macs trek to Pembroke on Saturday, tomorrow night; visit Kingston, February 13, go to Cornwall, February 16 and wind up the season schedule at Pembroke on February 21. The schedule itself will close on February 24 with the Cornwall Chevies visiting the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens.

Then the "new league" starts. The playoffs will possibly get under way, the same week, or more than likely starting the week of March 3. The winner of this meets the fourth, second the third, in a best-of-seven series.

Unless, of course, all this is changed at the Eastern Senior "A" league confab which is scheduled tonight at the arena starting at seven o'clock. Playoffs will be discussed and probably dates set. Pool business is also on the agenda as is the possibility of playing a benefit game for Ralph Buchanan of the Pembroke Lumber King who lost the sight of an eye as the result of a hockey injury.

Speaking to Scotty Bowman, coach of the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens in Hull the other night, we learned that Manager Sam Pollock will make efforts to include Claude Ruel, starry young defenceman of the young Habs, who incurred a permanent eye injury in a game with the McFarlands.

Young Ruel was at the game in Hull and visited the McFarlands after the battle. He is wearing heavy glasses but apparently his hockey days are over. He seems to be a likeable young fellow with a pleasant personality and he definitely holds no grudge against the McFarlands individually or collectively for the unfortunate occurrence that cost him the sight of an eye.

If Wednesday night's game is a criterion, the Junior Canadiens are not pulling in big crowds in their games with Eastern senior teams. The attendance was not announced, but the seats in the beautiful new arena which will seat/take 3844 seated and the rest were sparsely occupied. It seems the faithful down thataway, is like those of any other hockey-minded community—there is a vast difference between exhibition games—and those for "blood." And apparently Hull fans figure that since the Juniors are ineligible for playoffs, the senior tilts are exhibition affairs.

On the other hand a press box occupant informed us the Pollock youngsters are drawing well in the Ottawa Forum where they play their OHA games and those of the St. Laurent trophy series.

Now for those pesky cusses from Roddenville. They whipped the Pembroke Lumber Kings 6-4 the other night and they must needs win the majority of their remaining seven games if they want to finish in the third spot. The CKLC's are but one point in front of the Cornwall Chevies who have ten games to play, and with a winning streak of any kind could well give the Roddenville crew the pleasure of playing the McFarlands in the semi-final round.

Note to disarmament negotiators: Count Chicago Black Hawks among the "H" powers.

Two bombs named Hull and Hall were on show Thursday night as the Hawks defeated Boston Bruins 4-1. Rookie Bobby Hull scored two goals and goalie Glenn Hall stopped 22 shots as Chicago moved within two points of fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

In a second game Detroit Red Wings moved into third place one point ahead of Boston by tying Montreal Canadiens 1-1.

Hull, still eligible for junior hockey, was touted as a comer who could lead the Hawks into the playoffs. Hull hasn't made the grade on that scale and Chicago is in last place, where it's ended for nine of the last 11 seasons.

STAY CLOSE

But this year the revamped Hawks have stayed close to the pack—only seven points separate the second - place New York Rangers and last-place Hawks — and If Hull comes up with more performance like Thursday night's Chicago could make the playoffs for the first time since 1952-53.

Hull scored Chicago's first two goals around Gerry Toppazzini's 17th of the season for Boston. They gave him nine for the season.

Defenceman Jim Thomson scored the winner in 13 seasons less than a minute after Hull's second. Ed Litzenberger closed out the scoring at 18:15. Litzenberger also had two assists.

SECOND BEST GOALIE

Hall, whose 2.68 goals-against average is second only to Montreal's Jacques Plante, was outstanding in thwarting the Bruins on Boston Ice. Terry Sawchuk in the Boston goal handled only 18 shots.

Montreal's famed power play worked in the first period to set up league-leading point - getter Dickie Moore for his 30th goal — also high in the league—but that was all the injury-riddled league leaders could do.

Terry Sawchuk held them off the rest of the way stopping 29 shots, 17 in the first period. His mates put on the pressures and Nick Mickoski tied the eighth of the season shortly after the second period opened.

Plante stopped 31 shots.

Snooker Stars Split First Twelve Games

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two of the world's top cue artists took turns trouncing each other at the snooker table Thursday.

Portly Fred Davis, a Welshman, and slender George Chenier of Vancouver split the first 12 games of a 61-game series in which Davis' world title is at stake.

Davis took five of the six afternoon games as the series got under way at Vancouver's Exhibition Gardens before 1,000 spectators. The scores were 30-94, 73-31, 85-34, 56-54, 80-61, 89-9.

Chenier, 50-year - old North American champion, appeared to be playing under pressure, in contrast to the relaxed style of the 43-year-old hotel owner from Llandudno, Wales.

Chenier consolidated of being cold. In the night games, however, Chenier was warm and more relaxed. This time it was Davis who appeared to be off his form, and Davis took advantage of the fact, winning 66-44, 80-13, 72-23, 73-34 and 78-53. Davis won only the fifth game, 75-23.

Wins Ocean Yacht Race

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Declan Gaffney's schooner, Finisterre, 35-year-old yawl owned by Carleton Mitchell of Annapolis, Md., won both class C and over-all honors Thursday in the 184-mile Miami to Nassau race.

Finisterre, representing the Nassau Yacht Club, was on corrected time after a stirring duel with Cava, 40-foot yawl owned by J. W. Hershberger Jr. of Houston, Tex., and Comanche, 40-foot yawl owned by Jack Price of Miami.

Finisterre had an elapsed time of 24 hours, 44 minutes, 49 seconds and a corrected time of 41:18.31. Cava had an elapsed time of 46:42:15 and a corrected time of 41:22:26, while Comanche came for the crossing was 47:50.14 and corrected time was 42:37.56.

In 13th place was the Danarah, a 51-foot sloop owned by Maxwell Goldhar of Toronto. Its elapsed time was 49:42.30 and corrected time was 48.17.11.

Nineteen yachts started the race from Miami at noon Tuesday.

Cornwall Rink Undefeated In International Bonspiel

QUEBEC (CP)—Nels Flodlay's Cornwall rink remains the only undefeated team at the 45th Quebec International bonspiel today enters its final stages.

In second round play for the Lieutenant - Governor's Trophy, Flodlay edged Al Muth's Quebec rink 8 shots to 6 in an 18-end game. In the same round Gaston Amyot of Quebec Jacques Cartier defeated Bob Metcalf's Toronto Royal Canadian rink 9-5 to hand the Toronto team its first loss.

The week-long bonspiel enters its final stages with six finals tonight. Winners will be decided in play for the Chateau and Omega trophies, the Francois Jobin Gold Cup and the Holt-Renfrew, Val D'Or and Dow trophies.

The Lieutenant - Governor's final is Saturday when the remainder of the 15 finals round and awards will be distributed.

Semi-finalists in the Val D'Or event were decided Thursday. Ken Conlin's Oshawa rink defeated J. D. Talbot's Toronto Granites 7-6 in the quarter-final and meets Olivier Samson's of Quebec tomorrow night.

Jack Burgess of Weston, Ont., meets Quebec C a m b r i a i r R. Blanchet in the other quarter-finals. Burgess beat George von Zuban of Sudbury, 9-4.

Lopes, Unknown Fight Tonight

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Joey Lopes battles Damasco Collazo, a relatively unknown Cuban, in a nationally televised lightweight fight tonight at War Memorial Auditorium.

For Lopes it's an "everything to lose, nothing to gain" affair.

Originally Lopes was to fight Paolo Rosi in New York's Madison Square Garden, but the 10-rounder was switched to Syracuse by the International Boxing Club and then Collazo was substituted for Rosi. An injured heel caused Rosi's withdrawal.

Collazo, 23, has a record of victories, nine losses, one draw and one "no contest." Lopes' record is 43-14-3.

Raise Out, Mickey Has Pout 135,000 Skins, 'Sliver' Grins

NEW YORK (AP)—With Ted Williams, the Boston Red Sox batting maestro pocketing the highest contract ever paid a baseball player—a reported $135,000—attention today was drawn to the American League champion Yankees.

What's their problem?

The small ones are biting, but the big ones aren't even nibbling.

Chief among a flock of unsigned Yankee regulars is Mickey Mantle. Mickey, who reportedly after a boost that would put him at the $75,000 level, second only to Williams in the American League. Mantle's asking price is approximately $15,000 over his estimated 1957 wage.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals recently signed for an estimated $100,000 kneeing him on top of the National League payroll.

OLDEST BAT CHAMP

Williams, who will be 40 in August, batted .388 last year to become the oldest player ever to win the batting crown. He was handsomely rewarded. After an hour chat Thursday with Yankee general manager Joe Cronin, Williams agreed to his 18th contract with the Boston club.

Williams said: "I'm happy about the pact."

But apparently many of the Yankees aren't. Still to be signed are Gil McDougald, Bob Turley, Sil Skowron, Whitey Ford, Tony Kubek, Jim Maglie, Bobby Shantz, Elston Howard, Joe Collins, Bob Grim, Tom Byrne, Johnny Kucks and Don Larsen.

The Yankees are having little trouble with the lesser lights, but only a small corps of prominent players have signed, including Yogi Berra and Hank Bauer, Harry Simpson, Jerry Lumpe, Art Ditmar and Bobby Richardson are in the fold.

NOT WORRIED

This may seem to be an imposing problem, but not to Lee Macphail, director of player personnel, who has dismissed talk of cuts.

"I'll be in Florida next week and I expect to do some business as that time," he said Macphail. "A lot of the players are down there and it's always easier to sit down and talk things out than it is by way of telephone and letter."

Macphail got rookie Norm Siebern to ink his 1958 contract Thursday. The 24-year-old lefthander who led the American Association in hitting at Denver last year with a .349 mark is expected to be the Yanks' regular left fielder.

Frank Robinson, National League sophomore of the year, has come to terms with Cincinnati. No figures were announced for the 22-year-old star who batted .'57.

The Cubs reached agreement with Walt Moryn, who had returned his first contract unsigned. Pitchers Turk Lown and Dick Littlefield also joined the signees, leaving only three players unsigned.

Alex Kellner, veteran Athens pitcher who had a 6-4 mark, came into the Kansas City fold Thursday. The Athletics also inked pitcher Bud Byerly and infielders Jerry Snyder and Jose Valdivielso.

Cornwall Nudges Kingston With 6-3 Win Over Ottawa

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goaltender Ray Frederick of Cornwall Cheviots Thursday night gave his squad enough boost in their fight to get out of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior eastern series standings.

Frederick was in top form as Cheviots took an fourth-place Ottawa-Hull Canadiens. Canadiens fired 43 shots at him during the game, outshooting Cheviots 43-25. Ties banged 44 at Claude Cyr in the Ottawa net, 44 scored at Frederick.

The win took Cheviots to within one point of fifth-place Kingston CKLC.

INTO FOURTH-PLACE TIE

In the OHA-NOHA Senior A series, Sudbury Wolves moved into a tie for fourth place with North Bay Trappers, downing Trappers 3-1.

Reg Grigg and Ron Maki scored Sudbury goals against Ottawa, who collapsed before a crowd of 2,000 spectators at the Cornwall squad. Moe Savard and Neil Burke scored the other Cornwall goals.

Ottawa marksmen were Bill Sykes, Claude Richard and Bob Gilmeau.

Second-period goals by Johnny Gillis and Gus Gustavsen gave Sudbury victory over North Bay. Bobby Forbes leveled an earlier goal by Wolves' Bob Barlow, who scored his 23rd of the season.

Three Share Top In Tucson Open

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Precise pitching and putting sent Frank Stranahan, Bill Johnston and Manuel de la Torre into today's second round of the $15,000 Tucson Open golf tourney with a one-stroke lead.

The pros call the flat, 6,436-yard, par-72 El Rio layout a pitch and putt course and that's the way it played for the three leaders as they carded six-under-par 64s. None went over par on any hole.

Another 43 pros and one amateur also accomplished a par thing, among them three Canadians. Three other Canadians were at even par.

Jim Riggins, Anderson, S.C., and John Mahaffey, Grand Rapids, Mich., were runners-up at 65. Both are rookie pros.

Jerry Barber and Tony Lema.

Al Balding of Toronto, Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Chuchute, Que., and Jerry Magee of Toronto topped the Canadian contestants at 69.

AT EVEN PAR

Lyle Ford, Vancouver, Bob Wylie, Calgary, and Frank Wilter, Port Arthur, Ont., were at 72 was former professional hockey player Bill Ezinicki, and at 73 was Murray Tucker, Toronto.

Pre Professional Golfers Association supervisor, Harvey Haydon, hardest busy afternoon, inflicting a whopping $5 penalty strokes. The offences ranged from having "one many" clubs is the limit—to slicing someone else's ball.

Mike Marusic o, Webster Groves, Mo., found himself with a 10 on one par-5 hole. He finished 39 strokes—two per hole for the 10 holes he had played up to then. The penalty raised his eventual 67 to 87 and disqualified him.

Pete Manor of Buffalo, N.Y., hit another player's ball, incurring a two-stroke penalty and finished with a 73.

Ken Venturi, who is seeking his third tournament victory in a row, had trouble with his putter and came in with a 69.

Players Body Will Not Be Disbanded

BOSTON (AP) — A spokesman for the National Hockey League Players Association said Thursday the group will not be disbanded despite failure to win recognition by NHL governors.

Ted Lindsay of Chicago Black Hawks, said in a statement that the association will "continue actively as it has done up to now." The owners granted many concessions at a meeting with player representatives in Palm Beach, Fla., Monday, but withheld recognition of the association.

"In fairness to our owners, we want to say that at the meeting in Palm Beach they did not ask or suggest that we drop our association," Lindsay's statement said.

CANADA'S FIRST WORLD SKI CHAMPION

For the first time in history, Canada has a world champion skier, Lucille Wheeler of San Sylvestre, Que. She won the downhill race of the world's championship meet at Bad Gastein, Austria, and in doing so set a world record in time. Her opponents were the best of the European skiers, who have almost monopolized the world titles in the past. She says it was her waxing that gave her greater speed than the other racers.

Until just recently, there wasn't a very great need to do much about the winter feeding of birds, at least down here in Southern Ontario. In fact, the normal winter population seemed to be looking out for themselves fairly well as they ranged around the houses and farms. Apparently, there was sufficient open country to provide all the food they needed, naturally.

It was particularly noticeable here at Wyndywck. Our regular visitors, the Blue Jays, rarely showed up for feeding. But when the first heavy snow fall occurred, they arrived as though someone had rung the dinner bell. Before that time we were rather perturbed about them, thinking that they had not survived from last winter, when four of them made this their regular feeding place.

All our doubts were over after the first big snow, for not only did one four return but they brought two newcomers with them. Much to our delight, they have all remained.

Living in the country, space for feeding is not a problem as it might be in a city where space is at a premium and the problem is more pronounced.

With this situation to contend with, and realizing that a great many people could and would provide similar feeding stations for birds, Carlings have had designed an excellent feeding station and suet stand. Simple to construct and modest in cost, any do-it-yourself fan can assemble and mount it in an hour or so.

A most absorbing way to spend an hour or so, or to instruct the children, is to watch the birds feeding from inside your window. You will marvel at the ingenuity and dexterity and habits of these beautiful little creatures. What is more, if any of your friends do not feed birds, food is demonstrated, you have no idea how quickly your feathered diner guests will respond to the invitation. Corn or look-out and when the door is opened it is a signal for the clamor to start up again.

The feeding box or tray as mentioned earlier is designed to fit on a window sill. Clamps have to be attached to the frame of the window to hold it from tipping and, when placed there, the birds can be watched in comfort from inside the room.

Modifications of the tray can be made to accommodate individual requirements and will do no harm to its overall usefulness.

To obtain a free blueprint of this feeding station, simply send your name and address to The Canadian Audubon Society, 181 Jarvis Street, Toronto.

Hamilton Whips Marlboros 6-5 For Five in Row

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Red Wings desperately chasing St. Catharines Teepees in a bid to take over top place in the Quebec-Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, Thursday night pushed their winning streak to five straight.

Ed Sandford won Toronto Marlboros moved the gap to eight points and took the Cubs five points ahead of Metropolitan Toronto St. Michael's, sharing third place.

St. Mike's, who've been hitting the hotspots recently, took a 4-1 beating from fifth-ranking Peterborough Petes.

Dave Amadio laid the foundation for the Cubs victory, scoring twice. Murray Oliver got the winner in the third period. Other Cub scorers were Gerry Sullivan, Garry Lariben, and Ed Chow.

Doug Risley and Jack McMasters each scored a pair for Marlboros, Bill Rowland adding a single.

Petes took a 2-0 first-period lead and rounded off their scoring in the second period when Lou Angotti of St. Mike's found goal.

Bill Mahoney, Guy Black, Irv Spencer and Larry Babcock were Petes' marksmen.

DEATH MARS RACE

LISBON (AP) — One man was killed and another severely injured in a crash Thursday a few hours after the start of the Portugal auto race. The car driven by Julio Bandeira Bastos skidded and fell into a 150-foot ravine. Bastos was injured but a passenger in the car, Guillerme Carvalho Duarte, died en route to hospital.

Puerto Rico, Cuba Battle for Baseball Title

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) Puerto Rico and Cuba are expected to fight it out again for the championship in the Caribbean "world series" starting tonight at Sixto Escobar.

Juan Pizarro, Milwaukee south paw, is the ace of the Caguas team that will represent Puerto Rico in the round robin competition with Cuba, Venezuela and Panama. Each team plays each other team twice in the six-day series that runs from Feb. 10 to Feb. 15. Doubleheaders are played each night.

In addition to Pizarro (14-5), the Puerto Rican team has first baseman Vic Power of Kansas City, shortstop Felix Mantilla of Thomas of San Francisco, outfielder Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, pitcher Leo Blasingame of Boston, infielder Mike Goliat of Toronto, and pitcher Marion Fricano of Seattle.

Brighton Gives Dunlops Battle But Lose 8-2

BRIGHTON, Eng. (CP) — Canada's world hockey champs defeated Brighton Tigers 8-2 Thursday night for their second straight victory over a British National Hockey League club.

But the Whitby team had to hustle against a fighting club that iced only 10 men against Whitby's 15 and worked hard trying.

The Canadians, who looked much more comfortable beating Harringay Racers 6-2 Wednesday night, chalked up their play is the first period.

They reached the first intermission with a 2-1 lead on the strength of a pair of quick goals by Bus Gagnon and Bobby Attersley and some spectacular work by goalie Roy Edwards.

Brighton's resistance crumbled slowly in the second frame. Two goals by Jack McKenzie, the first while a home player served a penalty for interference, and a third by Harry Sinden put the game out of reach.

POINT BY POINT

Jean-Paul Lamirande, Gagnon and Gordie Myles scored in the third period before Fred Denny picked up his second goal for Tigers.

Tigers, who appeared to know every inch of their undersized ice surface, frequently frustrated the regularly throughout the game but Edwards gave nothing away.

Whitby took seven of the game's 10 penalties but Tigers played four men to six. Both times, Tigers failed to get a direct shot at Edwards.

The partisan crowd booed the visitors lustily when Sinden went off with Brighton's Lloyd Orrie in the second period for roughing But they gave the Canadians a lengthy ovation after the second intermission when the Canadians took up collection to aid a Brighton player seriously injured in a previous game.

George Chuvalo Gets Offer to Fight Briton

TORONTO (CP)—Matchmaker Deacon Allen says Toronto heavyweight George Chuvalo has received an offer of $2,000 to fight Dick Richardson, a top - ranking British heavyweight, in England March 25.

"It sounds fine except that we have a dozen of things on the fire here," Allen said Thursday. "We'll get around to it within four or five days. Meantime, I'm trying to line up a fight for Chuvalo with Bob Cleroux, a name fighter such as Alex Miteff."

Miteff, Montreal fighting out of New York, was ranked ninth this week by the National Boxing Association in its heavyweight listings.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Shawinigan Falls Cataracts won their sixth game in a row Thursday and the Quebec Hockey League began to look like a runaway for the Chicoutimi Saguenays.

Cataracts cut down Chicoutimi 2-1 and whittled the Saguenays first-place lead to eight points.

Chicoutimi now has 56 points and Cats 54. Quebec Aces, dropping a 4-3 decision to Montreal Royals, remained in third place with 46 points while Royals moved up one notch to take over fourth from the idle Trois-Rivieres Lions.

Royals have 39 points, one more than Trois-Rivieres.

MAY RAISE LINER

NEW YORK (AP) — Salvage experts began a project today they plan to try to raise the sunken Italian liner Andrea Doria "just like a boom is lifted" sometime this spring. The salvage operation is expected to cost about $1,500,000.

Hurlers Look Askance at LA Coliseum

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The idea of playing baseball in Memorial Coliseum strikes some National League pitchers as something about as pleasant as having their arms sawed off.

The prospect is painful because the left-field foul line in the Los Angeles Dodgers' home grounds is only 250 feet long.

Now comes a witness for the defence. He is Ed Roebuck, the first National League pitcher actually to take a walk around the Coliseum. He says: "I think it's absolutely terrific. It's the Grand Canyon with seats."

But, the Dodger relief pitcher was asked Thursday, how about that short foul line?

"That's just a lot of controversy over nothing," Roebuck said.

"Take it from me, there won't be as many home runs in the Coliseum as there were in Brooklyn."

Why?

"In Ebbets Field," he said, "the wind blows out to left field and left-center and center. Wind conditions don't exist in the Coliseum.

"Without wind, the ball won't carry too far. A batter will have to pull the ball sharply down the left-field foul line for a home run. And with that 40-foot fence up there behind the field wall, he'll have to earn it even then. It drops off fast in left field from there."

Hits Decision To Play Games As Scheduled

LONDON (CP) — A sports writer for the London Daily Mail has protested against the English Football League's decision to go ahead with Saturday's scheduled soccer matches despite the tragedy of Manchester United and says the sport has become "pure gambling."

Columnist Pat Reekie writes: "Saturday's matches could easily have been postponed. Fifty-three out of 92 clubs have floodlights now. Five could have been played in midweek without congesting the program.

"But the show must go on, for football has become pure show business.

"By this very action, it sacrifices forever the right and privilege of calling itself a sport."

Little Benny's Notebook

I was downtown with ma and we went in the Zipper Tea Room for tea and ice creem, ma drinking the tea and me eating the ice creem, and I said, Hay, ma, look at that man in the corner, he looks like Smokey Ross.

That's just who it is, ma said. I saw in the paper that he is to make a personeel appearance at the Narcissus this evening, ma said, and I said, G, will he have his guitar and his horse with him?

Well, he would surely be lost without his guitar, and I doubt he even feels at home without his horse, ma said, and I said, Gosh, look at his curly hair.

I have more important things to look at and think about thank goodness, ma said, and I said, Hay ma, that lady that just got up is asking him to sine her autograff book.

The world is full of silly women who think they have been treated ported to the 7th Heaven just because some empty headed concreted actor scrawls his name for them, ma said. It's childish, she said, and I said, Well then G, ma, I'm a child, so I'm going to ask him.

Which I did, taking my menu card over to his table and asking him to please sine it, and Smokey Ross said, You bet, old timer, what's your mother's ferst name?

Pawleen, I said, and he wrote, Warmest regards to Pawleen and Benny from Smokey Ross, and I took it back and showed it to ma, and she said, Goodness, well.

And she looked over at Smokey Ross and he smiled a big smile at her and she smiled a little back, and she put the menu in her bag careful, saying, The bridge ladies will open their mouths when they see this. It'll have a good laff at their rediculous childish excitement, she said.

And she laffed to herself for practice.

Court Rules Must Change Names of Nags

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Appeal Court Thursday ruled that William F. Morrissey of Toronto must change the names of five horses including that of Stole The Ring, a favorite for this year's Queen's plate.

The unanimous decision, delivered by Mr. Justice Wilfred D. Roach, upheld a ruling by the Ontario Racing Commission a year ago and reversed a judgment by Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow of the Ontario Supreme Court.

The commission ordered the names changed because they were allegedly named after racing magnate Fred Orpen in a personal feud. It threatened to ban the horses from Ontario tracks if the names weren't changed.

The horses involved are Stole the Ring, Rabbit Mouth, Irene's Orphan, Red Nose Clown an d Hot Ice. A sixth horse in the original action, Into The Grape, has been destroyed.

PLANS APPEAL

Morrissey said he will appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada and said the commission is "nothing but a dictatorship."

Mr. Justice Roach said the commission had acted within its powers. He said it had been given "wide scope of administrative power to regulate horse racing so that the public interest would not be adversely affected."

"The court is not concerned with the wisdom, propriety or expediency of the decision the commission threatened to take," he said.

R. N. Starr, commission counsel, said Morrissey named the horses after Orpen.

"No," said Morrissey. "Mr. Orpen and I are friends, the commission is just using this as a smoke screen."

FILES DIVORCE SUIT

Women Like Cowboy Heroes And Sponsorships Prove It

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Are women more enthusiastic fans of television westerns than men?

Before the ladies complain that they watch them only to keep their husbands company, let them hear a few anonymous quotations we've heard some of their sisters drop over a period of time:

"I've got to get home to see Maverick. I wouldn't miss seeing that wonderful Jim Garner for anything."

"I think the reason I like Sugarfoot is because that cute little Will Hutchins brings out the mother in me."

"I'm not sure that western heroes are handsomer than lots of other stars, but there's something about the way they dress that fascinates me."

Well, we wouldn't try to argue a "trend" on the basis of these and several other random quotes. But it does seem true that many women are viewing western heroes for reasons similar to those that make men enjoy viewing the flat-chested, hipless type of girl.

Western TV shows go to great pains to design heroes' costumes such as no actual man on horseback ever wore. Shoulders are exaggerated, hips are snaked, pockets are slashed in order that the heroes look as much as possible like Adonis in silk tights. Women have other reasons for enjoying westerns than the fact that their heroes are handsomer than the men they know in real life. Western heroes are also stronger than mere mortal husbands and lovers. They're politer and kinder and brighter than any guy a dame will meet between the cradle and the grave.

Only an undue modesty, modesty makes many women refuse to admit that they enjoy westerns. If you think all this is said in jest, we'll now try to prove that it isn't.

An analysis of the products advertised on western TV programs demonstrates — in fact, proves—that advertisers know all these things. They're out to make a big smooch pitch to the female viewing audience than to the males.

There are at present 18 regular "adult" westerns being presented by the three major networks. Among them they advertise a total of 37 different products.

The products which women normally purchase far outbetter those which men usually buy. Specifically, the male fantasy number only four among the total of 31 advertised.

You may not agree with us as to why women look at TV westerns, but there are a large number of advertisers these days who are convinced that a huge audience of women is watching their shows.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, February 7

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be very careful you do not use unguarded words or indulge in some thoughtless act that could hurt a good friend. You will feel better in the afternoon so that you become more lovable, and by P.M. all is well.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A.M. is fraught with unexpected happenings that deter your progress, workwise. Hold tight however, and later you can make up for time lost, put a finsystem into effect, get ready for time weekend.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Get a headstart on the weekend ahead by going to the beautician or barbershop, getting massage, etc. Then give your attention to creative talents, activities that are uplifting to the soul. Be happy.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — Step into your car early this A.M. and avoid possible family quarrel, frustration. If afternoon conditions change and then you can put abode in nicest order, get the affection of family ties and work for harmony.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Take exceptional care on the road, during this A.M., also keep your temper in check for best results today. Don't sell bring fine benefits. Tonight, have a jolly time with dearest friend or relatives. Be kind.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Promising to give payment on a debt ahead of the time in which you can comfortably do so would bring dire results. After lunch and in P.M. you can make better arrangements for a larger income, be on the safe side.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A.M. be sure you don't take advice of others, but use own mind on important matter. Also, get appearance at its peak, so that this evening will be a memorable one, full of happiness and sociability.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — A private anxiety could put you in a very nervous state this morning, if you don't control yourself and show a poised appearance to others. Then learn how to succeed faster, be practical. Be relaxed at sports tonight.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Being a free soul is your greatest desire in life, but sometimes you frighten nicely and the latter part of the day is very productives.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Truly you would be in a pickle with regard to an affair-dealing with the public, if you let some unguarded actions get you in the centre of a fracas. Stick to stable activities. Later great good will come to you.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — You're in a very narrow rut and closed to the fine opportunities about you for truly finding your real relative to new ideas.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A.M. will be bad if you follow that intuition or the plans you made. Let the morning slide by and then in afternoon and evening you can make up for lost time, get worthwhile, practical things accomplished successfully.

If your child is born today... The dear little child born today will in earliest life be so busy at trifles incessantly that the major things of importance may be neglected. Nonetheless, as the mental timbre changes, the habit acquired of minute detail and patience will stand in excellent stead. See that a fine education is given in artistic, precise work-pattern for life.

YEGGS LEAVE EGGS

NEWCASTLE, England (CP) — Safecrackers blow a safe at an egg packing factory in this Northumberland city, but the blast did no damage to thousands of nearby eggs. However, the gang escaped with £2,700.

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A coroner's jury decided Wednesday night Alice Mahoney, 56, of St. Catharines, was killed accidentally in a mishap last year at the McKinnon Industries Limited foundry. Mrs. Mahoney died June 7 of burns suffered when the door supports of a cupola containing molten metal collapsed. Several coworkers spent as much as five months in hospital, causing the

TENDERS

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO

CONSTRUCTION OF AN AREA OFFICE BUILDING AND AN AREA SERVICE BUILDING AT KINGSTON, ONTARIO

SEALED TENDERS, in triplicate, addressed to the Secretary, 620 University Avenue, Toronto 2, Ontario, clearly marked

"TENDER FOR AN AREA OFFICE BUILDING AND AN AREA SERVICE BUILDING AT KINGSTON, ONTARIO"

will be received up to 4.30 o'clock p.m., Eastern Standard Time, for the construction in full compliance of an area office building and an area service building at Kingston, Ontario. The buildings will be a one-storey brick building about 80 feet by 100 feet, with full basement, and a one-storey brick building about 40 feet by 60 feet, with partial basement, approximately 85 feet by 50 feet, with no basement. The buildings are to be complete in all trades and ready for occupancy by October 1, 1958.

TUESDAY, March 4, 1958,

Tendering documents may be obtained at the Area Office, 211 Queen Street, Kingston, Ontario, and at the Head Office of the Commission, 620 University Avenue, Toronto, on payment of $25.00 per set. The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario will refund the amount of $20 per set of the tender documents to each bona fide tenderer who submits a tender. Tendering documents may be inspected at the office of the Belleville Commercial News, Toronto, the Toronto Builders' Exchange, and the Builders' Exchange, Kingston, 11 Queen Street, Kingston, Ontario.

Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque drawn on a Canadian chartered bank payable to the Treasurer, The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario in the amount of 10 per cent of the total amount of the tender, provision for the return of the cheque appears in the tendering documents.

The successful tenderer may be required to furnish a performance bond, in the form approved by the Commission, and executed by a bonding company licensed as such in the Province of Ontario, in the amount of 50 per cent of the total amount of the contract.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

R. B. EASSON,
Secretary.

PLAYERS

"I saw Mr. Busby (Matt Busby, the team manager). He was very nice. He showed no emotion. I helped the rescue workers to unload him.

"I got was a bump on the back of my head and a scraped nose."

Peter Howard, London Daily Mail photographer who was travelling with the team, gave this account:

"When the pilot tried to take off there seemed to be some kind of slight trouble. He aborted the take-off. He stopped. Then he tried a second takeoff.

"That did not seem satisfactory so he taxied back to the apron at the end of the runway. It was on the third takeoff that the pilot seemed to become about the end of the runway only a bit above the ground.

"The plane suddenly appeared to be breaking up. Seats started to crumble up. Everything seemed to be falling to pieces. It was a rolling sensation and all of a sudden I found myself coming down on top of us.

"There was no time to think. No one cried out. No one spoke —just a deadly silence for what seemed to be only seconds. I can't remember whether there was a bang or not. Everything stopped all at once. I was so dazed I just scrambled about. Then I found a hole in the wreckage and crawled out on hands and knees.

"I turned and saw Harry Gregg, the goalkeeper. Gregg, Ted Ellyard, the two stewards' escapes, the radio officer and myself went back into the wreckage. We saw Capt. Thain, one of the crew, stard putting out small fires with an extinguisher.

"It looked as though those who had been sitting in the forward part of the plane were the lucky ones who got out. The luckiest of all were those in backward fac-

DOCTORS

Only three of the 11 sports writers who travelled to Yugoslavia with the team survived. One who died Thursday night on the operating table was Frank Swift, a star goalkeeper before the war who later turned to covering the sport for the London weekly, News of the World.
SPORT WRITERS DIE

The other sport writers killed in the crash were Tom Jackson, Manchester Evening News; Archie Ledbrooke, London Daily Mirror; H. D. Davies, Manchester Guardian; Eric Thompson, London Daily Mail; Henry Rose, London Daily Express; George Follows, London Daily Herald and Alf Clarke, Manchester Evening Chronicle.

Survivors of the victims were W. T. Cable, the plane's steward; B. P. Miklos, a travel agent; coach Bert Whalley; team secretary Walter Crickmer; trainer P. H. Curran and director W. Satinoff. Bradley, a genial Scotsman who is known and respected wherever soccer is played, fought for his life with severe chest injuries and general shock. It was not known this morning if he was aware of the tragedy to his club, known as the Busby Babes. Maurer said:

"I can say, with good conscience, that we hope to bring Busby through."

Maurer had a staff of 54 doctors working throughout the night in five operating theatres. Besides Berry, halfback Duncan Edwards was the worst-hurt player, with a fractured leg and chest injuries.

MAY NOT PLAY

Edwards' condition was not critical, the doctor said, but "I don't think he'll be able to play football with that leg set yet."

Jackie Blanchflower, also a halfback, was in serious but not critical condition.

On of the survivors was Harry Gregg, Capt. Jackie Thain. He refused all comment on the possible cause of the crash.

It was soccer's third major air disaster. Besides the Italian crash, 28 persons died when a chartered plane carrying a group of fans crashed in Wales in 1950 while flying home from a match in Ireland.

England had planned four home games for the world tournament, and Taylor, Byrne and Edwards were the key men in the plan. Byrne was a brilliant 26-year-old halfback, and veteran of 33 games for England. Taylor was a 32-year-old goal getter with either his head or feet. Edwards played his first game for England last year and already with Edwards, a rugged 21-year-old, did much to add enthusiasm to the team's attack.

The seven dead players were valued in the world soccer market at up to $500,000.

Kennedy Critical Of Inefficiency Among Farmers

TORONTO (CP) — Inefficient farmers were the target of veteran legislator Thomas L. Kennedy Thursday night as he opened the address in reply to the speech from the throne in the Ontario legislature.

Mr. Kennedy, the Progressive Conservative member for East Kent told the legislature that 20 per cent of Ontario's farmers produce 80 per cent of its food. Conversely, 80 per cent of its farmers produced only 20 per cent of the food.

"That is our problem—marginal farmers," he said.

Agriculture was only one of the subjects mentioned in a half-hour address that won Mr. Kennedy sustained applause from all members in the house. The address in reply to the speech from the throne is usually made by one of the new government members but this year Mr. Kennedy was chosen to honor his seniority.

GLENGARRY MP SECONDS

His reply was seconded by Fernand Gulardon, Progressive Conservative member elected in Glengarry last fall in a byelection called after there signation of Osie Villeneuve.

Mr. Guindon's speech contained echoes of the former Liberal government at Ottawa in "closing its eyes to the enormous responsibilities of the provincial-municipal partnership."

He said there was a stubborn refusal to admit that the development of provincial - municipal facilities is a completely necessary prelude to the development of the nation as a whole.

Despite this the Ontario provincial-municipal grants eleven-fold, he said.

"With federal aid now in hands the scene is changed," Mr. Guindon said. Provincial grants to municipalities has been raised to 13 per cent from 10 per cent, enabling even higher grants to be made by the Ontario governments.

Municipal road subsidies, he said, will amount to about $60,000,000 this year. The municipal share of relief costs had already been cut to 20 per cent from 40 per cent.

FORM GULF GROUP

MONTREAL (CP) — Formation of a business and community association to promote the economic, social and cultural welfare of the lower St. Lawrence and gulf region was announced Wednesday. Headquarters are in Montreal.

Duncan Urges Canada Buy More From United Kingdom

TORONTO (CP) — James S. Duncan, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Thurs. urged an increase in Canadian imports from the United Kingdom as a means of balancing Canada's "lopsided" purchasing pattern.

The deputy leader of Canada's trade mission to the U.K. told a joint meeting of the Empire Club of Canada and the Canadian Club of Toronto that it is essential to the United States that Canada remain economically sound.

"They recognize that we cannot do so if we continue to buy goods from . . . them . . . and if we were successful in switching imports to the U.K., even to the point of bringing her trade into balance with ours, we would still be purchasing far more from our southern neighbor than she (the U.S.) purchases from us, and would still be by far her largest customer."

Text of his speech was released to the press before delivery.

LACK OF BALANCE

Mr. Duncan stressed the trade imbalance between Canada and the U.S.—in 1957 it stood at $1,293,000,000, 45 per cent greater than the U.K.'s combined deficit with Canada and the U.S.—was "not the result of any national policy on the part of the American government" but rather the fault of "the individual efforts of the citizens of the U.S. and Canada operating in a free economy."

The only means of rectifying the situation would be "by the voluntary action of the individuals of both nations."

Fears expressed by some persons about the harm which might be caused by stimulating imports from the U.K. were largely groundless.

"The objectives of the Dollar Sterling Trade Council and of the trade mission are not to encourage Britain to export goods to us which would be competing with our own manufacturers, but . . . to stimulate their exporters to obtain a larger share of the goods which we import from other countries.

"When one considers that our importations from the U.S. alone amounted to approximately nine times those from the U.K., it is obvious that there is plenty of room in which to manoeuvre without hurting our own producers."

ENUMERATORS START MONDAY TO NAME VOTERS

Final Lists Will Be Ready Mar. 18

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal election is 51 days away but right now Canada has no voters — at least not for the purposes of a federal election.

But by March 18—less than two weeks before the vote—the complicated job of drawing up voters' lists will be completed. Except for a few cases, if your name isn't on the list by then you won't be allowed to vote.

The job of compiling the lists starts Monday when about 58,000 enumerators begin six days of ringing doorbells to collect the names of those who may cast ballots March 31. Their number is estimated at a record 9,000,000.

For each general election, previous lists are scrapped and new ones assembled.

POSTED PUBLICLY

Early in March, the new provisional lists assembled by enumerators will be posted in public places across the country. After a further period of checking and revision, in which those who have been left off can get their names included, the lists will be in their final form just 13 days before the election.

After that, the only unlisted persons who will be allowed to vote are rural residents who on polling day can take an oath as to their qualifications. They must also have a qualified voter vouch for them by oath.

Generally speaking, the federal franchise is extended to all who are Canadian citizens or other British subjects — that includes immigrants from the Irish Republic—21 years old by polling day and resident in Canada for the year immediately preceding polling day.

The age qualification is waived for members of the forces or those who have served in the active forces.

The largest group specifically excluded from voting rights are Indians on reservations. But the franchise is extended to all Indian war veterans and their wives, to Indians who have served in the forces since September, 1950, and Indians who pay income tax or qualify for exemption on income earned on the reserve.

The franchise also is denied to chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay, assistant returning officers, federally appointed judges, prisoners, mental patients, certain workers hired by candidates, and persons convicted of corrupt or illegal election practices.

2nd World Ski Title Won By Canada's Lucile Wheeler

BAD GASTEIN, Austria (CP) — Lucile Wheeler of St. Jovite, Que., put Canada on the world ski map with a vengeance today by capturing to her second consecutive victory in the international Alpine championships here.

Her almost unprecedented double win in the three-event world competition brought Canada its first two global titles in the sport in a space of two days, and only a heartbreaking 14th place in the opening race last Monday robbed Miss Wheeler of the women's combined alpine crown.

The daughter of a Laurentians resort owner made a bid for honors as the Canadian woman athlete of the year with her victory today in the giant slalom, climax event of the women's section of the world championships which wind up with the men's downhill Sunday. It came right after her victory Thursday in the women's downhill in which she upset Europe's top championship skier.

The 23-year-old Quebec girl also climaxed a four-year battle for a world victory with her two wins this week that's to have the unofficial combined women's crown at the 16th alpine meet. She finished 1.2 seconds ahead of Austria's Erika Netzer, who finished third today, came through with a better overall point total for the meet.

Sally Deaver of the United States was second in today's giant slalom with a time of 155.1.

Miss Wheeler collected second for the combined title with 4.32 penalty points against her compared with 3.80 against the Swiss winner, who was second to Miss Wheeler in the downhill Thursday and tied for eighth place in the slalom last Monday with Ann Heggevelt of Ottawa.

Miss Wheeler's 14th placing in that opening event crippled her chance for the combined victory despite her almost unprecedented triumphs later.

Miss Heggevelt was 11th today, with a time of two minutes.

After her victory today in soft, mushy snow, Miss Wheeler said: "I had a wonderful fast run but I almost skidded off the course about midway and I lost the feel of my right pole and I had to make a grab for it — how lucky I was to have finished record for the combined."

Canada had never won a world championship in skiing until Miss Wheeler, daughter of a St. Jovite hotel owner, came to Europe this season.

MUNICIPALITIES TO GET $500,000 EXTRA FOR ROADS

Provinces Share Now 75 P.C. From 50

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government plans to give municipalities nearly $500,000 extra this year for road links with provincial highways.

Highways Minister Allan Introduced a bill in the Ontario legislature Friday raising the province's share in the costs of connecting links to 75 per cent from 50 per cent.

Mr. Allan said this would result in more construction and cost the government between $300,000 and $500,000 more than the $500,000 spent last year.

The new legislation would apply to 300 municipal road links. The rate for cities stays at 50 per cent.

Mr. Allan said the reason for this is that towns, villages and townships have been getting the same rate—50 per cent—for both connecting links and other roads, while cities already get a differential of 33 per cent and 50 per cent.

INCLUDES LIMIT

Other amendments to the act would include a 50-per-cent limit on rebates to municipalities from countries for road construction, with the minimum rebate 10 per cent.

Township would be included in the provision requiring subdividers to construct their own roads.

This now is required only in cities, towns and villages.

Mr. Allan's bill was the only major piece of legislation introduced.

R. E. Sutton (PC—York-Scarborough) tabled a select committee's report which sponsored the passage of 18 standing committees to deal with bills during the session.

CHAIRS AVAILABLE

Chairs used in the legislature since 1892 and replaced this year are available to municipalities as museum pieces, Attorney - General Roberts indicated.

J. C. Wardrope (PC—Port Arthur) and G. T. Gordon (L—Brantford) said they felt old chairs be preserved. Each had a souvenir and four outlets increased by nearly 11 per cent, reaching 194,961.

Airlines Happy As Hees Ends TCA Monopoly

Private Companies Can Compete in All Fields

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) — Announcement by Transport Minister George Hees of an end of Trans-Canada Air Lines' monopoly on domestic trans-continental air service has been widely welcomed by other airlines.

The minister disclosed Friday night the government's new policy of gradually letting private companies compete for routes currently reserved exclusively for the public-owned airline.

Mr. Hees, in a speech to the Porcupine Chamber of Commerce in this Northern Ontario city, said competition will be introduced gradually under careful supervision of the air transport board.

His announcement was greeted with pleasure by operators of private airlines in various parts of the country.

In Vancouver, a spokesman for Canadian Pacific Airlines Canada's biggest privately - owned line, said the company is "very excited."

"We feel this statement of policy by Mr. Hees," said R. A. Keith, assistant to CPA President N. R. Crump-Leslie, who is in London, England.

TRIED BEFORE

He noted that CPA submitted an application last December for a franchise to operate an east-west air service. It would serve Montreal, Toronto, Calgary, Regina, Saskatoon, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal.

Russel Baker, president of Pacific Western Airlines, said in Vancouver that the policy shows the government "recognizes the fact that in Canada air transportation has come of age."

In Montreal, TCA President H. R. McGregor said he would have no comment until he had studied the full text of Mr. Hees's announcement.

The minister made it clear that private companies will not be allowed to go after only the "cream" of air service under the new policy.

"It is reasonable to assume that other airlines if granted the advantage of competition should be future seasonal responsibilities for service to points which could not support a year-round-sustaining," he said.

WORKS BOTH WAYS

While other airlines can compete for routes now held by TCA, the publicly-owned company will be able to apply for rights to new routes flown by private lines.

Basic government policy since creation of TCA in 1937 has been against airline competition in the domestic field. It was felt such competition would be uneconomic and result in no line being financially healthy.

Air transport board officials will be called to Ottawa next months before hearings on applications for routes, Mr. Hees's announcement is to give the board "direction in dealing with applications" which are received.

Up to now it had to abide by a no-competition policy on the basis of government policy — enforced — by the cabinet itself.

It is stated there will also be a change in the present policy of reserving for TCA all international routes now allowed to CPA. Future requests for such franchises will be judged on their merits.

Scheduled trans border services between Canada and the United States would be thrown open to competition when new routes are sought, instead of having them reserved for TCA as at present.

Campaign Framework Is Up, Plastering Starts Next Week

OTTAWA (CP) — Politicians erected the preliminary campaign framework for the March 31 federal general election this week. The plastering starts in earnest next week.

The leaders of Canada's two major political parties aimed verbal blows at each other Monday.

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said his party will fight out the election on issues of trade and unemployment. Mr. Pearson said another major issue his followers will raise is the government's failure to bring a budget before Parliament.

The Nobel Peace Prize winner said it seemed to his party to be necessary to ask the Canadian people to make a new election choice without first giving them a national accounting such as would be provided in a budget.

EXCHANGE BLASTS

The Progressive Conservative government that took over from the Liberals last June could not be "blamed for current higher-than-usual unemployment. But he believed the Conservatives "have made the problem more difficult by indecision and confusion."

Mr. Diefenbaker said unemployment resulted from the "tight-money" policy of the previous Liberal government and its failure to hold overseas markets for Canadian goods.

At a convention of Young Progressive Conservatives last Saturday night he indicated that his main call will be for a return to his government with a majority in the Commons this election so that it can continue the program it started in the last Parliament. It won the election but came 10 without an over-all Commons majority.

Later in the week, the prime minister announced an antiunemployment spending program on public works that could cost up to $150,000,000 as it is applied to various projects in all parts of the country.

AID FOR MARITIMES

Almost immediately his office disclosed the first details of the program—a $12,000,000 development for the port of St. John's, Nfld., and a $700,000 engineering study of the long-proposed $50,000,000 causeway to link Prince Edward Island and the mainland.

land constituency of Bonavista-Twillingate, weren't impressed with the prime minister's announcement.

"I would welcome a really substantial program," said Mr. Coldwell at a Thursday press conference, "but this looks like one of those precedent promises."

Mr. Pickersgill said both initiatives of the program announced by the prime minister's office were not new. The St. John's harbor development had been under consideration for 2½ years and the development study previously promised by both the Liberals and Conservatives.

ROAD OF CCF

Mr. Coldwell said issues his party will hit hardest are farm problems, failure of the Conservative government to meet unemployment adequately and give the people control of the trans-Canada natural gas pipeline.

Both the socialist leader and Mr. Pearson said the supremacy of Parliament over the government also will be an issue as a result of the attempt by Mr. Diefenbaker to make a statement they and other members considered of a political nature at Parliament's dissolution.

There were strong opposition protests at the time over the fact the prime minister was appointing his own campaign manager.

Social Credit Leader Solon Low was not too active publicly this week, but he and his followers were busy preparing to hit the record later on.

FORESEES LITTLE CHANGE

Both he and Mr. Coldwell have expressed the view that this election might not do much to change the party representation in the Commons.

Party standings in the 265-seat Commons at dissolution were: Progressive Conservatives 113; Liberals 106; four 25; Social Credit 19; Independents 2.

Florida Cold Kills Cattle, Blights Groves, Puts Tourists to Flight

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida, enduring its worst winter in history, braced itself today for new assaults of cold weather on citrus and farming industries.

Low temperatures and rain already have killed cattle, blighted citrus groves and winter vegetables and driven tourists to flight.

The president of the Florida Cattlemen's Association Friday said he had never known cold "to be in such bad shape—with the worst month of the year starting them in the face."

J. O. Pearce predicted 275,000 cattle will die in the next five weeks because of lack of feed.

"So far the cattle that have died have died because of the weather, but starvation will enter the picture between now and spring. Cold weather through February would mean a very serious condition around the middle of March."

Cattle have weakened because Florida's three freezes killed grass. What grass wasn't killed was submerged by water from heavy rains.

Citrus crop losses from a mid-December freeze have been put at $26,500,000, but an industry leader says the loss will be offset by higher prices for the remaining crop.

Fruit losses, damage to trees and unemployment present a serious threat to the state economy, said Horace Hagedorn, general manager of the Florida Citrus Commission.

The present cold weather found little left to hurt in Florida's vegetable-growing area, centred near the peninsula's southern tip.

Gordon Dunn, the Miami weather bureau's chief forecaster, called the new chill "just a continuation of the lousy weather we have been having." He said there is no relief in sight for some time "except for the occasional day or two of sunshine."

Squadron of French Planes Wipes Out Tunisian Village

TUNIS (Reuters)—Tunisian officials said today that a squadron of French planes had destroyed the Tunisian frontier village of Sakiet-Sidi-Youssef, killing 100 persons, according to first reports.

The village is on the road to the Algerian - Tunisian frontier where Jan. 11 an Algerian mutiny began. It is reported to be held by French military unit, killing 15 French soldiers and capturing five.

One of the five prisoners died in custody and the remaining four are still in insurgent hands.

That incident caused intense tension between Tunisia, a former French colony, and the French government, which protested that the insurgents had released the prisoners into Tunisia with the connivance of Tunisian authorities.

Atlas Missile Destroys Self

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An air force Atlas made a beautiful take off in a test flight today but normally until its engines cut off — and then about a minute later blew up while in a ballistic coasting flight.

The air force said later that the huge intercontinental ballistic weapon was completely destroyed, but destroyed itself.

Air force officers said it was apparently how the self-destruction came about.

Curtailment of U.S. Imports Not Advised by Economist

NEW YORK (CP) — The recession was not caused by the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic prospects but Canada should increase exports to the United States to correct the imbalance of trade between the two countries.

Walter L. Gordon told the Canadian Society of New York Friday night he is against curtailing U.S. imports.

He said exports to the U.S. would expand "some of our Canadian oil and gas, and metals and forest products."

He was not concerned that such a large percentage of Canada's total export trade is with the U.S.

"I know of no other market in the world we would sooner have access to and, . . . no other people with whom we would find it easier to deal."

He deplored any form of trade restriction between Canada and the U.S., such as higher tariffs and quotas. These were measures which would only slow up trade.

Referring to the possibility of Canada merging with the U.S., Mr. Gordon told the Society the U.S. might lose her independence.

The Toronto - born economist said "if it happened, I am confident we would own you lock, stock and barrel within a generation."

In Canada there was a basic fear of being absorbed into the U.S., but the idea should be "more frightening to U.S. citizens.

Annexation, assuredly, you would find Canadians a difficult, prickly and highly indigestible lump," he said.

The 10 provinces would all expect to be accepted as sovereign states, providing 20 new members for the U.S. senate, "all of whom I am sure you would find unruly, independent, difficult to control and almost impossible to assimilate."

The Maritimes and the Prairie provinces would prove especially unruly.

Mr. Gordon suggested three plans to increase understanding between Canada and the U.S.

They were working out surplus disposal programs together, sorting out fears about the U.S. and other investments in Canada, and resolving pressures of special interests for action damaging to legitimate interests in the other country.

Knifed Wife Flees Kidnap, Foils Holdup

TORONTO (CP) — Police said the wife of a supermarket manager escaped Friday night from two thugs who intended forcing her to aid them in a robbery.

Mrs. Mary Lawson, mother of three, told police a man holding a knife forced her to leave her home and go with him and another man in a car. She said the man had told her:

"Get your coat. We're going to see your husband."

Mr. Lawson was still at work at the north Toronto supermarket.

Mrs. Lawson said that before leaving the house she whispered to her son, Bobby, 7: "Phone daddy."

When the car stopped for a traffic light she jumped out and ran losing her shoes as she fled.

Mr. Lawson said when she phoned her husband Bobby had already warned of what was happening.

Toronto Hold-Up Wave Continues

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto police are looking for a gang called the "powder puff tactics" but the current surge of hold-ups continued Friday.

Two windbreaker - clad teenagers ringed G. W. Rogers in a suburban Scarborough and robbed him of $30 after they had left a bank to fellow-workers. It was the 42nd holdup in the area since Jan. 1.

The two thugs met Morman outside the bank, fainted and knocked him into his own car, slugged him unconscious and took the money—reportedly the bosses of Toronto Brick Company employees.

Morman estimated that he was unconscious about 10 minutes. He recovered to find himself only a few hundred yards from the bank.

Must Provide Homes for Children Before Divorces Under British Bill

LONDON, (Reuters) — Parliament has extended a British bill to protect children a year coming from broken homes.

The House of Lords gave it second reading—approval in principle—to a bill declaring parents should not be granted a divorce or judicial separation until provision has been made for their children's future welfare.

One of the main purposes of the bill—sponsored by Conservative Lord Chorley—is to curb growing juvenile delinquency resulting from broken homes.

Labor member Arthur Moyle, who sponsored the bill, said that since 1938 divorce petitions have increased by 200 per cent. Last year, they totalled 25,000.

"Thousands of children, deprived of one or both parents, feel unwanted, unloved, insecure, frustrated and embittered," he said.

Under the proposed law, courts would ensure that a child is provided with a suitable home before the parents get a divorce. The lower would have the power to commit a child to the custody of a third party or to the local authority.

For children where such steps are not necessary, the courts would arrange machinery to supervise the youngsters' welfare.

Somerville Hastings, Labor, said that for the first time the law would be ensuring that the welfare of a child from a broken home is considered before that of the parents.

Five Members Of Soccer Party Still Critical

MUNICH (CP)—Five members of the ill - fated Manchester United soccer team remained in critical condition in hospital here today with injuries from Thursday's plane crash which killed 21 persons and has led to demands for a ban on air travel by football teams.

Physicians issued bulletins this morning reporting "no change" in the conditions of United manager Matt Busby — two of his team stars, a London sports writer and the co-pilot of the plane.

The chances of survival remained even for Busby, forward John Berry, halfback Duncan Edwards, sports writer Frank Taylor and co-pilot Kenneth G Rayment.

Twenty-one of the 34 survivors are still in the hospital with lesser injuries.

Scientists first use their imagination to figure out what can be the possible causes of a disease. Then they research each theory until they are positive of their basic facts.

Next, the chemists create a formula, or sometimes even a new manmade chemical, that will accomplish the desired result.

After it has been clinically tested for safe use, the new discovery is sent to our prescription departments. Your physician prescribes it, we pharmacists compound it and another disease can be treated better than ever before.

Three Toronto Men Injured In Collision

Three Toronto men were admitted to the Belleville General Hospital this morning with undetermined injuries sustained in a car-bus accident two miles west of Belleville on No. 2 highway.

They are Mates Khnaeal, 2125 Avenue Road, Toronto, Danilo Zamegliaran, 47, of 126 Clairlea Crescent, Toronto, and Sol Zelfer, 34, 34, of 149 Clinton Park, Downsview Road, Toronto.

The men were believed occupants of a car which went out of control after striking the front bumper of the early morning Trenton-Belleville bus.

Driver of the bus, Henry Barre, 48 Shapley St., Trenton, and the unknown number of passengers aboard were not injured.

Grant Rathbun, owner of Rathbun Bus Service Ltd., 148 Victoria Ave., Trenton, said Mr. Barre told him the bus and car were examined near the point of course. The car pulled out to pass the bus and was struck by the commercial vehicle immediately after passing and struck the front bumper of the bus. The car went out of control and slid into a ditch, the bus did not, and swiped a hydro pole, snapping it off.

There is no estimate of damage to the vehicles, but the cost of replacing the pole was estimated at about $100.

Colored Film Much Enjoyed

A number of local residents last night gathered to see a free movie at the Kingdom Hall, 89 Veronica Street.

The showing of "The Happiness of the New World Society," a color film of one hour's length, took them on a swift visit by plane across the Atlantic to London, Paris, Berne, Oslo, Berlin, Frankfurt on Main and Geneva, and the narrator, Mr. George H. Saltmarsh, drew special attention to the happy mingling of people of many colors and races.

Mr. Saltmarsh explained that the picture was a foretaste of what is to be expected next weekend as Jehovah's Witnesses convene, although on a smaller scale, for the first time in neighboring Trenton.

Belleville and other nearby centres will be represented at the two-day Trenton program which carries the theme "Be Qualified to Teach."

Teaching Staffs of District Hold Conference in City

"We must get rid of the silly prejudice against the high-brow and the egg-head . . . and we should not flinch from using the words 'wise,' 'intelligent,' even 'brainy' as words of praise," Dr. H. L. Tracy, Queen's University professor told approximately 500 teachers yesterday at the annual Education Conference held at the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School.

Dr. Tracy, head of the Classics Department, gave the keynote address at the week-end meeting. His topic was: "Is the Secondary School an Adequate Preparation for Higher Education."

The Belleville Local of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation played host to the teaching staffs from District 16, which stretches from Cardinal on the east to Brighton on the west and from Picton on the south to Bancroft on the north.

During the morning session discussion groups in the various subjects were held.

In his address Dr. Tracy, a graduate of the University of Toronto and a member of Queen's staff since 1929, for the past 24 years, discussed the main role of the high school "when it attempts to turn out "fine minds", informed, broad in outlook and as free as possible from narrow, and emotional bias.

Although the high school and university program is broad and includes political, cultural, and social interests, the real concern should always be on the academic work — on the acquisition of knowledge, and the discipline of thought and judgment," he said.

NEVER FORGET HONESTY

He heartily commended high school teachers in their unswerving concern for the academic progress, but thought it is imposed upon them by a high-pressure system which they are not always necessarily in agreement, in their determination to maintain the sanctity of the work, and in their enthusiasm for extra-curricular enterprises.

The speaker cautioned his audience not to allow a gap to form between their professional life's work in the classroom and their hobby-work as drama, music or sports directors.

"We should show the student's singleness of purpose and sensitivity to standards in our own daily first of all," he said. "What's the use of being a dedicated musician when you are leading the Glee Club, and a lazy, dispirited Simon Legree in the classroom?"

Dr. Tracy stated his creed for education in Canada is the belief in the dignity of the intellectual. Everyone must guard the prestige of the intelligent-type, he said.

"Your example will do more than anything else," he said, at present — your students will catch something of your judgment from you."

On the practical side Dr. Tracy briefly mentioned some of the problems facing the high school system, such as gearing the curriculum for all types of students from the very clever to the mediocre, the encroachment of extracurricular activities on the academic work, and the shortage of fully qualified teachers resulting from the abbreviation of the training period.

BETTER BALANCE

He urged high school teachers to attain mastery of a subject rather than its "cash-surrender value," and to put a much smaller emphasis on a carefully-worked-out lesson plan. He suggested teachers give independent reading for exceptional students, and group discussion in double periods, particularly in the historical and literary subjects.

In his observation on today's university students, Dr. Tracy said "Although they do not have the intellectual sinew of 30 years ago, they have far better balanced personalities, broader equipment in the liberal arts, better standards of taste, and an eagerness to learn."

Dr. Tracy was introduced by the chairman, Miss Margaret Hale, and thanked by Orvill Matthews, of Quinte Secondary School.

Guest speaker at the afternoon session was Allan R. Jupp, John Inglis Consulting Service, Kingston.

Mr. Jupp spoke on the topic, "Human Relations — A New Concept in Human Relations."

A native of Cambridge, England, Mr. Jupp is a graduate of the Technical Institute of Cambridge. He came to Canada 10 years ago, and did graduate work in industrial psychology at the University of Toronto. He came to Kingston two years ago with the firm specializing and consulting engineering firm. He is considered one of the outstanding experts in the field of rocketry and has lectured in the U.S. and Canada.

In his address he discussed the results of an investigation which he carried out by industrial firms and universities to try to create ideal conditions for industrial office, factories, etc., which will achieve the maximum production of the highest quality with the least strain on the employees.

HOURS ARE KEY

Exhaustive experiments revealed the four main weapons against industrial fatigue are money (which is the biggest incentive), recognition of the employee as an individual, communication of ideas between the employer and employee, and equal prestige among employees in the same office.

The 4,000,000 Hawthorne experiment, sponsored by Western and Electric, which was carried out over a five-year period, showed that an employee on his last work must feel he is more than just a cog in the wheel," he said.

Mr. Jupp also described the breed of person who will make the best executive.

"Most executives are nonconformists in the sense of temperamental and moral fibre to do what they think is right. This moral fibre is usually built up in an individual, but it can be gained through religion," he said.

"Teachers lay the groundwork — the raw material — and industry takes these people and trains them to be executives. Here is their own best advantage," he concluded.

Mr. Jupp was introduced by Vernon Ready, principal of Kingston Collegiate and thanked by Douglas Grant, of Brockville.

A short address entitled "Introduction to Standards" was given by Hugh Allen, principal of Danforth Technical School, Toronto, during the afternoon session.

Teachers should have a basic philosophy of education — they should ask themselves why they are teaching, what are they teaching for, and how they should be taught, he said.

"They should be something more than merely a textbook wired for sound," Mr. Dean stated.

Teachers should attempt to develop in the individual the ability to think and to express himself clearly either in writing or orally. They should also develop proper work habits so that the student learns to organize his knowledge, he stated.

Mr. Dean was introduced by Mr. McIlveen of Trenton, and thanked by W. F. Thom, Brockville.

A coroner's inquest looking into the death of eight-year-old Carolyn Fuller, R.R. 2, Belleville, who died January 31st as result of a shotgun blast, was held at the Hastings County courthouse yesterday before Coroner Dr. John Stock.

The jury's verdict stated simply that the girl had come to her death as result of a shotgun blast from a gun in the hands of a neighbor boy.

The jury recommended that psychiatric treatments for the 12-year-old boy be continued.

The little girl died from a shotgun blast in the upper chest and throat following a snowball fight outside the home of the 12-year-old boy. Injured by the same blast was Brenda Douglas, age 8, who received shotgun pellets in the right shoulder.

The inquest was held before Coroner Dr. John Stock with Crown Attorney John Pringle questioning witnesses.

Dr. R. R. Bell who attended the Douglas girl at the hospital advised against calling the girl as a witness. He said the girl had been released from hospital but was still in a highly nervous condition.

Included among the many witnesses called were Inspector Wilam Boyd, firearms expert with the O.P.P. Criminal Investigation Branch of the Ontario Provincial Police. Inspector Boyd described as to the operation and condition of the shotgun.

Watermain Break Turns Area Into Miniature Lake

A break in the 6-inch watermain on Hastings Drive near MacDonald Gardens turned that area into a miniature lake early today as water bolted to the surface of the ground resulting in water in the area having to be shut off.

Public Utilities officials said water was shut off on Hastings Drive from Dundas street to Montgomery Blvd. The break was close to the intersection of MacDonald Gardens and Hastings drive.

Utilities officials today said there had been a watermain leak in the area several days but inspection failed to determine where the break was. This morning the water bolted to the surface spotting the break more definitely.

"My Fur Lady," which opens at the Collegiate auditorium on Feb. 21st and Feb. 22nd, is something of a phenomenon in Canadian theatre in that it is the only show in recent years that has originated in Canada and played more than one hundred and seventy-five performances. The only Canadian show that can compete in this field is or was the Dominion Drama Festival their final tour in 1935 played ten years on the road in Canada. "My Fur Lady" is on the road on a cross Canada tour, and comes to the city after 10 weeks' capacity business in Montreal, seven weeks in Toronto, five weeks at the Stratford Shakespearian Festival and engagements in Ottawa, Cornwall, Kingston, Peterborough, St. Catharines and London.

The title "My Fur Lady" refers to the Princess Aurora, a princess from the mythical Eskimo Principality of Mukluke, somewhere off Baffin island, a principality which is grown rich by the influx of the DEW line. The principality will lose its independence and will be annexed by Canada if there is no male heir to the throne or if the female occupant remains unmarried after her twenty-first birthday. Consequently the princess is shipped off to Canada to find a husband.

On arrival in Ottawa the princess meets Rex Harrowman, a reporter for the Canadian magazine, True Canadian Romance which is published in Niagara Falls. The idea of taking the princess on a tour of Canada appeals to Rex from the point of view of news and so at a start he arranges for the princess to meet the Governor General at Rideau Hall. The Governor-General interests himself in the tour and hands the princess over to his culturality must who in turn show her various facets of Canadian life and Canadians. The Ottawa phase of the tour ends at the Governor-General's annual protocol ball. The ball is a great success and the princess meets the debutantes of the year and the young bachelors.

To tell all would only spoil the happy ending but enhanced by good melodies and amusing lyrics and played by a cast full of vigor and enthusiasm, "My Fur Lady" offers an evening of theatre that will be remembered for many a long day.

Interment in Belleville Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

THOMPSON. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, John C. Thompson, who was so suddenly taken from us February 8th, 1957.

Time's chief wound is not erased,
A hard and bitter blow!
Some things we try hard to understand,
Why some things have to be.
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our powers to see:
Some lonely day the wound is healed,
But only those who have suffered
Can understand the pain of severed
Within the heart concealed.
Sadly missed, remembered, by his wife Ada, son John and family.

In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, who passed away Feb. 8th, 1957.

The depth of sorrow we cannot tell,
Or the love we bore so well:
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep,
His memory we will always keep.
Lovingly remembered by Elsie and Norma and family.

Brotherly Love Among Races

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, Feb. 9 — Since 1933 the third Sunday in February has been observed by many American churches as Race Relations Sunday, dedicated to the hope of brotherly love among the various races of mankind.

Although Race Relations Sunday began several years before the formation of the National Council of Churches, it is now sponsored each year by the Council's Department of Racial and Cultural Relations.

This message from the Department is based on the familiar question, "Who is my neighbor?" — the question that drew from Jesus the unforgettable story of the Good Samaritan (St. Luke, chapter 10, verses 25 to 37). This parable, dealing with an example of charity shown to a member of one racial group by a member of another (and supposedly inferior) one is singularly appropriate to the day and its meaning.

Jesus asked His questioner, at the end of the story, who, in his opinion, had been a neighbor to the man who had been beaten and robbed, and when the only possible answer came, "He that showed mercy on him," the Lord drove home His point. "Go," He said, "and do thou likewise."

"To love our neighbor and to show mercy mean today support of those who seek freedom and justice in the face of discrimination and segregation," states the Department's 1958 message.

WHAT IS A VALENTINE?

Friday, Feb. 14 — When you say "Valentine," you could be talking about any one of at least five different things:

1. A folded piece of paper, bearing the name of a boy or a girl, drawn by lot at parties held on the eve of St. Valentine's Day.

2. The person whose name is on the folded piece of paper and who, by being so selected, becomes your sweetheart or special friend — your "Valentine" — for the next year.

3. The first person of the opposite sex you meet this morning.

4. A fancy, delicate, flowery and frilly card sent on this day to someone of your sentimental choice.

5. A present — flowers, candy, etc. — given or received today.

Or — but this is hardly likely nowadays — you could be talking about the poor martyred priest named Valentine, who somehow got mixed up in all this mandlin folderol simply by being put to death on Feb. 14, back in the year 270.

St. Valentine, because of this purely accidental timing, has become the patron saint of lovers and of birds just because his day happened to fall at the precise time of year when legend said the birds began to mate and when young men's fancy was beginning to turn to thoughts of love.

A careful reading of history will indicate that something of the sort was going on among both the ancient Greeks and Romans in the sense that they were children of Joseph by a former marriage. This view was supported by such great figures as Origen, Clement of Alexandria, and St. Ambrose, and is the doctrine held by the Eastern church.

5. Some believe the brethren were really cousins — the word used in reference to them is capable of this translation. This was the theory held by St. Jerome.

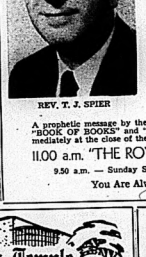
BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON
WINTER GROSBEAKS

Anybody acquainted with the rose-breasted grosbeak should not be surprised to learn that its brothers, the evening and the pine grosbeaks, are exceptionally beautiful birds; but he might well be amazed to find that these two are more likely to be seen here in winter than in summer. The rose-breasted comes to us about mid-May and leaves around mid-September.

Although so very different in coloring, all three are spectacular, and naturally have one thing in common: their unusually large beaks — not long, but abnormally chunky. The evening grosbeak is distinctly yellow, as is the main color of the particularly handsome male. Soft brown blends into the yellow, the crown and tail are jet black, the wings are black with a big white patch. The female is easily recognized as his mate, but the yellow is paler, grey substituted for brown, and her head also is grey.

TRAVEL IN GROUPS



Highly gregarious, they both nest and wander in groups: if you see one you are almost sure to see at least seven or eight and possibly 50 or 60. A particularly pleasing sight is a flock feeding in the snow. Attracted as evening grosbeaks are by the dangling seed pods of the Manitoba maple, it is the owners of these trees who are especially fortunate. These birds are partial also to sunflower seeds and salt, so may be coaxed to a feeding station if they range near one in their erratic ramblings. Bird specialists seem to think that if enough of us offer the food they require, evening grosbeaks might greatly increase in numbers. Their raging loud whistle as they fly overhead in flocks is distinctive, and once learned cannot be confused with any other bird sound.

SHOW OFF SPACE DOGS

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians will show off some of their canine rocket travellers at the Brussels World Fair opening April 17. The official in charge of the Soviet exhibits, Dmitri A. Ryzhkov said the dogs will be kennel mates of Laika, whose body still is circling the earth in the second Soviet satellite. All are veterans of successful trips into the stratosphere in Soviet rockets, he added Wednesday.

VALE!

Charles Henry Hardwick was buried yesterday.

His name means something in many parts of Canada because just recently his life story was told in a feature article by The Canadian Press. His 65 years as a printer made him newsworthy.

Mere length of service, though, does not begin to explain the place he held in the hearts of his associates both management and co-workers, at The Ontario Intelligencer.

Charles Henry Hardwick was always Charlie, to boss and printer's devil, to old and young. That tells much about him. He had a kind heart, which he occasionally managed to mask with a brisk tongue, to the secret delight of those who knew him best.

But there are many men who are kind and who labor long years. There was much more to Charlie that that.

Charlie loved his work and had a respect for it. And that, in the final analysis, is the reason why his associates had more than affection for him; that is why the affection went hand in hand with respect and why affection and respect blended into an attitude which is so seldom described, because it can only be described adequately by the word love and because nobody ever tells a man like Charlie that they love him; not while he is living they don't.

Shakespeare was wrong. The good that Charlie wrought will not be buried with his bones but will live on in the hearts of those he taught, and of those they teach, and of those who come after them - - for more than sixteen years he lived his creed which was that there is a dignity and a self-respect which can only be attained by good work, faithfully performed.

A DIFFERENT APPROACH

If there was a simple little chemical that a municipality could squirt into the air which would result in the life of automobile tires being doubled, would tire manufacturers and tire retailers campaign unitringly for its use?

Or, for that matter, if there was an electronic gadget which a municipality could install which would give everybody a sixth sense, so that they knew all of the news of the world without ever buying a newspaper, would editors urge its installation?

Nobody will have much difficulty answering those questions.

But dentists are unceasingly appealing for municipalities to treat drinking water so that the need for dental care will be drastically reduced. Latest appeal for fluoridation was that voiced by Dr. Wesley J. Dunn, of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, to the Rotary Club here.

It is easy to say that the dentists are not opposed to fluoridation because there is so much dental trouble they haven't a care in the world about getting enough work. That sort of thing is unworthy, but what we are being forced to the conclusion that the average dentist, when he says "This isn't going to hurt" really means "This is going to hurt me more than it hurts you." Dentists seem more interested in eliminating part of the pain of dental disease than in repeat sales of fillings and dentures.

COLD REMEDY ON TAP

...nere is a Belleville gentleman whose wife has a recipe for colds. It is a home-made throat gargle, the active ingredient in which is a minute quantity of carbolic acid.

The other day he was pondering the fact that he had had no occasion to use this home-made remedy this year. No colds. He could, however, remember the taste distinctly, he recalled, as he sipped a glass of water, when he rushed wildly. The water tasted exactly like his wife's home-made gargle.

And so, if you have been wondering whether the Belleville Public Utilities Commission will ever be able to make our water taste like water again, just make sure that you want the condition remedied. It could be, the man said, that you have been drinking a weak solution of carbolic all winter, and that this is what has kept you feeling so spry and free of colds.

P.S. - - Webster says the gentleman is so right! "Carbolic," says Webster, "used in various solutions as an antiseptic, disinfectant, etc.: also called phenol." And phenol, a P.U.C. spokesman has already said, is the culprit blamed for the way our water tastes these days.

JUST FOLKS

BROTHERS ALL

Life is not a lonely path
Over which we tread alone;
Each a higher duty hath,
Other interests than his own.

Each dependent is upon
All the efforts of his brothers;
Each must, as he journeys on,
Help to smooth the way for others.

No man lives for self alone.
What is good in life we find,
Whether reared in flesh or stone
Benefits all humankind.

Neither can we measure wrong,
Fix its limits here and say:
Just which ones of all the throng
Suffer for our fault today.

What is good and what is bad
Helps or harms life's noble scheme,
Just as when a little lad
Throws a pebble in a stream.

It is felt from shore to shore;
So our deeds will be
Felt when we have gone before,
Ripples on life's golden sea.

Tunney Can't Win Them All

Chicago Tribune

A visitor dropping in on Gene Tunney, retired undefeated heavyweight champion of the world, found Mr. Tunney much as usual last week. It is 30 years since he quit the ring, having bested Jack Dempsey in battle, and the long count in Soldiers' field. He has no cauliflower ears, is a business executive, has interests in good business enterprises, and is a millionaire.

In the old days the weisenheimers around Madison Square, New York, the capital of the manly art of muddled mayhem, used to make mock of Tunney because of his habit of curling up with a volume of Shakespeare. Who did Shakespeare ever lick? they inquired in effect. Indignation among managers, promoters, seconds and handlers practically reached the boiling point when Tunney went up to Yale and lectured on "Profits and Prize Fighting."

His caller found Mr. Tunney wearing thick glasses and installed behind a desk piled with there was an autographed photograph of the late President Roosevelt, Walt Whitman and the Bible were on the office bookshelves, and Tunney was busily engaged with Thornton Wilder, F. Scott Fitzgerald and Thornton Delehanty, of whom Tunney appreciatively remarked, "When Hemingway is off muddled mayhem, used to make mock of Tunney because of his habit of curling up with a vo-lume of Shakespeare. Who did Shakespeare ever lick? they inquired in effect. Indignation among managers, promoters, seconds and handlers practically reached the boiling point when Tunney went up to Yale and lectured on "Profits and Prize Fighting."

His caller found Mr. Tunney wearing thick glasses and installed behind a desk piled with there was an autographed photograph of the late President Roosevelt, Walt Whitman and the Bible were on the office bookshelves, and Tunney was busily engaged with Thornton Wilder, F. Scott Fitzgerald and Thornton Delehanty, of whom Tunney appreciatively remarked, "When Hemingway is off..."

The helpful Delehanty, thinking of this difficulty, sent Tunney a key to Finnegan's Wake, which I have read three or four times."

In helpful Delehanty thinking of this difficulty, sent Tunney a key to Finnegan's Wake, which I have read three or four times."

Delehanty was unable to explain all the symbolism, but Tunney thinks something was left out.

Well, you can't win them all, and we, we hope, can get off the floor to outpoint Dempsey, have experience the same trouble. We have seen the Canadian National Exhibition Band, the River Liffey represented the Mississippi and the Ile de France like Tunney, felt the book was like the river, which follows such a tortuous course as to be guilty of meandering it only gains 10 in direction. Kind of similar, when you think of it, to the count in Soldiers' field.

'Best Dressed' Indefinite

Hartford, Conn., Courant

Again, for the fifth year in a row, Mrs. William Paley, New York matron, has been dubbed best dressed woman by a group of self-appointed judges. And again we have to file a demurrer, principally because the term "best dressed" is too indefinite. Best dressed for what? For cooking a turkey, entertaining the Duke of Windsor, tending on table, selling dry goods? What is best-dressed for, let us say, milking a cow? A skirt with a slick baby is not best dressed for a picnic. Best dressed for Sherman Billingsley's place. And vice versa, of course.

The term is tailored to put some sense into these best-dressed contests by getting them divided into categories, the least of which would be the purely ornamental. Then category might be "Best dressed on 40 bucks a week." Or even "Best dressed with the stingiest husband." Or even: "Best dressed in your own estimation."

When you come right down to it, the whole thing is pretty subjective. Probably William Paley agrees with Mrs. decision, "Best wife she does!" We admit, for the simple reason we have our own problems and can't back them up with as much stuff as the people who picked Mrs. Paley.

Mississippi Era Is Ended

Hamilton Spectator

For many years steamboats carried passengers between Hamilton and Toronto. And when Hamilton had the Canal, summer cottagers at the Beach would flock to the pier to wave while steamer hats and "watch the boat go through" — the boat being the "Macassa," the "Modjeska," or the larger "Corona" or "Turbinia."

When they stopped sailing for lack of patronage, many of us shook our heads sadly at the passing of an era and said that some of the good things in our lives had been sacrificed to speed and the automobile.

Now, many people who live in the crowded cities bordering North America's longest river, the Mississippi, must feel as we did ,when the regular Toronto boats stopped running about 25 years ago. The "Delta Queen," last of the passenger boats with sleeping accommodation, has cancelled her 1958 tours. She was to have made the annual Mardi Gras sailing from Cincinnati to New Orleans early in February, but bookings were too light to make it profitable.

Mrs. E. Roy Logie, the first woman to be appointed a member of the Corby Public Library Board, was welcomed at the meeting of the board Friday evening. Mr. J. W. Inlakh occupied the chair in the absence of the chairman, Mr. E. B. Lally. In the election of officers Mr. Lally was re-elected chairman and Mr. H. J. Clarke was re-elected secretary - treasurer. Mr. Charles N. Sulman was elected chairman of the finance committee. Other members present were Mayor Jamieson Bone, Mr. A. C. Wilkin, Mr. Charles Walters, Mr. J. W. Inhalh, Mr. T. V. Scanlan, Mrs. Logie and Mr. Wilkin were appointed to book committee.

An estimated 400 tons of ice from the Bay of Quinte are being loaded this week on cars for the Canadian National Railways by Maurice Callaghan of this city. The ice will be used for refrigerating purposes by the railway next summer.

Three hundred head of cattle including sixty dairy cows will be shipped from the Glasgow, Scotland, on the steamship Norwegian by Scott Bros., of this city on Wednesday. This is one of the largest shipments of cattle in some time; the dairy cows will be used in the trade and the steers will be put out to graze until ready for marketing.

Mr. Fred H. Deacon left yesterday on a business trip to Germany and Austria.

Mrs. Jamieson Bone has left for Vancouver, B.C., where she will visit her daughter, Mrs. C. Merritt and Mr. Merritt.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Graham are leaving this week to spend some time in Miami, Florida.

At the annual meeting of the congregation of John St. United Church the chair was occupied by Mr. H. D. Donnan. The sum of over $10,000 was raised during the year and after paying all expenses a nice cash balance remains. Messrs. F. C. Denike and Alex Morrice were appointed elders and thereby automatically dropped from the board of managers; they were replaced by Mr. C. E. Boyd and Mr. George McArthur. The new officers of the board are as follows: chairman, J. H. Legate; vice-chairman, J. D. McMillan; secretary, Newton Thompson; treasurer, R. W. Adams; auditors, Messrs. James Buchanan; organist and choir master, Mr. Leo B. Riggs.

From our file copy at this time in 1928 Dr. C. H. Ponton, youngest son of Mr. Thomas Wilks, municipal treasurer, has arrived home from the Klondike where he spent four years.

Closed to Save Coal. Belleville presented a strange scene on Saturday when as the first of the heatless days ordered by the Dominion Fuel Controller, Hon. Arthur Meighen, except barber shops, grocery stores and soft drink stands. There is a restriction governing the sale of certain lines of goods by grocers and they also are permitted to remain open for the payment of obligations only, not for general business. Few people were in town during the morning and about 1,000 people are idle from the stores, offices and factories. The orders from the orders from Chief John Newton to see that the regulations are strictly observed? A few merchants who have been permitted to remain open, have inquired if arrangements could be made to increase the lines of goods which they are permitted to sell. They were informed that such an arrangement can not be made and that prosecution will follow any attempt to do so. The closing regulations cover Saturday and Monday. How much coal this closing order will save in this city is a question hard to answer.

Persons who desire to make donations for the poor may send them to Mrs. Richard Greatrix at the south-west corner of Market and Pinnacle Streets or to the City Mission.

Mr. Jack Ellis, formerly of this city, covered himself with glory on the Brantford and line-up in a recent match. A newspaper account says that it was worth the price of admission to watch Marks' lightning rushes. Jack can't sure do it when he wants to.

Mr. Samuel Leavitt, Murney Street, left today for London, Ontario, where he will spend a few days.

Belleville in the '90s

By Harry M. Moore

AN OLD TIME EDITOR

Article 6

Cameron Brown, who edited The Belleville Sun in those days, was an editor of the old school. That he was a Grit and proud of it goes without saying. In the three columns of editorials in the copy at hand was one continuous crack after another at James P. Whitney and the Ontario Tories who would set him up in office at Toronto.

Assuming that William P. Hudson would not be running again in East Hastings, Editor Brown printed the following, using Hudson's initials WPH to what he must have considered good effect:

"William P. Hudson—Wise Person He—Wouldn't Put Himself—Where Piggery Hoax—With Pure Hydrophobia—Was Party's Hope.

"William Plainly Hears—Which Party Has—Wisdom, Premier Hardy—Will Polish Herr—Whitney's Phiz Handily—Who Pulls Hudson."

(Note:—The piggery mentioned was a claim made by the opposition that the Liberal Government was using public money to establish a piggery on the Humber River near Toronto. In a way it was the basis for a public scandal, and the Tories hoped to make something of it.)

And here was another of Editor Brown's gems, this time directed at the candidate in West Hastings: "Men often run risks in support of nothing," is the soliloquy of the gentleman who contested the late Wilney's cause. A glance at the initials of those eight words show the name of the unfortunate candidate who is foolishly taking the risk." The candidate?—Mr. Morrison, of course.

But Mr. Brown was just as outspoken about other matters as well. Gen. Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, had arrived in Canada and the Belleville editor was showing the need of more S.A. work in Belleville. "That there is a field here for the Army," he wrote, "is true enough. There are some who will not attend the churches and who are leading lives of open sin and shame. There is more evil and vice in town than most church people imagine, and the Army seems to be the right body to combat this sin."

Strength for The Day

IMPORTANT CHRISTIAN TRUTH

The average Christian believer thinks very little about the Holy Spirit. He mumbles something about believing in the Holy Ghost as he takes part in a church service. But few people realize what the Holy Spirit for the Holy Ghost? really is.

He is nothing less than the living, creative spirit of God operating in the lives of men. The Holy Spirit is our great guide. Without this powerful spiritual force in our lives we would get nowhere spiritually. The Holy Spirit inspires, guides, and directs. If one can imagine a physical world devoid of atmosphere, he has an idea of what the spiritual life would be without the Holy Spirit. This living, active, creative spirit of God touches the hearts and minds of believers, guides the life of the church, and makes possible spiritual growth and maturity.

Although people may even very profoundly doubt or think little about the Holy Spirit, this Holy Spirit nevertheless constitutes one of the vital forces in the life of every human being. Even unbelievers benefit by the presence of this mighty spiritual power in our midst.

All we can do with reference to the Holy Spirit is to believe in Him and open our hearts to His power. Then this mighty spiritual force begins to operate to our growth and fulfillment.

Rattlesnake In Handbag

Winnipeg Tribune

Two young men who stole a woman's handbag at a New York airport terminal probably went straight, perhaps even white, when they examined its contents. The overnight case just happened to contain an excited rattlesnake.

A nine-year-old boy in Patterson, N.J., recently missed the custom of nine-year-old boys, with an exceptionally long and interesting show-and-tell for his parents. His father almost had a fit when he saw that the long worm was equipped with rattles on its tail.

A woman of the neighborhood, who was interested in snakes in an amateur sort of way, was called to the scene by the excited father to give advice on how to dispose of the rattler. The woman confirmed that the snake was of a particularly poisonous and rare variety for that part of the country.

She suggested that it should be taken to the Staten Island Zoo, noted for its reptile exhibits. The proposal was heartily agreed. The woman managed to get the snake into a cloth bag. She then popped the canvas bag, and a hotwater bottle in the bag, into a handbag and set out for the Zoo.

At the bus terminal in New York she stopped at the information desk to ask for directions to Staten Island. She put her bag down while chatting with the answer man. Then she reached for the bag, it was gone. She remembered that two young men had been standing close to her and had left hurriedly.

The police searched the terminal and got out a local alarm, but at last reports had found neither the thieves nor the snake. The young woman lost her handbag and her hotwater bottle; the Staten Island Zoo lost an interesting specimen; the two young men probably lost their interest in handbags.

The moral seems to be: Where ladies' handbags are concerned, shake well before taking.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Where Are The Gentlefolk?

Listening to the violence in the back yard yonder as mother and father scream at the three little children and the children howl back, one wonders what sort of adult can possibly spring from such a disturbed and disturbing background.

What has become of gentleness and gentlewomen? Are we bred the best in the marketplace, somehow concealed by the pancake make-up, the tight pants?

"Gentle" (Webster): "Well-born, honorable, refined in manners, not harsh or stern; kind, considerate, soft, not violent or rough, easy, soothing."

The attitudes of the parents and housekeeper on the corner are about as soothing as a thunderstorm. The children respond in the same key.

They have been screamed at and scolded and ridiculed and threatened until that is all they know. They incorporate these attitudes toward one another and even toward their dolls. One of those dolls has yet to be softly cuddled and crooned to and put to rest in sweet security. Poor dolls, poor children, poor Americans.

Nor is such a manner ineffective. You can be quite positive and follow through and insist upon obedience and co-operation and still be gentle and soothing about it. You will more effectively demonstrate complete disapproval of a child's act with gentle insistence directing attention to the act, than you will with loud and abrasive shouting, for the child hears only the anger, and, in part, cannot fish out the meaning.

Anger and fear damage body chemistry and basic stamina. Angry parents and frightened children can only be unhealthy parents and sickly children.

We need to put violence aside and use tenderness, mental tranquillity, and all the gentleness we can summon forth to raise healthy children.

Now I frankly acknowledge, of necessity, that the foregoing eight paragraphs were contributed by Helen Brady Hertford, my mentor, editor, and daughter, who, in the past four or five years, has written brilliant pieces that have brought more favorable comment from parents, educators and other readers.

I was afraid to take the chance with that. Too many readers have spotted the Young Dr. Brady impersonator. So I said, "This was never written by Doc Brady — all this sweetness and light."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MY SLEEPING PLAN

All my life I have been blessed with regular sleep. I need no "sleeping powders"! For years I have read something inspiring before retiring for the night. The moment I feel drowsy I put the book on my bedroom. Then when I am relaxed in bed I repeat "The Lord's Prayer," the "Twenty-third Psalm" and brief poems I have loved — and before I get to it is another day! Rarely do I repeat all these before I am fast asleep. Simple enough, but leave your worries and fears outside.

Prayer itself is a relaxing process. It is the best nerve tonic possible. The body of ours will perform miracles for us if we only co-operate with it. A little kindness is all it needs. Our own minds should be endowed with cheerfulness, courage and patience, really daily dividends — dividends earned through a carefully worked out philosophy of life.

There are more things in life to make us healthy and happy than otherwise. The great Dr. Osler suggested "the clean tongue" as the basis of a clean mind and warm heart. Few of us have tapped the resources that lie within. We were born. Nature keeps renewing this body of ours, granting to us new opportunities for a better appraisement of the values of life.

Restful sleep is itself a renewal of all the physical and spiritual forces at our command. We need to keep strengthening our will to live, with a clearer vision and a happier outlook on life.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The brush wolf, as the coyote or prairie wolf is called in the east, has penetrated far in off the prairies through Ontario and Quebec, thanks to the clearing of the land and the construction of roads and railroad rights of way. A doctor who owns a tract of recreational farm twenty miles outside the city limits of Toronto reports that his pheasants are being raided by some animal that during his way expertly under the barbed edge of the chicken wire. Eleven pheasants were killed. The tracks appeared to be a dog's. The doctor got his saddle horse and rifle and followed the tracks back through a woodlot, and was astonished to jump a fat, well-fed brush wolf or coyote. He had no gun.

Bad Shots In Old Days

Windsor Star

Modern hunters come in for much ridicule because of their propensity for shooting each other and at varied objects quite different from the animals or birds they seek. But, evidently, this is nothing new.

In his latest volume on Pioneer Inns and Taverns, Edwin C. Guillet tells of Francois Chauvin's Inn at Stoney Point, commonly called the Goose Inn. The proprietor had his goose goose three times a day because customers were a lucrative by-product.

"His end was tragic," relates the author, "for he was shot by quail-hunters in his own cornfield, just revenged and buried himself in his barn." There was irony in the tragedy, a man so partial to goose being shot for a quail.

M.Ds. Press Research in Heart Surgery

By W.G. Bigelow, M.D., FRCS
(Associate Professor Dept. of Surgery, University of Toronto; Surgeon, Toronto General Hospital)

Article 5

The heart is often spoken of as a pump. Actually, the heart is two pumps working side by side and in rhythm. Each pump has an inflow and outflow chamber with a valve on each so that to operate the two pumps we require four valves.

Each of these valves is different in construction and function, and when they go out of kilter the pump stops functioning efficiently and an extra load is put on the heart muscle. The valves vary in importance; for example, when the aortic valve develops a leak, or an obstruction, the resulting effects on the heart are very serious and occur fairly rapidly.

It is not uncommon to have two, or occasionally three, valves involved at one time. Usually, however, one valve is causing most of the trouble and if it is fixed, or if an operation improves its function, it is sometimes enough to have the patient happily back at work.

By and large, valves can cease to work properly in two ways, then to their obstruction to the flow of blood through the valves because of cusps of the valves either becoming stuck together or become thickened and move poorly.

The other cause of poorly functioning valves is found when the cusps of the valve, due to scarring or shortening, may not meet exactly and allow a leak. Obviously, some disease processes of the valve will affect valves in such a way that they produce both some obstruction and some leak.

It is easier for a surgeon to open up a valve that is producing an obstruction to an orifice than it is to correct a valve which, due to some deformity, has a deficiency, is producing a leak. Thus, by and large, most of the successful valve operations are for obstruction to the valve.

DELICATE SURGERY

The obstructed valve can be opened a variety of ways. The mitral valve, which is one of the commonest valves to be valved, can be opened by splitting it with a knife or using a finger or a mechanical dilator. This is done by sense of feel with the finger in the heart.

The aortic valve, an extremely important and lengthy valve that controls the blood supply to the heart as well as the output of the heart, cannot be reached with a finger from below more easily by a more complicated technique one can sometimes reach the valve through the main artery. More recently, with the use of hypothermia or the "heart freeze" technique, which was developed in Canada, the heart may actually be stopped and the valve opened under direct vision in a bloodless field.

The same is true of the pulmonary valve leading to the lung, operations upon this valve with the circulation to the heart temporarily stopped for five or ten minutes, and the valve opened under direct vision has been particularly successful. Some centres are using the modern heart lung pump for operating upon the aortic and pulmonary valve in place of hypothermia.

Very often the results of these operations depend upon how badly scarred the valve is. It is usually possible for the heart surgeon to open up the valve and separate the cusps that are stuck together, but the mechanical action of the valve depends on how badly thickened and scarred the valve cusps are. This is something that the surgeon and the cardiologist have no way of assessing accurately before operation. Fortunately, the scarring and thickening is often so bad that there is not some definite improvement from the operation. Results of the majority of cases are classified as good or excellent.

DIFFERENT PROBLEM

The problem of the leaking valve is a different kettle of fish. As one might imagine if the defect in the cusp is such as to allow a leak, it very likely means that the only way this valve will successfully work again is by replacing it with a new one. Unfortunately, heart surgery has not reached the stage at which we are able to do this in the majority of cases with anything like the success that attends the operation for obstruction.

Several operations are designed for the leaking valve and probably the most successful to that used for a leaking aortic valve.

A plastic valve is used to correct aortic valve leak and since it is not unlike the valve we have right at the outlet of the heart, it is inserted into the great vessel or aorta at the level it arises from the heart where it functions and corrects about three quarters of the leak.

This operation has been performed in Canada for the last three and a half years, but one of the disadvantages has been the clicking that accompanies the artificial valve. It may be of interest to know that the original designer Charles Hufnagel, has produced a [illegible] valve which does not click. Information may be made at our bank. (Inquire from your local bank.)

Wheel Bearings Need Lubricant

By EUGENE MILMOE

Frost wheel bearings should be repacked every 10,000 miles at least, using every 10,000 miles at least, using a short fiber grease with a high melting point.

When the job is neglected for too long, the bearings must work without sufficient lubrication, and wheel noise, excessive heat and grease leakage will result. But too much bearing grease is as bad as too little because it works its way into brake drums and on to linings.

Similar troubles are invited if the grease seals are damaged and not replaced.

The do-it-yourself mechanic often has trouble reinstalling the retaining nuts. In some cases they are left too loose, so that the wheels lead to wobble; others may tighten them enough to cause tight binding.

From C. A.: "Whenever my spark plugs are removed for cleaning, I notice they have a dry white or yellowish coating on the bases. What is this substance?"

(A) This is the normal appearance of the deposit left when leaded fuel is used in the engine.

(B) "My car sometimes causes the transmission gears to clash at times? Mine do, but only when I shift after starting out in the morning. I use the car most of the day and there's no more gear noise. It's a 1953 with regular transmission."

(A) This will happen with lubricants which become too thick when cold.

N. F. writes: "Whenever I accelerate my engine to run up an incline or when I turn a corner or round a curve, I always hear a rattle from somewhere in the rear of the car. Is this a rear axle noise?"

(A) Not probable. A loose or lost hanger for the muffler or the tailpipe is very often the reason for such noise.

From H. F.: "For the first few miles of driving there is no trouble, but after that my car has a tendency to pull toward the right side. What causes this?"

(A) If grease, oil or fluid has soaked the brake lining, it can be soaked by heat developed when the car is driven and cause dragging or mild brake grabbing on one particular side.

SAFETY IS NO ACCIDENT

Be careful about your driving—Be sure about your car.

used with success in Canada.

LIMITED PERCENTAGE

It is perhaps timely to correct one common misconception. Many people think that if you have something wrong with your valves, an operation is all that is required to fix them. Although the majority of patients with diseased valves can be operated upon with hope of improvement, of the very large group of patients with leaking valves there is only a small percentage that can be helped with surgery.

A great deal of research is going on in attempts to provide plastic valves, or test the efficiency of valves from a valve bank similar to an artery bank. This is expensive, time consuming work, which requires highly trained assistants and many years of study. The support that has gone to help cardiovascular research in the last ten years, I am sure, has been well justified by the results.

Man and Wife Die Within Hours Same Day

A double funeral will be held Monday for Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, 92 South George St., both of whom died within hours Friday at Belleville General Hospital. Both had been ill for a number of years.

Mrs. Martin died shortly before noon, while her husband died later in the afternoon. They had been residents of the city for the past 40 years. Both were born in Desoronto and had lived at Brighton before coming to Belleville.

They were members of St. Thomas Anglican Church. Mr. Martin was in his 79th year, while Mrs. Martin was in her 72nd year.

William John Martin was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elish Martin, while Mrs. Martin was the former Laura Thompson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson.

A staunch supporter of the Liberal party, Mr. Martin was former owner of the Liquor Control Board store when it was located on Bridge St. Later he acted as caretaker at the Kinsmanis Centre. He had been in failing health for some time, while Mrs. Martin had been ill for eight years.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. George (Beatrice) Westlake, city of Sgt. Westlake of the Belleville police department; Mrs. Harold (Margaret) Verbeyst of Demorestville, and Mrs. Jack (June) Wilson of Scarboro, and two sons, Eclaren of Belleville, at Plastache, Quebec, and Jack Kenneth Martin, switchboard operator with the Belleville Fire Department.

Mr. Martin is survived by one brother, Harold Martin of Picton, and a sister, Mrs. Wilbert Bain of Gananoque, while Mrs. Martin leaves a brother Harold Eclaren of Belleville, and a sister, Mrs. May Lazier of Rochester, N.Y.

Famous Organist To Give Recital

Alexander Schreiner, famous American organist, will be heard in Kingston at St. George's Cathedral the evening of February 14.

Dr. Schreiner is one of the most outstanding of the concert organists. He was born to produce music. At the age of eight, he was a full-fledged church organist, and in his youth began his life's work of playing recitals at the Salt Lake Tabernacle in 1921. It was on this instrument in 1929 he played the first of the national radio programs which is now one of the oldest continuous broadcasts in existence. Millions hear him each morning.

When Dr. Schreiner studied with Louis Vierne, of Notre Dame in France that latter master was astonished at his sight-reading and said of Dr. Schreiner, "He has a technique capable of mastering at sight any one of difficulties."

Dr. Schreiner, in expressing his ideas on the joys of reading music at sight, said "You need not be a genius to know why not music? Reading widely in music literature is as exhilarating as sight-seeing in a new village, or travel through foreign lands. Let me illustrate by in the old saying, "That which you persist in doing becomes easier, not that the nature of the task has changed, but your ability to do has increased."

Everywhere Dr. Schreiner plays he draws crowds. He is among the top radio artists in Canada, a local music radio paper says. Says the Toronto Evening Telegram, "He is a great organist, his technique is brilliant, but his interpretive genius is even more prodigious. He is a great phrase of music he makes."

Dr. Schreiner will be assisted by Miss Muriel Chalk under G.N. Maybee. No tickets will be required, a collection will be taken. Dr. Schreiner's visit is being sponsored by the Dr. Lawrence International Chapter of the America Guild of Organists.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

A Five-Day Family Get-Together Will Cost Retired Father $1,000

By THOMAS COLLINS

You are living in retirement with your cousins, along with your income, is smaller than it used to be. Your children are all married and, as is the custom of the day, are somewhere far away.

You worry that you don't see them more often. You worry, too, about what may eventually happen to this plan you have created. Your children's spouses hardly know one another. How could they when one lives in New York and another in Texas? And all those little first cousins your children's children never get a chance ever to know one another when cold.

In this age of scattered families you, as the parents, are the only unifying force. You must find some way to keep the children in touch, with one another and you or else they will start a drift that in two or three generations will make most of your descendants strangers to one another.

Your own grandparents didn't have this problem. There was the whole family homestead to pull everybody back home. And anyway, the children settled on 40 acres given by the creek instead of scampering away.

And grandparents didn't pull up and retire to the sunshine.

A retired lawyer, George H. Bannister, has been worrying about all this. He has decided to spend $1,000 to do something about it . . . and have some fun in the deal.

You may be able to do the same for less.

PAPA WILL PAY

Mr. Bannister and his wife have retired to a two-bedroom bungalow in Escondido, California. Their children are married. One lives two days away by auto, one four days, and one five. They are going to invite the children to come to California next August and spend five days with them at Papa's expense.

The total days the children spend on the road will be 22. At $25 a day the Bannisters figure off $550. That will be simple. But the three children are bringing seven grandchildren.

The Bannisters will clear out two bedrooms, placing the furniture in the garage. They will rent seven cots. Four go in the bedrooms. They've measured it. Two in the living room, and one in the garage. The grandchildren stay with the Bannisters.

The three sets of parents go to a nearby motel where the Bannisters can get a rate of $3 per day per couple. It will give the couples freedom, free evenings in California, and a chance to get acquainted with one another without distraction.

"The real thing is where we've got troubles," Mr. Bannister says. "But I think we have it licked.

NO OUTSIDE ENTERTAINMENT

"All this is not going to cost quite $1,000," Mr. Bannister thinks, "so we can probably have

Scenic Drive And Playground Are Proposed

TRENTON — O. W. Larry, town clerk, acted as chairman of a meeting in the Skyline Dining Hall Thursday night which may start a chain of events to turn a portion of the banks of the Rive Trent into a scenic drive for tourists and townfolk.

Attending the meeting were: George Spencer, Reeve of Frankford; Deputy-Reeve Harley Hamilton of Sidney; Reeve Doug MacMaster of Murray and Trenton's Mayor, Ross Burtt.

Among the others attending were: Art Duncan, public relations officer for Bata Shoe Company; Hubert Campbell of Miller Insurers, Glen Miller, Alex Wilson vice-president of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce; Alex Gilbert, secretary of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce; O. W. Larry, clerk for the town of Trenton.

The purpose of the meeting was to obtain the feelings of the various officials concerned, towards the developing of a special scenic drive along both sides of the Trent river, from Hwy. 401 Highway bridge to Frankford.

In developing this area, picnic grounds, trailer camp, motels, roadside tables, special fishing spots and camping sites would be allowed giving a spot where travellers could rest or spend the night. The area would also be available for use by property persons for picnics, etc.

Council leaders were instructed at the meeting to take the matter up at the next meetings of their respective groups to find the feelings of the municipal tors. If all were in agreement then the matter could be handed over to the county parliamentary representatives for further steps.

It was felt by the members that the Provincial Government may be approached to take over the project, or at least give a considerable amount of assistance.

All who were present felt the project was a very good one and that it should be carried through. They also felt it would be a great inducement to bring tourists to a stop in this area for a short while.

Rockets, Comets Meet on Monday

TRENTON — The stage has been set for one of the most interesting games of the season, if not in the history of the RCAF hockey league in Trenton. Tension is high among the hockey fans at the air station, as well as many civilian hockey enthusiasts.

The Rockets will meet the Comets in a battle for top spot in the "Big Four" series Monday night at the Community Centre. The game will start at 7.45 p.m. and there is no admission charge.

Both teams have won their initial contests in the new series, which will see each team of the "Big Four" playing a round-robin of six games each. The winner will represent the Trenton Station at Training Command finals at Camp Borden, an honor any of the four teams would give their eyeteeth for.

This thriller will be followed by a game of almost equal importance, as it will be between the Falcons and the FIS, both in second spot of the "Big Four" and using a win to stay in the running. The Falcons lost their first game to the Comets and the FIS bowed to the Comets during the past week.

The Trenton game will start at 3.25 p.m. The third match of the night, at 4.45 p.m., will see the Sparks and 6 R-D, top team in the, "Little Four" series.

In the meantime the FIS will play without the services of PO Branch, one of their top players. Branch was injured in the dressing room last Thursday night when a match penalty during the third period of the FIS-Comet game. In the RCAF league a match penalty means the player off the ice for three minutes. However, the same the penalty was given in, Branch will be out when his team plays Lyndhurst next Thursday night. He is sixth in the top-ten scoring parade.

Transport Unit Work Described

TRENTON — Squadron Leader R. K. Trumley, Commanding Officer of No. 4 Air Observer Unit, R.C.A.F. Station Trenton, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club in the Hotel Gilbert Thursday night.

S/L. Trumley also covered the work of the Air Transport Command, explaining that the O.T.U. was a part of it.

Previous to introducing the speaker, the 45 Kiwanians present held a brief business session. President G. Gooding was back in the chair following a short bout with the flu. The secretary of the club read a letter from he Trenton Figure Skating Club asking the service club for support at the forthcoming show planned to be held at the Community Centre.

Hockey Notes

GIRLS AND HOCKEY

And now the girls in Trenton and at the RCAF Station are going to try their hand at hockey. F/L. Lynch, recreation officer of the RCAF Station Trenton, said yesterday the Air Force boys are having an evening of skating on Tuesday, February 18. They will have the ice for two hours, and if the duties of the time will be used for playing. Besides this there is enough girls for two teams.

Charlie Drake stated recently in the Toronto Globe and Mail several teams of local girls will be practising on Sunday around 4 p.m. He said applications have reached 40 and he is expecting many more once the scheme is advertised. It is a new venture in Trenton but it is expected it will be a big drawing card once it gets underway.

RCAF HOCKEY

There will be two exhibition games at the Community Centre on Sunday. The first will take place between the PJI.S. and the Falsebridge Intermediates from 11.30 a.m. to 1.30 p.m., and the second will see Headquarters taking on the Batawa team, a member of the Industrial League, in Trenton. There will be no admission charge for either game.

TOP PLAYER

Sgt. Scott Crowder not only stands in the scoring and the assist department of the RCAF Hockey League, but he also has the distinction of being able to say he has never made the trip to the penalty box this year. If Sgt. Crowder can keep it up it will be the first time he received a penalty. This year he has scored 38 goals and assisted in others for a total of 76 games the Rockets have played.

FINAL LEAGUE GAME

Saturday night the Trenton Juniors will play their final league game of the season and they meet the Belleville Juniors in a home match at the Community Centre. It is expected to be a fast, rugged contest with the Bellevillites out to avenge a previous setback. Trenton will be fighting hard to end regular season play on a winning note and also to avenge a previous setback. Trenton will be fighting hard to end regular season play on a winning note and also to avenge a previous setback.

Boy Scouts Plan Appeal for Funds

TRENTON — The Trenton Boy Scout Association and the Air Force Scout groups have again joined forces to launch a campaign for funds during Scout Week, February 17 to February 22, in Trenton. An intensive campaign to promote the Scout movement has been planned and the local press, newspaper, radio and merchants in the Trenton district have promised their support.

This year's campaign is similar to the one last year when the Trenton and Air Force groups asked the public to contribute toward the support of the local Scout Associations.

The drive has raised $4500 years through the ready response of the citizens in the district, provided a successful training program during the year 1957.

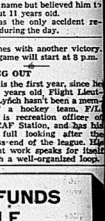
A team of canvassers will again visit the people of Trenton to seek funds for an equally successful training program during the coming year.

Boy Escapes Injury

TRENTON — A young, unidentified boy had a close call Thursday when he ran between two parked cars and into the path of a car on Bay Street.

Mr. Fonville said he stopped the car after striking the boy but he stated he was not injured in any way. He said he did not ask the boy his name but believed him to be about 11 years old.

It was only accident reported during the day.



Ilar games with another victory. The game will start at 8 p.m.

SITTING OUT

This is the first year, since he was 17 years old, Flight Lieutenant Ken Lynch has not been a member of a hockey team. F/L. Lynch, recreation officer at the RCAF Station, and has his hands full looking after the business end of the league. He efficient work speaks for itself though a well-organized loop.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mrs. John Lough, formerly of Marmora, is a patient in Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. Lough has reached her 97th milestone.

Mr. Gordon Crake, Junior, has returned home after successfully passing his examinations at the Provincial Institute of Trades, Toronto, as a class A mechanic.

Canadian-Born Only-Licensed Balloon Pilot

TORONTO (CP)—The only licensed woman balloon pilot in North America is Canadian-born Mrs. Alfred Wolf of Blue Bell, Pa.

A graduate of Toronto's Branksome Hall, class of 1916, Mrs. Wolf continued this week to be private school for girls to tell of her adventures in the air-borne basket.

She was Mike Todd's technical adviser in production of the film Around the World in Eighty Days, and a movie star Ingrid Bergman was aloft in the famous balloon Mrs. Wolf was on hand at all times as adviser.

NOVA SCOTIA NATIVE

The former Constance Cann of Sydney, N.S., she is the granddaughter of A. C. Rosz, who was elected Liberal member of Parliament for Cape Breton in 1906.

But ballooning is only a small part of Mrs. Wolf's air career. She has been an airplane pilot for 27 years, and has crossed the Atlantic as a copilot.

Her flying enthusiasm is shared by her husband, a jet pilot in the U.S. Air Force reserve, a lawyer who founded the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, which now has 70,000 members in the United States.

It was not until 1951 that Mrs. Wolf discovered the thrill of flying in tenderless balloons, where control of ballast is the major element.

"It's not at all like flying a plane," she said.

EXPENSIVE SPORT.

She promptly became a balloon enthusiast and soon after obtained her license. In 1956 she made a flight out made in Europe—a 10-hour trip from Zurich, Switzerland to Innsbruck, Germany.

Back in the U.S. Mrs. Wolf became one of the five pilots in the Balloon Club of America at Philadelphia. The club owns a fleet of four aerial acquisitions.

"It's a fantastically expensive sport," she admitted. "But—

"We were lucky in getting the old balloons. A new one costs about $15,000 and unless you can take it up, it costs $500 to inflate it. Fortunately the Air Force balloons however, are so big we can get away with using coal-gas gas which is cheaper at $150, but it hasn't nearly the lift of hydrogen.

"Insurance rates are high too and not just for the flier's life she said. "We usually have to pay all the damages and this makes our insurance dreadfully high."

Her most exciting job so far was flying from Boston, Mass. around the World over England and France last year as a promotion stunt for the longest flight ever made in Europe.

In connection with the flight over London Mrs. Wolf said recently Her Buckingham Palace in the balloon was really the high point of my life in the air."

J.B. McGeachy To Speak Here

J. B. McGeachy, distinguished journalist and news commentator, will address the Women's Canadian Club in Queen Alexandra School, Ann Street, on the topic, "Canada and World Affairs."

Mr. McGeachy, a Scot, came to Canada in 1913. He attended the University of Saskatchewan, graduating with a B.A. degree, and M.A. in Modern History from the Universities of Toronto and Princeton. He was a Rhodes Scholar in 1920.

As a journalist, Mr. McGeachey served as editor of the Saskatoon Star Phoenix from 1923 to 1927, and acted as correspondent for Canadian newspapers in Ottawa, Washington, D.C., and London, England. He also served as CBC commentator from 1940-48 on the Overseas News Service. Returning to Canada he joined the editorial staff of the Globe and Mail, and in 1956 became associate editor of the Financial Post.

In broadcasting he has appeared on CBC and TV in "Citizens' Forum," "Citizens' Forum," Tabloid and others.

He is a frequent speaker on "Weekend Review," and "News Roundup," he is well known and popular throughout Canada and the United States, and in Canada in March.

Mr. McGeachy is exceptionally well qualified to discuss the international affairs of Canada's role in world affairs.

Hire a Sight-Seeing Driver When Vacationing in Big City

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

(Q) "We are planning a trip to San Francisco. However, having driven in Los Angeles traffic for a few days, we wonder if it would be possible to hire a driver while we are in San Francisco. We must stay on a budget in order to take a vacation, so we are not able to do all our sight-seeing by bus tours. Do you think we could hire a college student or someone else familiar with the city to drive for us?" — Mrs. E.C., S., Ft. Worth, Tex.

(A) Sounds like a wonderful idea. When you arrive and check into your hotel or motel, why not take a telephone call to a local paper for a college student, or perhaps an off-duty bus, taxi or sight-seeing car driver who would be willing to work for you on his own time.

In a few cities — Quebec City, for one, comes to mind — sight-seeing drivers congregate at key sight-seeing points, or offer their services through a local paper or work driving private cars for tourists.

TOURIST HOME SURVIVES

(Q) "We are planning a motor trip through the country and would like to know if it would be possible to stay in some tourist homes while travelling instead of hotels and motels. We like this idea both for reasons of economy and to meet people in different parts of the country and get acquainted with their ways." I.O., Worcester, Mass.

(A) The good old-fashioned tourist home, which has sheltered us and countless others on our travels, motels were full, still survives for those who like folks who are as interested in the flavor of the land as its sights.

Nearly every town, no matter how small, has its guesthouse or tourist home. Look for neat, retired couples, with rooms renting for as little as $3 to $5 a night, with private or semi-private baths. Often as not guests are treated as family and invited to use the living room and visit with the family evenings, impart a warm and comfortable, personalized atmosphere.

(Q) "I am going to New York and would like to take in some good shows. Could you advise me about how to secure tickets? I understand it is easier for out-of-town people to get tickets than New Yorkers."

M.B., Phoenix, Ariz.

(A) The latter fact is quite prevalent but difficult to prove. If the performance for any given date is sold out, there simply aren't any tickets for anybody.

Hit musical shows are extremely difficult to get tickets for, and about the only way to insure seeing the one you want is to write a good six months in advance and specify a range of dates for which you would be willing to accept tickets. By getting a New York City newspaper or magazine at a news-stand at home you can learn the prices.

Tickets for dramas and comedies may be more readily available and require less notice.

If you are determined buck going to New York without tickets rno trying your luck at the box office. Even if they are sold out, there are sometimes last-minute exchanges or cancellations. Single seats very often can -be had.

You can also try a ticket agency. Most New York hotels have one in the lobby and there are many others in the theater district. For these tickets you pay a premium, the amount depending on the price of the tickets. However, you can usually get the most successful musicals probably will not be available at the start of a long run, at regular box office prices.

If you want to go to New York on a planned visit, these often include tickets to top shows and are well worthwhile.

(Q) "We are planning an auto trip to Florida. We get so much propaganda that reservations must be made in advance if one wants a place to sleep on the way. With the many motels, is it not possible to drive from day to day and get accommodations?" — G.S.H., Sabetha, Kans.

(A) Yes, it certainly is. There's always room somewhere.

Nursing Registry Presents Annual Report, Slate of Officers

The annual meeting of the Belleville Community Nursing Registry was held on February 6, at the home of the president, Mrs. D. Howie, who opened the meeting with a welcome to all members present.

The annual report of the treasurer, Mrs. A. Thurston, was read and accepted as were the secretary's report, given by Mrs. Marshall Smith, and the annual reports of the standing committees.

Mrs. Ida Campbell, Director of The Belleville Community Nursing Registry, presented her annual report, the text of which follows — "The year 1957 has been most active. There were 1,315 tabulated calls for nurses for private homes, Albert College, Ontario School for the Deaf, Trenton Memorial Hospital, Belleville General Hospital, and Emergency staff calls, private duty nurses completed 1,003 days of staff duty.

"At present the members of the Belleville Community Nursing Registry consist of 51 single, 25 married and one practical nurse.

In allocating the calls for the Victorian Order of Nurses the Nursing Registry has valued the friendly conversations with citizens of Belleville, and district, and fully appreciate the co-operation extended to the agency by Miss Dorothy Connor, supervisor of Victorian Order and her assistants.

Sincere thanks are extended to Miss Peart, Director of Nursing; to the Board of Directors; to Mrs. Howie, president; to the members of the Registry for their co-operation, and to Mrs. Cameron Morton, assistant director, for her faithfulness.

This and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Everywhere you look and every time you listen, you seem to see or hear a reference to conservation, even if the word itself is not always spoken. We hope that there is no danger of a tendancy all too prevalent in good and bad times alike to lose their true meaning. In North Hastings we have the true conservation of our bodies just as surely as reforestation is carried out in conservation methods. Dr. W. Dunn, executive secretary of the Ontario Dental Registry was guest this week of the Quinte Dental Association. In an interview Dr. Dunn was forceful in his advocacy of construction of the child's teeth from pre-natal care through adolescence so that maturity may possess better teeth. "To Conserve" is a vital challenge to society. Our weekend thought is promoted because of Health Week.

"Better to hunt in fields, for health unbought,

Than for the doctor for a nauseous draught.

The wise, for cure, on exercise depend

God never made his work for man to mend."

So wrote John Dryden.

How a community changes is always a cause of wonder to those who return to return another day. Not many alter as drastically as have the communities of the St. Lawrence River. To make way for the seaway, entire towns have been pulled up to houses picking them up in their huge arms, transferring them to new sites, making extinct old towns. It is like watching a giant child play with an eraser in one hand and a pencil in the other. As an old house disappears, as brazen, new one is drawn on the landscape. And there have been days as spectacular changes right here on the fringes of Belleville, as the many developments on the outskirts it is fascinating to watch the area being built up. A road is outlined, water mains laid, electricity turned on, and the excavations start and the old-time residents nearby speculate on what type of house, how big etc. Some sub-divisions have houses of fairly uniform style, while others amaze the onlookers with the variety of design and color. Thanks chiefly to most new houses do not look like the unattractive boxes of by-gone years. Even very small ones can have a distinctive design and appearance. As I people were really proud of their individuality.

Soon there are signs of habitation. Sometimes it is the tiny garden that tells you first of a new family; sometimes it is the wash on the line; sometimes the curtains go up first thing; or you see children playing in the new playyard.

We hope the newcomers do not misunderstand the curiosity of the established residents. It is usually interest and a feeling of welcome which is always a two-way business.

And talking about the St. Lawrence Seaway and the development around Belleville we are reminded that every morning when we look out the bedroom window we see no development activity about the narrows which will cut Belleville off from the seaway trade to market. It is amazing there is no public interest to seek action so that our city will not be bypassed until it is too late. This bottleneck will affect the growth and welfare of our whole community.

There is an old saying which advises us If we want something done to do it ourselves or go to a busy person. A young friend remarked recently, "If we could only get people who aren't already busy to join and help us." In a highly organized society this does seem a frustrating obstacle sometimes. Our young enthusiast was trying to organize for a local service, new in the city. It does seem that the willing horse does most of the work, but our city is known far and wide for its organized state. However, experience shows that patience and persistence usually reveal a harvest of workers for worthwhile projects. The initial discouragement is usually the most frustrating one with the old adage seems too true and too true.

Canadian Army Doctor Saves Bedouin Mother and Infant

A young Canadian Army medical officer, Capt. Glen P. Vancott, 30, of Kingston and Picton, Ont., has been credited with saving the lives of a young Bedouin woman and her new-born child.

Capt. Vancott, serving in the Middle East with the Canadian component of the United Nations Emergency Force, late last Wednesday was called to the UNEF Hospital in Hafah to administer treatment to a seriously — ill, 18-year-old Bedouin woman, suffering from acute complications of pregnancy. Her husband had brought her on a long trek across the desert by donkey.

A dramatic, six-hour struggle followed during the night, completed by a failure of power at the medical shelter. The delicate operation went on with the aid of flashlights, and at five o'clock in the morning a two - month premature daughter was born. Capt. Vancott then had to administer artificial respiration to the child for a considerable period before it responded.

To save the child's life a hastily - improvised incubator was built by Canadian medical assistants from a cardboard carton, and lined with gauze. The incubator was then placed near an oil-burning stove, for warmth.

By mid-morning, mother and daughter were fine and two female nurses and the young father took them to a maternity ward at the Rafah Clinic.

During the critical operation there was no communication between the young woman and Capt. Vancott because of language difficulties, while to the young mother's anxiety was the fact that she was being treated by a non-Moslem man, while doctor. This was her first child and she had never set eyes on a doctor before.

The following day, however, the grateful mother, after gratefully acknowledged the UNEF assistance, she and her husband in the desert trust and respect the Canadians for their assistance to Bedouins in the past.

The first experience with childbirth was something quite new for medical assistants of the Canadian Army "but," said Capt. Vancott, "they came through with flying colors."

Capt. Vancott's wife, Ann, resides in Kingston (431 Palace Road) with daughters Ann, six, and Kathy, four. Before going to the Middle East he served at the Kingston Military Hospital.

Tahltan Indian Life' Topic at St. Margaret's

The members of St. Margaret's Evening Guild were entranced as they travelled in thought through forest, up mountainside and down ravine on the swift waters of Northern British Columbia.

Mrs. L. Henning was the guest speaker, describing her life's work as a missionary among the Tahltan Indians in the community of Telegraph Creek. Through her territory, over 250 square miles of rugged and mountainous country, travelled on foot, snowshoes, dog sleigh and canoe, serving the sick and injured and was on hand to greet most of the little newcomers into the strange old world

She lived, as her friends, on — dried meat and fish and bannock and the plentiful wild berries of the country.

Mrs. Henning illustrated her talk with a colored film and also showed many pieces of beautiful handicraft done by the Indians and presented to her as tokens of appreciation.

Pr. Wales H-S Association Enjoys Scout Jamboree Slides

On Tuesday evening, the Prince of Wales Home and School Association held its regular monthly meeting. There was a large number of parents present and 100 per cent attendance by the teachers.

Mrs. Cooke, the president, opened the meeting and with Garrison read the Scripture.

Mrs. Cooke announced that the annual "Children's Fair" will be held on February 14th at seven p.m. and invited everyone to come and help make the fair a success.

A notice was read concerning "Education Week" to be held commencing March 2nd with a meeting at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium. Dr. C. C. Goldring, director of education for Ontario will be guest speaker and there will be no admission charge. Anyone wishing to obtain tickets may contact Mrs. Cooke as soon as possible.

SPONSORS CUB PACK

Mrs. Cooke read a letter from the group committee of the 5th Belleville Cub and Scout Pack requesting that the Prince of Wales Home and School Association become sponsor of this Pack. The request was given unanimous approval by the members.

Roll call was won by Mrs. Slack's morning kindergarten class after increased effort by the children and their teacher to encourage more mothers and fathers to come to the meeting.

Mrs. Cooke introduced Edward Burtt, a Queen's Park, who brought with him beautifully colored slides which he took when he attended the World Jamboree of Scouts held last year in England.

EUROPEAN SCENES

Ed described the sights seeing trips made during the Scouts' eight-day visit in London, and showed scenes of the Tower of London, Piccadilly Circus, Westminster Abbey, Windsor Castle, Changing of the Guard, Runnymede, and views from atop the Round Tower of Windsor Castle overlooking the Thames River and the surrounding English countryside.

The remainder of the slides, taken during their 15-day stay in the north at Birmingham, were of the campsites of the various countries attending the Jamboree and also aerial views of their return home.

Mrs. Miller graciously thanked Ed for showing his films and his most interesting commentary of his trip.

PANEL DISCUSSION

Next on the program was a panel discussion on the "Discipline of the Child." The moderator was Mrs. Nightingale and on the panel was Mr. Cummins, representing the Department of Education; Mrs. Phillips, teacher of grade seven; Joan McMullin, a grade eight student; Mr. Durrant, a member of the Home and School Council; Mr. Sproule, who is on the Board of Trustees.

This discussion was recorded and will be used over the local radio station CJBQ during Education Week in March.

Following this, eight Boy Scouts of the 5th Belleville Pack, under the leadership of Mr. J. McBride, gave a brief display of a typical Scout meeting, showing the opening ceremony, some of their first-aid knowledge, and a closing prayer. The demonstration was greatly enjoyed by everyone.

Refreshments were served by the members of Mrs. Burtt's room, bringing to a close an entertaining evening.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

I come to the garden alone,
While the dew is still on the roses
And the voice I hear,
Falling on my ear,

The Son of God discloses.
He speaks, and the sound of His voice
Is so sweet the birds hush their singing,
And the melody
That He gave to me,

Within my heart is ringing.
I'd stay in the garden with Him
Tho' the night around me be falling,

But He bids me go;
Thro' the voice of woe
His voice to me is calling.
And He walks with me,
And He talks with me,
And He tells me I am His own;
And the joy we share,
As we tarry there,
None other has ever known.

Who is there in church and Sunday school across the world who has not sung and loved this beautiful and popular hymn by C. Austin Miles?

The war between the states was scarcely over when Mr. Miles was born, in 1868, and well before the end of the century — when he was only 23 — he turned out his first gospel song.

It was 20 years later that he wrote the hymn for which he also would be remembered, his immortal "In The Garden" verse. It was written at the suggestion of a friend who asked for a hymn of spiritual hope and comfort for rich and women facing the evening of life. The friend had intended to write the hymn-tune, but in the end it was Mr. Miles who produced the music for his own verses.

Miles found the inspiration for his hymn-poem in the Bible story of the first Easter morning. The garden of which he sings is the garden of Joseph of Arimathaea where Jesus was entombed after His crucifixion and where His resurrection took place.

To face his hostile audiences in his crusade against the slave traffic, he would go to her bedside for a word of encouragement. She would take his hand in hers and say, "Don't shilly-shally tonight, Wendell." Such fortifying influence is beyond measure.

There is truth in the poet's line: "I could not love thee, dear, so much, loved I not honor more."

Jesus also detected the dangers which lurk in friendship. Recall the rebuke He gave to His devoted disciple Peter. When Peter announced that He must go up to Jerusalem and suffer persecution and death, Peter protested, saying: "God forbid, Lord! This shall never happen to you." Then Jesus said to Peter: "Get thee behind me, Satan! You are a hindrance to me, for you are not on the side of God but of men."

Even our best friends can hurt us by keeping us from our best.

It was from all this possessiveness that Jesus sought to safeguard love. He prized family affection. He exalted the value of friendship, but He knew that the only way to preserve the radiance and joy of these intimate personal circles was to set them in the frame of larger loyalties. When our human love limits us too much, they hurt us. Thus as He said, "A man's foes will be those of his own household."

Lift for Living

Must Be Supplementary Loves

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

We speak of "falling in love." The expression suggests the spontaneity and naturalness of the process. The emotion may be kindled by the lovableness or the loveliness of another. But these natural loves lack the fuel in themselves to sustain their fires. They burn out.

After the wedding is over and the happy couple set out together, each may say to the other, "You are all in life I live for." Such words sound well and they mean well. There should be a singleness of devotion, devoid of any competing loves in the same realm.

But there must be some supplementary loves. Husband and wife cannot preserve the romance and richness of their affection by devoting themselves exclusively to each other. When two persons set out with no interest higher than that of looking after each other, their relationship resembles that of the childish sport of see-saw-ter. When one is down, the other brings him up. That helps. But each soon grows weary of watching the other's ups and downs.

Comradeship and mutual respect, so essential to enduring love, require the serving of things together, a community of interests, a devotion to common causes.

Likewise the parent-child relationship needs larger loyalties to preserve its wholesome balance. Left to itself, mother love, so incomparably beautiful, can easily hurt the child by "the silver spoon" which gives too much or by the "silver cord" which asks too much. Many a youth is too long sheltered from the dissatisfaction which comes through serving others. And many a grandparent is too soon shelved away from the same satisfaction. Life needs outgoing commitments which catch it early and keep it late.

Yes, our natural human loves need larger sustaining loyalties. This is one fact which Jesus must have had in mind when He declared that His disciples needed a love higher than that for father or mother or brother. He saw that love cannot be maintained by the mere principle of mutual reciprocity, He said, "If you love those who love you, what reward have you? Do not even the tax-collectors do the same?"

When love deteriorates to a matter of give-and-take, the tendency is to think more about the "take" than the "give." When friendship gets down to the mere business of balancing invitation with invitation, Christmas card with Christmas card, favor with favor, it becomes a pretty petty and fretful thing.

Our human loves can slip down into a subtle form of selfishness. The possessive spirit may often tarnish the marriage bond, making the home a clearinghouse of rights rather than a co-operation of duties. Instead of being humbly grateful for the joy of giving to each other, husband and wife may fall into thinking about what they are giving up for each other.

Love may hurt us by being too protective. A novelist has depicted a wife who weakened her husband by continually warning him against being imposed upon. Every morning as routinely as she dropped the lump of sugar into his coffee, she dropped in also the word the idea that he was letting others use him too much. After a while he came to think of himself as put upon. By her well-meant protectiveness she weakened him.

Contrast this woman's attitude with that of Wendell Phillips' wife. She was an invalid. Every evening before Phillips went out

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Dick M. — I guess I'm getting cold feet.

Mona R. — What would I tell my parents and friends?

Dick M. — I am 18 and about to go into the service. For the past three years I have steadily dated Mona, a girl of my own age.

Our families have been the best of friends for years and I know they would like us to marry — not yet, of course, but when I get out of the Navy. My mother has told me that it might be a good idea for me to give Mona a ring.

Mona and I have always believed we were in love, but when it comes down to brass tacks, I don't know if I want to be engaged. I guess I'm just getting cold feet. I know it's not fair, but I wish we could wait a while. Maybe I'll feel more like being engaged after I've been away from home a while.

Mona R. — For three whole years, while Dick and I both were dating older fellows, I have been going with Dick. I don't even know any other fellows. My best friend is getting married next year and most of my other friends are talking about marriage.

My parents like Dick very much and talk as though we are surely going to be married. I wouldn't know what to say to them if Dick walked out on me. Besides, I would die of embarrassment in front of my friends because I told them all that Dick and I are going to be married.

I think we should get engaged. I wouldn't hold Dick to it if he didn't want to marry me when he is released from the Navy.

The Council: We have checked the medical records and we can happily report that we can't find a single case in history of a death from embarrassment.

On the other hand, there have been many deaths resulting from pressure and other ills that may have been aggravated by the conflicts of a miserable marriage.

Dick M. — I am 18 and about as far as Dick from wanting marriage. A girl whose sole thought on the subject is her desire to keep up with her friends is not prepared for marriage.

Dick shows signs of growing up when he, at least, recognizes that he is not quite ready and when he realizes the seriousness of an engagement. An engagement is a rather definite commitment to marriage. It is quite a bit harder to break than a long, steady-dating arrangement like the one Dick and Mona have enjoyed.

It is hard to see why Dick's and Mona's parents are so eager to have the youngsters commit themselves so early in life. Undoubtedly, they want it would be a good match, but they should be willing to give their children a chance to find themselves first. Dick and Mona should tell their parents exactly how they feel. If the parents understood the real situation, it is most unlikely that they would want to pressure them into a premature engagement.

It is understandable that Mona would want some token of her relationship with Dick before he leaves home. But instead of a engagement ring, it should be a ring a 11, inexpensive piece of jewelry — in the name of "friendship." That would state their true relationship at this time.

ADDRESSING GREETING CARD TO OPTOMETRIST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would particularly appreciate it if you will answer this question for me: When addressing a greeting card (such as a Christmas card) or any other personal mail to an optometrist, how should it be addressed? In the telephone book there is MD. After the doctor's name. I addressed the card to him only, sent it to his office, not to his home-address, and addressed it to (for example) John A. NOTE TO SONIA:

Recently Sonia asked how to soften brown sugar and how to prevent it hardening. I gave my idea but have received better ones from readers. I do hope that Sonia sees these: 1) from C. LaBrish: "Pop it in the breadbox and it will never harden. Mrs. H. H.: "If it's hard the bread will soon soften it up . . ." 3) from Mrs. S. N. Horner: "Put a piece of raw apple or potato in with the sugar. Be sure to put a cut piece . . ." 4) from Mrs. A. Randall: "Keep the sugar in a closed container and keep a piece of fresh bread in with it . . . This never fails." 4) from Mrs. I. B. Magzire: "Put a piece of peel of lemon, orange or grapefruit in the container . . . on top of the wax paper without folding it down . . . close the carton . . . replace . . . before peel becomes mouldy." Thanks to all from Mary for Sonia.

Worst 'Injury' Season In 30 Years Sees Leaders With Power-Plus Left

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Pembroke Lumber Kings will meet a representative club of Belleville, Kingston and Cornwall in Pembroke next Tuesday night in a benefit game for the Kings' Ralph Bushanan who lost an eye following an injury in a hockey game in mid-January.

Representatives of the league decided this at a meeting held in the city hall last night with OHA president Lorne Cook chairing the meeting. There was not a dissenting voice when the motion was put, and it was distinctly understood that the entire proceeds will go to the injured players. Cornwall and Kingston will send the bulk of the players since the McFarlands are entertaining the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens here that night but two or three players from here will make the trip.

From Cornwall will go Goalie Fredericks and defencemen Bingley and Marshall with forwards St. Jean, Muir, Aitken and Burke. Kingston will send Gauthier and Thomson along with Partridge, Moore and Anderson. Stan Cook will coach the squad. The Belleville players will be named later. Incidentally Manager Drury Denyes announced he had signed Davy Jones.

The playoff dates were also settled with the first-place team meeting the fourth and the second the third, in semi-finals series of seven games. The finals will be of like duration. The first games of the semi-finals get under way February 28, two days after the completion of the schedule. The other dates will be published later.

If you are one of those hardy winter fishermen who love to huddle under burlap and brush windbreaks or in the warmer comfort of a shack, you missed a good bet by not taking in the Winter Carnival at Lake Timigami.

It seems the die-hards come from all parts of the province to mush and mukluk through snow and brave the wintry winds for piscatorial hauls with the possibility of winning the several prizes attached by the Carnival committee.

It is surprising how many fellows who raise hands in horror at the idea of shovelling off the pavement, or clearing the garage driveway, exact unholy glee from these winter fishing jaunts and their comparative discomfort.

Crouching under a brush or burlap windbreak with icy breezes flirting with your earlaps, and stiffening the smkiets of king-size underwear, is not our idea of a pleasant pastime on a winter afternoon. Ten is one that below you the whitefish, pike, pickerel and other species are laughing up their dorsal fins at your discomfiture. Occasionally one or more might forget long enough to grab your hook and make life easier.

The shack shift, however, takes things a lot easier, we are told. They have a fire, box seats, a deck of cards, and it could be a small puncheon of ancient mountain dew with which to while away the time. Some of the Trenton shack crew installed a portable TV set and when shots of a Florida aquarium flashed across the screen, the ice-hole in the shack was plugged with pickerel trying to get a glimpse of their cold cousins.

Back to the Timigami Carnival, catches ranged up to eleven pounds for pickerel and 24½ pounds for lake trout. First prize lake trout and largest fish of the carnival went to Ray Peters, Hamilton, with his 24½ pounder. Second was G. Tegzell who lahded a 22-pound, 12-ounce lunker. Dona Lebrun topped the pickerel catches with an 11-pounder with Tegzell too late for second with one that weighed 10½ pounds.

However the prize story of winter fishing comes out of Fort Frances where a visitor from Minnesota hooked a 69-pound sturgeon. It was twenty below zero at the time, and as luck would have it the fish surfaced through the ice-hole. But our hero was not dismayed. He grappled with the pint-size Moby Dick and wrangled him top-side with his bare hands.

STIFF UPPER LIPS

According to Land and Forests reports, the ordinary ruffed grouse, or partridge works harder with its bill to get an ordinary meal than four dozen hopped-up woodpeckers.

Peck-seeking statisticians came up with the fact that one bird had 1,705 particles of food in its crop. The food weighed 1-1½ ounces. They figured the bird "pecked" 1,705 times to obtain its lunch. That's a lot of neck-bending to get a meal.

'Starless' Habs Out in Front Detroit Zooms Minus Howe, Boston, Blues Going Strong

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

This may be the worst season for injuries in 30 years of play in the National Hockey League but the casualties have proved one thing: The league - leading teams are still packed with power.

If the pundits had foreseen the long illnesses of Montreal's Maurice Richard, the loss of Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and injuries to Jacques Plante, Henri Richard, Floyd Curry and Jean Beliveau, they might have expected the Canadiens to tumble. They'd have been wrong. Canadiens lead the league by 25 points.

Two weeks ago today, the loss of Gordie Howe to Detroit Red Wings was decisive. At the end of Detroit's hopes to make the playoffs.

But the next night they came back with a surprising 4-3 win over Montreal. But the critics chortled when Montreal thumped the Wings 7-0 and Toronto beat them 5-1.

ALMOST HALF.

Nothing without Howe, they said. Howe had figured in about 40 per cent of the team's offence. The club was terrible in the league in goals-for at the time of Howe's injury and its tallies had been spread thinly after Howe's 22 were skimmed off.

But Detroit fought back into third place with a win over Toronto and a tie with Montreal.

Though only seven points separate the second and sixth teams in the league, Detroit's chances of playing in the Stanley Cup this year are good.

Both second-place New York Rangers and fourth-place Boston Bruins have had most of their key players on the sidelines with injuries and yet they continue to be strong contenders.

Part of the explanation of the leaders' ability to absorb punishment is depth. Players who were generally considered in a profile duration of stars shoot to the top when the opportunity arises.

Montreal's Dickie Moore is a good example.

In three full terms with Canadiens his best was last season when he scored 36 goals. This year he leads the league with 30 goals and 36 assists with 17 games still to play.

Moore was described as one of the finest players ever to come out of junior ranks when he was signed, but it took him five seasons to get going in the NHL.

A good part of the credit for Detroit's ability to bounce back after Howe's injury belongs to Alex Delvecchio who had scored only three goals in 20 games. In the last five games, Delvecchio has scored five times.

Rangers meet the Red Wings at Detroit this afternoon. Wings need to win this one and their Sunday night game against the Black Hawks in Chicago to move into second place.

Toronto plays a weekend home-and - home set against Boston starting at Toronto tonight. Boston has Bronco Horvath back in the lineup and will be missing only Leo Boivin and goalie Don Simmons.

At Montreal, the Canadiens play host to Chicago and then move on to New York Sunday night.

Pembroke Whips Wolves 5-1 in Easy Fashion

SUDBURY (CP) — Pembroke Lumber Kings of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A eastern division continued their domination of teams in the OHA-NOHA series Friday night whipping Sudbury Wolves 5-1 before 1,500 fans in an exhibition game.

The win was the third straight for Pembroke against OHA-NOHA teams. Earlier, Kings had defeated North Bay Trappers twice.

Bruce Giesebrecht led the Pembroke attack with two goals. Lionel Barber, Jim Maxwell, and Robby Clarke scored for Kings. Jean Therrien scored for Sudbury.

Reach Finals

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Barbara McIntire and Mary Patton Janssen reached the finals in the championship golf championship at Palm Beach Friday. They will tee off in the 18-hole title match today.

Miss McIntire, runnerup in the U.S. open in 1956, built up an early lead and held it for a 4 and 3 win over Anne Richardson. Miss Janssen, finalist in the 1956 British amateur, stayed off a battle by Patty Kerby and scored a 1-up victory.

Pakistan Rallies In Test Match

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters) — Pakistan made a fighting recovery after being threatened with the follow - up and trailed by only 28 runs at first innings in the third day of the second cricket test match here against the West Indies.

It owed the great comeback to the slightly-built Wallis Mathias and tall-red batsmen Fazal Mahmood and Mahmood Hussain. The trio dwidded 128 runs for the last ufo wickets, Mathias (73) and Fazal (60), both hitting their highest scores in test cricket.

Pakistan totalled 282 in its first innings in reply to 255 by West Indies, which had lost two second - innings wickets for 56 by close of play.

Teepees Nip Flyers 9-7; Irish Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sixth - place Barrie Flyers, who've lost 26 of 42 Ontario Hockey Association Junior A games this season, are probably wondering: What do you have to do to win?

Friday night Flyers banged in seven goals against league-leading St. Catharines Teepees. But they still lost—9-7.

After holding Teepees 2-2 in the first period and 3-3 in the second, FFlyers collapsed in a fantastic third period in which 10 goals were scored.

The win boosts St. Catharines' lead to 10 points over Hamilton Cubs. St. Michael's consolidated their hold on third place with a 6-4 win over Guelph Biltmores.

Johnny McKenzie led Teepees' scoring spree with four goals. Stan Mikita scored three and Rino Robazza and Chico Maki scored the others.

Bernie Cote and Billy Forhan each scored two for Barrie. Danny Patrick, Pete Panagabko and Bob Blackburn added single.

Murray Davison of Flyers and Teepees Matt Ravlich each received match fighting majors and game miscondcuts for a second-period fight.

St. Michael's scored four goals in the first seven minutes of play against Guelph who hit back to tie the score at 4-4 in the second. Third-period goals by Lou Angotti and Jim Storkey gave St. Mike's victory.

Angotti, Henry Marczak, Gino Ubriaco and Darryl Sly scored the other St. Mike's goals. Gord Haworth, Don Macgregor, George Ustalo and Ron Brain tallied for Guelph

British Crash Won't Affect Air Travel Here

MONTREAL (CP) — Heads of major sports organizations have deplored the plane crash which killed 23 of the seven members of the Manchester United soccer team but indicated no change is likely within their own organizations regarding air travel.

Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League do considerable flying — as do other clubs in the circuit—especially to and from Havana.

"The Munich crash was terrible but it can't affect our thinking," said general manager Rene Lamoyne of the Royals. "We would be unable to meet our commitments without air travel."

Montreal Alouettes, Big Four football club, fly frequently to and from Toronto for games there and also in Hamilton.

Managing director Gordon Kennedy of the Als said coach Doug Walker prefers the air travel and the players like it also. If any player should object to travel he would be allowed to go by train, said Kennedy, but none has yet objected.

Montreal Canadiens, who do little travel by air, the Chicago Black Hawks perhaps most frequently because of the longer distance between Chicago and most of the other cities in the circuit.

NHL Owners Agree to Pay Players Additional $66,000

MONTREAL (CP) — National Hockey League owners will be paid an extra $66,000 each this year as a result of the agreement with the players reached at this week's Palm Beach powwow.

There will be $36,000 more in the Stanley Cup playoffs pot, boosting the total to $117,000 from $81,000.

The club owners will also kick in an extra $30,000—estimated by NHL president Clarence Campbell Friday—to the players' pension society. Heretofore the average has been about $60,000. The owners now will have to find about $90,000 from the same sources—the annual all-star game and the playoffs—or dig into their reserves.

Amounts paid players on the first four teams in the regular schedule finish remains the same —$27,000.

$18,000 FOR FIRST TEAM

Of this amount, $18,000 goes to the first-place team, $9,000 to the second, $6,300 to the third and $2,700 to the fourth. Each amount is made up of 18 units. As a result, each player gets approximately $1,000, $500, $350 or $150, depending upon his team's finish and the players' wishes as to distribution.

The same four teams hitting the playoffs, however, will find the money shared somewhat with what it has been.

To the winning team of each semi-final goes $22,500 instead of $18,000, each to the losing team $13,500 instead of $9,000. The unit allotment of 18 again applies.

The losers in the semi finals each player on a semi-final winner will get about $1,200 instead of $900 and each losing-club player $750 instead of $500.

For the cup final the winning team gets $31,500, or about $1,750 for each player. The old amounts were $18,000 and $1,000. $750 FOR LOSING PLAYER

The losing team in the final gets $13,500, or $750 per player, compared with $9,000 and $500 heretofore.

As a result of the playoff revisions, a player on the team finishing first in the NHL race and teen winning the Stanley Cup will receive $4,000 instead of $3,000.

In regard to the players' pensions, the owners agreed to match player contributions dollar for dollar.

Previously two thirds of the gross gate from the all-star game was allotted to the players' society and also 25 cents from each playoffs ticket.

Chenier Takes Lead in Snooker Tourney

VANCOUVER (CP) — Challenger George Chenier took the lead Friday from world snooker champion Fred Davis, winning four of the six afternoon games for a 10-8 edge in their 61-game series here for the title.

Chenier, 50 - year - old former Montrealer now of Vancouver, had a run of 91, highest single break of the series so far. Davis, 43- year -old Welsh hotel owner, holds the record break of 141 in championship play.

The challenge match continues until Feb. 11.

Cornwall Rink Within Grasp of Grand Slam In International Bonspiel

QUEBEC (CP) — A high-flying curling rink from Cornwall today is within two games of a grand slam victory in the Quebec international Bonspiel.

Nelson Findlay's rink won the Consuls Trophy Friday by beating Bob Metcalf's Toronto Royal Canadians 7-5. It was the Cornwall rink's eighth straight victory.

Two more wins today—in the semi-finals and finals for the Lieutenant-Governors' Trophy — and victory in the Grand Aggregate Bowl will be theirs.

Findlay's team is from the Toronto suburb of Unionville. In past years all have played with Toronto Royal Canadians, but a recent business transfer of their skip has them playing for Cornwall.

Findlay is assured of no worse than a tie for the Grand Aggregate Bowl. Only one rink—John Freeman's from Pointe Claire, Que.—has a chance to catch up with Findlay should he lose his final game and Freeman win both of his. Each rink would end with 8-1 records.

The two teams would decide between themselves how the title should be broken.

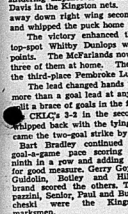
Quebec City, which in past years dominated play for the major trophies, salvaged some prestige for the host province. Quebec CMC team won the Francois Jobin Gold Cup by beating a junior rink skipped by Jim Fleming.

The Val d'Or Trophy went to Ken Conlin's Oshawa, rink which defeated Jack Burgess' Weston, Ont., rink 10-9.

In the only-extra-end game of Friday's finals Bob Lobarev's team from Cap-de-la-Madeleine, Que., downed H. A. Bruhman's North Bay rink 12-11 in the Dow International Trophy final. Lobarev's quartet also won the Dow last year.

McFarlands Snatch 6-4 Win Over Kingston With 2 Last-Minute Goals

Lionel Botley Fires Winner Hildebrand Gets Clincher In Thrilling Senior Battle



By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Two rapid-fire goals in 18 seconds broke up a 4-4 stalemate in a fast, furious, but typical Kingston-Belleville senior "A" game here last night, and gave the McFarlands a 6-4 victory before nearly 2,000 fans.

Lionel Botley, Macs' defenceman, scored the winner with a minute and 27 seconds to go in the third period when his slithering slapshot from the blueline hopped crazily and beat Davis in the Kingston nets. Playing coach Ike Hildebrand raced away down right wing seconds later, cut across the goalmouth, and whipped the puck home to clinch the win.

The victory enhanced the Macs' chances to overtake the top-spot Whitby Dunlops who finished the schedule with 57 points. The McFarlands now have 52 with seven games to play, three of them at home. They are now eleven points in front of the third-place Pembroke Lumber Kings.

The lead changed hands three times with neither club having more than a goal lead at any time until the finish. The teams exchanged goals in the first period with the Macs outscoring the CKLC's 3-2 in the second to take a 4-3 lead. Kingston whipped back with the tying marker at 14.28 in the third, then came the two-goal strike by the Macs and that was that.

GERRY GOYER
Good Man Friday

Bart Bradley continued his goal-a-game pace scoring his ninth in a row and adding one for good measure. Gerry Goyer, Guidolin, Botley and Hildebrand scored the others. Toppazzini, Senior, Paul and Bukaschekil were the Kingston marksmen.

Referee Gerry Olinski let it be known he would stand for no fooling from either team. He handed out ten penalties in a fast and furious first period, one for misconduct to the Macs Bep Guidolin.

LIONEL BOTLEY
Was 1 . . .

Nor did Kingston lose any time in breaking the scoring ice, Toppazzini banging in Partridge's goalmouth pass after 1.43.

Joe Levandoski was heaved a minute later and the Macs swarmed around Davis but no damage was done. Then Guidolin and Senior followed each other into the sin-bin and were scarcely back when Partridge and Gauthier drew double penalties.

The Macs with the two-man advantage swarmed to the attack and within a minute Barrie Bradley scored in his ninth successive game to square the count. The penalties parade was steady and Senior, Benoit and Guidolin being chased, and Guidolin was scarcely back when he was tabbed with a misconduct for pushing lineman Mike Kalin. Joe Levandoski gave the knee to Goyer and he got the last penalty of the period.

Referee Olinski's first-period scoring-spot job had its effects in a fast and furious second period, the packed gathering getting a penalty, that one going to Gauthier.

Midway through the period Kingston went into the lead with Youngberg setting up Linesman neatly. The winger parried a perfect pass to Gaye Senior whose low shot beat Bell.

Gauthier got his sentence at this point and the Macs poured the power on with Bart Bradley and then the Macs one up after poking a loose puck in the net following a goalmouth scramble. The McFarlands repeated the manoeuvre three minutes later with Gerry Goyer slipping the loose rubber over the goal-line behind Bell to McFarlands into a 3-2 lead.

The CKLC's battled hard in close-checking play and with their offensive at its height Bob Paul blasted a screened shot from the blueline that Bell did not see. Paul was bodied heavily by Marineau as he let the shot go and struck his head in the fall, going off for repairs.

Benoit blasted a sizzling slapshot off Kingston goalie and Colvin added the compliment a minute later. With time passing out Gerry Goyer shot a perfect goalmouth pass to Guidolin whose low corner drive gave the Macs a 4-3 edge.

This teams maintained the fast pace in the third period both taking over the offensive and both missing from close in. The McFarlands had an edge in the play outshooting the CKLC's 17-14 while overall they fired 44 shots at Davis with the CKLC's hitting Bell with 32.

Joey Loges Wins Easily Over Collazo

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Joey Loges, scrappy lightweight from Sacramento, Calif., overwhelmed Cuba's Ommano Collazo to score a unanimous 10-round decision Friday night. Both weighed 134½.

The tireless Loges, considered a contender for the division title, was bothered by a disadvantage in height but slowed Collazo with punishing body blows and looping rights and lefts.

Collazo suffered his first setback in 15 fights. In spite of the record, the Cuban was no match for the fancy little Californian.

The victory was the 43rd for the veteran Loges. He has had 7 losses and fought to three draws. Collazo's record now is 43-10-2.

when they did everything but score. The CKLC's roared back and on a neatly executed three-way passing play Bradley fired in the tying marker with Colvin and Anderson in on the play.

Play raced from end to end with both goalies having narrow escapes and Davis' fine stopping of Bradley and Brown on breakaways. Senior, Goyer and the boneless uncorked all their power in an effort to break the deadlock and came up with the sudden two-goal strike that clinched the verdict.

Fourteen penalties were handed out eight to them to the CKLC's seven and the referee each coming in the last two periods.

Nature's Balance Still Prevails

A couple of times, during the past year, this column has commented on the unwise deeds of amateur conservationists. With little wildlife management and little or no experience these trips blackened barge in, full speed ahead, and then suddenly find themselves in over their waders. This time it happened in Colorado.

In that state, there is a group of cattlemen which controls more than 200,000 acres of land. There were a good many coyotes on this property and these predators did make some inroads among the young stock each spring. Without consulting a biologist, the cattlemen instituted a poisoning campaign to clean up the coyotes.

The campaign was successful—eagles, weasels, a n d coyotes virtually disappeared from t h e range. We all, naturally, control gone rodents, particularly the poc. ket gopher, mainly because checked. Estimates show that the rodents have eaten more than 30 per cent of the range grass with forage losses of more than three million dollars.

Now these grazing lands are posted copiously with signs which read as follows:

"Coyotes Protected — No hunting, shooting, trapping or poisoning coyotes on this land."

As I say, all too many of us learn about Nature's balance the hard way.

SEA LAMPREY

You who read the outdoor news know that the sea lamprey is a predatory eel which has come in from the Atlantic to make its home in the Great Lakes. It has just about ruined the commercial fisheries of that region. This parasite fastens itself to the side of a fish — whitefish, lake trout or what have you — and bores right into the fish's guts.

Government biologists have been trying for the past several years to find a practical method for the control and eventual eradication of this pest. At first, it seemed like a hopeless task. But research, better, engineering and a great deal of hard work have brought success. I'll give a bright and hopeful light on a dark picture.

The sea lamprey, for its spawning area, chooses the muddy bottom of a stream. From there on the spawning to the mature eel there is a space of four years. The baby lamprey will spend this time in the mud. Knowing this, it was the job of the biologists first to concentrate the spawning grounds and then to kill the little lampreys.

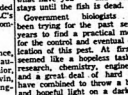
Concentration of the spawning grounds was effected by the use of dams, weirs, traps, floods and mechanical failure keep these from being used. It is a good idea but they do a pretty thorough job of checking migrations despite physical obstacles.

Killing the young lampreys, however, was a somewhat else'll again. Shotgun treatment with a poison such as rotenone. which kills everything obviously was not indicated. The problem was to find a substance, the use of which would kill eels but would have little or no effect 'on fish in the same waters. Finally, it was found.

Over the years between four and five thousand chemical compounds were tried. At long last one has been found which seems to be better than the one so called Dowlap, a product of the Dow Chemical Company.

Dowlap—(whose chemical name is as long as my arm) was given a thorough test last September on a two-mile stretch of Little Billie's Creek, a tributary of Lake Huron. This stream was selected as a good trout and trout producer and, happily, the effect of the chemical on trout and other game fish was negligible.

Examination of a caged group of young lamprey, set in the stream and living under the same conditions as their wild relatives, indicated a 52 per cent kill, with all indications that a final kill of more than 95 per cent could be expected.



To be sure, lamprey elimination has been and will continue to be an expensive process, but if their work can restore even to a 50 per cent status the Great Lakes fisheries, which used to be a multi-million-dollar business, then the money is well spent.

It is doubtful that complete eradication of the lamprey will be achieved, but indications are that the operation can be as high as 95 to 98 per cent effective. So, the Great Lakes fisheries can be established. Let us hope that the job can be done and done quickly.

HANDS TRAVEL AGENCY—

E. L. (Buck) Rogers, late of Johnson Motors, has come up with a new idea. To us it seems like a good one. The firm which puts this idea into practice is called Outdoor Vacations, Inc. Buck is the head of the firm. This is where he is:

You, as a sportsman, are interested in looking over places for hunting when your vacation time rolls around. Instead of browsing through magazine advertisements, writing for information, making "blind" inquiries, etc., all you do is walk into your favorite sporting goods store and look over the suggestions of Outdoor Vacations, Inc.

The resorts offered by Buck and his outfit have been selected as offering the best in fishing and or hunting, comfortable quarters, etc., at prices which are not exorbitant. In other words, Buck's recommendations give you your money's worth.

Now, I don't like to tell you where to go; also, Buck will make your reservations for you. He will come up with such vital information as the proper equipment needed, transportation facilities, maps, and advice as to clothing. The company even offers a "how to" book later" plan, which will help you finance your vacation.

The idea is a novel one. It is free to all comers, and it makes a worthwhile service. Here's wishing Buck and his company all success.

FLORIDA'S BIG EXPERIMENT

During the past five years, many of the fishing waters and streams of the various states have instituted reclamation proceedings by the use of rotenone. In practically waters from what previously had been indifferent or bad fishing water. After all, what with the profound increase in interest in fishing on the part of the public, we need every square foot of fishing water that can be found to meet the demand.

By the end of 1956, nearly 152,000 acres of fishing waters had been reclaimed. The State of Washington was first in this activity but its lead has been taken away by Florida in the largest operation of this sort on record—

Parent Body Frowns on Golf Gambling

TORONTO (CP) — The Royal Canadian Golf Association has officially frowned on gambling in connection with tournaments.

The RCGA annual meeting Friday passed a resolution urging all member clubs, all golf associations "and all other sponsors of golf competitions to prohibit gambling in connection with tournaments."

The resolution said the RCGA would deny amateur status or refuse entry for RCGA championships to players whose activities in the opinion of the association "to be contrary to the best interests of golf."

It was announced that a Canadian team would compete in the 1958 Commonwealth matches and that the 1959 Canadian amateur championship would be played at the Y a r d l e y Marine Drive course.

Jack Blair of Winnipeg was elected RCGA president. Harold W. Davis of Kingston is second vice-president.

REACHES PEAK

The meeting was told junior golf development reached its highest peak in Canada last year. Number of competitions attending clinics set records in every province.

Past president Charlie Watson, in charge if junior development, said: "Nothing would be impossible without funds raised from the national golf tournament. Receipts from the event last year set a record. Gross take was $60,000, after expenses, $30,902 was distributed among various provincial associations.

The 1958 championships will be played this year at the Macdonald Jr. Tournament, starting Aug. 20. The 1958 amateur tournament has been scheduled for Scarboro, a stiburban Toronto course, July 21 to 26.

treatment of 31,000-acre Lake Apopka.

Back in 1924-27 it was our good fortune to spend many pleasant hours fishing for the big bass of Lake Apopka. At that time, we lived in Orlando, only a short drive from the lake. The fishing was not only fair as compared with other less convenient lakes, but it was handy, there were plenty of boats, so we fished it now and then.

Naturally the waters of Apopka were taken over by the gizzard shad whose numbers increased out of all proportion. The bass fishing went from fair to poor to bad, and, finally to abominable. The Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission set out to do something about it.

Florida's Cabinet released $32,000 from a special appropriation and the boys went to work. They selected a place which would kill shad but do little harm to bass. Using airplanes, airboats and outboards, approximately 65,000 gallons of fish toxicant was forced into the lake's waters. Only a handful of bass was killed, but over one-half million pounds of dead gizzard shad — roughly one pound per surface acre — were left floating on the surface.

What the effects will be on the quality of the fishing in Apopka is as yet undetermined. The probabilities are that it will be profound. Rest assured that the Commission will see to it that it does not.

It is a bold and imaginative venture. We will await the eventual outcome with much interest. Meanwhile, here's wishing them all the luck in the world.

Lesser Lights Share Perch In Tucson Open 2nd Round

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Lesser-known pros held the spotlight today as the $15,000 Tucson Open went into the third round.

Tony Lema, 23-year-old rookie from Napa, Calif., ended Jack Burke's big names, and Bill Johnston, who spends most of his time as a club pro in Provo, Utah, led the field after 36 holes with 134. That's nine under par for the 6,434-yard, par-70 El Rio layout.

Jim Riggins, Anderson, S.C., who has never finished better than 17th in a major event, is only a stroke behind with 135.

All three of them had to shoot par 35 consecutive rounds of their pro careers to stay in front.

In close pursuit are some better-known players. At 136, seven under par, are Stan Leonard, the Canadian star from Vancouver and Lachiute, Que.; Manuel de la Torre, Milwaukee, Wis.; Lionel Hebert, Lafayette, La., the current PGA champion; and Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, recent winner of the Los Angeles Open.

Leonard sank a 25-foot putt for an eagle three on the 18th and a six-under-par 64 his second round. It was the best score of the day.

The field was cut to the low 60 pros and 10 amateurs. Pros three over par for the 36 holes were eliminated. The final round will be played Sunday.

Canadian hopefuls Leonard and Wilson, just returned from a tour of Scotland and other maritime provinces, said Friday night:

"Canada Newfoundland people are more interested and know more about the Canadian golf scene, than people around here.

"However, on the whole tour I watched about 1,000 Hockey-playing kids and only about two could class with youngsters of their own category up this way."

Johnston, 33, who reached the semi-finals of the PGA in 1956, earned his tie for the second round last night.

HAD TO WAIT

He had to wait 20 minutes, because of a pile-up, to start the 510-yard, par 5-18th.

"I got nervous waiting," he said. "I knew I had to get a birdie to force the lead and I didn't know, here I was going to play the hole."

His second shot went behind a tree. The ball was so close to the trunk that when he hooked it around the tree with a No. 6 iron the club hit the trunk and bent. But the ball landed within five feet of the pin.

"It was a one-in-a-million shot that came off," he grinned. He sank the putt for a birdie 4, an 18-hole score of 67, three under par, and a tie with Lema.

Hockey Pro Potential Poor In 'Newfie'

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Wilson, chief scout of Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, says hockey interest is high in Newfoundland but the hockey potential "poor."

Wilson, just returned from a tour of Newfoundland and other maritime provinces, said Friday night:

"Most Newfoundland people are more interested and know more about the National Hockey League, than people around here.

"However, on the whole tour I watched about 1,000 Hockey-playing kids and only about two could class with youngsters of their own category up this way."

On Dog Teams and Deadlines

The legend that a newspaperman will do almost anything to get a story has more than some basis in fact.

Take James Y. Nicol of the Toronto Star. To get an interesting story on the NEW line, he flew north, hired a dog team, and proceeded by dog sled 400 miles along the Arctic shore.

Nicol's three doings in search of stories are almost commonplace to the Toronto Star bureau chief. He has travelled to get there first and get the facts. That's why 15 Star newsmen were converging in a chartered airliner to cover a jet crash. Why once, an entire train was chartered to take one Star man to interview survivors of a shipwreck.

To get the news, no expense or trouble is too great for the paper. That's why so many people find the Toronto Star the greatest . . . the most interesting newspaper they've ever read!

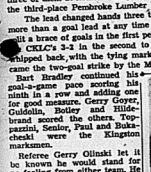
McFarlands Snatch 6-4 Win Over Kingston With 2 Last-Minute Goals

Lionel Botley Fires Winner Hildebrand Gets Clincher In Thrilling Senior Battle



By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Two rapid-fire goals in the last 18 seconds broke up a 4-4 stalemate in a fast, furious, but typical Kingston-Belleville senior "A" game here last night, and gave the McFarlands a 6-4 victory before nearly 3,000 fans.

Lionel Botley, Macs' defenceman, scored the winner with a minute and 27 seconds to go in the third period when his slithering slapshot from the blueline hopped crazily and beat Davis in the Kingston nets. Playing coach Ike Hildebrand raced away down right wing seconds later, cut across the goalmouth, and whipped the puck home to clinch the win.

The victory enhanced the Macs' chances to overtake the top-spot Whitby Dunlops who finished the schedule with 57 points. The McFarlands now have 52 with seven games to play, in three of them at home. They are now eleven points in front of the third-place Pembroke Lumber Kings.

The lead changed hands three times with neither club having more than a goal lead at any time until the finish. The teams more than a goal lead at any time until the finish. The teams scrapped a brace of goals in the first period with the Macs outscoring CKLC's 3-2 in the second to take a 4-3 lead. Kingston whipped back, with the tying marker at 14:38 in the third, then came the two-goal strike by the Macs and that was that.

LIONEL BOTLEY . . .

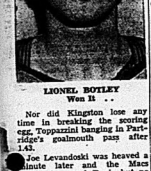
GERRY GOYER
Good Man Friday

Burt Bradley continued his great goaltending form, making 36 saves in the game, and adding one more to his goal-a-game pace scoring his ninth in a row and adding one for good measure. Gerry Goyer, Lionel Botley and Hilde-Guidolin, Botley and Hilde-brand scored the others. Top-pazzini, Senior, Paul and Buka-cheski were the Kingston marksmen.

Referee Gerry Olinski let it be known he would stand for no fooling from either team. He handed out ten penalties in a fast and furious first period, one a misconduct to the Macs Bep Guidolin.

Referee Olinski's first-period coolness with job had its effects in a fast and furious second period, the gladiators earning only one penalty, that one going to Gaul-thier.

Midway through the period Kingston went into the lead with Youngberg setting up Linesman neatly. The winger parlied a perfect pass to Don Senior whose low shot beat Bell.



Gauthier got his sentence at this point and the Macs poured the power on with Bart Bradley putting the Macs one up after poking a loose puck in the net following a Guidolin scramble. The McFarlands repeated the manouvre three minutes later with Gerry Goyer slipping the loose rubber over the goal-line to put the McFarlands into a 3-2 lead.

The CKLC's battled hard in close-checking play and with their offensive at its height Bob Paul blasted a screened shot from the blueline that Bell did not see. Paul was bodied heavily by Marineau as he let the shot go and struck his head in the ice when he got off for repairs.

Benoit blasted a sizzling slap-shot off Kingston post and Colvin returned the favour almost a minute later. With time passing out Gerry Goyer shot a perfect goalmouth pass to Guidolin whose low corner drive gave the Macs a 4-3 edge.

The teams maintained the fast pace in the third period both taking over the offensive and both missing from close in. The McFarlands had an edge in the play outshooting the CKLC's 17-14 while overall they fired 44 shots at Davis with the CKLC's hitting Bell with 32.

Joey Lopes Wins Easily Over Collazo

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Joey Lopes, scrappy lightweight from Sacramento, Calif., overwhelmed Cuba's Olimpio Collazo by a unanimous 10-round decision Friday night. Both weighed 134½.

The tireless Lopes, considered a contender for the division title, was bothered by a disadvantage in height but slowed Collazo with punishing body blows and looping rights and lefts.

Collazo suffered his first set-back in 15 fights. In spite of the record, the Cuban was no match for the fancy little Californian.

The victory was the 43rd for the veteran Lopes. He has had 14 losses and fought to three draws. Collazo's record now is 43-10-2.

when they did everything but score the CKLC's roared back and on a neatly executed three-way passing play Bukacheski fired in the tying marker with Colvin and Anderson in on the play.

Play raced from end to end with both goalies having narrow escapes and Davis good on stopping Bradley and Brown on breakaways. Near period end the home-team crowd and their power in an effort to break the deadlock backfired came up with their second two-goal strike that clinched the verdict.

Fourteen penalties were handed out eight to them to the CKLC's with the former scoring each coming in the last two periods.

Nature's Balance Still Prevails

A couple of times, during the past year, I have taken occasion to commented on the unwise deeds of amateur conservationists. With a little wildlife management and little or no experience, these busy bodies barge in, fill speed ahead and then suddenly find themselves in over their waders. This time it happened in Colorado.

In that state, there is a group of cattlemen which controls more than 200,000 acres of land. There were a good many coyotes on this property and these predators did make some inroads among the young stock each spring. Without consulting a biologist, the cattlemen instituted a poisoning campaign to clean up the coyotes.

The campaign was successful—eagles, weasels, a n d coyotes virtually disappeared from the range. With all natural controls gone rodents, particularly the pocket gopher, began to increase unchecked. Estimates show that the rodents have eaten more than 30 per cent of the range forage. The forage losses of more than three million dollars.

Now these grazing lands are populated only with signs which read as follows:

"Coyotes Protected — No hunting, shooting, trapping or poisoning of coyotes on this land."

As say, not too many of us learn about Nature's balance the hard way.

SEA LAMPREY

You who read the outdoor news know that the sea lamprey that periodically eel will come in from the Atlantic to make its home in the Great Lakes, has just about ruined the commercial fisheries of that region. This predatory fish is fatal to the side of a fish — whitefish, lake trout or salmon. It rasps and then sucks until the fish is dead.

Government biologists have been trying for the past several years to find a practical method for the control or eventual eradication of this pest. At first, it seemed like a hopeless task but research, electronic engineering and a great deal of hard work have made progress. There is light and hopeful light on a dark picture.

The sea lamprey, for its spawning area, chooses the muddy bottom of a flowing stream. There the spawning by the mature eel there is a space of four years. The baby lamprey spend this time in the mud. Knowing this, it was the job of the biologists first to concentrate on the spawning grounds and then to kill the little lampreys.

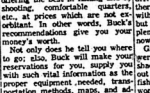
Concentration of the spawning grounds was effected by the use of electric barriers. True, these mechanical failure keep these from using 100 per cent effective, but they do a pretty thorough job of checking migrations despite physical difficulties.

Killing the young lampreys, however, was more difficult and again, Shotgun treatment with a poison such as rotenone, which kills everything obnoxious, was not indicated. The problem was to find a selective poison, one that would kill eels but would have little or no effect on fish in the same waters. That, too, has been done.

Over the years between four and five thousand chemical compounds were tried. At long last one has been found which seems to be better than the rest. It's called Dowlap, a product of the Dow Chemical Company.

This compound (whose chemical name is as long as my arm) was given a thorough test last September on a two-mile stretch of Little Billie's Creek, a tributary of Lake Huron. This stream has long been listed as a good trout producer and, happily, the effect of the chemical on trout and other game fish was negligible.

Examination of a caged group of young lamprey, set in the stream and living under the same conditions as their wild relatives, indicated a 92 per cent kill, with all indications that a final kill of more than 95 per cent could be expected.



So far sure, lamprey elimination has been and will continue to be an expensive process, but if this work can restore even to a 50 per cent status the Great Lakes fisheries, which used to be a multi-million-dollar business, then the money is well invested.

It is doubtful that complete eradication of the lamprey will be achieved, but indications are that the operation can be as high as 95 to 98 per cent efficient. If so, the Great Lakes fisheries can be re-established. Let us hope that the job can be done and done quickly.

HANDY TRAVEL AGENCY—

E. L. (Buck) Rogers, late of Johnson Motors, has come up with a new idea for us fishermen like a good one. The firm which puts this idea into practice is called Outdoor Vacations, Inc. Buck is the head of the firm. His is now at Skokie.

You, as a sportsman, are interested in looking over a number of territory when your vacation time rolls around. Instead of browsing through magazine advertisements, writing for information, making "blind" selections, etc., all from your desk in your favorite sporting goods store and look over the suggestions of Outdoor Vacations, Inc.

The reports offered by Buck and his staff have been selected as offering the best in fishing and or shooting, comfortable quarters, etc., at prices which are not exorbitant. In other words, Buck's recommendations give you your money's worth.

Not only does he tell you where to go; also, Buck will make your reservations for you, supply you with such vital information as the proper equipment needed, transportation methods, maps, and advice as to clothing. The company even offers a "do it yourself" plan, which will help you finance your vacation.

This is a novel one. It is free to all comers, and it makes a handy service. Here's wishing Buck and his company all success.

FLORIDA'S BIG EXPERIMENT

During the past five years, many of the Conservation Departments of various states have instituted reclamation proceedings in order to make good fishing waters from what previously had been indifferent or lethal fishing waters. After all, what with the profound increase in interest in fishing on the part of the public, we need every square foot of fishing water that can be found to help meet the demand.

By the end of 1956, nearly 153,000 acres of fishing waters had been reclaimed. The State of Washington was first in this activity and Buck's head has been taken away by Florida in the largest operation of this sort on record—

Indians Bow 9-3 To Rochester; Bisons Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester Americans were in fourth place in the American thanks to their fastest goal-output of the season.

The Amerks, who have been in a personal battle with the Springfield Indians for fourth spot, licked the Tribe Friday night, 9-3.

In the only other AHL action of the night, Providence Reds struck for three goals in the first period and wound up with a 5-3 decision over the last-place Buffalo Bisons.

Ab McDonald was the big man in the Amerks' victory, finding the range for three goals. Earl Balfour had two goals and Ron Hurst, Skippy Burchell, Gerry James and Mike Nykoluk accounted for the rest of the Rochester scoring.

Two Springfield goals were by Cal Gardner. Floyd Smith scored the third Indian goal.

In the other game newcomer Ray Ross stepped off a plane after a 1,500-mile trip from Saskatoon and scored the first Providence goal. Ted Hampson, Bruce Carmichael, with two, and Paul Larivee completed the Providence scoring.

Buffalo's scorers were Wally Hergesheimer, with two, and Don Ingram.

STONE WRITING

Petroglyphics, possibly the work of ancient Indians, are found at Writing-On-Stone Park, Alberta.

Minor Hockey

Four games were played in the peewee section of the BMHA this morning with Bruins and Black Hawks recording victories while the other two games ended in ties.

The Canadiens and Rangers fought to a 0-0 deadlock, the leading Habs' second scoreless tie in three weeks.

Maple Leafs and Red Wings also battled to a deadlock, this one ending at 1-1. Larry Stewart fired the Wing goal with Dwight Rathwell assisting. Charles Butler scored for the Leafs with Paul Sharpe earning the assist.

Black Hawks inched closer to first place by blanking the Browns 3-0. Richard Evers scored twice with Forest Smith getting the other goal. Jerry Muldoon and Bill Elliott had single assists.

Bruins racked up the biggest score of the morning, whipping the Barons 7-2. Seven players shared the Bruin goals, one each going to Gary Rutherford, Jimmie Guire, Gordon Mathiegon, Mickey Arnold, Peter Pearce, Karl Hannah and Doug Stickle. Hannah added a pair of assists with one each for McGuire, Rutherford and Bill Leslie.

Freddie Robinson scored one of the Baron goals and assisted on the other. Bob Leppan also scored and Walter Clare had an assist.

GOOD POSITION

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — A great third-wicket partnership of 158 runs between Jim Burke and Richie Benaud carried Australia into the good position of 217 runs for four wickets on the first day of the fourth cricket test against South Africa Friday.

TV NOTEBOOK
By JOHN WETTLAUFER
As anyone who has replaced a picture tube can tell you, the big eye is the most costly single component in a TV set.
There have been several variations of the picture tube to hit the market in recent years. Among these are the "aluminized" tubes which have an aluminum coating behind the phosphors which produce light on the screen. The aluminizing process produces a somewhat brighter picture by preventing light absorption inside the tube.
Let's forget aluminized tubes for the moment and talk of a gold-plated opportunity to get your weary old set working like new. CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 368 Coleman St., specializes in coaxing like-new performance from old sets. If your set is in need of expert attention, try CIRCLE TV SERVICE for top-quality work — always. AT THE PARK — Robert Bray as Mike Hammer, the famous Mickey Spillane "private eye" fights a fist-and-claw battle for survival in the newest Spillane story to reach the screen, "My Gun Is Quick", presented by Victor Saville and opening Monday at the Park Theatre. On the same program, second thriller "Jungle Beat", starring Rex Barker and Mari Blanchard. Both dramas are first showings.

AT THE BELLE — Elvis Presley, portraying an ex-jailbird who becomes a sensational recording star after he is released from prison, has his first records arrive at a music shop by special delivery in MGM's "Jailhouse Rock". Judy Tyler is Elvis' "special deliverer" in more ways than one. Elvis Presley is at his greatest in "Jailhouse Rock", showing with a new Tom & Jerry Cartoon comedy.

Teaming of Fisher, Gobel Has Proven Mixed Blessing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Last fall, Eddie Fisher and George Gobel started an interesting experiment in television.

The singer and the comic proposed to conduct hour-long variety shows in the same Tuesday night time slot on alternate weeks. Plus which Eddie would be a guest on the George Gobel show and vice versa.

The results have been a mixed blessing. Some of the Fisher-Gobel shows have been among the best in the variety field this season. Some have been downright dull. The ratings have been capricious. Some weeks the boys have amassed a respectable total, but most of the time they have been shot down by the gunslingers on opposing networks.

Eddie Fisher, a no-nonsense kind of a guy, talked frankly about the results of the experiment:

"I think we've done pretty well, but I don't think we'll ever beat the cowboy shows. That's what the audience wants the most these days.

"George and I have made out pretty well, I believe, considering the fact that we aren't in best chemistry in the world. I don't mean we don't get along personally; I love George. But I don't think we're the best combination of talents.

"We're both shy type of entertainer, and that doesn't go too well together. In a team, you've got to have one who is predominant, an extrovert.

"I don't really feel we'll continue with this format next season. I was willing to trying, but I believe it is too much exposure for only one performer. It's also too much work. I work hard enough on my own show, then I have to turn around and work on George's.

"Another thing—it's too hard to write shows like ours. When we each work on each other's shows, the writers have to come up with the same kinds of situations. There's not enough flexibility."

Eddie is NBC's boy and his services have already been reserved for next season. How he will be used is not decided yet. Th singer himself yearns for less exposure and foresees the day when TV will be more like the movies, with stars doing a handful of well-prepared shows a year.

Analyzing carefully what it is that makes others successful can today result in applying the same methods in your own life. Also, a fine day for scientists, investigators. P.M. be very devoted to loved one.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Commiserating and wise pals today will assist you in getting better results from your labors, artistic endeavors. Be grateful and understand their needs, too. Lend a helping hand, give a word of praise, etc.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Give your attention today to all those things you must do with the public which will result in gaining greater prestige, even fame. You have the power to do your best work. Get at it now!

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Do your best to go out of town today on that mission, business trip that will bring about the results you desire. Combine with some fine bit of sport, too, fishing, hunting, etc. Meet wonderful new people.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — At last a day to take inventory and realize what your potential is in matters financial, and to make a fine impression on those who would bet on you to succeed in some venture. P.M. be devoted, loving and kind.

If your child is born today... The fascinating little child born today is the type who will charm the gods themselves, plus bringing joy and happiness into the lives of sad souls. Hence, plan education carefully to give full expression to such vital qualities, without their degenerating into simply maudlin sentimentality. Fine chart for the artist, too, the artisan who loves perfection in everything.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, February 8

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — A delightful, happy day is possible today with all associates, family ties, comrades if you do your part of being sociable instead of being so standoffish. P.M. fine indeed for romance and marriage.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Talking seriously about how and where to add little touches of beauty, a bit of music to your daily living will bring about big benefits in connection with all others today. Get clothing and health up to par.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — At long last here is a day in which you can be truly happy. Indulge in your favorite sports, contact beloved persons and have a fine luncheon or dinner, go to some party of elegance. Be a social lion now.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — This should be your "At Home" day, when in A. M. you can add the touch of fresh flowers, new bric-a-brac, etc., and then entertain beautifully. Cement a fine deal in this delightful fashion and make a lifelong friend, too.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Here is the right day to accomplish much in the world of activity, though it may be big business, social calls, sports, beautification. Fine for purchases, gathering data, calling on the sick, also.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — The right psychological time is now in which to go over all your holdings' and possessions, see where improvements can and should be made, and get right to work on them. Be sensible and wise, not fanciful.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A great day for thinking of yourself for a change. Contact all those who can assist you in every way, especially with regard to finances, better social standing. P. M. meet with comrades for a jolly, happy time.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Here is the right day to accomplish much in the world of activity, though it may be big business, social calls, sports, beautification. Fine for purchases, gathering data, calling on the sick, also.

TENDERS

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO

CONSTRUCTION OF AN AREA OFFICE BUILDING AND AN AREA SERVICE BUILDING AT KINGSTON, ONTARIO

SEALED TENDERS, in triplicate, addressed to the Secretary, Queen's University Avenue, Toronto 2, Ontario, will be received for

TENDER FOR AN AREA OFFICE BUILDING AND AN AREA SERVICE BUILDING AT KINGSTON, ONTARIO" will be received up to 4.30 o'clock p.m., Eastern Standard Time, on

TUESDAY, March 4, 1958,

for the construction to full completion of an area office building and an area service building at Kingston, Ontario. The office building will be a one-storey brick building containing a floor area of 40 feet, with full basement, and the service building will be a one-storey concrete block building approximately 60 feet by 100 feet, with concrete floor. The time limit to complete in all trades and ready for occupancy is 180 working days.

Tendering documents may be obtained on deposit of $25.00 after 1958, at the office of the Secretary, Queen's University Avenue, Toronto, on payment of $25.00 per set, which sum will be refunded on the return within 14 days after the opening of tenders of such set in good condition. The Commission reserves the right to reject any or all tenders. Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque drawn on a Canadian chartered bank payable to the order of The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario in the amount of 10 per cent of the total amount of the tender, as security for the return of the cheque to the successful tenderer on execution of contract.

The successful tenderer may be required to furnish a performance bond in the form prescribed by the Commission and issued by a surety company licensed as such in the Province of Ontario and acceptable to the Commission, for one hundred per cent of the total amount of the contract.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

E. B. EASSON,
Secretary.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, February 9

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—A.M. hours bring a wonderful friend with some surprise, and most valuable ideas and advice. Accept gladly. In late P.M. and day conditions change, requiring great care on your part. Be economical.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Morning is fine time for fellow worker does something very nice for you. You then start feeling much better physically. Must take it very easy the rest of the day, avoid any accidents, digestages. Rest.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—The earliest part of the day is blessed by a much - needed expression of love. Take care, however, that in- latter part of the day you do not get caught in the web of some emotional individual. Zip your purse.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — Spend morning hours putting abode in most perfect order. A bit of unpleasantness arises later. See that you steer clear of it. Show others you're wisdom in being able to forgive and forget. Be sublime.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — If you get off to the church or temple of your choice, the talk there will have a wonderful influence upon your life. — For later in day, if you are invited, some chicanery could unbalance you otherwise. Be fortified.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)—Here is a day when the fine standards and ideals that were brought up will stand you in great stead. Don't forget to thank your God for your blessings. Be factual. Don't brag, but build on what you have.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A. M. a fine intuition awaits you so act upon it immediately. Pals may cause you to be over elated one moment, depressed the next. Achieve perfect equilibrium or you get into trouble. Be logical.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 22)—Here is the right hunch you have awaited so long. Don't procrastinate. Follow it! Fine results are certain. Later, be careful not to plunge unwisely. Avoid partymoments on necessary work.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Earliest morning hours are the best in which to acquire whatever is needed. A must will mean your greater success in life. At' any rate, make that call, visit. Later, simply observe, for much is brewing.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — An unexpected occurence in A. M. gives you a clearer picture of your standing with other persons. Be careful of your conduct, and preserve your position of prestige. See that bills are paid up.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Contact immediately the person who is capable of giving you much-needed, proper advice, the earlier the better. Later, take care you do not fall into the "I'-the-wrip. It has never been caught, so why try?

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—A splendid thought or plan occurs to you in A. M. Act upon it immediately. Then relax and watch it materialize as you devote time to reading the greatest Scriptures. P. M. don't antagonize lover.

If your child is born today ... The fine child born today will amaze others with the keen mind and perceptive apparent and actual very early in life. Be certain to give a long, formal education both scientific and spiritual, if you have to borrow the money, for there is a great efficiency in this horoscope. Latter life is fraught with situations, a challenge to this fine individual, which will be met wonderfully.

Moose Need Lots of Room To Eat or Will Starve to Death

By GERRY McNEIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta moose need a lot of room when they eat, or they can starve to death in no time.

"One or two per square mile can be a crowd," says Bob Webb, 9 - year - old provincial game biologist, whose job it is to see that the moose don't eat themselves out of existence.

At a rough estimate 50,000 of these sleepy-looking kings of the forest amble in Alberta, mostly in the foothills or the sparsely-populated northern areas.

Sedentary animals, ideally adapted to north temperature climates, they may move only two miles from their birthplace in their lifetime. Ranging in weight from 600 to 1,200 pounds, standing taller than a man, they are still seldom seen.

The difficult part for the hunters is to find the moose," said Bob. "Killing him is usually easy."

They are the most desired of Alberta's big game animals. In 1956, hunters bagged 4,507 moose, compared with 3,379 deer and 1,310 elk.

Despite the big bill, biologists say the moose population was large enough to permit an open season on cows in 1957. An estimated 1,000 were killed, along with 4,000 to 5,000 bulls.

"We try hard to balance the herd through hunting seasons to keep them at the population in line with an abundance of nutritious foods," the biologist explained.

BIG APPETITES

Moose are heavy eaters. When they run out of hardwood—birch and willow—they have to turn to less nutritious foods.

"When they browse too heavily," says Bob, "they injure them, cutting down their winter food. If an area is closely browsed, it means too many moose are around.

"Some areas can support more moose than others. That's why a northern season may be longer than one in the foothills."

George Holroyd makes aerial surveys in the winter to determine the number of new calves and the number of moose in an area. In the summer, they check browse conditions.

When winter comes in areas that have been overbrowsed, the moose is forced to eat foods that aren't good for him, parasites multiply and he weakens considerably.

NATURAL REMEDY

Other methods besides controlled hunting keep moose feeding areas from becoming overcrowded. Timber operations for instance open forest areas to new growth on which moose thrive. Forest fires used to serve this purpose.

"The Indians knew this," says Webb, "and they would burn out areas to restore feeding moose populations. Any area can support more moose after a burn."

Science knows the process as forced succession. Grasses and moose love fresh new growth on cleared area. Then come the alder birch and willow trees followed by pine and aspen. Spruce and fir constitute the forest until old age, fire or man removes it.

Treaty Indians in Alberta, not subject to game seasons, and far north residents, shoot many moose for food and year round. Predators like wolves, mostly killed in recent years, present fierce problems to the modern moose.

"Eventually we'll probably have to restrict licensing," says Bob, "but right now the moose shot in our six-week season play a big part in balancing the herd."

Spent Pleasant Hour Picking Money off Trees

BROOKLYN, Wis. (AP) — A 16-year - old farm boy walking home from school spent a pleasant hour picking money off trees.

Seems that a mail pouch bearing $13,500 consigned to the Brooklyn State Bank was tossed from a non-stop train, but instead of landing on the station platform was sucked under the speeding wheels.

The mishap went unnoticed until Warren Fleisman startled walking home along the railroad tracks. He saw some green paper on undertrunk along the right of way. Money.

Warren walked back to the village and talked it over with village marshal Donald Ferris. Then they both went back and walked along the tracks.

The two between them found $13,485 of the missing $13,500.

Seven players and the coach

The Week's News

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Politicians were on the hop, preparing for the general election March 31.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's official campaign begins next week, but he unleashed a pre-election barrage by announcing the start of a $250,000,000 spending program to combat unemployment.

The Progressive Conservative minority government said the public works program will start with a $12,000,000 development at the port of St. John's, Nfld., and a $20,000 engineering study of the long - proposed $50,000,000 causeway to link Prince Edward Island with the mainland.

Liberal Leader L. B. Pearson said "jobs and trade" are his party's main campaign issues. The Liberals also accused the government of refusing to deal with unemployment "except in isolated measures."

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell termed Diefenbaker's public works program just "one of those pre-election promises." And he predicted he will outline the Progressive Conservatives nor the Liberals will succeed in getting an over-all majority in the 265-seat Commons.

STRIKE DANGER

A royal commission report hit Canada's rail transport industry with the impact of a chain-reaction bomb.

The commission said after a prolonged study that Canadians are not needed on CPR yard and freight diesels — an issue that could end a nation-wide strike on the CPR in January, 1957.

The CNR immediately served notice that it will seek the power to drop firemen from such services.

W. E. Gamble, Canadian chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) says meeting a paralyzing deadlock if the two transcontinental railways insist on removing firemen from freight and yard operations.

AIR TRAGEDY

A British plane rose 60 feet over the airport perimeter at Munich, West Germany, then faltered, fell, crashed through a two-storey house and hurtled into a shed containing gasoline and oil.

Twenty-one persons died in the resulting inferno, a tragedy that plunged the soccer world into mourning.

Seven players and the coach of the famed British Manchester United Soccer club were among the dead, and others were injured. Twenty-three persons survived.

The twin-engined Elizabethan plane was making its third attempt at takeoff when the accident occurred.

A woman and four children died in the house the plane hit, but escaped injury.

SPUTNIK NEWS

As the United States rejoiced at its success in placing its first earth satellite, the Explorer, into orbit, an attempt to launch a second baby moon ended in spectacular failure.

The Vanguard satellite rocket blasted off its base at Cape Canaveral, Fla., apparently according to plan, and rose for 57 seconds—then flew apart.

The U.S. Navy said the failure —its second—was caused by a wiring defect.

The Explorer was launched by the army and its success prompted a renewed speculation about "shooting the moon."

POLAR JOURNEY

Vivian Fuchs, leader of the expedition, arrived at Depot 700 on his journey across the polar continent.

That meant he and his party had completed two-thirds of his 2,100-mile march across the continent, using to beat winter and brave dangerous crevasses. He then prepared to tackle the remaining 1,000 miles to Scott Base on the coast.

No man has ever made the trans-polar trip.

ARAB UNION

The United Arab Republic was formed in the Middle East, joining Egypt and Syria in a single state with President Nasser at its head.

Both parliaments of the two countries met separately and roared approval of the terms of the union, and Yemen also negotiated to associate itself with the union.

Nasser termed the union a "sunrise" for Arabs, the beginning of a new era of unity and peace.

The provisional constitution permits Nasser to name his own ministers, appoint deputies to the national assembly from both Syria and Egypt and name executive councils to run the two areas.

REBEL THREAT

Army and civilian insurgents in Indonesia threatened to fight if necessary to set up a separate government in Sumatra unless the central administration in Java meets their terms.

But President Sukarno, Indonesian president who was on a "health tour" in Japan, brushed aside the activity of the rebels as natural growing pains in a new nation.

The rebels sent a delegation to Sukarno warning him to throw Communists out of his government or they would establish a second government in oil-rich Sumatra, which is near Malaya.

They said 6,000 rebel troops will hold war manoeuvres today and that they are willing to fight to have their way in the 3,000-island republic, formed in 1949.

Tunisia May Ask United Nations Act In Bombing

U.S. and Britain Worried By Explosive Situation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Tunisia deliberated today whether to ask for United Nations Security Council action after the French bombing of a Tunisian frontier village.

Both the United States and Britain voiced concern over the explosive situation, but expressed hope it could be smoothed over.

In Paris, Premier Felix Gaillard's cabinet ended a day of low-key military men to embroil the country in a serious diplomatic battle. He called a special meeting of his cabinet.

Tunisia appealed through Mongi Slim delivered a protest from his General Day Hammarskjold Sunday. Slim told reporters Tunisia is studying means of putting the matter before the council — the highest body in the UN.

CALLED WAR ACT

In Tunisia, rumors were cries the French had committed an act of war. The French claim the bombing was a isolated military move to wipe out anti-aircraft positions manned by Algerian rebels inside Tunisia. The Tunisians claim 70 persons were killed and 84 wounded in the daylight raid Saturday on Sakiet Sidi Youssef.

The U.S. state department said it was "greatly disturbed" over the attack. In London, the British foreign office said it heard with "grave concern" of the bombing and strafing by a force of 28 French warplanes.

"We deplore the loss of life," the foreign office statement said. "We consider it our duty in the interests of both sides to show restraint and caution."

SCHOOLS BOMBED

Nehi Ladghani, Tunisian state secretary, said at a funeral for 58 of the victims that schools and homes had been bombed.

Tunisia charged that a Swedish Red Cross official who watched from the town's outskirts as the 25 French warplanes bombed and strafed for an hour, said, "I will never forget the horrible sight of Sakiet Women and children lay dead in the street."

The attack came at the height of the market hour while the streets were crowded.

American and British officials were t openly fearful that the French action had been a serious blow to the U.S. position in the Arab world.

Tunisia's President Habib Bourguiba, regarded in Washington and London as a good friend of the West, demanded that the French immediately withdraw the 20,000 troops that remained in Tunisia after the protectorate's grant of independence from France in 1955. He also demanded that the French give up the naval base at Bizerte, a vital NATO, position.

VEHICLES BANNED

Tunisian Defense Council troops took up station around all French military posts in Tunisia and French military vehicles were banned from all roads.

The Tunis newspaper L'Action, an organ of Bourguiba's ruling Neo-Destour party, accused the French of an act of war and asserted:

PEARSON WOULD CUT TAX LEVIES BY 400 MILLION

Urges Budget Deficit To Check Recession

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson today pledged to slash taxes by $400,000,000 a year and to provide a big array of other concessions if his party is elected to power in June.

He sain the tax reductions would be put ito effect immediately.

His platform, outlined at a press conference following Mr. Pearson's sojourn at a secret retreat, had something for everyone, including substantial boosts in bursaries for some 40,000 university students.

For the majority of Canadian taxpayers, the income tax would be slashed by 15 per cent. In addition the basic exemption for married persons would be doubled to $4,000 a year in the first three years of large, providing an estimated saving of some $85,000,000 for this group.

The 7% per cent excise tax on automobiles would be eliminated, costing the treasury another $80,000,000 a year. The income tax for small business would be reduced by 10 per cent on profits up to $10,000 a year.

EMPLOYMENT SPUR

Depreciation rates for tax purposes would be increased by between 50 and 100 per cent to encourage industry to spend on new construction and provide more jobs.

All this said the 60-year-old Mr. Pearson, the program would necessitate a budget deficit of some $400,000,000 a year. But he emphasized that the Liberals have had to meet a deficit on the national nebt by some $2,500,000,000 in four years and that some of this "saving" should now be put to use to overcome a "serious" economic situation.

The "great national works" program of Prime Minister Diefenbaker would be worthwhile, he added, but he considered that the new Liberal program would be far more useful to alleviate unemployment.

SEES LONG DELAY

"It may take a great many months before a national works program really gets to the point where projects are started, for the cutting of red tape takes longer than months."

Mr. Pearson emphasized also that his proposals flow out of meeting the current economic situation. The situation worsened; tax and other incentives might be widened. If the situation improved, then it's a smaller amount of concessions would be given.

Here is Mr. Pearson's program:

1. The personal income tax would be reduced immediately by 15 per cent, applying to the first $3,000 of taxable income, giving taxpayers about $250,000,000 in relief.

2. Basic tax exemption for married persons would be increased to $4,000 from $2,000 in the first three years of marriage, effective Jan. 1, 1958. This would save couples a maximum of $900 in three years. Overall annual saving would be $25,000,000.

3. The 7½ per cent excise tax on automobiles would be abolished saving car buyers about $60,000,000, if the concession was passed along to them..

English Pub Owner Finally Locates U-Boat Captain Who Saved His Life

POOLE, England (Reuters)—An English saloon keeper today invited a German U-boat commander who torpedoed his freighter in the Second World War to come to England as his guest.

Howard Baker, 47, spent nearly 15 years tracing the submarine commander who saved his life enemy for saving his life after the ship sank.

Baker was skipper of the British steamer Tweed which was sunk in 1941 off West Africa by the U-124 commanded by, Capt. Wilhelm Schultz, 53, of Hamburg.

The Tweed sank so quickly that all the lifeboats could not be launched properly. One was floating upside down with Baker and several seamen clinging to it.

Schultz surfaced his submarine, righted the lifeboat, treated the wounded, gave the survivors food and fuel and course for land 550 miles away.

Baker vowed to find the unknown commander but in the early post-war years was told by the West German government that the submarine captain was dead. But the month ago Baker met a visiting German seaman who knew Schultz and said he was still alive. Baker wrote a Hamburg newspapers which found Schultz.

"He need not have done anything." Baker told patrons of his cozy pub, "but he saved our lives."

Liberal Leader In Ont. Until February 22nd

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson today gave a tentative outline of a seven-week election campaign.

He told a press conference he will be in Espanola, Ont., Wednesday afternoon where he will stand for nomination as Liberal candidate in Algoma East, the riding he represented in the last Parliament.

He will speak in Espanola Thursday after noon, Sudbury, Thursday night and Hamilton Friday night.

Mr. Pearson said details of the rest of the campaign still are being worked out. However, he will remain in Ontario until Feb. 22.

Dana Porter Sworn

TORONTO (CP)—Dana Porter was sworn in today as chief justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario, the province's highest judicial post.

Nearly 200 persons crowded into Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay's office in the Legislative building to watch the ceremony.

Today's Chuckle

The sign in the store window said "Fishing Tickle." The man saw it, went inside and asked the owner: "Hasn't anyone told you about it before?"

"Yes," replied the owner, "many people have droped in to tell me, and they always buy something."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Most of North America east of the Rockies was under the grip of cold Arctic air over the weekend. Strong winds from the northwest are causing considerable drifting snow, closing roads over widespread areas. Snow will continue today over areas of Southern Ontario where high winds are off-lake. Nearly a foot of new snow has fallen in the Ottawa belt areas southeast of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay.

A dying storm in northwestern Quebec has spread snow across Northern Ontario. Temperatures will be about 10 degrees higher today over the northern regions with the mercury expected to get up above the zero mark this afternoon. In the southern regions a high of 15 to 20 is forecast.

A flood of mail and telegrams came to Social Credit MLA Mel Bryan, congratulating him after he stood on the floor of the B.C. legislature and demanded the resignation of attorney-general Robert Bonner. Mr. Bryan sculpted across to sit with the opposition a week later when the government made no comment on his demand. (CP Photo).

Macmillan Willing to Talk If There Is Hope for Accord

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan says he is willing to take part in summit talks with the Russians—but only if they have "a reasonable prospect" of some agreement.

In a note to Soviet Premier Bulganin, Macmillan also called for careful preparation in advance of any top-level meeting.

The Conservative British leader replied to the Russian leader's earlier requests for a summit meeting by saying:

"There must be a reasonable prospect of achieving concrete results on specific issues. Otherwise we should run the risk of a fruitless meeting which might make matters worse and not better.

In his note, delivered in Moscow Saturday and published today, Macmillan outlined two ways to lay the groundwork.

One method—and the one Macmillan said he prefers—would be a foreign ministers' conference. Moscow has regularly turned this down.

The other method suggested by Macmillan would use "confidential diplomatic exchanges," presumably through ambassadors. Moscow radio endorsed this general idea Friday by backing the United States view that adequate preparation is necessary for a summit meeting.

Macmillan cautioned that before the table must have an equal right to submit its own agenda items.

Macmillan's comments came after a meeting with a world-defined agenda to the results of the 1955 summit conference at Geneva: "One of the main reasons for why we then achieved so little was that the ground had not been sufficiently prepared before."

Macmillan endorsed President Eisenhower's suggestion for a discussion on limiting the U.S. and Russian veto power in the United Nations Security Council and a Soviet-American agreement to insure the peaceful use of outer space.

He said he realized Bulganin had already rejected them but told the Soviet premier they "must clearly be considered in a summit conference agenda is made up.

Ouster of Rhodesia Premier Is Seen Spreading Apartheid

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters)—An African leader has warned that the ouster of Prime Minister Garfield Todd means South Africa's racial segregation policy will spread to Central Africa.

Willington Chirwa, member of the Nyasaland African Federal Parliament and leading member of the Nyasaland African Congress, said Sunday the ousting of Todd had been "thrown out" had shocked all Africans and liberal Europeans in the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

Todd was removed from leadership of the United Federal party Saturday. He plans to give up his parliamentary seat. His four cabinet ministers resigned a week ago, saying they had no confidence in his leadership.

Todd, a former missionary, attempted to lead Southern Rhodesia toward a moderate racial policy in contrast to the apartheid (racial segregation) policy of neighboring South Africa.

"By rejecting Todd's leadership, the white settlers in Southern Rhodesia have demonstrated they have no faith in a policy of partnership" of the area's races, Chirwa said.

The federation, set up in 1953, combines the self-governing territory of Southern Rhodesia and protectorates of Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

The newly elected United Federal party leader is Sir Edgar Whitehead, Rhodesian Federation representative in Washington. He will leave Washington for Salisbury Tuesday. Todd said he would hold his office until Whitehead's return, then resign.

MAN 'JOURNEYS' INTO SPACE IN U.S. EXPERIMENT

Airman in Cabinet For Seven-Day Test

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Man's chances to conquer outer space were on trial today by a United States airman in a narrow steel cabinet at Randolph air force base near here.

Donald G. Farrell, 23, squeezed into a three-by-five-foot experimental space cabinet Sunday morning at the unique school of space medicine for one of the most fantastic voyages in history.

For seven days he will remain—both physically and psychologically—that he is aboard a space ship headed for the moon.

The 183-pound guinea pig had seven pounds of weight taped to various parts of his body to relay his physical condition constantly to the scientists outside the steel cubicle.

NO CHANGE OF AIR

The same air inside the cabin is being used over and over with chemicals removing carbon dioxide and adding oxygen.

The heat inside the cabin is kept at 75 degrees or lower. Explorer, the first U.S. satellite, has radioed that its interior is kept at 32 degrees.

All of Farrell's food for the seven days has been packaged in tubes. Most of it is in concentrated and dehydrated forms. An electrically heated unit inside the tube will furnish hot soup.

Moisture from his breath, perspiration and other waste moisture is purified for re-use as drinking water. Other wastes are taken care of chemically. He can even use a button and deodorize his spare cabin. Another button increases or decreases the humidity.

A portable TV camera inside the cabin relays all Farrell's movements to monitor sets outside.

Think Naples Missile Old German Shell

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Artillery expert surmised today that the mystery projectile which plowed into a Naples suburb was a German V-2 World War II rocket shell that someone found and fired.

The missile was found in a four-foot crater after a loud explosion Friday night. The blast spread that the city had "been struck by the most advanced ballistic missile or a piece of a space rocket.

Italian artillery experts, after detailed examination, said it absolutely was a modern missile or a space rocket.

They said it was slightly rusty, bore the date 1944 and had the eagle and cross marking, indicating probably was of German manufacture.

Iowa Students Fire Rocket

KEOKUK, Iowa (AP) — A 30-inch homemade rocket soared 2,000 feet into the air Sunday to the delight of its engineers, seven Keokuk high school students.

The rocket, a copper pipe, returned to earth about three quarters of a mile from its launching site, burying itself two feet into the frozen ground.

Richard Fretwell, 15, said the group hopes the rocket will be good it hopes to launch, perhaps in New Mexico. The rocket is capable of carrying a radio transmitter and has a compartment for mice, he said.

2 in Plane Hurt

FORT FRANCES (CP) — Two persons were injured when their plane crashed while landing on Sandford Lake, 95 miles east of here, Sunday.

The injured men are: Russ Hall, pilot, and Clinton Barfield both of New Brighton, Minn. They are in hospital here where Kynholt is suffering from a broken back and Raifield has a fractured shoulder.

Phil Saudo of Sandford Lake escaped from the crash uninjured.

The men were on a fishing trip in their ski-equipped single-engined Stinson.

Upstate New York Virtually Paralyzed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A huge sheath of snow encased upstate New York today, imprisoning farmers, stifling cities and strangling highway travel.

Vast wind-whipped plumes of snow blinded motorists, snuffed out at least 13 lives, and built up towering dunes that sealed off countless hundreds of motorists.

The weather bureau said the blizzard would continue in some parts of the state today, particularly in the Great Lakes area.

The 275-mile stretch of the state thruway from Albany to Buffalo was opened again to traffic early today.

The cities of Syracuse and Utica, prostrate under the unending three-day snowfall, promised high winds and more snow.
